AROUND THE SEC

What's up with the nation's toughest conference

Compiled By David Kaplan Host Communications

What a crazy year it's been in the Southeastern Conference!

With three weeks remaining in the regular season, it appears as though the second SEC Championship game will be a rematch of the inaugural game, Alabama versus Florida. Alabama has already clinched the Western Division and a berth into the championship game. Florida has the upper hand in the East, with perhaps the SEC's best team nipping at their heels in Tennessee. Auburn is the SEC's only undefeated team but is ineligible for the championship due to probation.

It's been an up-and-down season for many teams in the conference. LSU got off to a 1-4 conference mark, but has bounced back with consecutive victories over Ole Miss and Alabama. The latter broke the Tide's 31-game unbeaten streak. Georgia, 0-4 early, has regrouped and put itself in position for a possible bowl berth. And Ole Miss, which looked as though it would challenge Alabama for the Western Division title, has collapsed, losing four of its past five outings.

The postseason hopes of four teams still remains to be determined. Kentucky needs one victory to reach the number required (6) to be eligible for a bowl. Georgia, LSU and South Carolina need to win their two remaining games to be eligible.

TODAY'S GAME

KENTUCKY

EAST CAROLINA

NOVEMBER 13, 1993

By David Kaplan

t's amazing how much the game of football parallels the game of life. Certain things can be learned only one way: through experience. That's what happened to the Wildcats last week in Nashville.

If you were sitting in the arctic-like conditions of Vanderbilt Stadium or listening to the game on radio, you were assuredly shaking your head in disbelief. How can a team that has competed on such a high level throughout most of the season play so poorly?

The answer is simple. As much as head coach Bill Curry preached to his team that there was only one bowl game to concentrate on, the "Commodore Bowl," many players just didn't listen. Or if they did, they didn't follow orders. And it cost them dearly.

However, just as sometimes happens in real life, Kentucky may just get a second chance. With the bowl alliance of college football and the zany season which has unraveled in the Southeastern Conference, the Wildcats still appear to have a shot for their first bowl berth in nine years. But only if they can get by the "Pirate Bowl" first. Here's why:

This season, the SEC has an agreement with five postseason bowl games to accept its members if five of its teams qualify. In order to qualify, a team must have six victories over Division I-A schools. The bowls that have agreements with the SEC are as follows: Sugar, Citrus, Gator, Peach and Sunshine Classic.

The Sugar Bowl, played on Jan. 1 in New Orleans, will accept the winner of the SEC Championship game, played on Dec. 4 in Birmingham, Ala. As it stands, that appears to be either Alabama or de

Florida. The Citrus Bowl, played on Jan. 1 in Orlando, will select its SEC participant next, taking either the SEC Championship Game runner-up; a conference team that has an equal or better record than the SEC Championship Game runnerup; or a conference team ranked within five places in the USA Today/CNN Coaches Poll of either participant in the SEC Championship Game. In simpler terms, this would be either Alabama, Florida or Tennessee

The Gator Bowl, played on Jan. 1 in Jacksonville, would have the next SEC pick, which will most likely be the team the Citrus passes on.

Here's where Kentucky fits in. The Peach Bowl and Sunshine Classic are Moe Williams has been a big reason why Kentucky is in a position to go to its first bowl game since the Hall of Fame Bowl in 1984.

next to take SEC teams which qualify for postseason. Entering today's action, no other conference team has qualified. (Auburn is a sparkling 9-0, but due to its probation is ineligible for postseason.)

Only four SEC teams which haven't done so already, can reach the magic qualifying number of six wins. They are Georgia, Kentucky, LSU and South Carolina. To do so, Georgia must beat Auburn in Athens and Georgia Tech in Atlanta. Surprising LSU must defeat Tulane and Arkansas in Baton Rouge. South Carolina must defeat Florida and Clemson in Columbia. And Kentucky must win one of its remaining two games, today versus East Carolina or next week's battle for the Beer Barrel against Tennessee.

Of those teams that qualify, the Peach Bowl, played on Dec. 31 in Atlanta, gets to select its choice. Followed by the Sunshine Classic, played on Jan. 1 in Ft. Lauderdale.

What happens if the SEC fails to qualify five teams? The bowls would then be free to look elsewhere for a participant.

For Kentucky to be one of the teams eligible for a bowl, it must learn from past mistakes. The Wildcats have to take each game one at a time and hope the things they can't control work out. But no matter how disappointed you were following the Vanderbilt game, think back to September for a moment. Entering the season, if you were told today's game with East Carolina would be of great importance for Kentucky's postseason play opportunities, you may have been fitted for a straight-jacket. But that's exactly what this game means. And that in itself is wonderful.

In order to succeed in life and football, one must many time suffer setbacks first. Everybody should be disappointed in last week's outcome, the players, the coaches and the fans. But because the game was important enough to be so disappointing is a sign that the Kentucky football program is undoubtedly heading in the right direction.

There's no questioning of the impact a bowl game would have on the Kentucky football program. It would mean national exposure and a big step in the direction coach Curry would like to take the program. It would also mean an opportunity for the Wildcats to turn past disappointments into major successes.

Series Record: Kentucky and East Carolina will meet today for the first time.

THE STORYLINE

Kentucky (5-4) looks to rebound from a lackluster performance last week against Vanderbilt. A victory today would qualify the Wildcats for a bowl game and assure them of a winning season for the first time since 1989.

ECU (2-7) has had a rough season. Injuries have crippled the Pirates, who only two years ago finished 9-1-1 and in the Top 10. A win against UK would do wonders to stop the bleeding.

MAKING HIS DREAMS COME TRUE

Senior flanker Tim Calvert may be small, but his play is big-time

By Jane Ireland
Host Communications

This isn't Notre Dame, and Rudy doesn't play for the Wildcats. But former walk-on Tim Calvert does, and for him it has been "a dream come true."

Calvert, a 5-9, 167-pound senior from Mount Washington plays wide receiver for Kentucky. And as a marketing major, he also attained the highest GPA (4.0) among the football squad for the '93 spring semester. But that may be the biggest difference between the two players. Calvert attributes his determination and willingness to work for where he is today.

"I owe a lot of my success to extra work," said Calvert. "Before I really started playing, when I was a redshirt freshman, I would stay after practice about 30 minutes (after everyone would leave) and work with coach (Joker) Phillips. There was an assortment of coaches that stayed and helped me ... I think that's what really helped me be able to play."

As most players do, Calvert also learned to play through injuries. He pulled his groin muscle earlier this season during the Florida game, but continued to play. In the next game against Indiana, he played injured again. "I can't stand being injured," admitted Calvert. "It was the first time I've really been hurt since I've been here."

Aside from a few hits to the head, that is. "I've had some concussions but those go away." However, during the South Carolina game, just as Calvert was beginning to recover, he pulled a hamstring, causing him to miss the remainder of the game, as well as the Ole Miss game the following week.

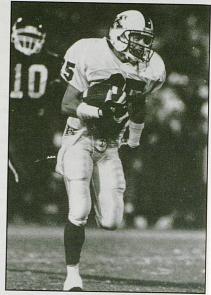

"It was kind of hard getting back into the groove of being in games because the games are a lot different than in practice — it's a lot faster. But I don't really like to make excuses," he added.

Calvert only began playing football as a freshman in high school "just to try it." But in his junior and senior years, his talent became apparent as he caught 48 passes both years. "I had a really good high school coach (coach Mike Egan). He's the one who pretty much told me he thought I could play at this level. It would just take a little bit of work."

Whether it was a little work or a lot, he seems to have adapted well to the college level. Last season, Calvert led the Wildcats in receiving yards with 330 on 16 receptions. He also tied Alfonzo Browning for team-best marks in average yards per reception (20.6) and TD receptions (two). During the Cincinnati game, Calvert made Wildcat history when he caught a 77-yard TD pass from Pookie Jones, ranking as the sixth-longest play in UK annals.

