Hards Rice, A.S. freshman: "It eliminated most of the confusion and enabled new freshmen coming in to get a better chance at registering."
Doris McCaskey, A.S. junior: "I think it's very good. I think it's the best system they've found yet."
Wendell Demaree, A.S. junior: "I like it. It saves a lot of confusion."

Russell Ricketts, commerce, freshman: "I think it's a good idea. Saves a lot of time after you come back."
Casey Goman, A.S. junior: "I think it's a lot better than the old one, but wouldn't it help matters a lot if they gave us those yellow cards when they gave us the classification cards, and then we'd have to do would be to go down the line and get them stamped?"
Mary Jane Dorsey, A.S. senior: "I like it. It certainly saves a lot of time."
Clayton Roland, A.S. freshman: "I think it's fine. It eliminates a lot of unnecessary confusion."
Donald Orvin, A.S. junior: "I think it's fine. I wish we could have more of it."

Registration at the University of Kentucky reached a peak of 4,079 students on Friday, March 29, 1946, according to a report from the Registrar's Office.

The Registrar, Dr. H. L. Donovan, reported that the enrollment for the spring quarter was 4,079, which is a record for the University. This figure includes 2,800 full-time students and 1,279 part-time students.

Administration Given Vote Of Confidence By House

The Kentucky House of Representatives last week gave Dr. Herman Lee Donovan, president of the University, and the board of trustees a vote of complete confidence.

The House adopted on voice vote a resolution expressing confidence in the University administration following receipt of a report from a special committee which investigated charges leveled against the institution.

"Greatest Confidence" Expressed
Rep. Roy Arnold, Danville, chairman of the committee, said it had "greatest confidence" in Doctor Donovan. The inquiry came as a result of the circulation of letters by four University students, making charges against the University set-up.

Rep. E. F. Pritchard of Paris introduced a resolution suggesting that students and faculty dissatisfied with the present administration "promote disassociate themselves from the school and seek benefits of higher education elsewhere."

Endorse President's Position
Endorsing the position taken by the president, the resolution concluded with the suggestion to disassociate students and faculty to leave.

The past five years have been "critical ones at the University," the committee said. "It is not expected that everyone would be of one mind and entirely harmonious." Expressing the belief that the letter "has been a useful effect, and that the University will work more strongly to apply themselves to harmonizing that which is out of accord," the committee cited harmony between Donovan and student body, which had its origin in the administrative proceeding Donovan's.

Harmony Origin
With a student body of 3,500 and a faculty of more than 800 members, the committee said, "it is not expected that everyone would be of one mind and entirely harmonious." Expressing the belief that the letter "has been a useful effect, and that the University will work more strongly to apply themselves to harmonizing that which is out of accord," the committee cited harmony between Donovan and student body, which had its origin in the administrative proceeding Donovan's.

Men Outnumber Women Students

At 3 p.m. yesterday 4,079 students had enrolled for the spring quarter. This exceeds the previous record by 268.

The 4,000th student enrolled for the spring quarter at 10:45 yesterday morning. He was Ben Randolph Danvers, architecture freshman from Stanford. With three more days left for registration, Miss Maud Moore, assistant registrar, predicted yesterday that enrollment would reach at least 4,150 and perhaps would go beyond that figure.

The previous record enrollment of 3,805 in the fall quarter of 1939 already has been passed, and predictions at the registrar's office are that this hard-to-break record will be established this quarter.

The wartime loss for student enrollment was hit in spring, 1944, when only 1,281 students registered. In the first semester of 1941-42, the figure dropped to 2,723. Then the war came along and it went down to 2,388. From that time until V-J Day the drop continued.

In the fall quarter of 1942, the enrollment of men dropped to 1,657. In the winter quarter it was 1,407, and in the spring it was 688. In the fall of 1943, only 416 men enrolled, and in the winter 319 men signed. The shortage in men was 289 men in the spring quarter of 1944.

Although no figures for the spring quarter or for any quarter this year were available at the registrar's office, the shortage of men obviously had disappeared.

The latest figures on last quarter's enrollment, although not exact, disclose that the male enrollment is larger than the female. The fact-check in manwoman ratio can be attributed to the large number of veterans that have entered the University; there are approximately 1,400 vet-students.

Enroll, Boosting Spring Registration

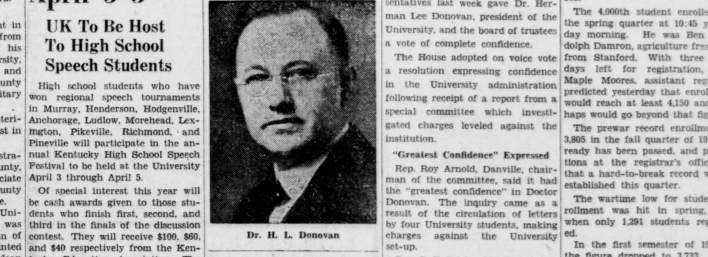

An estimate by Dr. Lyle K. Henry, assistant personal director, indicates that at least 2,200 veterans have registered for the spring quarter at the University. Dr. Henry based his estimate of veterans at the University on the number of book orders which he has issued. He said 959 new veterans had applied for their books under the GI Bill of Rights and 903 veterans which were last quarter also turned in their book orders. He believed there would be two to three hundred more of the latter group who had not yet applied for their books.

Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday, June 2, and commencement will be Friday, June 7. Speakers for these programs are to be announced.

Sarah G. Blanding To Be Principal Honors Day Speaker

The University of Kentucky's Honors Day Convocation will be held in Memorial Hall, May 14, with Sarah G. Blanding, recently elected president of Vassar college, as principal speaker. Miss Blanding, a graduate of the University of Kentucky and former dean of women at the University, served as president of the National Association of Deans of Women and is present dean of the Cornell University College of Home Economics. Her subject will be announced at a later date.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University, will preside at the convocation and Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, dean of the University, will present the students to be honored.

According to Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, the names of those to be honored will not be released before the convocation exercises. All students having a 2.5 standing will be recognized and all who have received some signal or academic honor.

Navy Art Exhibit Will Be Held

A Navy art exhibit, with paintings by six Navy combat artists, will be held in the main ballroom of the Phoenix Hotel April 28, 1946. Lt. M. Rubin, officer in charge, announced yesterday. The free exhibit, will be open from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m.

The combat artists were commissioned by the Navy to paint the war as they saw it. The pictures have been widely distributed in national magazines and were well received. Lt. Rubin said.

The exhibit has just been returned from showing in New York and Boston, and it will be placed in a museum after the current tour, he said.

What To Do While She Powders Her Nose

By Jimmy Donovan

"What to do while your girl friend powders her nose," although not a problem for UNO, is certainly of international significance. It's true there are females who could stand a 100 hour inspection every hour, but the average male gets exceedingly tired waiting for the curtain to rise on little Mary Anne every time she smears her lipstick.

Unlike most problems facing man today, this one is not of the war. In fact it is conceivable that Oo, one of our neolithic forebears could have carried out the history of his period while waiting for Oeette to rearrange her dinosaur skin. Of course, no evidence is found concerning this in history, but one corner of the rug. Nevertheless, he's standing there, and for the first ten minutes or so, he very carefully scrutinizes all the coming attractions pictured on the wall. Naturally, he has seen all the pictures, including the one he has just witnessed inside, but he maintains a certain amount of composure and does not go to pieces.

A man passes, glances at the very brightly colored raiacot he is holding for his girl, looks up at his face with a knowing look, and continues on. This blow is almost more than he can stand but he weathers this cigarette and walks over to the candy counter.

He then buys a bar of candy which he has never heard of and which he didn't want in the first place. He does notice that it was made in Mexico but as he goes back to his picture gazing he wouldn't remember whether it was made out of chocolate or balsam wood.

... and Time Passes

By the time Mary Anne returns, he's pacing the floor, biting his nails, and setting the wrapper off the candy bar. Definitely, he's in a sorry state of affairs, but without too much visible effort, he gives her a big beautiful smile.

In the dimly lit theater lobby, she doesn't notice that the smile is identical with the type used by people when the dentist tells them they need more fillings; but that's all he needs the point. Mary Anne is back, and he's no longer a social orphan.

Yes, man is indeed facing a problem, not only in theaters but in every social activity where he comes in contact with women.

The adhesive qualities between a woman and a full length mirror are astounding to the modest male and the worst of it is that every problem regardless of similar characteristics is an individual one and must be dealt with accordingly. For that reason, trial and error is probably the most prevalent procedure.

There was one man who carried a copy of "Anthony Adverse" and read it only on those occasions. However, he's was a stubborn case. He finished the book, read the entire encyclopedia Britannica, and now he's trying to talk the Book of the Month Club into sending him next month's books.

Another case closely paralleling the aforementioned ended tragically. Mr. Z. normal in all respects, had degenerated to the point of reading the printing on his ticket stubs while waiting for his girl. Half the ticket was missing, and in a fit of mental frustration, he set fire to the powder room. Needless to say, she came out.

Service to the public has long been a tradition in the Bell System. The thought "service first"—day by day as well as in emergencies—has helped give this nation the best communications service in the world.

WBKY To Operate On 1,000 Watts

WBKY, University FM station, now operating on 500 watts, has recently been assigned the right to broadcast on 1,000 watts. In addition, the educational FM band has been changed, and so soon as the FM sets become more common, WBKY will broadcast on the band somewhere between 88,000 and 108,000 kilocycles.

James Hise, chief engineer for the station, is building the new 1,000 watt transmitter for use as soon as manufacturers begin putting out FM receivers.

