Was There Good Reason To Cancel Jazz Concert?

A great deal of comment, confusion, and general uproar seems to be revolving around the cancellation of the Phi Mu Alpha jazz concert, originally scheduled for March 6 and 7.

The whole unfortunate affair stems from a news article which appeared on the front page of Monday night's Lexington Leader. The story definitely left the reader with a wrong impression of the concert, UK's view on the subject, and the position of Phi Mu Alpha.

The facts themselves were accurate enough, but they were mixed indiscriminately. The story of the jazz concert, a dignified, formal program, did not belong with the account of how paid, union musicians preside at "top" sessions in local bars on Saturday afternoons. Only five of the 21-or-so participants in the planned concert play in the Short Street bars and they do so as private citizens, just as many other UK students work on Saturdays.

The Leader story also left a clear but entirely false impression that the University "sanctioned" and "blessed" jazz, pop, and student jam sessions in bars. The Fine Arts Building was put on the same plane with the Zebra Bar and the Drake Hotel Tap Room. We refer to the lines about "the Chamber Music Society of Lower Short Street, a migratory flock that roosts now in the Fine Arts Building at the University, again in some Short Street bar."

The result of this jumbled mass of fact and comment is the cancellation of the jazz concert by the "mutual consent" of Phi Mu Alpha and University officials.

The Leader followed by running a UK policy statement formulated by Dean A. D. Kirwan and Music Department Head Edwin Stein, in its Tuesday edition. The paper also carried the story of the cancellation, and, finally, at the very end, got around to regretting its "ambiguity" in Monday's story.

We here at the Kernel and most of the other students we've talked to see no reason why the concert should be cancelled. The University had given its permission—not its blessing—to the holding of the program. Why should a distorted story in the downtown paper cause it to withdraw this permission or cause Phi Mu Alpha to drop its plans?

The statement carried in Tuesday's Leader and elsewhere in today's Kernel should clear the University of any connection with the Short Street bars and correct any false impressions given to those outside the University. The cancellation of the concert only seems, in an indirect way to strengthen the connotation that UK is in the wrong.

It is regrettable that a struggling student organization and the twenty-odd persons who have put in many hours of practice in the last four weeks should be the innocent victims of a piece of bad publicity.

The Kernel does not care to engage in an argument about the merits of jazz music. But we can't deny that jazz does exist and is considered serious enough to be recognized by both Arthur Rubinstein and Jascha Heifetz in interviews with Kernel writers during their recent visits here.

The fact that a type of music is played in places entirely disconnected with the University should not prevent its being presented seriously and historically in a dignified concert on the campus. Jazz and bars are not synonymous. A progressive college should find a place for both the "music of the great masters" and the music which is an inherent part of our modern culture.

Dear Editor: The Mailbox

Pen-And-Ink Letter

(This cartoon was submitted to the Kernel as a pictorial letter-to-the-editor. It should not be taken as a reflection of the views of the Kernel. The cartoonist-letter-writer made his identity known to the Kernel editor, but prefers to sign himself "Music Loner.")

The Leader Story

The following is the text of a letter which I sent to the editor of the Lexington Leader, and which, at this time (Tuesday afternoon), has gone unpublished:

"When Jascha Heifetz performed in Memorial Coliseum there were many people present. It is safe to say that most everyone present found it quite enjoyable. But it is also safe to say that not everyone present understood the meanings that lay within each theme and movement of his well-chosen program. Such is the way with music. Most people regard music as a medium through which they can find pleasure and relaxation.

"Of course, we cannot all be expected to be as familiar with the true meaning of music as are the composer, the arranger, the conductor, and the musician. They not only hear and feel it, but also are a part in its emanation. As is the case of any advancement or innovation, scientific or otherwise, whom shall we expect to be more familiar with the trend and its attributes than the people who are directly connected with it?"