Due to his high GPA in high school, Calvert was originally being recruited by Ivy League schools, where the level of play isn't quite what it is in the Southeastern Conference. But Calvert's ambition led him to a Division I school, fearing he didn't want to look back 30 years from now and think, "I could have played at a bigger school, or maybe I could have done this or should have done that. I don't want to have any 'could haves' in my past."

Not only has Calvert done what he could have and should have done on the field, he feels his experiences as a football player have helped him off the field as well. Keeping up with school is a struggle at some point during the college years for most students, but balancing football and school is an even bigger challenge. Calvert says he has had to give up a lot to stay on track. "During the week, I don't do anything but practice football and studying. It takes a lot of focus."

Tim Calvert has the knack for making the clutch reception.

But he believes a lot of lessons learned on the field have carried over to his life off the field as well. "There's a lot of heartache, blood, sweat and tears you fight through on the field and you also have to go out and do your schoolwork and handle your personal life. I think that's helped me out a lot, just to be a leader and to keep things in order."

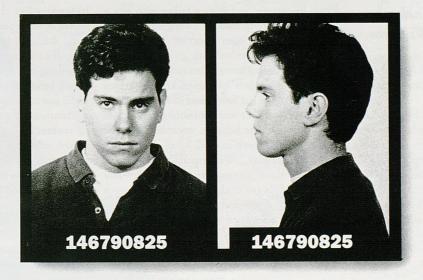

One person who has seemed to help Calvert keep things in order is Phillips, the receivers coach. He played four years at UK as a wide receiver and then in the NFL and the Canadian Football League. Having played the position, Calvert says Phillips knows what it takes to be a really good receiver and he knows the 'ins and outs' of the position. But Calvert also feels Phillips' soft spoken manner has influenced the players to do their job right. It's a different approach in that the players feel he has put his trust in them, and so they feel guilty if they let him down.

"I think it has helped us because we don't do our job right, we feel bad, so we do it right the next time," said Calvert.

As the Wildcat fans have seen, they must be doing it right this season, having already clinched a finish of no worse than third place in the Eastern Division of the SEC.

And although it may be an old cliché, it still rings true for Tim Calvert, just as it did for Rudy: "If you aim for the stars and you fall short, it's still pretty high."

Some Hangovers Last Forever.

If you think drinking can only mess you up for a night, think again. Drinking can open the door to all kinds of violence. And if you drink and drive, you can hurt or kill someone—even yourself. Of course, you know all that. What may be news to you is that a conviction for drinking and driving or alcohol-related violence can ruin your chances of getting a job—now and long after you graduate. Isn't that a heavy price to pay for a night on the town?

DOUBLE-TALK ABOUT DUCE

People are talking about senior linebacker Duce Williams

By Jim Kelsey
Host Communications

eople talk about his size. They say at 6-0, 196 pounds he's too small to be a collegiate linebacker, particularly in the Southeastern Conference.

People talk about his name. Where does a name like "Duce" come from anyway? And, isn't it cool that he wears No. 2?

Fellow players talk about his most unusual pregame ritual. They say you can always tell when it's getting close to game time.

But what people don't talk about is the fact that Duce Williams has become an outstanding linebacker for the Kentucky Wildcats. It's as if being a three-year starter and one of the Wildcats' leading tacklers this season was expected all along: "Yeah, we knew he'd be a great player, but did you know he never had a career interception until the Florida game this year?"

It seems that no matter what Williams accomplishes on the field, people would rather talk about something else.

"A lot of times I hear people saying, 'Well, this guy's a 200-pound linebacker,'" Williams says. "But if I'm making the plays, it doesn't make any difference if I'm 150 pounds."

Who needs size when you've got instinct, experience and a favorable defensive scheme on your side?

"(Defensive coordinator Mike Archer) isn't lining me up on a 300-pounder," Williams explains. "I'm a little undersized to be a linebacker, so he's put me in a place where I can run and make the plays.

"I think I have pretty good instincts for the ball. I know pretty much what's going to happen before the ball is snapped, and I find ways to make plays. I might do it different than somebody else would do it, but I've always found a way to be around the ball."

And he intends to stay around the ball. The senior from Bethel Park, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh, plans to become a coach when his playing days are over. With a football career that started when he was six and with a father who was a star running back at Youngstown State, football has been a part of Williams' life for too long to suddenly give it up.

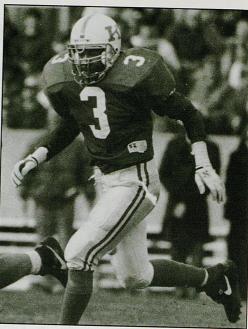

Williams learned that fact the hard way last year when a sprained knee kept him out of the last four games of the season.

"Last year was probably the toughest time for me because, regardless of how much I'd been injured, I had always been able to play," Williams said. "To not be out there playing just sort of blew my mind. It got to the point where the team would travel and I couldn't go. I got so upset and so tense I had to sit home and listen to it on the radio because I couldn't stand it any more. I couldn't sit there and watch it."

For anyone who doubts Williams' intensity, there are approximately 100 Wildcat players who can vouch for it. That's because they've seen him before a game. It doesn't matter which game, because his preparation is always the same. In fact, he's so consistent, they can set their watches by him.

Five minutes before the team goes onto the field for the start of the game, Williams has to vomit. He's not nervous, it's no sort of ailment and he doesn't do it on purpose.

"I don't know what it is, but it's timed," Williams says. "It's happened every game, but if I wouldn't do it, I think that people would think that I'm not ready to play because it happens like clockwork. When I first started doing it people said, 'Is he all right? Is he sick? No, he's just getting ready to play.' It's nothing I do on purpose. It's just something that runs in the family. My dad does it before he gets into an athletic event and it just carries on with me."

When the Duce gets loose, opponents had best look out.

Another thing — this one a little easier to stomach — that Phillip Williams passed on to his son was his name. But rather than call him Phillip Williams II or Phillip Williams Jr., Phillip and Gertrude Williams decided to call their son "Duce" and the name's been with him ever since.

Recently, his name has gotten considerably longer. You won't find it on your flip card — there's not enough room. But just for your information, you are no longer allowed to say Williams' name unless you precede it with, "The Underrated." Some players consider that label a curse, some say it's a compliment. Williams doesn't care — as long as people are finally talking about his playing abilities.

"I really don't care if people call me underrated or not," Williams says. "I just line up every week and play, and I think I've played pretty consistently throughout my years...I think I've done a pretty good job of making a lot of plays here."

And of giving people plenty to talk about.

SCOUTING THE EAST CAROLINA PIRATES

By Greg Herriford Host Communications

n Jan. 1, 1992, East Carolina welcomed in the new year by reaching new heights on the football field.

The Pirates rallied from a 17-point deficit with just 8:41 left in the game and defeated intrastate rival North Carolina State, 37-34, in the Peach Bowl. The win capped a Cinderella season for ECU, which finished with an 11-1 record and a top 10 national ranking.

When Pirate head coach Bill Lewis decided to leave ECU following the 1991 season to take over at Georgia Tech, Steve Logan was the perfect choice to continue East Carolina's success.

Logan was the offensive coordinator from 1990-91 and played a major role in the development of the Pirates' explosive offensive attack.

During Logan's two seasons as offensive coordinator and his first as head coach (1990-92), East Carolina averaged 28.2 points and almost 400 yards total offense per game.

But so far Logan's tenure hasn't been exactly peachy.

Last season, Logan's first as head coach, saw the Pirates turn in a mediocre 5-6 fin-pling injuries, a youthful lineup and a tough schedule featuring the likes of Syracuse, Washington, South Carolina and Virginia Tech has made for a disappointing season in Greenville, N.C. The Pirates have won only two of their nine contests.

East Carolina has seen 16 different freshmen or first-year players start games this year, making the Pirates one of the youngest teams in Division I-A football. Two weeks ago at Virginia Tech, East Carolina started nine freshmen or first-year players.

