Athletic Board Drops Spivey

Group Releases Decision Following Sunday Meeting

In a special meeting last Sunday afternoon, the UK Athletic Board ruled Bill Spivey, UK All-American, permanently ineligible for athletic competition. The meeting was called to consider Spivey's request for reinstatement. He had been temporarily suspended by the Board last December, but at his request, the Board allowed him publicity to resign until his name had been cleared of any suspicion.

The Board said the major basis for Sunday's ruling was Dean A. D. Kinnan's report on both the New York grand jury minutes and confidential evidence from the district attorney's office. Dean Kinnan said the district attorney ordered special permission for him to be the minutes of the court.

For the cultural minded, this past week has been stocked full of interesting things. The Grunk play, the Oscar Levant concert, and of course the day of day lectures of the professors. For the uncultured who spend their time in the pool room every day, there was an attempt either to increase their knowledge or teach them new ways to cheat by the appearance of a pool shark...

SAE, Kappa Sigma Keep Unblemished I-M Records

SAE and Kappa Sigma continue to lead in the fraternity basketball league as they protected their unblemished records in last week's play. In Division 1 play SAE began play in the third round by soundly thrashing the Tekes 58-10. The winners scored 38 points in the second half. Sigma Nu pulled away from the Alpha Sigs to win the second game of the evening 32-21. The lower stayed close for a half but better reserve strength proved the difference for the winners. To close out division play for the third round the Epps Sigs and AOR staged the thriller of the evening. The Kappa Sigs shed out a 32-20 victory in a well played ball game for both teams.

Triangle Downs LXA The Triangles opened play in Division 2 by squeaking by LXA 25-24. This contest was a thriller all the way and the Triangles got a well earned victory. In the second game the Epps administered a 36-15 lacing to ZBT. The finale of the night saw PKT beat PRK 37-20 in a closer game than the score actually portrayed.

Close games marked the third rounds' activity in Division 2. PZT edged Farm House in the first game by a score of 29-27. In the other contest of the night the Sig Eps downed the Pi Kaps 33-24. The Kappa Sigs kept their date clean as they slipped past the Tekes 33-32 to begin play in the fourth round for Division 1. SAE romped past Sigma Nu 38-15 in the boozey played second game of the evening. The win gave SAE a perfect record in four games.

LXA skinned past ZBT 17-13 as play in the fourth round for Division 2 got underway. PKT and the Triangles staged a thriller before PKT managed a two point 24-22 victory. The Sig Eps routed Farm House 32-11 in Division 3. The Phi Deltis threw a good defense at Sigma Chi and walked off with a convincing 30-8 win. To close out fourth round play, PKA ran away from KA to the tune of a 29-18 victory margin.

Bill Seiller, Captain Of UK Fencers, Tells How To Watch And Enjoy Bouts; Explains Basic Rules Of The Sport

(Editor's Note: Bill Seiller, captain and leading scorer on the UK fencing team, is an ardent lover of that sport. He is known throughout the state in fence circles and is a member of a fencing club in Washington, D. C. The Kernel hopes the following article, written by Captain Seiller, will serve as an introduction to the fencing sport and encourage students and faculty members to attend UK meets and learn more about one of the oldest sports in the world.) Fencing has not, up to the present time, become a popular spectator sport in the United States. That is logical since fencing has not attracted participants on a wholesale basis. Few persons have made a study of the sport and know how to interpret what they see in a fencing bout. Many people do not know what to watch for. I will attempt to explain how to observe and understand a fencing match.

First, one must learn something of the rules and weapons of modern fencing. Today, fencers use three types of weapons—the foil, the epee, and the sabre. The foil, which is the basic weapon, has evolved from the practice sword and very light. Points may be scored by touching one's opponent on the trunk of the body with the tip of the foil. The basic concept behind the rules governing foil is that an attacked person will defend himself by means of attacks. Since this "sequence of action" is desirable, the touch of the man who follows is recognized over the touch of the fencer who disregards it. Therefore, a "sequence of action" is followed. Participant A attacks. B defends (parries); B counter-attacks (reposes). A parries. A counter-reposes. This routine continues.

Since this "sequence of action" is desirable, the touch of the man who follows is recognized over the touch of the fencer who disregards it. This is referred to as the "Rule of Right of Way." However, these rules apply only when there are two touches close together. If one touch is a tempo ahead of the other, it is scored regardless of the Rule of Right of Way. The sabre, which has evolved from the cavalry sabre, has the same basic rules as the foil, except for a change of target and weapon. With the sabre, one may score by a cut with any of the front edge, one-third of the back edge, or by a thrust with the point. These may be made on any portion of the body above the breaks of the hips. The epee is the heaviest, stiffest, and most realistic of the three weapons used. It began as the dueling sword. A touch may be scored only with the point, but touches are scored solely on who hits first. There are no Rules of Right of Way. Touches may be scored on any part of the body. The touches are ruled upon by four judges, two observing each participant. Each judge has one vote. The action is coordinated and interpreted by the director, who has one and one-half votes.

In foil and sabre, the first fencer to score five touches wins the bout. In epee, the first to score three points wins. If a hit lands on a part of the body not considered fair target, a foul has been committed and all subsequent action is cancelled. That is the only punishment for this foul. However, touches may be scored for a fencer for retreating off the end of the strip or for excessive bodily contact. For a person who wishes to enjoy a fencing bout, the following suggestions are offered: (1) Look for the sequence of action; observe the man as he attacks, as his opponent defends, then counter-attacks, etc. (2) Listen to the opinions of the officials as they vote on the validity of the touch and interpret the action. (3) Keep in mind the basic rules and differences of the three weapons.

