Permanent UMT Is Closer Than Most People Realize

An informal poll taken in and around the Student Union indicates that far too few UK students are informed about an issue which may be of extreme importance to them in the future.

We refer to the Universal Military Training and Service bill which has passed the Senate and is now before the House. Most people think that a bill proposing the drafting of 18-year-olds is being discussed, but perhaps not one in 10 realizes that attached to this very same bill is a provision for Universal Military Training for all men when they reach their eighteenth birthday.

The bill is permanent in effect and can be instituted at any time the President feels it is necessary, or it may begin by a concurrent resolution of Congress. The provisions call for a six-months training period, and all men who are inducted before the age of 26 will be required to serve a total of eight years on active duty and in the reserves.

We are not discussing the pros and cons of UMT. The question of immediate and vital concern to us as future citizens is: Do we want such an important question as permanent Universal Military Training to be considered hastily in the same bill with legislation for the present emergency?

It seems to us that a measure such as UMT, which would mean such a grave departure from the American way of life, deserves long and careful consideration as a separate problem. And we also believe that the American people should be aware that the problem is now before Congress. The emergency draft clause of the present bill has been greatly publicized and has caused the UMT rider to be obscured.

The two bills have wholly different purposes and should not be tied together. If UMT cannot pass on its own merits, it should not be allowed to go through on strength borrowed from a measure which appears to be necessary now.

Several colleges throughout the nation have declared their opposition to the dual character of the bill. Delegates from Berea, Centre, Lindsey Wilson, and Sun Belt Colleges met in Berea Saturday and formed the "Kentucky Committee for the Separation of Universal Military Training Legislation from Emergency Draft Legislation." The meeting was called by the Dean of Berea College, and faculty members from several other schools are taking an active part in the movement.

If you think the two bills should be separated, or if you believe that UMT should be subject to review every two years instead of being permanent, you should write to your Congressman at once. Past committee votes on the question have shown that there is enough controversy to indicate that strong public opinion might make a difference in the final vote on the bill.

Detailed information sheets explaining the problems and giving names of Kentucky and Ohio Congressmen have been prepared by the district National Student Association. They are available in the office of Marilyn Harris, UK's Danforth fellow, next door to the YWCA in the Student Union Building. There's no time to lose.

Champs -- Again

Another sparkling crown was added to UK's already dazzling collection when the "Sizzling Six" carried off the NCAA championship as the top basketball team in the nation Tuesday night at Minneapolis.

Although they nearly gave the entire state of Kentucky collective heart failure in the process, the Cats came through and showed the nation where the best Wildcats come from. The Kernel herewith adds its warmest congratulations, words of praise, and all that to the already-heaped-on Coach Rupp and the boys in blue-and-white. They deserve every bit of it.

And now, what with a Sugar Bowl football victory and a national basketball championship all in three short months, we're wondering: just how much higher does the ladder of college sports success go? We're betting on Kentucky to find out.

Kapell Featured

Dallas Symphony Climaxes Community Concert Series

By Ed Coffman

William Kapell and the Dallas Symphony Orchestra provided a climactic finale last week to this season's Community Concert Series. The well-balanced program which featured Beethoven's "Symphony No. 5," Concerto and Tchaikovsky's Fourth Symphony was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. The Kernel reporter took advantage of the presence of so much musical artistry, and interviewed both the noted pianist and Walter Hendel, the distinguished young conductor of the orchestra. Both of these artists are outstanding in a field which in the past has consisted principally of foreign-born artists. In the light of this past history it is interesting to note the opinions of these musicians on the difficulty of native-born artists to make a success in music.

HENDEL SAID that nationality does not enter into the reasons for success anymore. "Foreign-born artists do have some advantages. It is entirely a matter of capability and opportunity," Kapell agreed with the conductor and added that times have changed.

