A PUBLICATION OF THE LEXINGTON GAY AND LESBIAN SERVICES ORGANIZATION

PLANS PROGRESS FOR PRIDE CENTER IN LEXINGTON

For the past year and a half, representatives from Bluegrass lesbian groups have been meeting to share resources and disseminate information. This group, called the Stonewall Network, was responsible for last year's and this year's Pride Week festivities. These groups have been working to combine our various mailing lists--to which all Stonewall Network member groups have access. The primary purpose for developing this list was for disseminating information about political candidates at election time. The Stonewall Network is the overseer of this mailing list.

In an effort to even further pool our resources, the Stonewall Network and the GLSO Board of Directors have agreed to merge into one organization. The Board has agreed to begin adopting a transition plan in which the name will be changed, new bylaws implemented to expand the Board to include a representative from each of the lesbian organizations, along with other bylaws in order to create a "blanket" organization where more groups will have access to 501 C3 Tax Exempt Status, the Community Mailing List, and many other benefits.

This development is in large part due to the work of the Stonewall Network plan of obtaining a lesbian Community Center in downtown Lexington. Research was conducted to identify the needs of each local lesbian group, the amount of money currently being spent in rental fees of post office boxes, phone answering systems, meeting places, etc. After looking at several sites, we have located a building on Main Street.

Architects are working on the plans to bring the building up to code for the purpose of a community center, as well as adjust the layout for meetings, rehearsals, retail sales, and sublet possibilities the space offers.

As you know, an endeavor of this kind needs financial support. We need your contributions. The Stonewall Network needs 100 people to pledge $20 a month for one year. This monthly pledge will help us make the lease payments each month. We also need startup costs: liability insurance, utility deposits, remodeling supplies. These contributions are tax deductible.

Lexington needs a community center where we can pool our vast resources. Won't you be one of the movers and shakers who will make the Pride Center happen during Stonewall's 25th anniversary year? Send your contributions to Stonewall Network, P.O. Box 1486, Lexington, KY 40591-1486.

P-FLAG NOTES

BY REV. RUTH FISCELLA

P-FLAG held its June meeting at the Pride Picnic on June 12. Ways to help the Lexington Pride Center on its way to fulfillment were discussed. Much interest was shown in being a part of the Teen Support Group and also in P-FLAG's initial participation in Gay Pride Week activities.

There are some changes in P-FLAG contacts. Since Ruth will be away until September, call Jan at 223-7339, or Ask Us at 255-2374, or write to P.O. Box 55484, Lexington, KY 40555. Our next meeting will be at Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church at 7:30 on July 21 at 7:30 P.M. You are welcome. Why not visit us this summer?

LOUISVILLE TO HOST FIRST INTERNATIONAL GAY DANCE GROUP'S MEETING

The International Association of Gay/Lesbian Country Western Dance Clubs (IAGLCWDC) has selected the Southern Country Louisville (SCL) dance group to host its organizational meeting during SCL's annual River City Hoe-Down on July 15-17. The IAGLCWDC was formed in March with the intent of linking country and western clubs around the globe. In 1995, Cincinnati will host the annual meeting.

SCL president John Scussel said that SCL won the right to host the meeting "with the help of the Louisville/Jefferson County Convention and Visitors Bureau, and with the support of the Mayor and County Judge/Executive, the Louisville Chamber of Commerce, and local businesses."

For this event, SCL has selected the Seelbach Hotel—a restored Beaux Arts hotel in downtown Louisville—as the convention hotel. Events of the weekend include a late-night dance cruise on a restored riverboat, a major 2000-person dance in the arena of the Louisville Gardens, and social events, exhibition dancing, games, and a performance by Voices, a Louisville chorus.

Scussel said, "The Louisville and Jefferson County Convention and Visitors Bureau estimates that event alone will have an impact of over a quarter of a million dollars on the Louisville economy, and have indicated that it will be the largest convention to which Louisville will play host during the month of July.

"Tenets of our bylaws require that SCL only do business with gay-owned or gay-friendly businesses," Scussel went on to say, "and we have been up-front with each and every company, individual, and entity we have encountered during our planning stages. When you look at the list, a major convention hotel, convention center, and a huge airline, not to mention city and county government, it speaks volumes for how friendly and tolerant this city is."

"THE MUSIC'S ALWAYS THERE..."

