Sidelights on Football

By NIEL PLUMMER, '28 Director of Sports Publicity University of Kentucky

Seven long years, seven long trips to Alabama, seven grinding defeats. Today—if we are to see something the seven years have not viewed—a glorious battle must be waged by seven young men, those seven Wildcats in the Kentucky line.

Rolling into Lexington with a line reported, on good authority, to be the best developed at the University of Alabama in years, the Crimson forward wall threatens to be a barrier which will shut Kentucky's Big Blue away from the goal line and victory. It has humiliated two great teams so far this season, Tennessee and Vanderbilt, and today this great forward wall will surge against the best Kentucky can offer.

So when you see the Crimson and the Blue in action this afternoon, give one big cheer for that Blue line—the under-dogs. Their task is great, but they will fight, earnestly, bitterly. No more could be asked of them-

Alabama and Kentucky have met on the gridiron nine times. Eight times the Tide has come out victorious. One year has seen the Wildcats rise up to unexpected heights and humiliate the Alabama team, which at that time was highly regarded for national honors. The year was 1922. The score was 6 to 0. The place was Lexington. The occasion was Alabama's last visit to Kentucky.

We can't wish Alabama bad luck, but we can hope for good luck for Kentucky. Come on history—do your "stuff". Put on that old "history repeats herself act" today.

Looking back over the years, the scores for the Alabama-Kentucky games read as follows:

1926 Alabama 14; Kentucky 0. 1917 Alabama 28; Kentucky 0. 1922 Kentucky 6; Alabama 0 1927 Alabama 21; Kentucky 6. 1928 Alabama 14; Kentucky 0. 1923 Alabama 16; Kentucky 8. 1924 Alabama 42; Kentucky 7. 1929 Alabama 24; Kentucky 13. 1925 Alabama 31; Kentucky 0.

Turning first to that game last year, we might relate the gallant fight staged by a crippled Wildcat team against a powerful, inspired team . . .a team that crashed and smashed its way to victory in the final quarter in the person of Tony Holm. This is no alibi attempt, but it is fact that the Wildcats went out in front early in the game, 13 to 12, and they stayed there until only minutes of the game remained.

A touchdown put the powerful Crimson out in front, and Kentucky took the next kickoff. In a desperate attempt to score, a pass was thrown while the Blue was deep in its The pass was intercepted and a few plays later, Alabama sewed up the own territory.

game with another touchdown.

Looking still further through the years we notice the 1927 score—21 to 6. That six is the result of some fast thinking on the part of Will Ed Covington, who led Kentucky's team last year. Will Ed, playing end way back there in 1927, scooped up a fumble and ran it back to near the goal line. A score followed.

Then that 42 to 7 score in 1924. Charles "Turkey" Hughes, now coach at Eastern State Normal at Richmond, Ky., is responsible for the seven.

Alabama was marching goalward with that powerful drive that always characterizes the Tide. Five yards, four yards, two yards they marched . . . and they took to the air as the Wildcats braced themselves at the goal line. The ball floated over the line toward a waiting Crimson back but just as it settled down, "Turkey" Hughes flashed into the scene, took the ball out of the air and was away. One hundred and one yards he legged it down the field and Kentucky had six points, and the honor of claiming one of the longest runs for that year.

And that score of Kentucky 6; Alabama 0. The battle already has been discussed here but it will bear repeating. The game was a great upset, it occurred in a sea of mud on the practice field to the west of this gridiron, which was the regular playing field in 1922. We love to mull over that score. It sounds good.

There's not much else to say. This game will be carried by the National Broadcasting Company network to all parts of the South. The radio booth is located in the west end of the press box. In addition, microphones have been located in front of the cheering sections and in front of the Kentucky and Alabama bands. Any one microphone can be cut in as needed.

Kentucky goes to Durham N. C., to meet Duke next week, and that's about all we know. And we'd like to confess that this is being written three days before this Alabama game, and we have only a slight idea what we are writing. That's how most all of us feel about this game.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

The University of Alabama was called into existence by the generosity of the congress of the United States, and fostered by the founders of the state.

It was in 1819 that the congress of the United States donated 46,080 acres of land within the state for the endowment of a seminary of learning. The general assembly of Alabama followed this action by passing an act in 1820 establishing a seminary of learning "to be denominated the University of Alabama."

The organization of the university was pushed and the board of trustees held their first meeting at the town of Tuscaloosa on April 6, 1822. On December 29, 1827, the general assembly, by a joint ballot of both houses, selected Tuscaloosa as the seat of the University. The site whereon to erect the buildings, one mile and a quarter east of the courthouse in Tuscaloosa, was selected by the trustees on March 22, 1828. On April 18, 1831, the university was opened for the admission of students.