On the subject of popular music, the pianist had this to say, "I like to do it. That's all." The conductor replied that if it is good he likes it. "I divide music into two categories, good and bad. I do not classify it as classical or popular. There is some bad Bach. There is some good Art Tatum."

Both musicians agreed that one must work hard to make a success in the field of music. Kapell concisely advised, "Practice." Hendel said that success could be attained but "To use a Churchillian phrase, be prepared to give much blood, sweat, and tears."

Hendel has recently returned from a tour of South America. He said that audiences were similar in both North and South America in that they liked music. He called attention to the fact that many more people go to concerts in South America than in the United States.

USING RUSSIAN AIRS as an example, he illustrated, his point. "Boris Aires has three symphony orchestras. Each averages playing two concerts a week. In other words, you have six symphony concerts a week, and they are always sold out." He added that the orchestras there are not as good as those in this country.

As the interviewer talked with Kapell, he was interested in knowing what the young pianist thought of the modern Russian composer Khachaturian. Kapell is famous for his interpretation of the Russian's piano concerto. The pianist rates Khachaturian relatively low among modern composers. He did not think that the Soviets had studied the composer's creative spirit. "There isn't much to study."

Kapell has many favorites in music. His favorite composer is Franz Schubert. He had to think while before he declared that Hindemith was his favorite modern composer. He said that he has many favorite concert selections, mostly Chopin.

MUSIC LOVERS HAVE perhaps wondered how artists felt about touring all over the world giving performances. The brilliant, young

'Mating Season' Has Laughs; 'Sugarfoot' Provides Action

By Melvin Mitchell

Two of a different kind are at local theatres this week. "The Mating Season" appeals to the heart and funny bone; "Sugarfoot" satisfies the demand of the routine western-action fans.

"THE MATING SEASON" is a story of a young couple such mother-in-law trouble handed in the best taste, incidentally. It's unaccompanied and there is never a feeling of a sequence contrived for effect.

The laughs build slowly, and in fact, you are never sure whether you are to see a simple love story or comedy. However, as you follow Cary Tierney and John Lund through their family conflict of family pride on the one side and family position on the other, there is no doubt that the film reached its aim of a successful comedy.

"The Mating Season" which is scheduled at the Kentucky Theater today through April 5, was reviewed at the Paramount screening room in New York. The rating was "excellent."

"SUGARFOOT" rates somewhere between the slow-moving but photographically satisfying spectacle and a considerably livelier action film. It stars Randolph Scott, Raymond Massey, Adele Jergens, and the incomparable S. Z. Sakall.

Our Political Character

Historian Commager Credits U.S. With Solving Problems

By Ed Coffman

Henry Steele Commager, noted American historian, brought out many interesting points about "The American Character in Politics" as he delivered the second in the current series of the Blaser Lectures last week in the Grand Theatre.

He first established politics as being the framework of our history and character. "Although many Americans think of politics as a dirty business, Americans have made many outstanding contributions to the field of politics."

He said that our nation has been able to solve political problems which have baffled other countries for many years because of our ability to make things work, and a willingness to compromise. "The people least concerned with political theory have succeeded in political practice because they have operated on fundamental principles."

"AMERICANS SOLVED THE general problem of government by letting the people do the governing," he continued. "We have established the constitutional convention as a form of legal revolution, the precedent of limiting government through the Constitution and the judicial bodies."

"It is Commager's belief that the Federal system is one of our greatest contributions to politics. 'I see no likelihood of applying the precedent to the world,'" he added. "Federalism might work, however, in the Atlantic Pacific nations because of the common traditions, standards, and customs in these countries."

The Columbia history professor said that we should have great pride in our political parties. "We would choose the parties system in place of the Constitution if a choice had to be made. They harmonize different parts of government, and carry on the day-to-day work. They force down the barriers to effective government, and recognized the different groups, at a cost however."

COMMAGER ASSERTED THAT third parties are necessary as a safety valve for the other major political parties. He added that minor parties based on purely sectional or class appeal are dangerous to our system.