BY LEXINGTON MEN'S CHORUS

MEMBER STEVE ROSS

The Lexington Men's Chorus' sold-out Spring Concert was held at the Singletary Center at UK. We were joined by the Cincinnati Men's Chorus Chamber Singers. With Thomas Swenson as piano accompanist, and under the direction of Kent Peterson, they performed an array of music that included Acceptance: I Shall Miss Loving You from "When We No Longer Touch: A Cycle of Songs for Survival," and True Colors. The Lexington Men's Chorus joined them for In This Moment by Gary Simpson.

The LMC portion of the show showed this group's range. Under the direction of Nancy H. Ward, the pieces ranged from Salvation Belongeth to Our God, to Roll Mighty River, to Dreamers from "Jean Seberg." Piano accompanist Jan Martin was showcased in Randall Thompson's The Last Words of David. Another highlight was Mister Sandman, done by "Fourte," the LMC quartet, substituting their own "appropriate" words.

Both groups joined for the closing number, Our Time, by Stephen Sondheim. The broad base of support that these choruses have was demonstrated in the program for the concert, which contained over 50 pages of paid advertisements.

Also this past spring, LMC performed at the annual AIDS Walk For Life. They again won one of the group awards, for having the largest number of walkers of any group. They received a special showing of the Actor's Guild play, Assassins, directed by chorus member Vic Chaney. LMC also made a sizeable donation.

The two Pride Week concerts at Artsplace were sell-outs. They showcased individual talents of the chorus. Highlights were an appearance by the Imperial Court for There Is Nothing Like A Dame, and an ensemble group that did The Lion Sleeps Tonight in jungle gear.

Proceeds from this concert were donated to the Stonewall Network. LMC will have a season kickoff at Bell House on Sept. 11. If you are interested in joining the chorus, contact Shelby Reynolds at 231-0090.

GLSO BOARD ELECTIONS HELD AND BY-LAWS CHANGED

The GLSO Board elections were held during the Pride Picnic of June 12. All those who were nominated were elected. The new members are: Mike Taylor, Chris McDavid, Sue Strong, Rex Van Alstine, and Gina Baker.

GLSO members also passed the proposal which will allow the board to change the by-laws. This step will enable the GLSO to work with the Stonewall Network to form a new umbrella group for the community.

The next GLSO Board meeting will be August 1, at 7:00 at Mary Crone's house. Please call her at 266-5904.

IMAGINING A COMMUNITY CENTER

Lately, I have been thinking of all the possible uses to which a Gay and Lesbian Community Center could be put. In doing that, I've discovered that thinking about those possibilities makes a very pleasurable fantasy, one I find myself returning to. Here's the list I have so far.

1. Library: there are thousands of Lesbian and Gay books which are not available through the Lexington Public Library. A lending library devoted to Lesbian and Gay titles would be a wonderful asset to our community. It could include fiction, poetry, history, drama, photography, spirituality, Gay and Lesbian philosophy, texts on sociology, psychology, art, music, food (did you know there are queer cookbooks?). A lending library and comfortable reading room would be particularly helpful to Gay and Lesbian youth who may be fearful to own queer books or unable to afford to buy many.

2. Video room: imagine a video collection and viewing room where people could see such films as the Academy Award-winning documentary "The Life and Times of Harvey Milk," or "Desert Hearts," or dozens, even hundreds of films that never played in mainstream theaters and aren't available for rental at your local video store.

3. Music: there could be a music collection and listening room—a place to check out that new artist you're curious about, to listen to music as diverse as Four Non-Blondes, RuPaul, or the Gay and Lesbian Chorus of San Francisco singing choral works by such Gay composers as Brahms.

4. Local historical exhibits: a community center could become a home for exhibits documenting the history of Central Kentucky's Lesbian and Gay communities. An exhibit I would like to see is one of memorabilia memorializing Amber Moon, a women's performing arts organization which produced many fine events for Lexington's Lesbian community between 1977 and 1985. Other exhibits might document the 1950's origins of the establishment now known as The Bar, or the lives of famous Lexingtonians such as "Sweet Evening Breeze" and Henry Faulkner.

5. Social services: the center could be a meeting place for regularly held coming out support groups, consciousness raising groups, and overcoming internalized homophobia support groups. If the center is located near The Bar and Kentucky Theater it might pick up drop-in traffic to and from those locations and be ideally located to offer support services to a broad population.

