Reviewing the Past

By BETTY HULETT

Now that a New Year has started, we believe that we should give the alumni some inside dope and let them know what has been going on in the alumni association office all year. Perhaps some of our readers wonder just what we have accomplished during the past year. We shall endeavor to tell you.

The most important feature is that we have brought the Association out of debt. Due to the cooperation of the Executive Committee with the office, we have been able to run all year and get through by the "skin of our teeth." However, this could not have been done without the aid of the Lexington Alumni club, which, at the suggestion of Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, president, came to the rescue and presented us with $300.00 just at a time when it looked as if we might have to close the office for lack of money on which to run. Perhaps you will ask, why is the association in such a bad way financially? Do the readers realize that only 10 per cent of our graduates are members of the association? The association receives very little money from advertising. Thus, alumni dues are the only source of income that we have.

In listing our other accomplishments, we are glad to say that we have not missed getting out a single number of The Kentucky Alumnus.

The Executive Committee has met regularly every month, discussing the problems which confront us and striving to find solutions for them.

The class reunions last spring were by far the most successful that have ever been held at the University, over 400 returning for them. Homecoming day, November 7, was quite a success.

The Association has been very influential in the re-organization of two clubs and in the forming of one new club. During the past year, both the Lexington and Louisville clubs have come to life and are functioning well. The alumni of Kansas have organized a club with C. G. Blakely as president.

We have published two pamphlets, "Our University—Kentucky," and "A B C Facts About the University of Kentucky" and have mailed them to our alumni.

We have tried to enlarge our membership roster, but in this we have not been so successful.

With the help of the registrar's office, we have been able to learn the addresses of many who have been on our "Lost List" for some time.

as large nor have our alumni showed the interest that they did last year.

L. K. Frankel, '00, is completing, in June of this year, his second term as president of our association. Much of the work that was accomplished last year can be laid

L. K. FRANKEL

We believe that we have succeeded in arousing the interest of the alumni more than ever before. If we are right in this, our year would not have been in vain, had we accomplished nothing else. This fact was evidenced in the number of ballots received in the recent election of alumni members to the Board of Trustees. Never before have election returns been at his door. He has been untiring in his efforts for the association and the University.

Looking into the Future

Now, looking into the future, let us see what we can do. At the January meeting of the Executive Committee, it was decided that we would get to work on a concentrated drive for more memberships. We shall have to do most of our work by mail, however, as we are not yet able to afford a field man. (This is one of our dreams). We want to get at least 2,000 members of the association before we feel that we have a good start.

It is our desire, also, to be able to start a drive for an alumni endowment. Do you realize what this would mean to the association? If we had an endowment which would enable us to save the principal and use the interest for expenses, alumni dues would be lowered. All alumni would be given the same service and receive the same publications, whether they were able to pay their dues or not. It would mean that we would not have to spend so much time in trying to get money. This would enable us to have time to do things that would meet with your approval, such as improving The Alumnus, etc.

Another plan, which we are trying to work out, is that of having an Alumni Student Loan Fund. The Loan Fund at the University is far from adequate. Many deserving students at the University are forced to leave school because they can not get employment or borrow money. Neither of these factors are the fault of the University. Officials employ as many students as possible for part-time work, while continual drawing on the Loan Fund keeps it at a low ebb.

We are making plans now for the Class Reunions in June. The reunion chairman is working out an interesting program, hoping to please all who are planning to return. The first reunion letter be sent out next month.

We hope to make the Kentucky Alumnus a better magazine, always get it out on time.

We are anxious to continue program of last year, organizing clubs and creating interest in loyalty in the University.

We have chosen the Alabama Kentucky football game for home-coming, because we thought that more of our alumni would be interested in returning for a game than for any other.

At the beginning of this year, we pledge ourselves to work for the betterment of our University, to be loyal to her, to serve her. We pledge ourselves to work for the alumni of the University, to serve them, always to the best of our ability. This is our creed for 1932.