"In a recent feature article in the Leader, Helen Irvin attempts, in a subtle manner, to degrade a musical innovation which she evidently assumes to know more about than do musicians. She assails progressive jazz under the protection of the black eye given to this innovation by the 'beebop' societies that flourish in some of our larger cities. She neglects pointing out that the widely publicized deeds of a small minority of these groups create the unpleasant atmosphere connected with this musical idiom, not the music itself. Yet when a group of students are energetic and resourceful enough to prepare a serious concert in this interesting and relatively unexplored field of music, Mrs. Irvin exercises the bad taste of manipulating this false impression, first, in condemning their efforts, and secondly, and probably worst of all, in lowering the prestige of their university."

It is my sincere hope that you will see fit to publish this letter, in defense of a sincere group of students who, along with their University, have been maliciously attacked.

William C. Hay

(See editorial, also story and UK policy statement elsewhere in today's Kernel.—Ed.)

A Critic Speaks

Another chapter has just been written in the misty annals of liberal education. Of course I am referring to the very recent controversy over the jazz idiom and its place in our culture.

It seems that a downtown paper printed an article linking the music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha, and the University Music Department with certain commercial enterprises on Short Street. Now even if the article did lack a factual basis, it made up for its shortcomings in its colorful nature.

The stand taken by certain shortsighted officials has, in effect, ratified the content of this article and all of its ramifications. The whole situation has taken an hysterical and juvenile twist. The concert planned by Phi Mu Alpha has been cancelled and the acquisition is in progress. I would suggest that music by Richard Strauss be banned from future symphony concerts on the campus; rumor has it that certain values of his have actually been performed in Vienna beer gardens.

If our campus is to be marked by totalitarian authoritarianism I suggest that President McVey's motto be removed from the University library—"Believe in truth, protest against error, lead men by reason rather than by force."

Not Long-Hair

Music Room In SUB Is Little Used

You don't have to a long-hair to appreciate the music that's played in the SUB Music Room five days each week. But it seems not many students know about it.

Before the erection of the Fine Arts Building the Carnegie Library

Records was in the SUB Music Room. But they were moved to the Music Lounge in the Fine Arts Building. "Since then," Miss Mackle Radford, director of the SUB, said, "We have tried to build a collection of semi-classical and lighter music."

Several orders for records have not yet been filled. One order, placed almost a year ago, on March 22, has not yet been received. At present, the music room has about 200 records.

THE PROGRAMS PLAYED each day from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. are made up of requests by listeners. However, Miss Radford emphasized that it isn't necessary to request a record to listen, and students can come in anytime they feel like "just listening to some music, with nothing special in mind."

It's a good place to relax, and to wait while the cafeteria line rages, Miss Radford said. According to Mrs. Chaney, the numbers requested most by students are "Dance Music," "Nutcracker Suite," "Romberg's operetta," and "Strauss' waltzes."

Search For Personal Faith Is Theme Of 'The Deluge'

By Herman Cordell

Jerry Finch, in his first play, "The Deluge," has used a refreshing, and perhaps unique, way of presenting a moral to an audience. The result is an evening of enjoyment for any audience.

The UK graduate and former feature editor of the Kernel has departed from the usual approach to a subject. One might say, he "goes into the back-door instead of the front."

"The Deluge" describes the action around young Benny Perkins' search for a personal faith. Benny is confused by the religious and philosophical beliefs of people around him. Their hypocrisy causes him more doubt.

WITH THE BUILDING of a new dam near Springville, the scene of the play, all houses are bought by the government. Those not wrecked at once are leased back to the owners. Benny leaves his home back, then in an agreement with Mr. Nicholas, apparently the author's idea of Satan in human form, Benny establishes a gambling house.

The people of Springville show their true colors when the gambling house and other such places open. Even the preacher becomes a besotted gambler.

However, Benny is often disturbed about this way of life, and still cannot find a personal faith.

Editor Of Atlantic Monthly Traces Biography's Growth

By Ed Coffman

From the opening moments of taking the audience into his confidence with his story of his trouble with "Duke" until his closing remark, "You are a good audience," Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, gave one of the most stimulating lectures of this season Monday night.

