Last Quarter Pass Nabs 6-0 Victory For Kentucky In Cincinnati Roughhouse

Send The Band To Boston

"The best band in Dixie? Why that's the best band in the country!" So spoke Jan Garber, famous orchestra conductor, after watching the University's band perform between halves at the Kentucky-Xavier football game Saturday.

The KERNEL wishes to amplify that remark because it is laden with possibilities. The band, which is meeting at present at the Art center on Euclid Avenue, will have quarters of its own in a few days. It was announced recently. Facilities are being prepared in the basement of Memorial Hall, and in a few weeks the band will meet there.

Between halves of the football game the musicians, preceded by their sponsor, Betty Bakhaus, who was carrying a large bouquet of white roses, marched onto the field and formed "Hello, Chimey." This was followed by formations of "Sour Mash," "U.C." and a huge "K" which marched down the field and swallowed a small "X." The Ohio Military Institute band in Cincinnati, also performed for the spectators before the start of the game.

Forward, Davis To Robinson Nets Touchdown In Final Period As 13,000 Attend

NUMEROUS PENALTIES MAR GAME'S PROGRESS

Linden And Howe, Opposing Tackles, Are Thumbed For Private Sluaght

By TOM WATKINS AND MARVIN GAY

In a battle replete with passes, penalties, and pugnacity, the 1937 edition of Coach Ches Wynne's Wildcats trounced the Musketeers of Xavier University on Corcoran field at Cincinnati Saturday afternoon by the score of 6-0.

Kentucky's touchdown came in the early minutes of the last quarter. Bob Davis, playing at the left halfback position for the Cats, faked two passes in succession, and, running with the ball, made two nice gains. With the ball on Xavier's 27-yard line, Davis faked back, catching the Muskies off balance, shot a beautiful pass to Dick Robinson, "Cat" quarterback, who caught the piskin over his shoulder on the 40-yard line, and aided by a beautiful block on the part of Joe Hagan, went over for the final stripe standing play.

Aroused by the lone marker, the Wildcats kicked off to the Muskies, who after making their lone first down of the last period, failed to gain, and kicked to the Kentuckians. Bob Davis took the punt on his own 24 and returned it to the 28. Then began the only real touchdown march of the game.

Featuring a series of reverses over the home crowd's head, and carrying the ball, the Cats took the oval from their own 28 to the enemy 40. However, riled that he had not gone over, and at that moment the final whistle blew.

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

Lamentable End

ROBERT FEEBERG 1916-1937

THE PASSING OF Robert Feeberg leaves a vacancy on the campus of the University that will not soon be refilled.

In a world crowded with failures it is indeed a calamity that this blond, capable boy, a paragon among individuals, should be taken suddenly from the midst of us who need every available gentleman to carry on our traditions.

His achievements typify his life. He was the organizer and later the captain of the University's first swimming team.

For three years the Y. M. C. A. has benefited from his tireless endeavor toward religious and academic peace.

He represented the student body on the athletic council. The synchronization of Pershing Rifles was helped by Robert Feeberg.

He was a senior officer in the military department. In football he served the team in the role of assistant manager.

And his clear life led his brothers, Delta Tau Delta, to select him president of their lodge.

To his family and to his fraternity, the University extends its sincerest sympathy. His death is a collegiate loss.

And the flag of honor and decency, planted in the heart of our school, hangs at half-mast.

publish the best paper they are capable of publishing. Often these mistakes occur because of ignorance as to accuracy of statement.

There is only one way in which mistakes may be corrected in THE KERNEL. Knowledge of the error made will make it possible for the editors to judge the next time better.

And so THE KERNEL is hereby issuing an invitation to all faculty members, as well as all students and readers of the paper, to criticize all statements, and all phases of their newspaper.

Constructive criticism will be accepted and appreciated.

It should be the desire and duty of all to submit criticism.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

IF WE HADN'T BEEN sitting in the drug store, and if the fellow hadn't seemed so upset, we wouldn't have heard the conversation at all, but we sat and sipped coffee, five of them, until he finished.