The trigger of Logan's offensive arsenal, the quarterback position, has been sacked by injuries.

Before the season started, Michael Anderson, who broke or tied 12 school records last season, was declared ineligible due to academics.

The next two quarterbacks behind Anderson would suffer season-ending injuries. Redshirt freshman Marcus Crandall broke his leg during the second game of the year and Chris Hester, another redshirt freshman, broke his thumb three weeks later against South Carolina.

The signal-calling job now belongs to true freshman Perez Mattison. The Anderson, S.C., native completed 51-of-114 passes for 659 yards over his first three starts. In his first starting assignment, Mattison threw for 246 yards and three touchdowns in leading the Pirates to a 31-28 Homecoming win over Louisiana Tech.

For the ECU offense, two who have been making opponents walk the plank are tight end Carlester Crumpler and running back Junior Smith.

In Crumpler, the Pirates have one of the finest tight ends in college football. Not only is the Greenville, N.C., native a fine receiver (he has caught two or more passes in 13 straight games coming into the Tulsa game), but he is an excellent blocker. The senior was tabbed as an All-American by several preseason magazines including the NCAA Football Preview.

The 5-6, 180pound Smith is a strong, shifty runner who accounts for nearly all the Junior running back Junior Smith has been one of few bright spots for East Carolina this year.

Pirates' rushing yards. Smith is averaging more than 100 yards rushing per contest this year and is on track to surpass 1,000 yards for the second year in a row. In only his junior year, Smith is among East Carolina's all-time leading rushers.

On the defensive side, East Carolina is solid in the trenches. The senior trio of Jeff Cooke, Bernard Carter and Derek Taylor anchors the defensive line.

The Pirates will miss injured sophomore Morris Foreman, a big-play guy from the linebacker position. Foreman, one the team's leading tacklers, will be replaced by junior Leonard Graham.

One area that sunk the Pirates' hopes for back-to-back winning seasons last year was place-kicking. ECU kickers converted only two-of-seven field-goal attempts last year. True freshman Chad Holcomb has solved the kicking problems, hitting seven-of-10 field-goal attempts through eight games this season.

Junior college transfer Bill Wilson will handle the punting duties. Wilson averaged better than 37 yards over his first 50 punts, with 10 of those punts landing inside the opponents' 20-yard line.

CATS WITH A CAUSE

UK athletes work with local kids to ensure they succeed academically

By Charity Beck
Host Communications

For Shawn it was hard enough getting through the fourth grade. Morning English class was usually spent gazing at the world on the other side of the window and mid-afternoon science was always a session of sulking and uncontollable fidgeting. But his teacher knew it was not because he was not bright. Shawn just needed someone to look up to.

Many Lexington children struggle through school not understanding the importance of learning. And without inspiring role models, school can be the hardest obstacle these children will ever have to tackle. But who could understand the challenges of education better than collegiate athletes? And who could be a more positive mentor to motivat students in Fayette County than a University of Kentucky football or basketball player?

In the spring 1992, former UK football player Sterling Ward and the Family Resource Center at Booker T. Washington elementary school, decided that UK athletes could have a dynamic effect on these challenged students. So together they created the Cats Cub Club, and its success has spread across Lexington public schools like the first buds of spring.

Now the Center for Academic and Tutorial Services (CATS) at UK has organized the "CATS Cause" and more than 80 student-athletes are participating in the volunteer program to help at-risk students get the extra boost they need to succeed. The athletes are dedicated and the students love them.

Craig Walker, a former UK football player and CATS Cause coordinator, called the athletes and their buddies "academic motivation relationships," and he said that participation is great. The percentage of athletes who volunteer is high, but it just is not enough to go out to all the schools.

The program, which started only as an experiment, has expanded rapidly. Johnson, Arlington and Maxwell elementary students have CATS buddies. And last month, the program reached some junior high and high schools. There are a lot of children in need but only so many athletes. Walker said that his goal is to recruit 70 to 80 percent of the athletes to the program.

"The time is hard for many athletes to give up," Walker said. "With travel, practice and class it is a wonder that many can keep their own grades up. But they really enjoy it. They're getting a lot out of it."

Walker approaches athletes at the beginning of the season and he leaves a sign-up sheet with the coaches. CATS Cause asks that the athletes make a serious commitment. One day a week, for 45 to 50 minutes, the athletes go to the schools and visit with their buddy.

"The fact is that most of these children are isolated in the world of their neighborhood," Walker said "Some don't even know that UK is an active part of their community. The athletes are coming in and showing them a new light."

Milton Hodge, fourth and fifth grade math-science teacher at Booker T. Washington, thinks the program has helped several of his students immeasurably.

"Teachers don't have much leverage,' Hodge said "The athletes give us added leverage and it works."

When Milton decides one of his students needs a buddy it is not because he/she is academically slow, but they need more discipline. Many of the children have behavioral disabilities. If their morale can be boosted in elementary school it can be carried over into junior high. If it can be cultivated in junior high, then chances of a high school diploma are more hopeful.

"We are hoping to mold them before they get on the wrong foot," Walker said "We mainly try to focus on fifth graden because this is right before the big step into junior high."

Most of the students come from single parent homes and lower income neighborhoods. But this is not absolute. Sex and race of the child is unimportant. What matters is the lack of positive role models.

Barbara Demuse, coordinator of Family Resource Center at Booker T. Washington, has started sending home permission slips to the parents. Often times the slip gets lost, the parents never see it or it is thrown in the trash. The school does not need a parent's permission, but Demuse said she would like to see more parents get involved.

Former Wildcat Craig Walker is coordinator of the CATS Cause program.

Last year, CATS Cause held a picnic for the athletes, their buddies and their parents. On a Saturday afternoon, the athletes grilled hamburgers and hotdogs while the children played games. The assistant football coaches were present and a DJ played music. Everyone seemed to have a great time, but not many parents came. Their participation could make all the difference because these children need all the support they can get.

"If I could describe what it does for the kids in two words, I would have to say 'pumps up'," Demuse said "They are really excited about it. Over all, I think it is helping the whole community."

Community service has always been part of the University of Kentucky and its athletic department's cause.

Barbara Deniston, director of student-athlete development at CATS, said that the buddy system is not the only way the athletes try to help out the community.

About 25 to 30 of the athletes are on a speakers bureau. They do not go to the schools every week, but they go for celebrity readings and lectures. CATS also pulls athletes to help with other projects needed by Fayette County schools.

Deniston said that it is important that the athletes get some type of experience in the real world. During their college careers, they can be very isolated by their sport and studies.

"It helps pull them away from the university environment," Deniston said. "It breaks their routine that often times becomes monotonous and brings them one on one with outside individuals.'

CATS is working closely with the College of Education to organize future projects. And Deniston hopes that it might progress into working with the Chancellor's office.

'We have always done things informally for the community," Deniston said. "But CATS Cause has really taken off and I hope it only continues to grow."

Higher Ed Really Pays

K economists have found an investment you can make and get a better than three-to-one return for every dollar you spend — higher education in Kentucky.

Using a multiplier effect, the researchers found that in just one year of higher education all the people attending a Kentucky public university or college added $8.52 billion to their "human capital value," for collective lifetime earnings.

For this return, the state invested only $672 million.

The economists who performed the study for the Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education are Charles F. Haywood, Mark Berger and Dan A. Black.

Computer Educator of the Year

Clyde Holsapple, a professor in the College of Business and Economics, was named 1993 Computer Educator of the Year by the International Association for Computer Information Systems. The award is based on the recipient's national reputation as a leader and innovator in computer education.

Holsapple said his teaching philosophy is to give students as much hands-on experience as possible when they are learning about business computer systems. He asks them to identify an opportunity for building a system, design it and implement a prototype of it for classroom demonstration.

Holsapple holds the Rosenthal Endowed Chair in Management Information Systems and is acting chair of the department of decision science and information systems.

UK Top Cops

Two UK police officers were recently honored.