Sixty-six Students to Graduate This Month

By BETTY HULETT

Sixty-six students of the University of Kentucky will go out into the world on Friday, January 29, 1932, to make their way and bring credit to the school which has fostered them so kindly. The Alumni Association is pleased to welcome these new alumni and wish them well.

Previous to last year, it had been the custom of the University to have only one commencement program during the school year. At that time, however, it was decided that students who left school without the pomp and ceremony of commencement had missed one of the greatest events of their lives, namely, graduation. Who wants to miss the thrill of donning cap and gown, parading to Memorial hall, and the stirring commencement address? Without these, loyalty to the Alma Mater is not so strong as it might be.

Members of the Executive Committee and the faculty have tried to plan a program which will be a pleasure to the participants and of interest to all who may be guests of the University at that time.

On Sunday, January 24, the program will begin at 3:30 p. m., when the Baccalaureate procession forms in front of the Agriculture building and on the walk leading to Memorial hall.

At 4:00 p. m., Dr. Homer Carpenter, pastor of the First Christian church at Louisville, Kentucky, will deliver the baccalaureate address in Memorial hall. Doctor Carpenter's subject will be "A Mind to Match the Age."

At 5:30 p. m., members of the Faculty club will entertain with a tea for the members of the graduating classes and their friends, in the beautiful faculty club rooms in McVey hall.

On Friday, January 29, the Commencement Procession will form in the Agricultural building and on the walk leading to Memorial hall at 2:30 p. m., and parade to Memorial hall.

At 3:00 p. m., the Commencement address, "Your Alma Mater," will be given by Dr. James Thomas Cotton Noe, of the College of Education of the University of Kentucky. Doctor Noe is well known out of state as well as in Kentucky. He is loved as a man, a poet, and a speaker, and long has been one of the most popular members of the University faculty.

At 4:30 p. m., President Frank

L. McVey and Mrs. McVey will be at home at Maxwell Place. Members of the graduating class, their friends and families, and the members of the faculty of the University. This courtesy is one of the most delightful on the program.

The day will be climaxed with a dinner which will be given at 6 o'clock at the University Commons in McVey hall. The dinner will be given, honoring the new graduates by the University of Kentucky Alumni Association and members of the faculty and staff.

It is the aim of the faculty and administrative officers, and the University Alumni Association, to make the events connected with graduation a pleasure and something to be remembered with a feeling of mingled gladness and sorrow—happiness and sorrow—four wonderful years have been spent in a great university that those who leave are prepared and equipped to take the knocks that are sure to come their way—and sorrow, that the wonderful years have ended, they must leave the Alma Mater which has treated them so graciously and given so graciously a bounty.

STUDENT LOANS

A drive by students, faculty members, and alumni is being inaugurated at the University of Wisconsin to obtain money for the student loan fund of that institution. Fifteen hundred dollars has been collected from the student body, and at present a drive for an additional $10,000 to be donated by university officials and alumni is under way. It appears to us that a similar drive would be a distinct benefit to the University of Kentucky.

The student loan fund is exhausted at present, and many students who have been able to attend this institution in the past through aid received from this fund will be unable to do so in the future. These students have no collateral and cannot borrow from banks or other lending institutions at a reasonable rate of interest. The scarcity of employment makes it impossible for most of them to finance their education by their own labors.

We believe that students, faculty members, and alumni of the University of Kentucky would contribute to the student loan fund if they were properly solicited. In making it possible for many persons to have an education which they otherwise would not have, this solicitation would be operative for the best interest of the institution, the students, and eventually, the entire state. Certainly if the principle of equal educational rights for all is to be maintained, some provision must be made for financial assistance for those who need it.—Kentucky Kernel.

"GOING TO THE DOGS"

That youth is "going to the dogs" has been stoutly, even seriously, asserted so early, at least, as 1645 by the devout "Cobler of Aggawamm" and so recently as this month by a contributor to a national publication dedicated to interests of college students. In the face of such voluminous and well-established evidence we hesitate to commit ourselves to the contrary. Nevertheless, we feel only justified in questioning such a stand, especially so, when student activity on the University of Kentucky campus offers reasonable basis for argument.

