Life, Liberty, and Pursuit The Free Lance

By Adele Denman
If we must persist in the planting zeal.
Let's start an orchard on Stoll field
If need of space gets too dire
Affix an oak to Memorial's spine.

By Scotty McCulloch
Bernard Baruch, long-time adviser to presidents of this nation, asserted last week that the Japanese and Germans would "strive through science, technology, and engineering to devise some means for waging World War III."

The Empty Armistice

The meaning of Armistice day is forever lost. A prayer or a mockery every November 11 since 1918, it means nothing in 1945. The years of hope and the years of irony are past.
For the Armistice celebration was based on the foolish child-like belief that war ends in a day, that greed and imperialism and fierce national pride cease forever with the end of war.

LOUISVILLE NOTES:
One of our more progressive young men who has taken three quarters of economics and plans to be a capitalist went to the game in Louisville to seek his fortune. With two dollars resting peacefully in his pocket, he whined and dined, and then whined again, in all the upper-income bracket restaurants and hotels in the city, and came home with five dollars. Some cautiously say that several well-known horses are still running.

ON THE HOME FRONT in the back room of the Cottage:
This toast was presented by the boys in the back room:
Ain't got no date, I missed the game.
But on what the hell.
The Kentucky constitution is to blame.

BEHIND TREES
With apologies to Joyce Kilmer
I think that no one ever sees
Part fall dorm for the trees
The Union with its modern air.
Wears its ivy like musician's hair.

PURSUIT:
Dagwood Bumstead went to Delaware last weekend and he has really been in a whirl since.
Clyde Tipton is married, if you care to know.
Mary Fran Helmick and Walter Mead almost committed marriage last weekend, but decided against it at the last minute.

orders via the trans-Atlantic cable. That is why, difficult as it may be for some to realize it, a police force must be maintained in the warring countries of the world. That is why some 200,000 to 300,000 men must remain in Japan and why a half a million men stay in Germany.
It has been proven many times that in an army where the leader is killed there is always another man to step into his shoes. If the general goes, the colonel moves up and so on down the line until the officers run out. In the case of Germany and Japan then, the point is the same. If the top men of the parties are punished by death or harsh imprisonment, there are still hundreds of lesser officers and smaller men to begin the work where it is stopped with the armistice.

INTERMISSION with Red Warman

Red Warman
Of the many media of bringing the "joke box" to its appreciators the juke box is held in special regard.
This omnipresent little mechanical producer of canned music with its glowing and multi-colored lights always presents a particularly friendly atmosphere. Why, for one "jit," you can revive a multitude of pleasant memories lying dormant in your mental repository; for the same amount you get three musical minutes that give a refreshing pause in the monotony of your daily duties.
It can give an expression to the mood you are in whether it be ad light-hearted, nostalgic or otherwise.

Words I View

By Dora Lee Robertson
Knocked flat.
But to lie there—that's disgrace.
Be proud of your blackened eye!
It isn't the fact that you're licked that counts—
It's how did you fight—and why?
Class of '25 Gives College Gift in '45:
Near the commencement season of 1925 the graduating class of that year was sold on the idea of making a gift to the college in the form of a 20-year endowment life insurance.
One of the engineering professors at West Virginia U. is also quite a philosopher. He gives his engineers little bits of advice, such as, "Sometimes it is necessary to catch a cow to catch a calf. Moral: Stand talking to the mother until the daughter comes along."

HEADS GOT TOGETHER

RESULT: MORE TRANSCONTINENTAL TELEPHONE CIRCUITS
With wire scarce and wartime calls increasing, telephone engineers made existing pairs of long distance wires carry nearly four times as many calls as before.
Three pairs on the Southern Transcontinental Route were rearranged, and in a 430-mile section this had to be done while keeping the urgently needed wires in service all the time. To do this, new tools and new methods had to be devised in the laboratories and on the job.
This is another among many examples of how Bell System teamwork and engineering skills maintained telephone service under wartime conditions.

Armistice Day

With bowed heads and a prayer in our hearts, let us pause and meditate on this Armistice Day, 1945, for those who did not return from the last war — for those who will not return from this war — for the speedy return of those who fought — for Total Victory and Lasting Peace.