Officer Kevin Grimes graduated from the 175th session of the FBI National Academy, the first UK police officer to be selected for such training, and officer Holly A. Davis was named a state director with the American Women's Self Defense Association for Kentucky.

A graduate of Henry Clay High School, Grimes is a graduate of the Kentucky Bureau of Training Police Academy. He is an emergency medical technician and a certified basic life support instructor.

In the UK Police Department, Grimes serves as a field training officer, supervisor for the UK bike patrol, and a criminal investigator.

Davis is a graduate of Oldham County High School and the Kentucky Bureau of Training Academy.

Davis also serves as a Rape Aggression Defense Course and firearms instructor with the UK Police Department.

UK Student Wins National Therapy Award

Regina Berry Award Recipient

Regina Berry, a UK graduate student, has won a $1,500 national minority fellowship award from the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy.

She received the award during the association's national meeting in Anaheim, Calif., Oct. 7-10.

Berry, of Lexington, was one of 39 North American applicants for the award which is given to one individual who shows a strong commitment to the profession.

"It's quite an honor that she won," says O'Neal Weeks, professor of family studies and director of UK's Marriage and Family Therapy Program. "She's an excellent student and has done a great deal to support minority families in Lexington, especially with AIDS education."

Berry is working on both her master's degree in family studies and doctorate in

Residence Hall Emphasizes Health

The 172 University of Kentucky students who live in Kirwin II residence hall are working to improve more than their minds — they also are working to improve their health.

Nathan Frisbie, hall director in Kirwin II and a graduate student in sports management, says the "Wellness Hall" concentrates on the whole person.

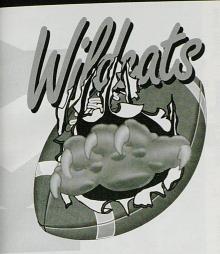

The recreation room of the hall is now a gym that is open 24-hours a day where students can get in shape with stair-step machines, rowing machines, stationary bicycles, free weights and universal-type equipment for weight training.

UK!

The following is a speech which was given by former UK Director of Athletics Cliff Hagan on Oct. 2, 1993. On that day, the baseball stadium located in the Shivley Sports Complex was named Cliff Hagan Stadium.

homas Wolfe said, "You can't go home again." On the other hand, Abraham Lincoln quipped, "Home is a place when you go there, they have to take you in." Home can mean different things to different people, but I tell you it is good to have a home at the University of Kentucky ... my old Kentucky home.

Twenty-one years ago, when I came to UK as its first assistant athletics director, I felt I was finally home, finally settled and rooted ... a very important concept to a professional athlete with a wife and four young children. Only an old pro would understand this.

John Ray was football coach, and Adolph Rupp was basketball coach. The games were played at Stoll Field and Memorial Coliseum. President Otis Singletary and athletics director Harry Lancaster hired me to develop a fund-raising program. At the time, less than $10,000 was received annually. I visited several programs, and the Blue and White fund became a reality. When we left the university 16 years later we left more than $19 million in the bank.

Three years after I became assistant A.D., Harry Lancaster retired as athletics director and I got the job. A cautious dream had come true. Harry once told me that he could not understand why anyone would want to be an athletics director ... you never win a game, you get blamed for everything, and you have no constituency! Only C.M. Newton and I understand this.

After becoming A.D., our first decision, and one of the best, was to hire Frank Ham as my assistant. Our second decision to hire Larry Ivy as business manager to replace an irreplaceable Louise Gilchrist was equally as good. I could not have gotten along without either of them.

In our time, we went from Stoll Field to Commonwealth Stadium, from Memorial Coliseum to Rupp Arena, from John Ray to Fran Curci to Jerry Claiborne, from Adolph Rupp to Joe B. Hall to Eddie Sutton.

With the help of dear friends like Erv and Zoe Nutter, grateful alumni like Hilary Boone and Seth Hancock, and countless donors to the Blue & White fund, we built much needed facilities like the Boone Tennis Center, the Nutter Indoor Training Facility, the Lancaster Aquatic Center, a new track, and renovations to Shively Baseball Field. We also upgraded Alumni Gym, administrative football and basketball offices, and offices for all other sports. But facilities mean only so much. Only coaches and athletics directors understand this.

Truly believing that every athlete should have an opportunity for a quality education, we hired Bob Bradley — another great decision. Soon after, CATS, the Center for Academic and Tutorial Services, became a reality. We created space in the bowels of Memorial Coliseum, gradually added four full-time assistants, a secretary, and supplied unlimited tutors until, ultimately, we led the nation in graduation rates. We were on the cutting edge leading the way, but only a Bob Bradley and an A.D. understand what we went through with coaches, athletes, administrators and professors.

During all of this time, we were quietly going about the business of implementing Title IX, creating a women's intercollegiate athletics program. Blending the women's program with the men's program already in existence and somehow finding the resources to fully staff, house, scholarship, and provide facilities, trainers and equipment was an awesome, but extremely rewarding task. Only a Sue Feamster, a Kathy DeBoer, a Larry Ivy and an A.D. could understand this.

When I look back at my athletics program, I don't think of our SEC Championships, NCAA Championships, NIT Championships, or our numerous victoFormer UK basketball All-American and athletics director Cliff Hagan.

ries. Instead, I look back on the fine young men and women who came our way and trusted their future in our hands. I know we did not shortchange anyone.

I also think of the fine, talented people who made up the athletics department. Outstanding people make outstanding coaches, and many never received enough credit for all their work on behalf of UK athletics and our student-athletes.

It was not the easiest of jobs dealing with 400 young people, force-feeding some an education, marveling at the academic accomplishments of others, massaging the egos of 100 coaches and staff members, keeping faith with the media, and being available to alumni and parents. But it was the best of times, and I am eternally grateful to Dr. Otis Singletary for having confidence in me. Together, we learned one of life's great lessons: winning isn't necessarily always good, and losing isn't necessarily always bad! Only a university president and his A.D. could understand this.

The university and the state has honored me in a great way today. When I ponder the facilities and buildings at this university and the tremendous individuals for whom they are named, to have my name linked with the Erv Nutters, the Hilary Boones, the Harry Lancasters, the Adolph Rupps, and the Bernie Shivelys makes this a momentous and emotional occasion for me, my family, and my friends. Only a Cliff Hagan could understand this!

THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

A Tradition of Value

rom its modest beginnings in 1865, when it was known as State College, the University of Kentucky has grown into one of the nation's most outstanding institutions of higher learning. As a comprehensive land-grant university, UK offers an educational experience that cannot be matched anywhere in the Commonwealth. In fact, only a small number of institutions across the nation can offer the wealth of opportunities that await students at UK. At Kentucky, there is a tradition of value.

University History

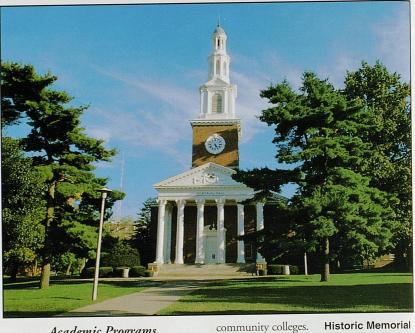

UK was founded in 1865 as a landgrant institution, and the present name dates to 1916. The Lexington campus has 673 acres. Dr. Charles T. Wethington, Jr., is UK's 10th president.

Students

The University of Kentucky now has more than 72,000 students with 24,000 on the Lexington campus and 48,000 at the 14 community colleges across the state. UK now educates 40 percent of all students in Kentucky attending a public or private college or university. There are 5,100 students enrolled in graduate school with 95 master's and 59 doctoral programs offered.

Faculty

There are 1,643 full-time faculty on the Lexington campus and the Medical Center and another 1,096 faculty in the community colleges. Faculty brought in more than $95 million in grants, contracts and gifts to the University during the last academic year.

Academic Programs

Currently, there are 17 academic colleges and a graduate school on the Lexington campus. Students have a choice of more than 100 majors. The University is recommended in seven books or publications for its value in providing higher education.

