

CLEARING HOUSE

Sinks For Tickets

Frequent complaints poured into the office yesterday concerning the lack of space for students at the Saturday game. John Ed Pearce expressed the sentiments of most students, we believe, in his column today. Certainly, students with tickets should be allowed seats in the grandstand to their own games.

Why Not Before

Michigan State College is now giving degrees for police work. The new title, B. S. P. S. (bachelor of science in police administration), was awarded recently to two of its men students.

That this calling has been neglected to long is a matter of concern on our civilization. It appears that these 11 leaders of the public safety should be the first to be considered for adequate training.

Politics

"Dear Editor: The article by Eckdahl in last Friday's Herald concerning the new Independent Party on the campus was very encouraging. The "Voiceless Majority" should have a representation. I see that your paper is doing a fine job in helping this organization develop.

More power to your paper!—J. H. W.

We do believe that everyone should be represented and George Lambert will write for the other political organizations.

Lessons In English

"Dear Sir: Would presume to suggest that someone tell the announcing committee that the football game should be announced with the "e" in "e" pains our auditory apparatus to hear it uttered with an "ee" like the one in pig pen.—K. W."

No Time For This

Two letters, both regarding personal matters, were received for this issue. One was a dissertation on falling hair and the other a poem entitled "Learned By Experience." Although this type of material is interesting to read, it is not suitable to this type of column.

Correction

Wynne McKinzie asks that a correction be made regarding Eckdahl's column in which Wynne was listed as a member of the Student Remediation Department. Says McKinzie, "I did not read the column when I asked him. I was only wrong."

Give Them A Hand

Comes a notice from the Union building that students are crushing letters beneath their feet and sending them into the ballroom—this is the frequency of such notices that a number of traps on the whole so far this year the student body has cooperated with the student committees. Let's don't stop the record now.

Back Again

That old bogey, lack of space, is back again in the Union. We hate it as much as anyone because stories have to be cut and sent to some even left out. Society items must suffer because of space. But there is always crammed with news. It is necessary since our paper has to pay for itself.

Page Two

The editorial on page two regarding liturgies is the result of frequent complaints over the last two weeks. Let us know what you think of this new school spirit and the way to encourage it. Bob Hines is guest columnist today on the subject and John Ed Pearce goes without our Student Council column, "without knowing much about it..." and so to press at 9:30 o'clock.

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you believe in college romances? The answers

Three McKenzy, Arts and Science: "This seems like an odd question to me; most people do want a little romance and if your affections aren't somewhere else, I suppose college is as good a place as any to get one's share. I've never given it much consideration, so I'm afraid this is a rather lame opinion."

Freelord H. C. Commer: "Yes, if one is not based entirely on the idea of ending in marriage. We devote vast amounts of time, energy, and money toward fitting ourselves for a vocation so why shouldn't we do the same to increase our knowledge of women as a foundation and preparation for marriage? I believe there are enough college romances!"

Eva Clay, Education: "Yes, I think most college romances end in marriage, and even if it should be because in college, girls and boys meet more people than at any other time and if they don't meet someone then their chances of meeting someone are increased. Certainly, yes. It seems to me that young people from the ages of 18-22 are certainly old enough to have romances even if they don't end at the altar."

Pete Vires, Arts and Science: "I do. I think a romance helps both the girl and boy to settle down to work and, whereas the romance may date scores are always in an up-down."

Opening Of Syphilis Campaign Is Delayed Pending Enlargement Of Testing Facilities

The Wassermann tests originally scheduled to begin today are necessarily postponed because of limited space in the public dispensary for accommodating the numbers expected to be tested.

On the advice of the Louisville hospital where analyses are to be made, and on the suggestion of Dr. J. S. Chambers, director of the dispensary, the tests and proposal campaign will be delayed not more than three weeks.

Within this time, the dispensary will be in new quarters in the old law building. Here it will be possible to take approximately 100 tests each afternoon.

Today Is Deadline For Degree Applications

Today is the last day for all Seniors who expect to complete their work for graduation in January, June, or August to make application for degrees. This applies also to students who intend to complete their work for graduate degrees. All applications should be filed in Room 9 of the Administration Building.

As the commencement lists are made from these cards, it is important that each student fill out the application at this time.

Leo M. Chamberlain, Registrar.

A & S REGULATION PUT TO SENATE

Council Recommends Standard Rules Governing Departmental Honors

College of Arts and Sciences regulations governing departmental honors were placed before the faculty in all colleges in a recommendation from the University Council last night at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

Three new members, Dr. Frank Murray, department of law; J. Todd, assistant professor of physics; and Robert D. Hunt, professor of education, were elected to the University Council.