The Y. M. C. A. is having its annual discussion group banquet. The affair comes as a fitting climax to the series of six discussions concerning problems and ideals of youth, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. for university men. Conducted by the separate group method, under the guidance of faculty leaders. Meetings were held in the various fraternity houses and in the men's dormitories. Although the discussions were of religious nature, approximately 600 men took part.

Paralleling this general evidence of student appreciation of life's less frivolous side, a more personal instance occurs to us. The incident narrated took place in a fraternity house, one of the reputed seats of evil. Intending to borrow a book from its occupant, we approached a room, a short time ago. The door was closed, and as we received no immediate answer to our knock, we opened it and stepped inside. Kneeling beside his bed, a boy was bowed in prayer. Needless to say, we hastily retraced our steps.

Let authors rant and rave: If this be "going to the dogs" then, let us go.—Kentucky Kernel.

LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION

In a recent public statement, Pres. Frank L. McVey announced that the appropriation which would be asked for the university this year would be for only sufficient funds to pay the maintenance expenses of the institution and the active building program of past years would be temporarily abandoned. We do not pretend to know the situation as well as does President McVey; nor have we any doubt that in reducing his appropriation request he is following the course which he believes will be operative for the best interest of the Commonwealth. We cannot but remember, however, that in proportion to its importance to education in the state the University of Kentucky is far behind several other institutions in its building program.

It is the intention of the present state administration to reduce expenses in all departments, thereby making possible a reduction of the tax rate. At the same time, valuation on property generally will be much lower than it has been in the past, thus reducing the funds which accrue to the state. From the decreased funds which will be available for use by the state there are many functions of government which must be financed before the university can be considered. It is our firm belief, however, that large sums of the taxpayer's money have been expended in the past for purposes far less worthy than education, and that if the present state administration is sincere in its efforts to eliminate unnecessary expenditure it will at the same time see the necessity of adequate appropriation for the university.

The need of modern institutions of higher education in Kentucky will not be doubted by anyone. The importance of the University of Kentucky in the system of education of the state is indisputable.—Kentucky Kernel.

THE BASKETBALL SEASON

So far this season Coach Adolph Rupp and his Big Blue netmen have given an excellent account of themselves, and the outlook for the season is as brilliant as it has been in recent years. Kentucky again is a potential Southern Conference champion, and this fact should assist materially in developing more than usual interest in the team of this year.

Since coming to the university Coach Rupp has distinguished himself as one of the leading basketball coaches of the country. Both his theories of good basketball and the teams with which he has carried out these theories have proved popular with local followers. It is evident that the team of this year is working smoothly and efficiently with Coach Rupp's brand of basketball.

Naturally the student body is ambitious for a Southern Conference championship, but whether or not the team achieves this goal the year will be recorded as one of the best in the history of university basketball.—Kentucky Kernel.

Word has been received in the Alumni office of the marriage of Mr. Ramon L. Spears, '26, to Miss Sara Hill Holland of Pleasureville, Kentucky. The marriage was solemnized on June 13, 1931 at Ludlow, Kentucky.

Cut of $121,000 In Budget Made By University

Desiring to conform with the state's economy program, Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, told members of the state budget commission that the University is asking $121,000 less from the state than it received last year.

Dr. McVey also announced that the executive committee had authorized him to say that although the University of Kentucky was in need of new buildings, it would forego a request for a building appropriation.

The amount asked for the University by Dr. McVey was $1,010,000, as compared with $1,131,000 received for support and maintenance during the previous year.

Dr. McVey appeared before the budget commission in company with Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, and D. H. Peak, business agent of the university. The budget commission was in meeting with the senate and house appropriations committees.

Gov. Ruby Laffoon told Dr. McVey that "we are asking the cooperation of the heads of the schools in solving a very perplexing problem. We are of no disposition to lessen the efficiency of the institutions."

Dr. McVey asserted that no consideration had been given to reducing salaries of teachers, stating that the scale paid by the University was below the average of the nation.

