

MVEY, SANDERS ADDRESS MEN AT GREEK CONCLAVE

"Purpose of Meeting Is Harmony Among Greeks" Burns

COOPERATION STRESSED BY PRESIDENT F. McVEY Dean Sanders Emphasizes Aim of National Interfraternity Council

Pres. Frank L. McVey and Dean William L. Sanders, dean of men at Ohio Wesleyan, were the principal speakers at the formal opening of the all-fraternity convocation held at 4 p. m. Friday, March 10, in Memorial hall.

Gordon Burns, president of the Interfraternity council, in introducing Doctor McVey, said that the purpose of the meeting was to inaugurate a greater harmony among the fraternities and to dedicate formally the new Interfraternity council.

President McVey, speaking on "Problems of Fraternities," said that a fraternity's greatest problem is that of maintaining a house and that every student must cooperate with his fellow-student by paying his board and dues.

"There is too little privacy in fraternity houses," said President McVey. "A student should be able to sit down and think out his own problems. There is a great need for the type of fraternity house that will have more privacy for its occupants."

"Fraternities should keep the name and interest of the University before them at all times and should not try to injure the University in any way. Fraternities may have helped the University and should always keep the welfare of the University before them and save a good word for the University wherever they go," Dr. McVey said.

Dean Sanders, scholarship chairman of the National Interfraternity council, said that fraternities are a help to the students and to the school, said Dean Sanders. "Fraternities must realize that they must play in the universities."

At the banquet held at the University commons after the convocation at Memorial hall, President McVey, Dean Sanders, and Professor J. Holman Martin gave the principal addresses. Gordon Burns presided and short talks were given by members of the faculty.

The convocation was brought to a close at a dance held at the Alumni gymnasium from 9 to 11 p. m. Approximately 100 guests attended the affair. The proceeds of the dance were donated to the Student Loan fund.

Tiny Van Stavern, Alias The Blister, alias The Pansy, again is doing me the honor of mentioning me in his pseudo-scandal column Hoax on Any Blotter. Got irritated at my calling him a Pansy last week but he who laughs last—well, he laughs last. It's not my fault that he's a Pansy, is it?

I really don't believe that he's an excellent scandal monger. Right across the street from him happened a tidy bit of news. A few friends from the group in the drop-in on the Engineers Saturday night. A gala attempt at entertainment followed. The local gentlemen were also followed. As any Triangle Ask the neighbors. That for Tiny the Pansy.

HAZARD RETURNS TO DEFEND CROWN Two Sessions To Be Played Daily; Games To Last Through Saturday

After two weeks of keen competition in the various district and regional tournaments, sixteen high school basketball teams, the most outstanding in the state, will gather in the Alumni gym, Thursday, Friday and Saturday to decide the state championship.

The event is an annual event at the University for fifteen years, is one of the most important athletic events held here and attracts large crowds. So stiff and devastating is the competition that only two teams have been able to repeat their triumphs.

The event is sponsored by "Daddy" Boles, the University of Kentucky and the Kentucky State High school athletic association and the teams will be entertained during their stay in Lexington at the Lafayette hotel.

Several of the teams entered have outstanding records achieved through a string of consecutive victories and eliminated teams from schools that boasted of several times as many players as without doing the dark horse of the tourney and may be another Carr Creek.

FAMILIAR FACES There is a certain young Chi Omega of this University, often seen behind the wheel of a blue Ford which she insists doesn't run, who merits a special introduction to students and otherwise. May we take this opportunity.

Anne Coleman is 5 feet 3 1/2 inches tall, has curly hair, deep blue-gray eyes, a secret opinion of the University of Kentucky, and an excellent scholastic standing.

You know, of course, that she is a chic in appearance, and continually in a good humor, but you may not know that she is partial to spinach because it builds her up for ping pong, that she likes goldfish, sleep, fleur de lys, and whiffle. Or that her prized possession is a pet salamander whose prescribed diet is ant eggs, but whose actual diet more often than not consists of flies; or that she has an apparent aversion to telling her age; that she is not in love but would like to be.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS

By FRED H. SHEELS Those of us who are considered eligible to attend the long-awaited fraternal formal dance are impatiently waiting for the members to complete their plans for the evening of March 10. If all of us could attend, the ball would have to be held in two different places and the officials concerned with selection of suitable location would not have to puzzle themselves with the work of deciding upon which place to hold the affair.

Hurry! The date and place of the Junior Prom has been definitely decided upon! That's one thing that we won't have to worry about. If the Seniors are going to have their customary annual ball, we'd like to hear something about it. Please don't forget to say when and where; we must know both or we can't make your dance a success.

Have you seen the latest addition to the University's collection of fraternity pins? Compliments, boys. Even though none of you had anything to do with its design, it's certainly a beauty! Pardon—the reference is to our newest chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the Kentucky Alpha—if you please.

The nicest thing about being initiated into a new chapter is that the visiting installation officers cannot stay long enough to hold the customary "Hell-Week" exercises. How we love "Hell-Week!"