Recently, J.D. Power and Associates awarded its prestigious Gold Plant Quality Award-North America to Toyota Motor Manufacturing in Georgetown, Kentucky. Ranking it as the auto manufacturing plant producing vehicles with the fewest reported problems in North America.

Impressive stuff. But not surprising, considering what we had to work with.

The dedication and commitment of the people of Georgetown. OUR COMMITMENT TO AMERICA IS WORKING.

But Toyota Motor Manufacturing does more than win awards. By making most Camry Sedans and all Camry Wagons in Georgetown, selling them in America, and exporting them around the world, TMM has created jobs and economic opportunity that help benefit Kentucky, and America. Nearly 5,000 American men and women are employed at TMM/Georgetown. In addition, 58,000 people have benefited directly or indirectly through jobs in the 32 states and 174 American firms which supply TMM with parts and materials. All of which contributed, in 1992 alone, more than $1.5 billion to the Kentucky economy, and an additional $4.5 billion to the country as a whole.

So we congratulate everyone at Toyota Motor Manufacturing, for proving that when it comes to Georgetown, our commitment to America is working.

"I love what you do for me."

erseverance. Persistence. Tenacity. Steadfastness.

Those four words best describe the characteristics which must be engendered in the tireless efforts of program building. And when speaking of "program building" in Division I-A collegiate football, no one better understands the true meaning of those four terms than Bill Curry.

Program building has different meanings in different arenas. To some, program building is a fixed number of victories in season one, two, five or 50. Not with Bill Curry. It goes much deeper. The process enters the very souls of young people and touches their every angle.

"I'd like to say that I'm a person that really likes to serve young people," said Curry. "It is my wish to have every single one of them be the best they can be in every aspect of their lives, and that certainly includes a championship football program."

Curry's football pedigree weighs heavily in his expectations of championship performance. After all, he did play and work under three of the most successful coaches the game of football has ever known — Bobby Dodd, Vince Lombardi and Don Shula.

Curry, 50, lettered three years (1962-64) as a collegian at Georgia Tech under Dodd and served as team captain his senior campaign. Dodd compiled an impressive 22-year record of 165-64-8, including Southeastern Conference titles in 1951 and '52, at Georgia Tech.

After earning his bachelor's degree in industrial management from Georgia Tech in 1965, Curry began his professional career under Lombardi with the Green Bay Packers. He played on two Packer teams which won the National Football League title (1965-66), including the first Super Bowl, Jan. 15, 1967. The legendary Lombardi guided Green Bay to five NFL championships in seven years during the 1960s.

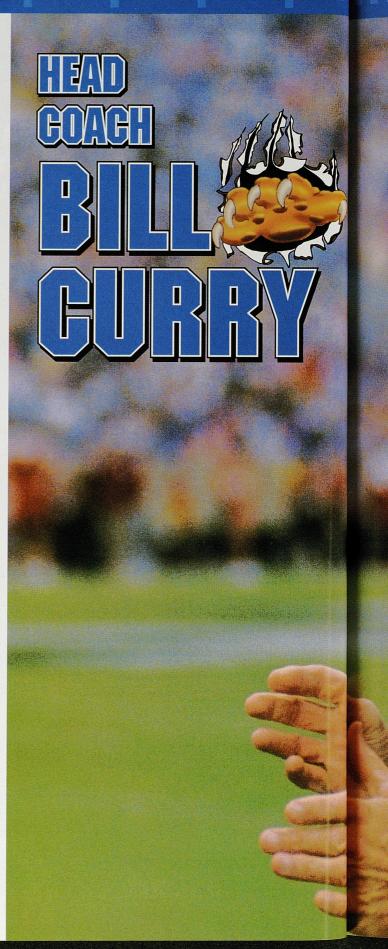

Following the 1967 season, Curry was traded to the Baltimore Colts and became All-Pro in 1971 and '72. His mentor for two seasons at Baltimore was Don Shula, who today is the winningest active coach in the NFL and has appeared in more Super Bowls (six) than any other coach.

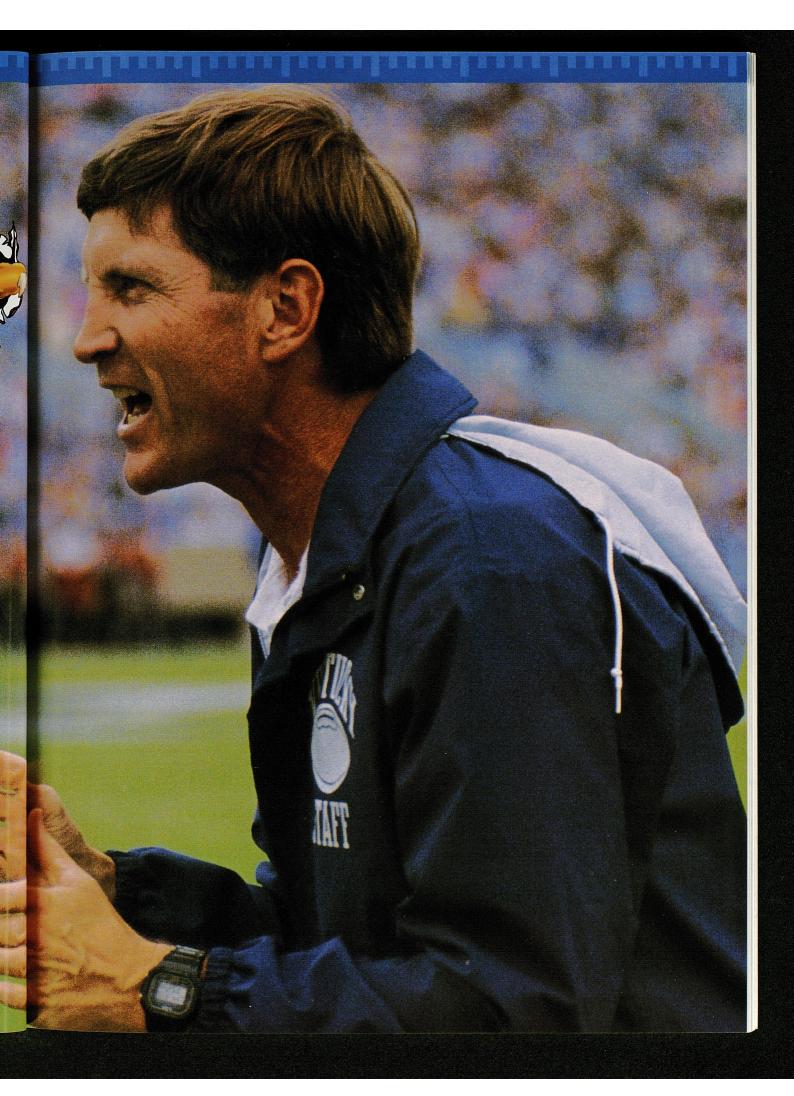

Those qualities opened the eyes of UK Athletics Director C.M. Newton when he began his search in December 1989 to replace Jerry Claiborne, who stepped down after eight seasons with the Wildcats. But Newton took an interest in another side of Curry.

"William A. (Bill) Curry is recognized by many to be at the very top of his profession," said Newton during his introduction of Curry to the media. "He has been credited for dignity, class and integrity with which he conducts his football programs, both on and off the playing field."

Curry has that rare mix of both worlds.

He came to Kentucky from the University of Alabama. His overall record of 26-10 at 'Bama was the Crimson Tide's most successful three-year total since Paul "Bear" Bryant compiled a 27-8-3 record in his final three campaigns (1980-82). In his last season, Curry led Alabama to a 10-1 regular-season mark and a share of the SEC title. He took three Crimson Tide teams to bowls — the 1987 Hall of Fame Bowl, the 1988 Sun Bowl and the 1990 USF&G Sugar Bowl. The Currys: (L-R) Kristin, Bill, Billy and Carolyn.

In all, Curry owns a 68-75-4 record in 13 seasons as a collegiate head coach.