Weeks took the subject "Literature at the Mid-Century" and gave a very illuminating and entertaining talk. He traced in particular the development of biography and the books during the last 50 years.

AMONG THE GREAT BIOGRAPHERS of the last 50 years are such books as "The Education of Henry Adams," "The Education of a Great Man," "The Education of a Citizen," and "The Education of a Leader." The idea books were not so popular as some of the biographies. In fact some of them were very little known when they first came out.

Dr. Freud's book, "Einstein's World," is a beautiful book according to Weeks. The Atlantic editor ended his talk by looking toward the future with optimism. "I think I see an awakening. We are beginning to realize that we have underestimated Russia and underestimated ourselves. He also said that another cause of his optimism is that the college since the war have had the finest, most mature group of undergraduates of this century."

March 15 is the deadline for entering the Sixth Annual Kappa Alpha Psi International Collegiate Photography Contest.

Kappa Alpha Psi, national honorary fraternity in photo-journalism, sponsors the contest with the objective of making college photographers conscious of the importance of ethical photo-journalism.

Students enrolled in accredited colleges or universities are eligible to enter. Prints must be at least 8 x 10 inches and mounted on standard 16 x 20 inch photo-mounts. Each contestant may submit up to four prints. The contest will be judged by prominent news photographers. Prizes will be awarded in five classes: news, sports, features, pictorial and industrial.

Entry blanks, rules and additional information may be secured by writing Louie L. Hulme, Department of Journalism, Baylor University, Waco, Texas.

'Atlantic' Editor Weeks Says He Believes Students' Taste Improving

By Ed Coffman

Edward Weeks has a very engaging personality, as those who heard him speak the other night will agree. He is a genial man whose interest in his lifework of literature is electrifying.

He is unusual in the respect that he is sincerely interested in people, ranging from the great authors to struggling youngsters. This interest in his fellow-man makes him a great man in the literary field where the human element is of such great importance.

When I interviewed the noted editor of the "Atlantic Monthly," he was still going strong after some two hours of talking about books. He was so engrossed in the subject as was the audience after listening to him for a few minutes, that he could have continued talking far into the night.

Cats Meet Georgia and Vandy

SEC Games Close Kentucky Season

By Lewis Donaher, Kernel Sports Editor

In a pair of anti-climactical Southeastern Conference contests, Kentucky will round out its season tonight and tomorrow night in Memorial Coliseum against Georgia and Vanderbilt, respectively.

Members of the Kentucky basketball team.

Coach Jim Whelan's Georgians, scheduled for an 8 o'clock meeting with the Cats, will be going onto the floor with a 13-7 record for the season and an 8-3 mark in the conference.

In their last meeting they whipped Mississippi State, 57-48, while Kentucky was having a hard time with DePaul, finally emerging with a 60-57 win.

Probable starters for the Bulldogs will be forwards Bill Shain, 6'7" sophomore from Louisville, and Earl Davis, 6'2" senior, Center Bob Schless, 5'8" senior, and Guard George Jordan, 5'9" and also a senior, and 6'4" Junior Jim Umbricht.

Officials for the contest will be H. R. Wilson and Fred Walters. Vanderbilt will be trying to improve a 12-7 season record against Kentucky. The Commodores will also be seeking to ease the hurt of the 74-49 pounding handed them by the Wildcats in an earlier meeting at Nashville. They have an 8-3 conference record.

Forward Dave Kardokus, 6'2" jumping-jack junior, is expected to lead Vandy's attack. Kardokus, a 165-pound sharpshooter, is credited to be the swiftest of Coach Bob Puk's quintet. Despite his comparative lack of height, he is one of the chief rebounders on the Vanderbilt squad.

Also in the starting lineup for Vanderbilt will probably be Gene Southwood, 6'7" junior, at the old forward position; Al Weiss, 6'4" junior at center and 6' Jack Hedmond, also a junior, and Court George Kelley at guards. Kelley, 6'3" senior is the only graduating member of the Vandy five. He has played all three positions for the Nashvilleans, making the switch to guard this year.