A personal reference this time, if you don't mind. The Keyholer stopped Stanley Trickett for a moment and discovered that he was on his way to the University library! The Keyholer never knew that our library had White Bang and Bally-hoo in its collection. Maybe it has.

There are lots of new pins floating around the campus these days. Most of the fraternities have initiated countless neophytes and decorated their many chests with the jeweled badges of their respective organizations. This is a tip for the well known pin-hunters.

The Kat is coming, folks! It's gonna be a good year and you'll get your money's worth out of it. The staff has exerted itself to give you the best college comic you have ever read.

The weather: Fifth to eighth—Fair period; fine, spring-like conditions in Southern and Western states. The Keyholer hopes that the prediction of coming Fair weather is encouraging. Cheer up, Spring isn't scheduled to arrive un-

For the past two weeks there has been a wholesale slaughter of high school basketball teams. District tournaments started the eliminations, and then came the regionals—those two tournaments have caused hundreds to die for the cause (of what?). And out of the smoke of regional finals there emerged 16 teams—five class B teams and 11 class A teams.

Hazard returns to defend its championship. Three other former champs return for another crack at the crown—Ashland, Heist, and Corinth. Of the teams coming here one is undefeated—Hazel Green. They have won 25 consecutive games.

The most decisive regional victory was gained by Hazard over Burkesville, 54-9. Danville won over Jamestown, 54-16. Hazard whipped Carr Creek by a score of 49-15. Hazard stands a splendid chance to gain the state crown, but Ashland will not be far behind.

Dave Lawrence has a brother on the Corinth basketball team. This tournament ought to reveal lots of things.

Walton, home town of the DeMoisesys, won the 10th regional meet and will come to Lexington Thursday. And with them come two more DeMoisesys. They are younger brothers of "Frenchy." He says the youngest is 5 feet 10 inches and the other is 6 feet 2 inches. In the game they played against Bellevue, Paul, the forward, rung up 10 points, while Frank, at center, scored 4 counters. "Frenchy" says that if they play in two or more games, Walton won 25-20.

Along with the news from the spring training camps of the Big League baseball teams, comes news of the spring practices of southern football. Casually we notice that Georgia Tech is playing the best team in several seasons. Georgia will use a new wing back formation in an attempt to better last year's record. Tennessee is looking for two stalwart tackles. They claim they won't have a good season without them. They are worried over the loss of Zimmerman—what they want is a quarter-back.

The Ole Miss coach is looking for a punter. If he develops one he, Ed Walker, will make the spring practice a success. At the same time, he wouldn't get sore if the right side of his line could be bolstered with a little help. Alabama has been out on the field for some time, and from reports it appears that they will continue to have a very heavy team this fall. As reported once before in this column, they are rapidly acquiring the Rockne system. Vanderbilt expects a great team in the fall. They have a considerable "go" team, but their trouble is that Tennessee is always better. Florida will not have as good a team as many others in the South. It is a little warm down there.

Back here, in our own back yard, we have hopes of a better team. Sophomores will do much to support a line that has been weak for several years. The boys are there—and now, if we can only keep them eligible.

Gage Is Chuched At U.K. Coaches By Irate Faculty

Kernel Reporter Cajoles Staff Member Into Revealing Real News

Numerous inquiries have drifted into The Kernel office as to when the athletic high spot of the year, the Faculty-Coaches' basketball game, would come. Sluething has been a mild word for what our reporters have gone through in finding the whys and wherefores for the failure of an announcement. The faculty, with their usual intelligent integrity, seem to be as much disturbed as we are. At last the truth is out: through the corruption of Dr. T. resulting in temporary forgetfulness of professional ethics. The Coaches indeed are in a bad way and rather than their helping with a benefit for the Student Loan, it may well be that a benefit will have to be held to raise a hospital fund for them.

2528 Patients Visited U. of K. Dispensary During Semester

That University students, instructors, and attendants, are making extensive use of the medical service provided by the dispensary is evidenced by figures available at the secretary's office. According to the first semester records of the secretary, a total of 2,528 patients visited the clinic. Of this number, 2,048 were men and 480 were women.

A true picture of the extensive service rendered by the dispensary can be seen only by an examination of the individual patients' records. The number of treatments for each patient varies from one to 68. In addition to the medical service provided by the dispensary, a number of girls are treated by Miss Desha, the resident nurse in the secretary's office. According to the dispensary records, more students availed themselves of the medical service in February of this year than in any of the past four months. The dispensary staff consists of two regular doctors, Drs. J. S. Chambers and Oliver H. Finney, two part-time doctors, Drs. F. R. Thomas and Frank A. Hughes, a nurse, Miss Lillian D. Davis, secretary, Miss Katherine W. Owens.

Bulletin Features Article By Asher

The January number of the Personnel Bulletin, issued by the Personnel Bureau, contains some results of the cooperative testing program begun last September. The article was written by Prof. E. J. Asher.