SWIFT SHOES. Jay Wallace, a winner in the Southern Conference Relay, and Speedie Price, a fifth place winner in the same event, compare track shoes while assistant coach Bill Cruze looks on. Wallace holds the indoor shoes he wore in the meet. He had never run on an indoor track before.

Wallace Wins First Place In Southern Indoor Games

In fifth in the mile run. The odd twist to Wallace's win is the fact that he had never run on an indoor board track before. For five of his laps, he trailed Webster of Alabama but came up in the stretch to barely edge the Alabama speedster. Webster is the number two man in the SEC. His win, plus Price's fifth, gave the two-man Kentucky team six points. Coach Seaton said he was well satisfied with the showing made by the boys. The games, which were conference sponsored, invited outstanding teams to comprise a non-conference class in each event. Coach Seaton announced that all men out for track should report to the track Monday, March 10. The schedule has been released as follows:

79 Answer Bryant's Call For Spring Football Drills

Spring football practice opened last week with 79 candidates answering the call of Head Coach Paul Bryant. Included in this group are eight seniors, and 14 juniors. Bryant and his assistants scheduled hard work for the squad the first day and a scrimmage was held Saturday. Quarterback aspirants were getting the most attention from side liners, as the biggest job facing Bryant is the development of a replacement for All-American Vito "Babe" Parrilli. Parrilli played his fourth season last fall and has since signed a professional contract with the Green Bay Packers.

Jones And Grauer At Quarter Larry Jones and Bunky Grauer, halfbacks on the Cotton Bowl team, have been running at quarterback in drills along with Chuck Phillips, Herb Hunt, and Bill Evans. Hunt played behind Parrilli at quarterback last season. Phillips was held out and Evans is up from the freshman team.

The squad includes 39 Kentuckians, the largest group of natives ever to assemble on one Wildcat squad.

An interesting development is that Tommy Pillion, the team's leading ground gainer last fall, has been shifted from fullback to halfback. Pillion played both halfback and fullback in high school at Owensboro.

Classrooms, Offices Being Constructed In McVey Basement

New classrooms and offices are now being constructed in the basement of McVey Hall. Egan B. Farris, chief engineer of the Maintenance and Operations Department, said this week. The Maintenance Department began work on the basement several weeks ago and is expected to finish about April 1, Mr. Farris said.

Until last fall, the Kernel and the Kentucky had offices in the basement. The building of the new journalism building left the basement vacant. The University Post Office now occupies the Kentuckian office.

Mr. Farris said the basement will contain two classrooms, an office for the Mathematics Department, and four offices and storage rooms for the UK Press.

Many Students Expected At European Universities

Leading European universities are now completing plans to receive the greatest number of foreign students in a wide range of fields.

Students from the United States, Europe, and Scandinavia will discuss present-day problems in a wide number of fields.

Several universities and academic institutions, such as the Institute of Political Science in Paris, are setting up international summer courses and seminars with lectures and discussions conducted entirely in English.

These seminars in current political and economic questions were pioneered over the past three years by Harvard & Study, Inc., New York City. Similar programs are now being developed in England, Portugal, Scandinavia, Spain, Italy, Israel, Turkey, and Greece.

The topics will include languages, literature, the history of art and music, and political philosophy. Emphasis is put on meeting one's opposite members abroad and achieving a wider mutual understanding. In order to attain a better understanding of other peoples and cultures, all programs include visits to music festivals, the theater, opera, concert, and ballet.

Titles of programs lasting two months or more in Europe include Sources of Western Civilization, Latin Mediterranean Culture, East and West, "Bohemia," Fashion, Europe Grave and Gay, and a special Junior Tour for teenagers. There will also be tours to Mexico and South America.

All-inclusive prices of European tours, covering a minimum of four countries, range from $865. Further information and a illustrated brochure may be obtained from Travel & Study, Inc., 110 E. 57th St., New York 22, N.Y.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

Ch. E's at Du Pont

Work as production supervisors prepares chemical engineers for jobs in management

[THIRD OF A SERIES]

The last issue of the Digest described the broad opportunities offered chemical engineers in research and development at Du Pont. Now let's look at the opportunities in production supervision.

In this important phase of plant operation, Ch. E.'s and others are responsible for investment in plant facilities, supply of raw materials, supervision of operation and maintenance, cost and shipment of finished products, as well as personnel relations, training and safety.

Occasionally, in a still connected to a sulfonator by a pipe line from a single valve, the product disappeared, and residue increased. The supervisor's study of control data showed that small amounts of gaseous sulfur trioxide were venting into the still causing decomposition of the product. His recommended installation of a positive pressure lock in the pipe line eliminated the difficulty.

A high temperature batch reaction process was revised to increase production of a critical material. For safety, adjacent reactors had to be shut down as work on each unit proceeded. The supervisor planned maintenance and batch schedules to minimize costly down-time and re-trained personnel for the new process.

In solving such problems, supervisors have an opportunity to use all their knowledge and ingenuity. Equally important, they acquire the background and varied experience that prepares them for advancement to responsible positions in management and administration.

NEXT MONTH - The fourth article in this series will deal with process development - to many engineers the most interesting part of plant operation.

Inspecting nylon filaments during manufacture. They are made by extruding molten polymer through spinnerets under pressure.

Control supervisor examines flow sheets for the manufacture of methacrylates.