Curry, a native of College Park, Ga., signed a scholarship with the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets after a fine prep career at College Park High School. At Georgia Tech, Curry helped lead the Yellow Jackets to a 21-9-1 record and a Bluebonnet Bowl berth during his final three seasons.

Before his professional career was over 10 seasons later, Curry played at Green Bay (1965-66), Baltimore (1967-72), Houston (1973) and with the Los Angeles Rams (1974). Curry was a member of three Super Bowl teams and two National Football League Championship teams. A knee injury forced him to retire in 1975.

A year later, Curry was back at his alma mater as an assistant coach under Pepper Rodgers. Then in 1977, Curry returned to the pro ranks as an offensive line coach with the Green Bay Packers under former teammate Bart Starr. Curry answered Georgia Tech's call once again in 1980, this time as head football coach.

Facing a pair of daunting schedules, Curry and Tech turned in 1-9-1 and 1-10 records in 1980 and '81, before things began to change in 1982. During his final five years at Tech, Curry produced a 29-24-3 ledger which included a sparkling 9-2-1 season in 1985. The successful '85 campaign earned Tech an All-American Bowl bid and victory over Michigan State, 17-14. It was Georgia Tech's first bowl appearance since 1978.

Curry was named the 1985 Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year by the Associated Press and ACC sportswriters, the 1987 SEC Coach of the Year by United Press International and the 1989 SEC Coach of the Year by AP and the Nashville Banner. Curry received a special honor after the 1989 season when he was named the Bobby Dodd National Coach of the Year, in honor of his former collegiate mentor.

Curry is a member of the NFL Former Players Advisory Committee and is serving his second term on the AFCA Ethics Committee. In 1992, he was inducted into the Georgia Sports Hall of Fame.

Curry is married to the former Carolyn Newton of College Park, Ga. Carolyn has a Ph.D. in history and teaches at UK. They have two children — Kristin, 26, and Billy, 22.

C.M. NEWTON

Director of Athletics

hen Charles Martin (C.M.) Newton became the University of Kentucky's seventh director of athletics April 1, 1989, he hit the ground running.

After a little more than four years on the job, Newton has become one of the most popular public figures in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. In addition to a lengthy, impressive list of credentials, Newton brought to Kentucky a sparkling reputation of integrity at a crucial time in the history of UK athletics. In accepting the position at his alma mater, Newton summarized his goals and objectives by saying, "I have a resolve to try very hard to continue that great tradition, and at the same time, to totally do it within the NCAA and SEC rules and not sacrifice the academic integrity of this University."

He capped an illustrious basketball coaching career by leading his 1988-89 Vanderbilt University squad to a 19-14 record, a second-place SEC finish and its second consecutive NCAA tournament appearance. He was named SEC Coach of the Year by the Associated Press and received the Kodak NABC District IV Coach of the Year award.

Newton served as head basketball coach and associate athletics director at Vanderbilt (1982-89), compiling a 129-115 overall record. In 32 years of coaching at Transylvania, Alabama and Vandy, Newton compiled a 509-375 overall record, ranking him among the top 10 active coaches in the game in terms of total victories at the close of the 1988-89 season. Newton's Alabama teams won three consecutive Southeastern Conference championships.

Perhaps more impressive, however, was Newton's ability to produce winning teams that also possessed exceptional academic credentials. During Newton's tenure at Vanderbilt, 18 Commodores were named to the Academic All-SEC team - over 50 percent more than any other league school. And including his last graduating class, all 21 seniors received their diplomas.

Newton is highly regarded on the national level. He has served on the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches. He worked six years on the NCAA Basketball Rules Committee, serving as chairman for five years. He currently serves as president of USA Basketball, the nation's governing body for international basketball, and as chairman of of its Games Committee, which is responsible for all international competition, including the Olympic Games. He is also a member of the prestigious NCAA Division I Basketball Committee, and is chair on a NCAA committee on basketball issues.

Newton has literally circled the globe to promote basketball. He served as team manager — a combination coaching and administrative position — on the 1984 U.S. Olympic team that won the gold medal.

In 1983 and 1987, Newton took his Vanderbilt squads to the Republic of China (Taiwan) to represent the United States in the R. William Jones Cup International Tournament, winning the gold medal in 1983 and the silver in 1987. He has conducted coaching clinics in numerous countries.

After playing on the 1951 national champion Wildcat squad and pitching in the New York Yankees' minor league system, Newton be gan coaching at Transylvania College (now Transylvania University) in Lexington.

In 1969, with the backing of Adolph Rupp, Newton took on the challenge of building the downtrodden Alabama basketball program. During his 12-year tenure, Newton orchestrated a turnaround in the Crimson Tide's basketball fortunes compiling a 211-123 record.

With few horizons left to conquer at Alabama, Newton resigned at the end of the 1980 season to accept a job as assistant commissioner of the Southeastern Conference. A year later, when Vanderbilt athletics director Roy Kramer was searching for a coach of national statum to head the Commodore basketball program, Newton was the man for the job.

Newton was born in Rockwood Tenn. He grew up in Fort Lauderdale Fla., where he was eventually named charter member of that city's Sports Hall of Fame, along with Chris Evert, Julius Boros and the late Brian Piccolo.

Newton and his wife, Evelyn, have three grown children — Deborah, Traq and Martin — and four grandchildren

COMMONWEALTH STADILIM Home of the K

Home of the Kentucky Wildcats

when it comes to football, Kentuckystyle, there is certainly no better place than home — Commonwealth Stadium.

The stadium was built in 1973 at a cost of $12 million by the firm of Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc. Commonwealth, including parking areas, rests on an 86-acre plot of what was once the UK Experimental Station Farm grounds.

The stadium took on a new look in 1990 with the addition of a $600,000 scoreboard and message center located in the north end zone. The scoreboard is 19 by 78 feet in size, almost 3.5 times the size of the original scoreboard which had been in place since 1973.

The stadium was officially opened September 15, 1973. The Wildcats moved into their new home after spending 48 years at Stoll Field/McLean Stadium across from Memorial Coliseum. Kentucky defeated Virginia Tech in the stadium-opener, 31-26, behind three touchdowns by quarterback Ernie Lewis.

Since its opening, Kentucky has fashioned a 71-50-4 record and .584 winning percentage. The Wildcats have averaged 55,133 spectators for contests at Commonwealth since its inception. In total, 6,891,664 spectators have witnessed Kentucky football at Commonwealth Stadium — that's about 1.8 times the population of Kentucky.

Commonwealth Stadium can officially seat 57,800 fans, though standing-room only crowds exceed that figure. Most sat but many of the stadium-record 58,450 spectators stood to watch the Wildcats defeat rival Indiana, 37-25, Sept. 19, 1992.

UK plans to eventually enclose the south end of Commonwealth Stadium to bring its capacity to 72,000. The addition of luxury suites and boxes is also in the plans.

UK INDOOR FIELDHOUSE

niversity of Kentucky Athletics Director C.M. Newton has called this $8.5 million facility the final piece of the puzzle. Finally, the University of Kentucky Athletics Association has an indoor field-house which can accommodate the year 'round needs of 11 Wildcat sports — football, baseball, gymnastics, men's indoor/outdoor track, women's indoor/outdoor track, men's and women's golf and men's and women's soccer.

"In my opinion, we already have in place the finest coaches in the country," Newton said. "The addition of this indoor facility, which I consider the final piece of the puzzle, means we have the ability to attract the finest student-athletes.

"The facility is a multi-purpose building, something which will be a tremendous boost to all of our programs."

The indoor facility, constructed by Ce.Pennington General Contractors, encompasses more than 132,000 square feet and is located adjacent to Commonwealth Stadium behind the south end zone in the game-day Yellow Lot. For size comparison, UK's E.J. Nutter Football Training facility is only 48,000 square feet.