The cooperative testing program for Kentucky colleges and high schools was organized in the spring of 1932 by the Association of Kentucky Colleges in cooperation with the association of secondary school principals. It is proposed under this plan to unify the intelligence and placement testing that is being done in the various colleges, and to encourage some testing in the high schools so that the results may be used by high school principals and counselors for guidance of students.

This program was started in September, 1932 with two intelligence tests, the American council psychological examination and the Kentucky classification test.

Prof. Carter Has Article Accepted

Contributions By University Personnel Is Included In Publication

Prof. L. H. Carter, of the Commerce college, has just received word that his article entitled "The Program of the American Federation of Labor" has been accepted by "The American Federations" and will appear in the April number of that quarterly publication.

The article explains the program outlined for the year 1933 by the American Federation of Labor at their meeting in Cincinnati held last November. Two of the most important projects are the promotion of unemployment insurance and the adoption of the five day week and six hour day. It was decided that the bill advocating the latter should be put before the legislatures of the individual states instead of the national congress.

WILDCATS SHOW GREAT POWER IN DRILLS

With more than two weeks of strenuous Spring practice drills to their credit, Coach Harry Gamage's 1933 edition of the Wildcat squad is rapidly rounding into shape. The practice sessions are expected to continue throughout the month of March and probably during the first part of April.

The line-up of last year's team reported for the first time last week and strengthened the squad considerably. The present line-up of all of the squad has reported with the exception of those who are out for track.

The success or failure of next year's team depends on the performance of last year's reserves and Dr. R. is attending throughout but as yet untried candidates. Ever since the starting of Spring practice the squad has been hounded with injuries, and at the present time, several of the stellar performers are unable to report for practice. Among them is Prichard, Gilmer, Jobe, Oiah and Sam Potter of last year's freshman team, and James, 190 pound center of last year's team.

Taking everything into consideration, the University of Kentucky has the prospects for the best team that she has put on the field in recent years. The backs are faster and more elusive and the linemen are heavier and more powerful than in previous years.

Among the veterans who will go to make up next season's team are Ralph Kercheval, one of the country's best, and who was picked on the Associated Press' second all-Southern team; Joe Rupert, 190 pound end, who was also picked on the Associated Press' second all-southern team, and the team captain, Howard "Dutch" Kreuter, 175 pound end. There is ample reserve material at the ends in Duff, Frye, Murphy, and Parrish, and also six promising sophomores from last season's freshman team.

At the tackle position Coach Gamage is relying on Wagner, 190 pounder, who was out of the greater part of last season because of injury, and Jobe, 250, a product of last season's squad, who was out of the tackle candidates that are showing promise are Jacobs, 190, Oiah, and Rhodess, 190.

One of the guard positions is expected to be taken care of by "Bud" Davison, last season's guard, and the other will be filled by either Aldridge, 180, Fish, 205, or several other capable sophomores.

Coach Gamage is having considerable difficulty filling the hole at the center position that was left open with the graduation of Scott, 230. James, 190, a reserve guard from last season's squad, has been shifted to the line position and is competing with Tichenor, 200, and Mattingly for a regular berth.

Backfield prospects are abundant. Ralph Kercheval, whose triple-threat work was a valued part of Kentucky's offense last season. Among those left from last season's team and who will attempt to fill Darby's and Ellis Johnson's positions, who were lost by graduation, are "Fug" Bach, 170, who performed brilliantly last season; Cassady, 180, a good blocking back; Dan Jean, 175, who was lost to the team last season because of his scholastic standing; and Nicholson, 155, blocking back.

ILLUSION: A large packing case is exhibited on a raised platform. A young woman climbs into the box. Her hands and feet protrude, and are held by spectators while the magician takes a crosscut saw and, with the help of an assistant, saws through the center of the box and apparently through the woman.

EXPLANATION: There are many explanations for this illusion. One method of performing this illusion requires the presence of two girls in the box. One girl curls up in the left half of the box with her head and hands protruding, giving the effect you see illustrated above. The other girl is doubled up in the right half of the box, with only her feet showing. Nobody is sawed in half.

NO TRICKS... JUST COSTLIER TOBACCO'S IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

It's fun to be fooled... it's more fun to KNOW

Cigarette advertising, too, has its tricks. Consider the illusion that "Flavor" can be achieved by some kind of magical hocus-pocus in manufacturing.

EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring. The blending of various tobaccos. And the quality of the tobaccos themselves.

Quality is by far the most important. Domestic cigarette tobaccos vary in price from 5¢ a pound up to 40¢ a pound. Imported tobaccos vary from 50¢ a pound to $1.15.

No wonder, then, that cigarettes differ in taste—since distinctive, pleasing flavor depends so largely upon the blending of the costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Try Camels. Give your taste a chance to sense the subtle difference that lies in costlier tobaccos... a difference that means all the world in smoking pleasure... in pure, unalloyed satisfaction.