"6805 please...hello, may I speak with Jane Walker...hello, Jane?...well, listen Jane, this is Ted...I meant to call you sooner, but...well, listen Jane...I really wasn't my fault, I...well, let me explain, will you?...I was coming over to your place when I met Bob, and he had a quart of...let me finish telling you about it Jane...well, we didn't have anything to do especially...of course, I know I had a date with you Jane, but...certainly that's important to me sweetheart, but Bob is the President of the fraternity and that's pretty important too...no, honey, it isn't as important as you, but it's important all right...and so the two of us went over to the Tavern and...no you don't know what happened either...we dropped the bottle on the sidewalk and...it is not a poor excuse...we dropped the bottle and it broke...certainly I'm not lying, have I ever lied to you?...go on answer me, have I ever lied to you?...well, that's better...now listen, we broke the bottle and so there was nothing else to do but get another one...not now Jane you're getting the wrong idea...yes you are now...we did not do that Jane!...we gave half of it away!...no, no don't hang up Jane!...Jane!...Jane!...hello, operator?...see if you can get that number again...another nickle...why yes, I think I have...on second thought operator, just do it, and say, what's the number of the Tri Delt house?"

In spite of all the things you've heard, the forthcoming Guignol play, "First Lady," is going to be good. We hate to hear these rumors that get about before every play; they seem to reflect an attitude that's hardly fair.

At another bright spot was Able Wolf and a party of six. Able had a date with a girl named Gladys, by the name of Lydia Turner and when the party was over, Able was left with a bill for $2.75. He said, "Move over, boys, let me sit next to the money gal!"

Delta Chi Bill Beatty had a date with Margie Allen and took her to her home in P. L. Thomas at two-thirty and waited there while Jimmy Smee took his date home. Twice Margie's mother called on him and said that she was getting late and that the young man had better leave. Finally, at four o'clock, Pat Beatty came down and said just what the gentleman to stay for breakfast. Where was Jimmy?

CRACK OF THE WEEK: All things come to him who orders hash.

Miss Helen Myers has suggested, through the medium of her typewriter, that we are living on a "Campus of Limps." She blames this on the phenomenal popularity of "The Big Apple."

At the Topper Ball Room were found AGR Bob Barkman and the Casanova of Freshmen, SAE Pledge Ben Williams entertaining a group of belles of Cincy by the name of Kitty Boston and Nelma Snyder.

WANTED - man with a lot of money to pay the phone bill at the Tri-Delt house. For several days last week, campus Dean Bronnells were tearing their hair because the Triple D's had overlooked the little matter of paying their bill.

THE THRILL OF A LIFETIME - While touring around P. L. Hall Sunday night, Eudora Vance arrived from a week-end at home with a cat full of bugs and a radio. It was much too much for her to carry to her room, so after getting the permission, two other boys and myself, carried two bags and a radio to the third floor of Heaven. Of course the old cry of "Men on Third" was given, but as the door of the steps was being strolled out of her room but that beauty Jean Mergerie, looking very nice indeed in a lovely blue negligee.

PHISIS Lon Torrey also had a very similar experience the other day. His one and only fainted at the great teacher. It should be understood that the mistakes in THE KERNEL may be objectionable to the faculty, they are doubly objectionable to the editors who are striving to Watch out for the thorns, girls, for here come the much awaited roses to the freshmen who after several weeks are considered to be the cream of the crop. First to Emmy Lou Turck, for being the all around girl of the freshman class. She has looks, personality, and is really an all around sport.

Matters were bending into full swing when, about the beginning of the second unbreakable, out of the mass of hooding humanity came an attractive, bright-eyed girl in wine-colored dress with brown hat and shoes—alone. What had become of her escort was apparent as much of a mystery to her as it was to the onlookers.

Arrived in Cincinnati rather late but still with time enough to make a quick return out to WLW's powerful half million watt transmitter at Mason, Ohio, which made a very impressive spectacle with some 100,000 watt air-cooled tubes, chokes, filters, and control panels.