Also slated for action is Connie Mark fibra, 6'3" sophomore, who is the tallest man on the Vandy squad. Coach Rupp will probably go along with his usual starting five of Forwards Shelby Lavinie and Capt. Walt Hirsch, Center Bill Spivey, and Guards Frank Ramsey and Bobby Watson for the two games.

Walters and Wilson will be the officials for the Vanderbilt game, also.

Faculty And Grad Students Will Form Hoop League

All graduate students and faculty members of the University wishing to play basketball should contact Curdell B. Moore, instructor in mathematics. Games will be held either in the Alumni gymnasium or University High School every Friday night.

Catcalls

By Lewis Donohew, Kernel Sports Editor

I wandered into the UK cafeteria this week—just a few days after the second big basketball scandal had rocked the nation—and went over to the tables where some of the basketball players were eating lunch.

Some of the boys had already finished eating and left the room. I asked this question of those that were still there: "What would you do if approached by a gambler and asked to take a bribe?" Here are their answers:

BILL SPIVEY—"I'd go to Coach and see what he would say about it."

BOBBY WATSON—"I'd tell him 'no thanks'."

CLIFF HAGAN—"It would be an insult to one's character to be approached by a briber and if approached I would run, not walk to Coach Bupp."

SKIPPI WHITAKER—"I would tell him 'no' and report the event immediately."

ROGER LAYNE—"I'd tell him I was not interested. Besides you would have a pretty hard time throwing a game from the bench."

I think those are five good reasons why such a scandal will never occur at Kentucky.

Included in our mail each week is a little pamphlet from Athletic Publications, Inc. called the Weekly Collegiate Basketball Record. Its main function is to provide the up-to-date records of all leading college basketball teams in the U. S.

Other than providing this check-list it also provides a few pen portraits, makes predictions, and picks all-star teams. Back in January it made its NCAA tournament forecast. To play in the tournament from the Eastern Region it picked Columbia, Indiana University, Cincinnati, Villanova, Illinois University, North Carolina State, St. John's—and Kentucky.

It also picked teams from the Western Region, paired all teams for the meet, and picked the winners.

Its champion from the Western Regional meet—Oklahoma A & M—from the Eastern—Kentucky. And the national champion? Good old Kentucky again.

In another issue they named a mid-winter All-American cage squad that included Sam Ranzino of North Carolina State and Sherman White of Long Island University at forwards, our own "Big Bill" at center, and Gene Meckler of Bradley and Gale McArthur of Oklahoma A&M at guards as the starting five.

Then they named ten more men to fill the second and third squads. And many a Kentuckian has made one of these groups. Also Frank Ramsey, Nor could you very well leave out Shelby Linville . . . or Walt Hirsch.

It always feels good to get mail. Even though it may be critical, it still good to know that people are interested enough to write you about something. That's why it was a pleasant surprise to find this epistle in our mailbox on the first week that this column was to be written.

Louisville, Ky.

Dear Mr. Donohew:

According to the Courier-Journal, U of K has a swimming team, but after reading the Feb. 9 Kernel, one would never know it. There was not one line about the Vanderbilt-UK swim meet on Feb. 10. I realize the team is new and has not won any of the three meets in which it has participated, but perhaps if the Kernel gave this team more publicity and support, the student body would also support it and other good swimmers would come out for the team and our swimming team would be tops too, along with the football and basketball teams. The Kernel has always been an excellent school paper and I feel this has just been an oversight on the part of the sports department.

I am an alum and a swimming enthusiast and thought I should bring this to your attention.

There was no signature. However, we appreciate your criticism, Louisville alum. Any suggestion toward the advancement of UK's minor sports, or any just criticism anyone may have of our department, is welcomed.

Since the major sports at Kentucky are becoming more and more headline-worthy we are not able to give the swimmers and other sports groups as much publicity as we could otherwise. We did give them some space in last week's Kernel and maybe we can continue to do so.