6. Youth support: a friend once told me about his experience of coming out to his parents as a teenager. They promptly threw him out of their rural home. Hoping to find Gay friends and a new home, he came to Lexington and ended up spending a month on the streets. There was no place for him to go. He was threatened and harassed at a homeless shelter, and adult Gays would not risk taking him in. Children like this don't go to P-Flag meetings; they hang around the back exit of The Bar hoping someone will offer them a place to stay. A community center might be able to locate temporary Gay-supportive foster homes for "throw aways" like my friend. A community center might also be able to provide youth support groups and even social events, such as dances, for Gay and Lesbian youth who otherwise have no social outlet.

7. Family services: a community center could act as a clearing house of information on artificial insemination, co-mothering, co-parent adoptions, and other concerns of women who plan to have children. There could also be support groups for parents who are struggling with how to help their children survive and thrive in a world that is hostile to their family.

8. Social and cultural events: if it comes with at least one large space, a community center could provide a location for shows by the Imperial Court, Iris Events, coffeehouses or cabarets, drama productions by Between the Acts, and Pride Week events such as Queer Jeopardy. A location near The Bar might increase community participation in such events and draw business to The Bar as well.

9. Education: a community center could provide a place for courses at the college or high school level in Lesbian and Gay history, literature, and culture, courses that aren't available anywhere else in Fayette County. One man I've spoken to is interested in teaching a course aimed at improving self-esteem so that young Gay males learn early in life to treat themselves and each other with respect—an attitude that may be essential to their survival. I can easily imagine a similar course for Lesbians; we Lesbians need to know that our own have been some of the most dynamic and gifted people in history. A community center could be a place where hundreds, even thousands of Lesbians first encounter that fact.

I'm sure what I've listed here only skims the surface of what a community center could be a home for, of the projects it could support by providing space and disseminating information. And I haven't listed the many small benefits it could offer the community, such as providing mailboxes for community organizations so that those organizations don't have to rent a P.O. box. Or maintaining a bulk mail specialist for the community; or allowing groups to share bulk mail permits; or combining phone lines at a savings to various organizations—all little things that could add up to strengthen all of our organizations.

I just hope that people with the skills needed to make a community center a reality come forward. If it does become a reality, it will be a leap forward for our community that will be bigger than anything I can imagine.

MONTIE HAM MURDER TRIAL RESCHEDULED

BY STEVE ROSS

Montie J. Ham was murdered on July 3, 1993, at his home. Two men were arrested and charged with murder first degree, robbery first degree, and burglary first degree. The trial date has been set and moved twice. Originally scheduled to begin this summer, it has now been moved to November 7-17. This time it was moved so that the prosecuting attorney could order a psychiatric evaluation. Previously, the date had been reset so that the defense attorneys could order the same evaluation.

The trial will be held in the third division of Fayette Circuit Court with Judge Rebecca Overstreet presiding. Michael Malone is the prosecuting attorney. The suspects are still being held in the Fayette County Detention Center.

If you have any information about this murder or any questions, please call the Victim Services Director, Gail Whitt, at 252-3571.

It is very important for Montie's friends to show support at the trial, especially during the first days of jury selection. Please try to be there.

Local Justice

Recently, Lexington has had the chance to become well-acquainted with the slap-on-the-wrist afforded to rapists who have had relationships with their victims. Clark Gross III was sentenced to probation in a case where he broke down a door, dragged his former girlfriend into her bedroom, gagged her with sheets, and raped her - breaking her arm in the process. In spite of all of this, "distinguished" members of our community wrote to the judge to say what a great guy Gross was, and he was let off.

As if a precedence of lenience had been set for such hideousness, Fayette Circuit Judge Mary Noble released Scott Ratliff in June. He had served just over eight months of a 5-year sentence for attempted rape. Oh, in case it makes any difference, Ratliff held a pillow over her face at a frat party at UK, causing blood vessels to rupture. A doctor testified that she was about one minute away from death.

Thank God for that one minute. Because of it, Judge Noble decided that releasing this scum was perfectly fine. Maybe justice would actually have been served if the victim had died. Instead, she's alive and now has to deal with the fact that justice in rape cases seems to be non-existent. And we can chalk another one up to violence against women going virtually unpunished.

Circuit judge positions are elective, you know. Maybe we should all let Judge Noble just how we feel about her negligence.

The 'un-Christian Religious Right' just loves her to death

If surgeon generals were elected, Jocelyn Elders would get my vote. An open advocate for homosexual rights, anti-racism, and teaching our youth the real responsibilities of being sexually active, she has recently been quoted as saying, "Good parents are good parents, regardless of their sexual orientation."