In spite of what radio-listeners think it is such and not try to pass it off as a group of live musicians playing in the studios.

At the beginning of the fourth year, she had disappeared. Whether her recalcitrant escort had taken her to the gymnasium, she was forced through the ordeal of pushing alone across the floor of the gymnasium.

While making the rounds - Just as we predicted, Martha Chauvet starts from our studios at least once a month and one with an independent concern at least once a month.

THOSE primitive forms which civilization has never succeeded in stifling make a new and quite public debut at the dances on the campus.

However, at the Friday night frenzy there was no remarkable pitch to be observed; hysteria was at a medium, and only one or two real wrestling matches were held on the dance floor.

CAT-ST. X

Jesuit institution in the last decade, held the Wildcats at bay during the first three quarters, during which the X-men made only one touchdown threat. After reaching the Kentucky 25, a pass to Kusia, was not completed on fourth down.

Shortly before the close of the third quarter, on a punt return by Damon Davis, a knot of combatants remained entangled after the whistle blew. Upon separation by officials and players, the participants were discovered to be Al Howe, Muskie tackle, and Luke Linden, the Wildcat tackle from Blue Diamond. The "Blump" and Howe were ejected from the game, and play resumed, with frequent penalties inflicted upon both sides for unnecessary roughness. The game was riddled with fouls, and was riddled booted in turns by the Kentucky and Xavier stands.

The game was marred both by fisticuffs and fumbles. The ball was juggled badly at times by both teams. On one fumble, recovered by Weiler of Xavier, Dick Robinson of the Wildcats seemed in position to cover the pigskin, but he accidentally ran into Referee Frank Lane, who had apparently lost his way, and was in the middle of the play.

The Kentucky line played a fine game Saturday, and the second-string linemen played as well as the regulars. The work of Hinkle-bender, Synchron, Linden, Pete Vires, and Spickard, while the Davis brothers, Robinson, and Hodge shone in the backfield. Parsey, Howe, and Kusia were best for Xavier. The individual star of the game was Hodge, with his sterling punts, good defensive play, and powerful thrusts at the line.

One rattle-dazzle play was pulled by the Cats when Tommy Coleman passed to Hagan, who lateraled to Robinson, who in turn lateraled to Davis. This play gained 26 yards. Kentucky outgained the Muskies considerably, most of the margin coming in the last quarter, when they made seven first downs to Xavier's one.

BULL PEN

By GEORGE H. KERLER

Kentucky did it the hard way Saturday afternoon on Xavier's Corcoran Field by breaking up the scoreless fist-cuffs with a neat touchdown pass, Bob Davis to Dick Robinson, late in the fourth quarter, thus averting a premature start in basketball drills. There is little doubt, that if the Cats and Saints had knotted, the basketballs would be flying today in Rupp's Riviera.

Allegedly, the game was football, though at times it seemed Mike Jacobs might have had something to do with its promotion. To a complete stranger, the battle might have appeared as an annual grudge fight between two reform schools. Truthfully, it was a grand show for the spectators who had plenty of opportunity to razz, condemn, and praise both sides. And when all these oratorical qualities are expressed, Mr. J. Public goes home with the peculiar feeling of having gotten his money's worth.

Many Xavierites complained that their pigskin papists had no offense. Rather than hammer that lack, the Xavierians should look into the Kentucky defense. Therein lies the key to these oratorical qualities are expressed. Mr. J. Public goes home with the peculiar feeling of having gotten his money's worth.

He Nursed It

The contest dragged with penalties, mostly those in the offense category. This is evidence of the wrath and eagerness imbued in both squads. Never, it seemed to me, did a team want to win more than the X-men. The Kentuckys always seemed confident that a break would turn up and that their yard getting tricks would start clicking. About 50 minutes of play passed before their anticipation was rewarded.