Governor Laffoon said he deemed it "very considerate to forego the request for new buildings in view of conditions."

Dr. McVey anticipated considerable reduction in the revenue from the University's share of the ad valorem real estate tax, the tax on intangibles and the inheritance tax. He pointed out that if the real estate tax is cut 10 per cent, and assessments are 10 per cent lower, the University will receive about $79,000, instead of $263,000, as last year. He estimated the loss in reduced appraisals of intangibles at 40 per cent, stated that this form of revenue would be reduced from $330,000 to $198,000. He expects the inheritance tax revenue to be materially reduced, due to a decline in value of securities and to the fact that a 2 per cent transfer tax probably will become non-operative under a recent decision of the United States supreme court. The probable income of the university from half of the inheritance taxes estimated by Dr. McVey at $500,000.

Thus, with the University's revenue from these sources expected to decrease to approximately $560,000, it will be necessary for the general assembly to appropriate $450,000 to bring the amount up to $1,010,000, the amount sought.

Dr. McVey estimated that 10 per cent of the revenue of the University is used for the benefit of farmers, through the agricultural and experiment work.

The University Radio Programs

Twenty series of radio talks on general education, daily farm programs, and five musical presentations a week make up the University of Kentucky radio schedule over WHAS, Louisville, the first six months of 1932. The first hundred and eighty-eight programs comprising this schedule will be presented in the University studios in Lexington and transmitted by specially engineered telephone circuits to the main control room of WHAS, Louisville.

The educational programs will contain many valuable and unique features. Prominent among these is the introduction of a "University Question Box," a forum to be conducted each Monday at 1:15 p. m., during which questions on all phases of natural science, political science, literature, fine arts, engineering, etc., will be answered. Listeners to the University programs will be invited to send in their own questions. A valuable series on "World Events" by Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky will be given each four weeks, while Dr. Paul H. Clyde, professor of History, has scheduled four talks on "The American Foreign Policy in Asia."

For the business and commercial man, the College of Commerce, University of Kentucky, has arranged four series of talks titled respectively, "Chats on Salesmanship," "Popular Talks on Insurance," "The Stock Market," and "Anti-Trust Legislation."

Parents will appreciate the fifteen programs on "Parental Education," the first seven of which will deal with "The Newer Education and the Child." The literary minded will want to tune in to the "Monthly Book Reviews," "Europe Off the Beaten Path," "The Gallery of Literary Portraits," and "Great Kentucky Writers." Incidentally this last series, coupled with "Days Afield in Kentucky," and "Kentucky Folk-Lore" will constitute a trilogy that will have especial appeal to natives of the Blue Grass state.

For the benefit of the science minded, series have been planned on "Popular Astronomy," "Astronomy in Geology," and "Days Afield in Kentucky." Of these the utilitarian value are two series on "The Home's Electrical Equipment," and "Photography for the Amateur." "Going to College" four talks to be given by Dr. P. Boyd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, will interest prospective college students and their parents.

The daily agricultural program will be varied as usual and the poultry business will be stressed. How the forum, "What Farm Folk Are Asking" will be continued on Friday, and monthly poultry programs will be given. The daily bacco market will be presented during the tobacco season. culture have elements of interest for the entire farmer's family. Talks on styles in clothing, home decoration, and food data will be directed primarily for the benefit of the farmer's wife, and many 4-H club programs (some by the members themselves) will be presented for the younger element.

Musical programs coming from the University during the first six months of 1932 will be varied. While strictly University organizations such as the Philharmonic orchestra, the bands, and the Glee club will appear at intervals, groups especially adapted to radiocasting will handle the bulk of the musical programs. The Fine Arts program on Mondays, a strictly classical presentation, will feature David Young, violinist; and a piano duo. The Blue and White orchestra, rapidly becoming one of the foremost collegiate dance groups in the country, will appear on Tuesdays and Thursdays. On Wednesdays, a typical Kentucky program, Mountain Melodies will be presented. This program will feature the more unusual mountain songs and will be performed by people from the mountains. The musical program for Fridays will be a classical presentation sponsored by Phi Beta and will include a wide variety of talent.