Fifteen Girl's Teams Play In Cage Tourney

The WAA basketball tournament, which began the week of February 13 and will end on March 7 with a championship playoff, is in full swing. There are 15 teams from the various societies and women's residence halls competing. These teams are divided into four divisions which play a round-robin schedule.

Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Zeta, and Hamilton House are in the first division; Kappa Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Patterson Hall form the second division.

Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Tau Alpha Phi, and the Town team are competing in the third division; and Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Xi Delta, and Jewell Hall are playing in the fourth division.

Kentucky's visit to Tulane gymnasium on Jan. 29 was the first for the Wildcats since February, 1937.

Fencers Defeated By Illinois, 15-12

Three members of the UK fencing team were injured, one seriously, in an auto crash last Friday night while en route to the University of Illinois for a fencing match. The Illinois whipped the remainder of the Cat squad, 15 to 12.

Four of UK fencers were in an automobile which was involved in an accident with another car on U.S. Route 45 near Ashkum, south of Kankakee, Ill.

Bob Southern received body lacerations and a knee injury. Charles Krueger was cut severely and Ed Sternbergs suffered a fracture of the left leg. The fourth man in the car, Paul Wright, was unhurt, but too shaken to take part in the match.

Other team members, riding in another car, were not involved in the accident.

The physician for the University of Illinois athletic department, said Sternbergs underwent surgery last Saturday and will probably be kept in Burnham City hospital for several weeks. The others left, McKinley hospital early this week.

Sternbergs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Janis Sternbergs of the UK Art Department. They are displaced persons from Latvia.

Tomorrow the Kentucky squad will journey to Louisville to fence the Cardinals of Louisville for the Cat's fourth meet of the season. The absence of Bob Southern and Ed Sternbergs will weaken Kentucky's chances but the outcome should still find the boys in blue victorious.

Bryant may be drilling a club this spring that will only slightly resemble the team that takes on the University of Texas in the 1951 opener at Austin, Texas. Many of his holdovers are subject to the draft, and the Southeastern Conference may declare freshmen ineligible in view of the manpower situation.

With a prospect of one of the "greenest" teams fielded in his five-year tenure at the Blue Grass College, Bryant plans a lot of fundamental boardwork to prepare the squad for spring practice. But the necessity of bringing the newcomers on the groundwork of his system hand-picked veterans like Babe Parill and Bill Leskovar who otherwise could be learning advanced lessons, he said.

Kentucky won 10 and lost one during the 1950 regular season before lowering the boom on top-ranked Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. The cats will play a 10-game card in 1951.

CHESTERFIELD

LEADING SELLER IN AMERICA'S COLLEGES

Pen Portraits

By Joe Howard

DAVE CURNEAL of Madisonville is 6'7" of sheer rebounding power. He is aggressive at all times and is a score producer at crucial points.

Dave as a sophomore played on the team that represented Madisonville in the 1949 State Tournament. He is not flashy but is very consistent. Curneal, from his forward post grabs a large percentage of his team's rebounds.

He is an exceptional defensive player along with his fine offensive play and rebounding. Dave is definitely college material and should prove himself with his experience.

ONELL LEWIS is another fine rebounder. This Moretown center is a consistent scorer as well as playing a very good rebound game.

Lewis has gone over the 20 point mark in scoring on numerous occasions this season mostly on a turn around hook shot. He works well on both the offensive and the defensive backboards.

Lewis has a knack of tipping in missed shots by his teammates with great consistency. He is well over the six-foot mark and tips the scales around the 200 pound figure. With a doubt, he possesses potential college ability.

NEALE COSBY of Athens is the scoring ace of this area. So far this season he has hit for a 29-point per game average.

This 5'11" guard is a consistent scorer as well as being very valuable for his all-around good play. In one contest this season he hit for 27 points and has gone over the 20 mark several times.

He is exceptional on defense to go along with offensive ability. Cosby was held to his season low of 12 points by Latin High. It is thought by many that this boy could make a good college ball player.