"This facility was very crucial in the expansion of our facilities base," UK head football coach Bill Curry said. "I consider this indoor practice facility to be the finest of its kind in the world. With our weather and being the northern-most state in the Southeastern Conference, we have needed a facility of this magnitude.

"We have also needed the indoor facility to allow our skill-position players to work on their respective skills, so we can measure up to the rest of our league. The one thing our staff understands about our skilled athletes today is the importance of practicing every day. Our young men will now be able to do that."

The finest indoor practice facility in the nation rests on the campus of the University of Kentucky.

The indoor facility features an actual playing field area of 108,000 square feet, including a full-size artificial turf football field. The football field is surrounded by a six-lane, 290-meter track which expands to nine lanes down the straight-aways. Areas for the pole vault, high jump and long jump also are included. A 9,000-square foot gymnastics room is located in the front of the building and will serve as the UK GymCats home.

One of the most unique features of this multi-million dollar fieldhouse is the computerized netting system. This system will allow for different combinations of sports to practice safely, all at the same time, by dividing the playing field. The nets can be lowered to separate the entire playing field from the track, or form four batting cages for baseball or driving ranges for golf. The playing field can be divided in halves to create two football, soccer or baseball practice areas.

"This type of facility is also important for the togetherness of our athletics program," Curry said. "It allows us the opportunity to have everyone participating under one roof."

UK President Dr. Charles Wethington says this facility can also be utilized for faculty, staff and students in general.

"This facility is very significant not only to UK Athletics, but to the entire University of Kentucky community," Wethington said.

The height of the indoor facility is 72 feet at its apex. Inside, the netting clearance is approximately 65 feet. This height will allow punting (into the net system) and PAT/field goals during football practices. The playing field of the indoor facility runs perpendicular to the playing field of Commonwealth Stadium.

Also included in the facility is 3,000 square feet of office and lobby space for the facility manager, receptionist and coaches.

ne of the nation's showcase football facilities rests on the southeast corner of the University of Kentucky campus.

Indeed, the ultra-modern E.J. Nutter Football Training Facility ranks among the Kentucky Wildcat football in September 1987.

The Nutter Center, as it is called on the UK campus, encompasses more than 48,000 square feet and is built adjacent to the Shiv-begin. The Nutter gift to the UK Athletics Association is the largest single grant ever received by the Association.

Aside from new dressing facilities, which feature large, personal lockers for every Kentucky football player, the Nutter Center is highlighted by a 9,000-square foot weight room with more than 100,000 pounds of equipment. The center also houses 11 meeting rooms, a state-of-the-art video and editing room for coaches' film, equipment and training rooms, staff and player lounges, an interview area, a 60-yard sprint track, sauna and jacuzzi, an aerobic exercise room and three racquetball courts.

"It is a privilege to get to work in a facility such as this every day," said Bill Curry. "The planning and design with the student-athlets at heart is what we're about today."

Every 30 minutes someone is killed in an alcohol-related accident.

Each year drunk drivers kill more than 17,000 people.

Two out of every five Americans will be involved in an alcoholrelated crash at some time in their lives.

Damage estimates attributed to drunk driving amount to $12 billion per year.

for UK games.

T he University of Kentucky will again package one of the most comprehensive radio and television networks among Division I-A institutions.

Sports Communications, Inc., which owns the radio rights to UK football and basketball, has constructed a massive network. WVLK-AM/FM of Lexington will once again serve as the flagship station for the UK Football Radio Network. The feature attractions of the network are 50,000-watt radio stations WHAS (840 AM) of Louisville and WCKY (1560 AM) of Cincinnati. WHAS blankets over two-thirds of the United States and can be heard in 40 states. WCKY can be heard from numerous states as well.

The UK Football Television Network features full-game, tape-delay action of all Wildcat home football games which are not televised by a network affiliated with the CFA Package. The Network is also one of the nation's largest. Sports Communications, Inc., administers the network with WKYT-TV of Lexington as the telecast's producer.

This fall, Ralph Hacker will be behind the microphone once again to serve as the play-by-play announcer on the UK Radio Network. The president and general manager of Lexington radio station WVLK-AM/FM is joined by veteran broadcaster Charlie McAlexander, who served as Vanderbilt's play-by-play announcer for 14 years prior to joining the UK network last year, WKYT-TV's Dave Baker and WKYT-TV sports manager Dick Gabriel, who doubles as sideline reporter for both radio and television networks.

On television, McAlexander serves as play-by-play man with WKYT-TV sports anchor Rob Bromley providing color commentary and Gabriel reporting.

CENTER FOR ACADEMIC AND TUTORIAL SERVICES

The University of Kentucky keeps the term "student-athlete" in the proper perspective — student first, athlete second. For that reason, the University of Kentucky Athletics Association opened the nation's first academic center for student-athletes in–1981. The academic-center is simply known as CATS — Center for Academic & Tutorial Services.

CATS is located inside Memorial Coliseum. The center, designed with the student-athlete in mind, contains a large general study area, along with several smaller rooms used for tutoring.

CATS expanded during the past academic year and added a language library, additional tutoring rooms, a media center and a new computer facility.

"Our CATS is one of the best academic services in the land and that's based on results," UK coach Bill Curry said. "For Kentucky to be up there with Duke and Virginia and Notre Dame is a real tribute to first, the student-athletes, but also to our academic support staff headed by Bob Bradley."

Kentucky is in the same league with the aforementioned schools in winning the College Football Association Academic Achievement Award, given to the CFA school whose program has achieved the highest graduation rate in the nation. Kentucky won the honor in 1989 after graduating 90 percent of its 1983 freshman class. Kentucky is the only Southeastern Conference school to have won the award.

"We get more response from parents who visit us on the CATS program than any other part of our program," Curry said. "Parents are really excited about it."

Curry is also excited about the combined effort former UK coach Jerry Claiborne and his staff put forth during their tenure. Since 1980, Kentucky has placed 110 players on the All-Southeastern Conference Honor Roll — more than any league school in that period. In 1989, the Wildcats set a conference record with 17 players named to the SEC Honor Roll. And during the 1993 spring semester, UK football had 28 players achieve a 3.0 grade point average or higher.

"With winning the CFA award and leading the SEC in Honor Roll picks, it certainly let everyone know we were serious, and still are serious, about making

Bob Bradley, assistant athletics director for academics, supervises the CATS program. Bradley is assisted by Barbara Deniston, director of student-athlete development, her assistant, Sheila Breeding, and academic counselor Mike Haley. CATS also employs six graduate assistants and numerous tutors, both from the University and surrounding community. Currently, the UKAA budgets close to $500,000 per year for CATS.

"We are extremely proud of what we have accomplished in the academic arena," Bradley said. "The CATS program is focused on winning in the classroom. We look at each student-athlete's individual needs, set goals and develop strategies to attain those goals. Our center (CATS) provides our student-athletes with a definite advantage over student-athletes at many other institutions."

Bradley also says it helps to have head coaches like Claiborne and Curry who place such a strong emphasis on academics.

"Many support systems across the nation do an excellent job at helping their student-athletes," Bradley said. "I have been blessed at Kentucky in having Jerry Claiborne. He really believed in the student-athlete concept. The same holds true for Bill Curry. We are in total sync in the business of educating our student-athletes."

The philosophy at the University of Kentucky is this: Colleges should be able to afford the student-athlete every oppor-

wo of the nation's best groups line up beside the Kentucky Wildcats on football Saturdays each fall: the award-winning University of Kentucky Cheerleaders and Marching Band.

Under the direction of adviser T. Lynn Williamson and coach Glenn Cook, the UK Cheerleaders have become the model cheerleading squad in the United States. Four of the last nine years UK has earned the national cheerleading title. They were runners-up in 1988, 1990 and 1993.

This squad's ability to help bring the Wildcat crowd into the games and its precision stunts have become a trademark and a source of pride for the University.

The University of Kentucky Marching Band is recognized around the country for its sophisticated sound and visual images through innovative drill writing.