In addition to these scheduled programs many special radiocasts are presented each year, such as an hour's programs on the night of January 21, featuring the best musical selections to be used in the state music contests; athletic contests; and fraternity dances. The ALUMNUS will carry the information on these special broadcasts at the proper times.

Booklets listing all of the University of Kentucky radiocasts for the first six months of 1932 are available and will be sent to anyone addressing the Radio Studios at the University, Lexington.

Turck Addresses College Session

Two hundred students and about 100 members of the faculty and their wives, who attended the banquet of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, at the Phoenix hotel, Saturday night, January 9, were told by Pres. Charles J. Turck of Centre College to be liberal and progressive in their attitudes toward the problems facing the world.

He discussed theories of government and social adjustments, said agriculture initiated the era of government regulations of private business, and declared that there should be more government in business rather than less. He would, however, have wiser regulation.

The banquet was sponsored by the agricultural society of the College of Agriculture, and Fred Hafer, president of the society, acted as toastmaster, Dean Thomas P. Cooper welcomed the gathering.

Music was furnished by Faculty Members Fordyce Ely, Todd Green, A. J. Olney, H. O. Matson and Bruce Poundstone, and by a group of home economics students. William McClure, a student, played several solos on a saw.

Dr. McVey Discusses Depression Causes

Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, spoke on "Causes of World Depression" Monday night, January 4 at the weekly meeting of the International Relations class in the lecture room of McVey hall at the university. Mrs. J. B. Miner presided.

Principal causes for the present depression were listed by Dr. McVey as follows: the World War, breakdown in currencies, high tariffs, shifting of the credit system, large amount of frozen assets held by banks and the problem of reparations. Slow improvement was the forecast by Dr. McVey, who said improvement would not come to any particular country until general world conditions improved.

A discussion by members of the club, during which Doctor McVey was asked questions regarding the subject of his address, closed the meeting. The International Relations class is sponsored by the Women's Club of the University of Kentucky and the Lexington branch of the American Association of University Women.

Club News

The December meeting of the Cleveland Alumni club was held at Willie's New Music Box December 19. This was the annual Christmas party and was quite a success.

After dinner, a business meeting was held at which officers for the coming year were elected. They are:

R. E. Clark, President; C. R. McClure, secretary-treasurer.

Both of the new officers have pledged their earnest support to the University and to the Cleveland club.

Plans were made at the meeting, for several informal meetings during the year. A Stag party is being planned for Dean Anderson when he attends the Heating and Ventilating Convention the last of January.

After the business meeting, dancing and bridge were enjoyed by the members of the club and their guests.

A letter from the Philadelphia club tells us that they had an election of officers at the December meeting. Those elected were:

L. C. Davidson, president; C. B. Smoot, secretary-treasurer.

The Philadelphia club is anxious to have a University man as their speaker at the next meeting, which will be held February 2. We are doing all that we can to help our clubs and will be glad to furnish speakers for them whenever it is possible and they have expressed a desire for one.

A letter has been received in the alumni office from Dr. J. A. Yates, vice-president of our Kansas Alumni club. Doctor Yates tells us that Kentucky people in Kansas are very proud of their club. We are expecting great things of our youngest club.

STUDENT LOAN FUND IS EXHAUSTED

The general economic condition of the nation may be attributed to the partial inactivity of the student loan fund committee, Professor W. S. Webb, head of physics department, and chairman of the committee, stated today. Because of the inability of previous borrowers to pay notes, and the lack of contributions on the part of donors, only three or four requests for loans out of 12 can be granted.

Students desiring information concerning loans may interview Miss Bess Parry, recently appointed secretary of the committee, daily except Saturday, from one until o'clock, in the Physics building.

The student loan fund was organized in the school year of 1911-1920 by the board of trustees. Contributions were solicited from members of the board, alumni of the university, organizations of the state, and prominent citizens of Kentucky.

Administration is invested in a committee of eight members of the university senate, appointed by President Frank L. McVey.