"Although parties are important to our system, foreign relations is not a proper sphere for party politics," commented the historian. "Party politics has robbed the nation of some of its power in foreign policy. Sometimes foreign policy has been tailored to fit the party needs."

Commager in noting recent political trends said that one of the most serious was the trend from the practical to the abstract or theoretical aspects of politics. "We have begun to consider words, and not deeds—gestures, not conduct."

He called attention to the recent attempts to limit the powers of the President as an example of this trend. He said that these attacks are based on fear and not experience.

UK Air Force Rifle Team Is Third In National Match

The UK Air Force cadet rifle team placed third in the annual William Randolph Hearst national rifle matches last week.

The U. S. Air Force announced the results of the competitions, in which the UK riflemen competed against approximately 200 other teams. The Kentuckians were edged out of first and second places respectively by Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., and the University of Maryland.

Members of the Kentucky team are Cadet William B. Gaines, captain of the squad; Robert E. Kothlar, Kenneth O'Hara Fagan, William L. Welch and Lewis W. Dunn.

Directors of the sharpshooting quintet are two members of the Air ROTC faculty, Capt. James F. Paulsen, manager, and Tech. Sgt. Frank J. Bullara, coach.

The Air Force team firing for the Hearst matches was done in UK; Basil Armon's and results were mailed to national headquarters for comparison with scores posted by other teams. Fordham University won the national rifle match last year with the Kentuckians in close second place, just one point behind the winners.

According to Lt. Col. Edward G. Davis, UK professor of air science and tactics, the members of the team and their coaches will be honored at a military review later this spring. A team trophy and individual medals will be awarded at that time.

Members of the Freshman Y will be officially received into the Upper-class Fellowship at the annual YWCA Membership Banquet to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Football Room of the Student Union Building.

Following this banquet the two groups will meet jointly for the remainder of the year.

The Rev. Thomas M. Johnston, pastor of the Maxwell Street Presbyterian Church, will be the guest speaker. A male quartet from LaGrange under the direction of Tom Pettis, UK graduate, will furnish the entertainment.

Tickets for the banquet are on sale in the Y offices. The price is $1 per plate.

Spivey Tops UK Scoring

By Fred Lawson
Assistant Sports Editor

Kansas may be the Sunflower State, but it's in Kentucky the sun is shining this weekend. Coming from behind at the half the Wildcats defeated Kansas State 68-58 in the finals of the N.C.A.A. Tournament in Minneapolis.

By capturing the N.C.A.A. championship for the third time they set a record as the first team in history to achieve this honor.

Behind most of the first half and behind two points at the half, the Cats forged ahead just after the start of the second half and ran up a 15 point lead with 10 minutes left in the game.

Kansas State cut this lead to 10 points with five minutes left, but the Wildcats made sure of their victory by scoring another 10 points to wrap the game up.

Big Bill Spivey, the All-American center, led the drive that gave the Cats the championship by scoring 22 points. He scored 11 points in each half.

Behind Spivey the scoring was equally divided. Hagan dropped in 10 points to give Kentucky two men hitting the double figures in scoring.

Frank Ramsey and Skippy Whittaker had nine points each. Bobby Watson and Shelby Linville had eight each, and Lou Tsiropoulos had two points.

The fast Kansas State team opened the game by jumping out to a 7-3 lead. Watson connected on a 20-foot set shot for the Cats only basket.

Then Linville tipped in a rebound, Ramsey hit a 10-foot push shot, and Linville dropped in a charity toss to cut it to 9-7.

Kentucky kept within two to four points of State, but couldn't seem to get started to get the lead. After 10 minutes K.S. led again by six, 19-13.