The school grew but disaster befell it during the war between the states when, on April 4, 1865, a body of federal cavalry set fire to and completely destroyed all the public buildings of the university, except the astronomical observatory. The erection of new buildings was begun in January, 1867, and collegiate instruction was resumed in April, 1869.

Through the efforts of Senator John T. Morgan, a second donation of public lands within the state, to the extent of 72 sections or 46,080 acres, was made to the university by Congress by an act of February 25, 1884, in restitution of the loss of buildings, library and scientific apparatus incurred in 1865.

On March 6, 1907, the legislature of Alabama increased the material equipment of the university by voting the sum of $400,000 to be used as a fund for the erection of new buildings during the years 1907-10. In addition, it added to the maintenance fund. Under action of the legislature on the same date the Medical College of Aabama, established in 1859, and located in Mobile, became an organic department of the university and passed under the control of the board of trustees.

The legislature of 1911 appropriated $100,000 for buildings and increased the maintenance fund. In 1919 the legislature appropriated $115,000 for buildings and increased the annual support of the university, including the school of medicine, the summer school, and extension service, to $190,500, including $36,000 in interest on the original federal land grant. The state, in addition, appropriates $10,000 annually to graduate medicine and $25,000 to the school of mines.

The legislature of 1927 appropriated for the support and maintenance the additional sum of approximatey one third of a million dollars annually, 25% of which must be used for medicine, research and extension. In addition it appropriated conditionally three fourths of a million for buildings, to be expended during the ensuing triennium.

The University also has an endownment fund which is being gradually increased out of the royalties arising from leases of coal lands. The income from the endownment is available for maintenance. In 1922 a popular subscription for buildings and equipment enabled the university to provide for the erection and equipment of four new buildings.

The University of Alabama is part of the public school system of the state of Alabama. It is administered through the following organizations:

College of Arts and Sciences School of Metallurgy, Chemistry and Ceramics School of Commerce and Business Administration College of Education College of Engineering School of Law School of Medicine Summer School for Teachers Extension Division Graduate School School of Mines

The university grounds, adjacent to the city of Tuscaloosa comprise nearly 300 acres, lying north and south of University avenue. Near the middle of this tract is the campus proper, consisting of about 40 acres and here are the university buildings, the fraternity houses and the homes of the president and faculty.

Denny Field, named after George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama and comprising eight acres of level land, lies immediately to the rear of the gymnasium. Here several football fields, baseball diamonds and a standard track are maintained for use of those taking part in athletics.

Radio facilities have been provided by the university and carefully arranged programs are broadcast. The university has entered into an agreement with Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Alabama College, whereby station WAPI is now owned jointly by these three institutions and is operated by these schools in cooperation with the city of Birmingham. The extension division of the university is in charge of the university programs.

The National Broadcasting Company has made possible the radiocasting of the Kentucky-Alabama game today, through a network of southern stations, with WHAS of the Courier-Journal and Times at Louisville, as the keystation for the broadcast.

Herewith are pictured the members of the staff who will function at today's game, and who will carry play by play the message of this southern football classic to Dixie fans who are unable to attend.

The University Extension studios of station WHAS of the Courier-Journal and Times, have been radio-casting five-day-a-week programs since the opening of the University studios in April, 1929, with such cooperative success that WHAS not only increased the number of broadcasts from five days a week to six, beginning with October one, but have also radiocast a play by play account of the two Kentucky games previous to this one, and have completed arrangements for the announcing of the Kentucky-V. M. I. contest, Saturday, November 15.

DRURY

The duty of developing a footbal team does not fall upon one man alone, as so many people think, but the head coach makes certain that he is provided with many capable assistants. Bernie Shively has been on the coaching staff for years and has done much to build up strong lines—that important factor in a team's success. Birkett Pribble has played a very important part in his training of the freshmen. Elmer Gilb who used to play in the backfield himself, has contributed his share to the defense of the backs and to their blocking on offense. And so on down the list, each coach does much to build the man-material into a strong and efficient machine—the Kentucky football team.

"THE BEST BAND IN DIXIE"

Above is seen the latest picture of Kentucky's high-stepping, soul-stirring band of approximately 100 pieces, known far and wide as the "Best Band in Dixie." For years the Kentucky band has been a feature of Wildcat football games—both at home and abroad.

The young lady is the sponsor, Miss Virginia Dougherty, of Lexington, a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences. Her position is regarded as the highest honor that can be won by a Kentucky co-ed. A sponsor is chosen each year by the members of the band.

There are two drum majors and they alternate in leading the band in its intricate formations on the field. The baton-wielders are Marion Custard, of Vincennes, Ind., and Crosby Bean, of Lexington. Elmer G. Sulzer is the director of the band.

In addition to playing at university affairs, the Kentucky band is heard frequently over radio station WHAS, at Louisville, broadcasting from the University extension studios.