Loans are granted to students of proven character, with credit college work, who are in financial need which cannot be met from any other source. The interest rate charged on all loans is six per cent from the date of the note.

Previous refusal of loans has been made on account of poor scholarship, ability to borrow elsewhere, lack of initiative on the part of the student in helping himself, a careless attitude to financial obligations, and lack of funds in the loan fund treasury.

Memorial funds include the Captain George Clark Rogers memorial, the Mabel Sawyer McVey memorial, the Dodd memorial, the Skain memorial, and the M. Vogt fund.

This feature will be sponsored by The Farmer's Wife, national farm woman's magazine of St. Paul, Minn.

Lives May Be Saved By U. K. Project

The saving of many lives by the prevention of coal-mine explosions may be the result of one of a series of projects which have been undertaken by faculty members and students in the mining and metallurgical engineering department of the College of Engineering, University of Kentucky.

An investigation has begun in that department under the direction of Prof. P. C. Emrath of the explosive properties of coal dust. It is hoped by analysis and tests of coal dust under various conditions stimulating those actually found underground in the mines to devise some means of correlating the physical and chemical properties of coal.

The results of this investigation, according to Prof. C. S. Crouse, head of the department, if properly interpreted and put into effect, may provide for elimination of mine explosion dangers and will enable the miners to work in greater safety.

These experiments with coal dust make up one of a number of projects now under way or soon to be taken up in the mining and metallurgical department. A group of graduate students has begun the construction of a small concentrating unit for the testing of ore in the baryte veins of central Kentucky.

Barytes, which form the base for many paint and varnish fillers, might become of commercial importance in this section especially, according to Professor Crouse, if some means could be devised of economically separating them from lead sulfide or galena associated with them. The concentrating unit upon which the students are working will include apparatus for flotation experimentation.

An attempt at correlation of physical properties and the oil yield of black Devonian shale in eastern Kentucky, with the purpose of determining the probable gas yields to be obtained from drilling and blasting in this formation, has been started by a group of students in cooperation with the Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company.

This project is highly complicated and technical, Professor Crouse said, and is leading into many diversified lines of research not expected in outlining the original project. The results of the research may prove of great importance to the gas industry.

A fourth project receiving attention in the laboratories of the mining and metallurgical department is a research on low temperature carbonization of cannel and bituminous coals with the object of producing smokeless domestic and industrial fuel. This work is expected also to reveal which of the various oils and tars might be used in several industries as for production of insecticides and synthetic resins of the bakelite type.

According to their established custom, President and Mrs. Frank L. McVey entertained with a dinner recently at Maxwell Place in honor of the alumni and former students who are now members of the Kentucky General Assembly.

The dinner was a beautiful affair, with the house decorated with flowers and plants, and the one large table with a silver bowl of orange calendula bloom for a centerpiece and ivory candles in silver candlesticks.

After the dinner Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Chandler sang several beautiful duets, and the inimitable "Happy" sang several solos in a pleasing, smiling, tenor voice.

The especially honored guests, Lieutenant-Governor Chandler, and Speaker of the House John Y. Brown were both present with their charming wives. Other guests were: Mrs. Arch Mamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Barnes, Mr. Denny P. Smith, Mr. Leer H. Buckley, and Mr. James W. Chapman.

The host and hostess were assisted in entertaining by Miss Virginia McVey, Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Jr., Miss Sarah Blanding, and James Shropshire.

Sports

U. K. Intramural Finals Are Held

Approximately 500 fans assembled in the University of Kentucky gymnasium were treated to sparkling exhibitions by student fighters and grapplers in the final events of the annual intramural boxing and wrestling tournament.

John Drury, whose activities in the ring and on the mat have not been seriously curtailed in recent years, turned in the stellar performance of the night, winning the unlimited weight class in both the boxing and wrestling. He pinned "Bud" Davidson, captain-elect of the football team, to the mat in two minutes and 18 seconds of wrestling, and entered the ring later to capture the boxing crown with a technical knockout over Reilly.