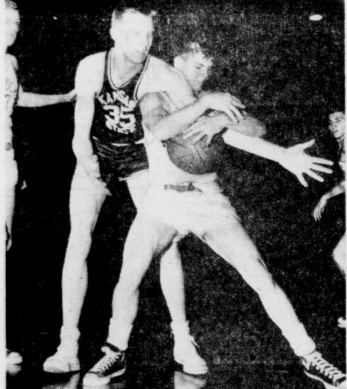

With six minutes left in the half Bill Spivey dropped in a free throw to make the score 22-21. Three seconds later Spivey put the Cats ahead for the first time with a lay-up to make it 22-22. Kentucky. He was fouled on the play and sank the charity toss to make it 24-22.

Ed Head quickly put State back in the lead by dropping in two one-handers from the side. He made it 28-24 with a set shot. Spivey made a free throw, but so did Stone to keep State ahead 29-25.

Just before the half ended Hagan dropped in a rebound and the Cats led the floor behind 29-27.

In this half the Wildcats had a poor 2-12 shooting average. They hit on 11 out of 23. Kansas State took 40 shots and hit on 13 for a 22.5 average.

In the battle of centers, Bill Spivey had 11 points, Hagan, State's 6'7" center, had 10. Kentucky quickly took the lead after intermission. Linville connected on a free toss and Spivey got a tip to put the Cats ahead 30-29 with only 30 seconds elapsed. Stone tied it up with a free throw, but Linville put the Cats ahead to stay with a free toss. Spivey got a tap-in and Watson hit a long set shot to make it 35-30.

With 15 minutes to go Kentucky had pushed out ahead 41-36. Head made a free throw but Hagan tipped one in and the Cats led 43-37.

Kentucky led 56-40 with nine minutes left in the game. Then State started a rally that netted six straight points. Iverson hit on another one-hander and Peck got a rebound. It was 56-46 with 7:17 left.

But the Cats settled down again and pulled away as Whittaker drove in for a lay-up. Hagan connected on a hook shot and Hagan got open under the basket to make it 62-48.

In the last two minutes State cut a 16 point lead down to 10 points. Ramsey got a tip-in to make it 65-50 with just two minutes left. Upon hit a 15-foot set shot. Knostman got a rebound and added a free throw to make it 68-55.

Iverson hit on a free throw and Peck hit a 40-foot shot just as the horn ended the game.

Independents Sweep In I-M Cage Tourney

By Don Armstrong

Independent basketball teams made a clean sweep of the Intramural tournament held before the Easter holidays by taking both the championship and consolation games.

Herby Hunt led the World Walkers to a 28-25 victory over Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the final game, which was played at Memorial Coliseum on last Wednesday night. The slender Matfield ace scored a dozen points for the World Walkers.

The World Walkers jumped to a 21-10 halftime lead over the SAE's as the Greek finalists had trouble finding the range in the Coliseum. Behind Hunt in scoring were Joyce with seven and John Baldwin with five.

SAE's Sutherland matched Hunt in point-getting with 12 for his team. Andy Polites chipped in five markers and Ward Coleman was close behind with four.

In the consolation game, the Globe Trotters won over Sigma Phi Epsilon in a close one, 41-38. The Trotters finally found their advantage in the second half after the Sig Eps had matched them point for point in the opening half.

Ralph Patrick and Herke were the top scorers for the Globe Trotters with eight points apiece. John Platt contributed seven points and Joe Platt six to the Trotter total.

Ron Fuydal and Price were the best Sig Eps had to offer, each scoring ten points. Paach had five points and Cosby and Hines four each for the Sig Eps.

In gaining the final round, the World Walkers defeated the Globe Trotters, 27-20. Hunt was also the leader in this game for the Walkers with 10 points. Behind Hunt were Joyce, with seven, and Melinger with five markers.

For the Trotters, Hanna had 10 points toward their losing cause. Patrick, Platt, and Petrovich scored five points each for the consolation game.

Russ Alpha Epsilon moved over to Sigma Phi Epsilon in the fraternity fight with little trouble, 33-19. Sutherland hit nine points for SAE with Davis close on his heels with seven. Paach and Fuydal lost in five points each for the Sig Eps. Cosby and Blake scored four apiece for the number two fraternity basketball team.