Quarterback Robbie said he was nursing that play into a ripe moment. Once in the first half they tried it, Coleman to Robinson, but the Crowmen bottled up everybody. Then in a punt touchdown drive, the occasion popped up again. Since Coleman, who had done all the Cat pitching, was on the bench, Xavier might have been a little wary as to who was going to take up the Kentucky heaving burden. Bee Davis, on the two plays prior to the score-pass, took the ball from Coleman, faked losses and then rammed through the line. The next huddle brought the money, Davis rifled the oval 15 yards to Robinson who took it in full spirit over his shoulder and scampered across the last stripe lease which had lured Kentucky all during the second half. Necessary on this play was Joe Hagan. He and Robbie were together out in the flat when the pass loomed overhead. When Robbie snared it, Hagan spilled the Xavier savior man, sending Dick home free.

Gangway, Joe Little

The Wildcat solarium which had little to cheer about all afternoon went delirious at this point. Especially former Kerneluminary, Joe Quinn, who had $18 at even money riding on Kentucky's nose. That's when school spirit boys divided.

Excitement was high in the trelle cleft when, after a scrimmage pile was untangled, Luke Linden was discovered in the middle of the griddle, punching away for alma mater on the head of Howe, Saint tackle. One Wildcat was trying to separate them but he had about as much effect on the situation as a ukulele would have in a Benny Goodman jam session. A wave of substitutes from each headquarter rolled onto the field and the possibility of a throwback to Roman gladiatorial combat was imminent. Order replaced riot, however, and both battlers, Linden and Howe, were banished. The bulbousness around Howe's eyes after the game indicated that Madison Square Garden might have a new White hope in Mr. Linden.

Shades Of Medwick

Kentucky's defensive tactics in this game were superb. The Cincinnati, save two dashes of 30 and 16 yards, were completely corked. Line bucks netted nothing, their passing was negligible, though they did scare the K-boys in the first quarter when their left end, Kusia, got past Coleman and just missed a long throw. If completed, it would have been a touchdown for Kuscia in the end zone. Kentucky's flanks consistently turned plays into the tackle or forced the runners wide enabling the Cat secondary to sneak in and demolish the play. Larry Garland played the entire 60 minutes, the only Kentucky who saw full time service. Sherman Hinkebein played splendidly and Whitley Hodge, who came in for Simpson at the half, now stands as a definite offensive threat. He proved Saturday that he can find a hole and drive through it. Blessed with the ability to start fast, Hodge is going to be a ground-gainer from now on.

After the game-winning touchdown, Hodge started a solo flight to another score. With the ball resting on the X-5, Bob Davis tried to buck it over but was thwarted in such fashion that it brought gestures of anger from the Dayton Express. At this juncture the Xavier parishioners stood up, booing and jeering Davis who immediately took a rebellious attitude toward the bleachers. Rookie stuff. It merely threw gasoline on the heated fans and added to the bitterness between the schools.

Too Much Lane?

In the final play of the game Hodge carried the ball and planted both feet over the X-goaline. (See Herald Leader photo on page one.) Because Kentucky did not need that touchdown, no squawks started. Yet, suppose the game was 0-0 and the referee ruled no score. On the strength of the photo, the white knickered St. Peters would be in hot water this morning.

Incongruous to complain about referees after you win a game, nevertheless, I question the faultlessness of Frank "Muscles" Lane, who arbitrates in too many of Kentucky's athletic contests. So frequently does he officiate Wildcat tussles that he is bound to be an expert commentator on the team style and characteristics of each Kentucky player. Roughness is common in all physical contact attractions. And Lane never misses a trick. Perhaps if he refred competition between two foreign teams, he might not be such a desperately accurate critic and judge. But a man who sees Did this ever happen to you?

You might be standing right next to the most attractive person you ever met, but you don't know it until you are introduced... until you get acquainted.

And you don't know how much pleasure a cigarette can give until somebody offers you a Chesterfield.

Certainly this is true: Chesterfields are refreshingly milder... they've got a taste that smokers like.