Gene Hinman, 115-pound fighter, also scored a double victory, although the boxing title was forfeited to him when his opponent, S. Daugherty, failed to don the gloves because of a broken bone in his hand. Hinman won his wrestling match with S. Botts by a fall.

One of the best boxing bouts was staged in the 135-pound class between Caddy, elongated southpaw, and Bill Massie. The latter carried the fight most of the way despite Caddy's reach advantage, and the spectators evidenced their dissatisfaction when Caddy was given the decision.

Forsythe's decision win over Ly-sowski in the 155-pound class after a bruising battle was also unpopular with the fans. Bob Featherstone, the most unorthodox fighter on the card, won the decision over Bill Luther, reserve center last season of the football team, in a rough and tumble scrap for the 175-pound crown. Barker, after gaining a margin in the first round, forfeited his bout to Alves in the 145-pound division. F. E. Scott captured the 125-pound title with a decision over W. Butler, and Bill Kleiser was awarded the decision in his fight with Noel Engel for the 165-pound honors in the remaining bouts on the program.

Charley McCarthy was the third man in the ring and the judges were Clyde Johns, Owen Sharkey and Sonny Burnett.

Little excitement was offered in the wrestling matches, but the most satisfactory performances were those turned in by Drury and Lewis Dawson. Dawson, in the 165-pound class, picked up his opponent, Grimm, and fell to the mat with the latter underneath. Grimm was stunned and knocked breathless by the fall and decided he had enough for the time being.

Hoblitzell won the 175-pound class with a time advantage over Jack Jean, freshman football star last fall, in a good match. Joe Cecil defeated "Red" Isaacs in the 125-pound division by a time advantage, and Finch Hilliard took Ware into camp in the 135-pound ring by a similar margin. Jake O'Bryant pinned Alves to the mat for the 145-pound crown, and Dick Crutcher won by a fall over Ollie Price in the 155-pound division.

Waller Jones officiated in the wrestling matches.

Most of the boxing bouts were slow because of excessive holding and only two or three knockdowns were scored. The best exhibition of courage was probably shown by Reilly in the final tussle on the card. He was pitted against Drury in the unlimited weight division.

Despite his inexperience, he showed no hesitancy in measuring off with Drury and exchanging blow for blow to the head. He was backed up to the ropes most of the time but managed to keep up his barrage going until he wilted near the end of the second round under Drury's bull-like charges and his seconds tossed in a towel to stop the fight.

Basketball

By CAMERON V. COFFMAN

Basketball stepped into the limelight of the University of Kentucky sport world on the night of December 15, when the Kentucky Wildcats met Carey Spicer's Bengals of Georgetown College. The blue clad wildcats were conceded more than an even chance to defeat the former Wildcat stars' team and they lived up to the prediction of the dopesters, the final score being 67 to 25. With this victory in "their hope chest" the Ruppen ran up against a strong clever passing Carnegie Tech team from Pittsburgh. After the smoke of the Pittsburgh boys had cleared away from the Kentucky team the score-board read 36-34 in favor of the Kentuckians. The account of the game said that the Kentucky team had been out scored by a considerable margin, but had made those free throws good, and had managed to stall off a last minute attack, to defeat one of the best teams that has performed on the Kentucky floor in many a season.

Coach Rupp and his boys stuck to their job through the Christmas holidays. During this time they added Berea College and a scrappy little outfit from Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., to their list to run their total to four consecutive wins. The next game of the current season was their first Southern Conference of the year. This time Clemson was also added to their spoils. At this time we find "Frenchy" DeMoisey, star sophomore center, and "Aggie" Sale elongated forward, tied for high point scoring honors in the Kentucky conference scoring race.