Jane Harris, were chosen to participate in a style contest sponsored by Fashion Procs, Incorporated, of Cincinnati.

These three students were among 12 college girls selected to pass judgment on coming fashions and to submit sketches of their own designs. As student members of the council they voted upon and criticized the many dress styles presented.

Track Season Starts With Purdue Relays

By Fred Lawson

Track Coach Don Seaton left this morning with eight members of the track team to compete in the ninth annual Purdue Relays at Lafayette, Indiana. The big indoor meet will be held Saturday afternoon and night.

Three Fencers Go To NCAA

Three UK fencers left yesterday for the NCAA tournament at Champaign, Illinois. They will carry the colors of Kentucky against 40 universities competing for the collegiate fencing title of the nation. Each school sends its number one man in each of the three weapons. In the tournament each man fences every man in his weapon.

For UK, Captain Alan Solomon is competing in foil, Bob O'Nan in epee, and Bill Seiler in sabre. Only Solomon, a senior, has been to the tournament before. O'Nan, a junior, and Seiler, a sophomore, are making their maiden journeys to a major collegiate tournament.

The NCAA tournament is rivaled in importance only by the Intercollegiate Fencing Association. However the IFA is open only to Eastern schools. Columbia, led by Bob Neilson, last year's NCAA foil champ, is favorite of the tournament due to their victory in the 1950 last week at West Point.

Baseballers Open With Vandy Today

Wildcat Nine Also To Meet Georgia Tech In Latter Half Of Four-Game Road Trip

Kentucky's 1951 baseballers hit the road today for Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech to open the season with four games in five days.

If the weather permits, the Cats will face the Commodores this afternoon and tomorrow, then will move on to Atlanta for games with Tech on Monday and Tuesday.

The UK outfit will be undertaking a defense of its 1950 Eastern Division championship in the SEC at a slight disadvantage. Sidelineing of two key players, Ben Zaranza and Co-Captain Donn Fucci stand to put the Cats below their potential strength.

Zaranza, one of the team's leading sluggers last season, underwent an operation in February to cure an old injury to his hand. Fucci was hurt recently in an accident, having the tendons in his left forearm severed.

Wildcat Nine Also To Meet Georgia Tech In Latter Half Of Four-Game Road Trip

Lancaster, assistant baseball coach, along with several NCAA champion baseball players, will now have a chance to devote more time to the task of producing a baseball team of the caliber of past Kentucky diamond squads.

Al MacLeod will probably draw the starting role as a pitcher against Vanderbilt. He has consistently shown the form during practice this spring that made him a mainstay on last year's team.

Facing a 20-game schedule, the Cats will be leaning heavily on the services of veteran Allen Hamilton, who, along with Fucci, will captain the baseball team. His long ball hitting last season proved to be a great help to the base-running Cats.

Several of his long drives turned the tables of late inning ties, notably his home run in the Centre game.

Walt Hirsch, another seasoned performer, will see action chiefly at first base this season. But when the strategy calls for a left-handed pitcher, Hirsch will probably have to step into mound chores. The lack of southpaws on the 1951 team may turn out to be a serious handicap.

Walt Yowarsky and Harry Stille seem to be leading candidates for the other outfield positions. Yowarsky, a standout on the gridiron, surprised the coaching staff with his ability to play baseball. He swings a wicked bat with his 200-pound plus frame. Stille is a returning letterman who can double as a catcher.

Besides Hirsch, the Wildcat infield will sport some hustlers who have moved into varsity roles from reserve capacities of last year. Tom Wolsman has looked good at second base and Bob Terrell seems to fill the requirements at shortstop.

It is doubtful that C. M. Newton, workhorse of 1950, will be in top shape to pligh on this first trip. He has been touring with the basketball
