to the state, and the state's role in the market.

As a result of the 1990s, the state's role in the market has been redefined. The state's role is now to regulate the market, rather than to provide services. The state's role is now to ensure that the market is fair and that the interests of the public are protected. The state's role is now to ensure that the market is efficient and that the interests of the public are protected.