A four day, two game trip to Detroit was cancelled and this lay-off gave Coach Rupp plenty of time to brush up on the lacking fundamentals of his machine, prior to their first southern invasion for three conference games. The Ruppen made the southern trip without the services of DeMoisey, who was discovered to be ineligible until the latter part of the month. On January 14, Kentucky's brilliant five displayed a flashy brand of basketball before the Clemsonites to win handily over the Tigers by a 30-17 margin. The Wildcats got away to an early lead and closed the half out in front on a 20-7 score. The next night we find our heroes casting their lost against the basketeers of Sewanee. They continue their winning spree, this time to the tune of 30-20. On Saturday night after three days on Pullman coaches and two games we land in Knoxville, the villa of the Tennessee Volunteers. After leading throughout, with the exception of having the score tied once, the Wildcats added the Vols among their list of "Souvenirs" Although the 'cats were not passed in the score the final tally was 28-27.

Last season Coach Rupp's first year as head basketball coach at the university, but overlooking this minor thing he took his Blue Clad warriors to the Southern Conference tournament with only two defeats against them. When the season was over they had three defeats administered to them, but not until they had advanced to the finals and had lost a heart-breaking game to the University of Maryland, 29-28. To his list of achievements Coach Rupp brought four all-Southern players back with him to the form of Captain Carey Spicer; Louis "Little" McGinnis; George Yates, who was given much publicity and praise or his courageous playing while with a high fever; and Jake Bronston, who with Yates was elected co-captain for this year.

Things looked bright for the Wildcat mentor this season with two of all-southerns back for him to mold a strong team around. But—just before the season started, Jake Bronston was found to be ineligible due to the fact that he participated in a game, when he was a sophomore back in '28, against Georgia Tech. This was enough to put a wrinkle in anyone's plans, but when George Yates, became ill and was announced unable to play this season Coach Rupp placed his old mainstays, Ellis Johnson and Charley Worthington, at the guard positions. To replace Yates he found the sophomore DeMoisey, and to complete the team he had Darrell Darby, former All-American scholastic forward from Ashland, and Forest Sale, substitute center and forward from the last years team. Then when the jinx continued to follow him and extract DeMoisey from the ranks, Coach Rupp converted Sale from a forward into a center and placed "Dutch" Kreuter, hero of the Kentucky-Tennessee football game, at the forward position.

With this rejuvenated team Kentucky basketball followers can boast of eight consecutive wins to date, and in Forest Sale, who accounted for 73 points in the first five games and another 29 on the recent southern trip, which gives him a total of 102 for the season so far, we have a leading contender in the Southern Conference scoring race. Coach Rupp is not worried for reserve material for in Blair, Hughes and Davis he has three able men who are always ready to step into the forward positions with a minutes notice. Little and Kleiser are able to take care of the guard positions in big-league style. George, Bell and Skinner are also very dependable when a substitution is needed.

Wildcats Beat Chattanooga For Ninth Victory

Repelling a meager attack of the Chattanooga University basketball team, the Wildcat quintet showed Kentucky fans some of the best passing and floor work of the season to win its ninth straight victory by a 51 to 17 count.

When Kentucky's team meets the Generals of Washington and Lee in their next conference game on January 30, a much stronger team will take the floor than at any time this season. "Frenchy" DeMoisey, one of the best centers in the Southern Conference, and Davis, Kentucky's back guard, both ineligible this semester, have been working out with the Wildcat team the last few weeks and will be eligible to take the floor in that game of the Blue. Their addition to the squad is important and DeMoisey will provide "Aggie" Sale, a competent running mate for under-the-basket shots.

The game was featured by the outstanding play of Ellis Johnson, whose position as guard rarely affords him the opportunity of much scoring. But in the last game Johnson scored 13 points to lead the Wildcat column.

The final scores for the games played so far this year are as follows:

- Kentucky 66, Georgetown 24.
- Kentucky 36, Carnegie Tech 34.
- Kentucky 52, Berea 27.
- Kentucky 46, Marshall 16.
- Kentucky 43, Clemson 24.
- Kentucky 30, Clemson 17.
- Kentucky 30, Sewanee 20.
- Kentucky 29, Tennessee 28.
- Kentucky 51, Chattanooga 17.

Phi Psi Phi, local social fraternity, will become Sigma chapter in Alpha Lambda Tau when installation services are conducted by national officers Saturday, January 30.