Her statements have - unsurprisingly enough - riled some conservatives legislators. In June, 87 House Republicans signed a letter to President Clinton denouncing Elders. The letter cited statements she had made recently: boy scouts and girl scouts discriminate against gays; marijuana should be considered for legalization (although the Herald-Leader reported that she'd said 'narcotics should be legal') and teenage girls shouldn't assume that condoms are the responsibility of boys alone.

In a news conference regarding the letter, Rep. F. James Sensenbrenner, Jr. (R-Wis.), also quoted Elders' comments on what she called the "un-Christian religious right." She said, "We've got to be strong to take on these people who are selling our children out in the name of religion."

You go, girl!

Sensenbrenner, however, said she had "forfeited her right to be surgeon general of the United States."

Sounds to me like she hit a little too close for comfort for our esteemed representatives to be able to handle. The truth always did hurt the worst.

Good news about being a lesbian mother

At long last, we have good news regarding the rights of homosexual parents. As many of you may have already known, there was recently a case in Virginia where Tyler Doustou was awarded to his grandmother because his mother, Sharon Bottoms, was a lesbian. Sharon's girlfriend lived with her and Tyler.

Sharon's mother had Tyler taken away on charges that because she lived with her girlfriend, she was an unfit parent. The Virginia Court of Appeals overturned that decision in June, saying that although homosexual acts are illegal in Virginia, there was no evidence it made her an unfit parent. The Court found no evidence of abuse or neglect, or that her relationship with her girlfriend had any detrimental effect on her son.

So somewhere, there is justice at last.

Anybody can say congratulations.

But how often can you see it, touch
it and smell it?

A pat on the back feels even better when we deliver it.

Hello, possums. I got some responses to our set of May questions:

Q: If there was a pill that would make you straight, would you take it?

A: ABSOLUTELY NOT!

Q: How old were you when you realized you were "different"?

A: I knew I was "different" around 11 or 12 years, thought I did not act on it till much later. I realized the difference when I became a feminist--started to look for the lesbians in feminist organizations and found myself almost nightly reading the definition of "homosexual" in the dictionary.

A: Kindergarten. As soon as I was around other boys my age, I secretly wanted a boyfriend instead of a girlfriend.

Q: Who is the lesbigay figure, past or present, whom you admire most?

A: I don't know that I admire any public figure. I resent the term "lesbigay"--I am not lesbigay, I am a lesbian. Is saving a few spaces more important than identifying me??? I am not a child to look up to public figures.

A: Walt Whitman--because his poetry is undeniably great and full of gay subtext, because he helped me include sexuality in my vision of the older man I will someday be, because he is the first identifiably gay person that a lot of schoolchildren are given exposure to, because he was much more successful at being gay way back then than many people are today.

Q: What is it about Judy Garland?

A: I neither know nor care what it is about Judy Garland.

A: Well, "Over the Rainbow" is a great song--fearful and hopeful at the same time. I do think that Judy's image gets less heroic and more exclusively pathetic as the years roll on, so I understand why she's losing her appeal for the more empowered gays we have today.

Here are some new questions sent in by readers:

Q: Regarding the GLSO News interview with Cris Williamson, does anyone really think monogamy is radical?

Q: Do you agree with the chosen title of "Fairness Alliance" or do you think it is another closet? What about "Lexington Men's Chorus"?

Q: Where are the separatists?

Q: Does your money go to lesbian or gay people/organizations first--or to straight ones? Do you choose physicians, stores, realtors, based on their sexual orientation?

Q: Do transvestites, drag queens, transsexuals, and bisexuals belong in the lesbian and gay community?

Send your responses, and your suggested questions, to: GLSO Roundhouse, P.O. Box 11471, Lexington, KY 40575.

WE NEED HELP!

The Gay/Lesbian Services Organization (that's us) wants YOU. We are currently looking for volunteers to help staff the gayline. For more info, please call Peter at 273-5845.

There is also a need for people volunteering to take part in the speakers' bureau for organizations, schools, etc., who request gay-lesbian-bisexual-etc. speakers. Please contact Bill at 266-9175.

In addition, we are seeking a volunteer to be our ad manager. This would entail soliciting "queer-friendly" businesses to advertise their wares in these distinguished pages. If you are interested in this position, please contact Mary at 266-5904.