Under Director of Bands Richard S. Clary, Assistant Director Bradley P. Ethington, Percussion Coordinator James B. Campbell and Drill Designer's Fred Gebhardt and John Laverty, UK Marching Band was one of the first in the nation to use computers exclusively for drill writing. An average halftime show will contain around 130,000 different moving sets for all members of the band, coordinated simultaneously with approximately 180,000 notes.

The University of Kentucky Marching Band numbers approximately 250, with members representing many different states.

The UK Band and Cheerleaders are among the nation's finest.

"Someday," they said, "the energy used to run your home will run the family car."

Well, someday is here with natural gas. Because, today, there are many innovative new uses for natural gas for home, business and industry.

In the home, you'll find advanced natural gas heating and water heating systems, ranges and fireplaces. Outdoor security lighting. Space heaters for indoors and out. Even natural gas powered generators to take over your electrical needs during an outage.

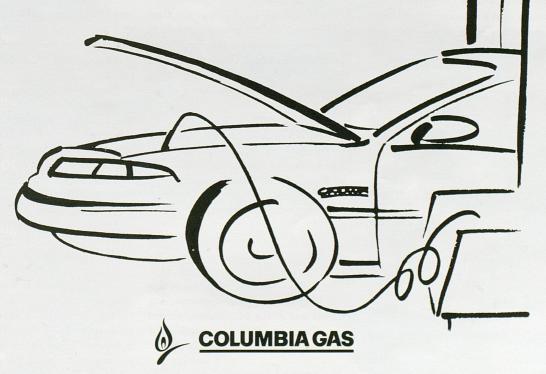

For business, there are new high efficiency heating and water heating systems, plus water heating boosters, gas ranges and air conditioning that can improve the efficiency of your restaurant or other business.

For industry, natural gas co-generation and cooling systems can save money while reducing emissions to help the environment.

And then there are Natural Gas Vehicles...for mass transportation, for business and government fleets, and yes, even for the individual family. From buses to delivery trucks to autos to industrial lift trucks, NGVs run cleaner and more economically than gasoline powered vehicles.

The bottom line? Natural gas is economical, abundant and best of all, it's better for the environment than electricity and other forms of energy. So the more innovative uses for gas we can find, the better it is for all of us.

And we're finding more great uses every day.

Look to us for ideas and the energy to make them work.

FOOTBALL TRADITIONS

Pride of Kentucky

Blue and White

The University of Kentucky adopted blue and white as its official colors in 1892. UK students had first decided on blue and light yellow before the Kentucky-Centre football game Dec. 19, 1891. The yellow was soon dropped from the combination and replaced by white.

The particular Kentucky shade of blue, close to royal blue, was determined without ceremony. After settling on the base colors, a student posed the logical question, "What color blue?" Letterman Richard Stoll looked down at his necktie and raised it to the air. The vote was unanimous.

And so Kentucky Blue is really Stoll necktie blue.

Nickname

The official nickname of University of Kentucky athletic teams is "Wildcats."

The name became synonymous with UK shortly after a 6-2 victory over Illinois on October 9, 1909. Commandant Carbusier, then head of the military department of old State University, told a group of students in a chapel service following the game that the Kentucky football team had "fought like wildcats."

The moniker "Wild-cats" became increasingly popular among UK followers and the media. The University has since adopted it as its official nickname.

Wildcat Mascot

The Wildcat mascot originated during the 1976-77 academic year at the University of Kentucky. Gary Tanner was the first Wildcat to dance and entertain crowds at Commonwealth Stadium and Rupp Arena during athletic events. Today the Wildcat mascot also attends academic functions and serves as a friendly ambassador for the University.

In the early 1980s, Wildcat mascot Terry Barney began the tradition of doing a one-armed pushup for each of Kentucky's points in front of the student section after every Wildcat score.

Battle for the Beer Barrel

The Beer Barrel, painted blue, orange and white, is the prize awarded each year to the winner of the Kentucky-Tennessee football game. The first barrel was awarded in 1925. Two Wildcat supporters, Guy Hugelet and Rollie M. Guthrie, wanted to produce something to symbolize the fierce rivalry between the two schools.

The Wildcat has been UK's friendly ambassador since 1976. A whiskey barrel was to be the original trophy, until the Women's Christian Temperance Union ruled it out. A beer barrel was more acceptable to the ladies. UK and Tennessee have battled for the Beer Barrel since 1925.

But there was still the problem of Prohibition and the Anti-saloon League, which voiced displeasure at such a trophy. But the resourceful Hugelet and Guthrie appeased all parties by painting "Ice Water" on the barrel.

Kentucky has won the barrel 23 times in the 88-game series.

Battle for the Bourbon Barrel

The Bourbon Barrel is awarded to the winner of the Kentucky-Indiana football game. The series, which was renewed in 1967 after a 40-year break, began in 1893. No one is certain of the origin of this unusual trophy. Some think the blue and red-striped barrel represents the distillery industry in Kentucky and southern Indiana. Indiana leads the series, 14-8-1, but Kentucky has won five of the last eight outings. Both schools have signed a contract to meet each year through 2000.

How To Prove You're Still Blue On The Green.

There's no better way to show your Wildcat spirit than a University of Kentucky Wildcat putter.

Make no mistake: this is a player's putter. A solid brass bar concentrates 75% of the club's weight directly in the center of the putter head, allowing a smooth, controlled stroke and greater accuracy. A bent shaft design gives the club perfect balance. The result? A better feel, and a more confident putting game.

- Left hand putters available.
- Please allow 4 5 weeks for delivery
- All orders received by December 1st will be delivered by Christmas.
- VISA and Mastercard accepted

A Great Gift Idea For Christmas!

Price $59.99 + 6% Sales Tax (if in Kentucky) + $5.00 for shipping and handling Example:

 $\frac{1 \text{ Putter}}{59.99} + \frac{\text{Tax}(\text{in KY})}{3.60} + \frac{\text{S \& H}}{5.00}$ Total = \$68.60

On, on, U of K, we are right for the fight today,

Hold that ball and hit that line; Ev'ry Wildcat star will shine;

We'll fight, fight, for the blue and white

As we roll to that goal, Varsity,

And we'll kick, pass and run, 'til the battle is won,

And we'll bring home the victory.

My Old Kentucky Home

The sun shines bright on the old Kentucky home,

'Tis summer, the people are gay;

The corntop's ripe and the meadows in the bloom,

While the birds make music all day.

(Chorus)

Weep no more, my lady,

Oh! Weep no more, today!

We will sing one song for my old Kentucky home.

For my old Kentucky home far away.

The young folks roll on the little cabin floor,

All merry, all happy, and bright;

By-n-by hard times come a-knocking at the door.

Then, my old Kentucky home, good-night!

UK Alma Mater

Hail Kentucky, Alma Mater! Loyal sons and daughters sing;

Sounder her praise with voice united; To the breeze her colors fling.

To the blue and white be true; Badge triumphant age on age;

Blue, the sky that o'er us bends; White, Kentucky's stainless page.

INDIGLO BY TIMEX

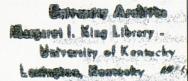

There's one hat we place above all others.

As one of America's 50 largest corporations with more than 30,000 employees, we wear quite a variety of hats. But through all divisions, interests and locations, there's one hat we place above all others.

Breaking From The Pack

At Valvoline, Inc. we believe contests are won before the competition begins. Success depends on preparation and staying a step ahead of the field.

Those same principles guide Valvoline and our subsidiaries. Our companies comprise a full line of lubricants, automotive chemicals and refrigerants, as well as oil-change service and used oil collection.

Valvoline Branded, Valvoline Instant Oil Change, Pyroil Performance Products, Valvoline International, Lube Refinery Sales, Ashland Industrial Products and First Recovery - all of these members of the winning Valvoline team call Lexington home. But more importantly, each is a leader in its field.

With this cast of strong performers, Valvoline has the horsepower to break away to the checkered flag.

VALVOLINE. THE PERFORMANCE TEAM.