Concerning departmental honors the recommendation to the Senate stated that the Bachelor's degree with special honors in the student's major subject will be conferred upon the student who, in addition to the requirements for the degree shall have:

1. Attained high standing in his major subject.
2. Met the requirements of the department for his honor.
3. Been given special guidance throughout the senior year in review and preparation for the degree.
4. Passed with distinction a thorough comprehensive examination of his subject.
5. Been recommended for honor by the faculty of the department in which the major work was done.

Student majoring in those departments in which the comprehensive examination is automatically candidates for departmental honors.

KITTENS AVERAGE DEFEAT OF '37

Commodore Frosh Row 20-0 As Jones And Mallins Star In Game

Scoring three touchdowns in an easy period, the Kentucky Kittens wrecked a freshman Vanderbillion Commodore vessel 20-0 in Nashville Saturday afternoon while their big brothers were attempting to bring Commodore varsity supremacy over Kentucky eleven to an end at the local stadium.

In evening last year's 14-0 spanking to their predecessors, the Kitty aggregation proved themselves capable of working as a unit, unusual for a squad of all-state men who have been individually outstanding in high school.

Before two minutes had elapsed in the opening stanza, Noah Mullins, Kitten fullback, pounced on Bushmaster's fumble on Jones' 26, and a series of ground plays climaxed by Charles Jones' 17 yard strip terminated in the first score possibly for the Commodore. Again in the third quarter, 175 pound Mullins streaked around the end from his own 15 yard mark, sneaking behind perfect blocking in the clear, reversed his field, and sprinted 85 yards to tally a second touchdown for the Kittens.

WILDCATS SHOCK GRIDIRON WORLD IN VANDY GAME

Ky. Warriors Force Vanderbilt To Come From Behind To Win Game

14,000 SPECTATORS WITNESS BATTLE

Score By Kentucky In Opening Moments, Beags Commodore Attack

Kentucky, the team that didn't have a chance, shocked the entire football world Saturday afternoon by forcing the renowned Vanderbilt Commodores to come from behind and to use an unusual strategy in securing out a narrow 14-7 win on Stoll field.

The largest crowd since turn-out in 1927, about 14,000, sat apellibound as the underrated Cats twice, in the first quarter, held for down within their own 10 yard line. Then 14,000 pairs of lungs yelled 14,000 words across the field as Vanderbilt drove the ball back to the Commodore's 25 yard line. Davis then added the extra point to push the Beags into a 7-0 lead at the half time.

During the first half the Cats, flanking their hearts out, took everything that Vanderbilt, football's most famous school, had to offer and came plugging back for more. Unaware by the prestige that had accrued to the Beags in the last game, the Cats not only refused to walk the Commodore's plank, but they kept their hearts out, took everything that Vanderbilt, football's most famous school, had to offer and came plugging back for more.

For the second successive week, it would be impossible to point to any particular man and mark him as Kentucky's outstanding contributor. He followed even Hinkle's play like an income tax auditor who snagged the touchdown pass; it might have been Combs, who kept the Commodore secondary in place all day; it might have been the coolly headed one been Brown, Landen, Spickard, Palmer, Reid or Eldred. Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

GATHER ye near and heed to the parable of the Wildcats and the Commodores.

Now it came to pass on a certain Saturday, October 8, 1938 A.D., that two tribes did meet on a certain plain known far and wide as Stoll field.

But there came in this year to the Kentucky quarters a man known as Albert Dennis Kirwan, a former member of the Wildcats but who wandered to foreign fields. And he did offer a lead the groping Kentuckians out of the darkness and to fortify them against their rivals from Vanderbilt.

Chapter Two (In which the raid actually occurs and the Vanderbilt make the first scoring gesture.)

Then the day of battle did dawn and the Commodores brightly shone the birds sang and the wise guys spotted but air predilections with their breath. In the man made hills bordering the Stoll plain, a multitude of 14,000 had gathered near unto each other for the joust.

Chapter Three (In which is related the spinning of the Vanderbilt scoring threat and the Kentucky score, then ultimate defeat after a gallant battle.)

But the every effort of the Commodores to slap the Kentuckians with a score were fraught with failure, for gallantly did the underdogs fight. And the Wildcats were visited with a wonderful spirit and smote their adversaries upon the forehead by means, also, adorns across the goal line.

Kentucky did have a hectic experience in pass offense Saturday. Mark it down. Kentucky will profit by that game. Kirwan and those did summed determined Cats will see to that.

Intramural Football Has Full Schedule

Intramural football schedule, which swung into action last week, continues this week with a full schedule of contests. Games are billed every afternoon at 4:30 on the parade field.

From In The Sky

For the first time since I matriculated to Kentucky I saw the Cats beaten but heard not a single word of criticism. Not that any fault could be found in the way the Cats defended themselves in the Vandy noise but in the past Wildcat fans have always found flaws to make quips about.

ner, for their fine defensive play. Joe Shepherd for his splendid signaling calling and punting. Charley Ishmael for his plunging and bagging up of the line or Bill McCubb for his pass catching, might easily be given the star rating.