Funeral Services For Delta Zeta House Mother

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Beard, Delta Zeta house mother, in Shelbyville.

Mrs. Beard came to the University as house director for Shelby house, and organized the first cooperative unit on the campus. She was with the group for four years, and was instrumental in devising the standards for Shelby house girls.

After her four years here, Mrs. Beard went to Florida State College for Women, where she was house director for the Alpha Delta Pi chapter for seven years.

Mrs. Beard had retired, but this year consented to act as house mother here, when Mrs. Holmes had difficulty in securing one.

Platter Chatter

Record Data:

With the touch of Spring that's now in the air, there could be no more appropriate melody wafted on the campus breezes than Perry Come's rendition of "All Through the Day" from the 20th-Century Fox film, "Centennial Summer." Another smash hit in the Comco rendition, this top tune from the talented pens of Rodgers and Hammerstein has a smooth melody that is irresistible. Perry renders the number in an easy, casual manner with deep feeling while Russ Case and his Orchestra flavor the accompaniment with rich, singing strings. The flipper, "Prisoner of Love," hits the romantic bull's eye. There's a poignant appeal to this old Russ Columbo ditty that will make it once again an ace favorite along domestic row.

A smash new disc for swing fans, and one which will come in handy while "jamming" around the house as well as a great number for some loose harmony, is the Henry "Red" Allen and his Orchestra, featuring J. C. Higginbotham version of "Drink Hearly (But Stay With Your Party)" and "The Craw." Both these inimitable musicians have won national music polls and are considered front rank performers at their respective trumpet and trombone. The accompanying sextette, also comprised of outstanding instrumentalists, whip into both these sides with red hot fervor. "Drink Hearly" features an amusing "Red" Allen vocal with an all-instrumental on "The Craw," which pounds out a rousing rhythm. You'll want this platter for your collection.

Another gratifying disc from Tommy Dorsey in the "Sentimental Gentleman's" easy-going manner, a pair of good tunes that will provide proper sparking for an evening's entertainment on the turntable, are "Where Did You Learn to Love?" and "Come Rain or Come Shine." The latter number, from the new musical, "St. Louis Woman," will be heard from plenty when the show opens on Broadway later this month.

The latter number, from the new musical, "St. Louis Woman," will be heard from plenty when the show opens on Broadway later this month. "Where Did You Learn to Love?" features Tommy's trombone while the band boys beat out a well rounded orchestration. Stuart Foster sings the vocal in a romantic and winning manner with the Sentimentalist blending voices on the chorus. Sy Oliver renders a low-down vocal on the reverse, "Come Rain or Come Shine," while the band swings it out at a slow drag tempo with John Polaker's piano setting an effective, barrel-house mood.

Here's a disc that will come in handy if you want to whip into some torpid-swing gymnastics (cut a rug to you) or just relax back and lend a hand to an inspired three minutes of music making as Freddy Martin and his Orchestra play "Now and Forever." That new number "One composer on the Hit Parade," Teichowitky, supplies the melody for this latest hit tune, adapted from the main theme of the last movement of his Sixth Symphony. It's a lovely danceable exposition of the immortal melody to which Artie Wayne contributes an outstanding vocal. The flipper, "Bumble Boogie," is a brilliant exposition of Jack Fildes' keyboard technique on a very clever arrangement of the Rimsky-Korsakov classic, "The Flight of the Bumble Bee."

That hit tune from the Hope-Crosby Paramount film frolic, "Read to Utopia" gets what may well be its most rousing rendition in the version by Helen Carroll with the Staffsters of "Personality." This new warbling foursome, who were a sensational hit with Perry Como on his "Dig You Later," come out on their own with this solo debut and display a unique and impressive vocal styling which lends itself ideally to the catchy tune. The reverse side, "Love Is So Terrific (Ouch! Terrific Thing)" is a rousing swing tune, rendered in fine style by this exciting vocal group. Attractive Marina Stewart, a Sweetheart of Fraternity Row, sings a pair of pop tunes in a sweet and winning way, "Day by Day" and "Tomorrow Is Forever." The songstress' piping is heard to good advantage on both of these melodic numbers, which are climbing up high on the Hit Parade.

Though St. Patrick's Day has come and gone, the beauty of Dennis Day's selection of Irish tunes in the "Stamrock Melodies" album, will be of lasting pleasure. If you're a mellow hummer with the numbers, which are in a harmonizing mood, these tunes will certainly set you off on a vocalizing spree. Ranging from "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" to "The Rose of Tralee," sure, it's a bit of Old Ireland.

The removal of barracks from the Lexington Signal Depot to the University grounds to provide housing for 300 men students has been authorized by the Federal Housing Administration, Dr. Herman L. Donovan said.

Dr. Donovan said Senator Allen W. Barkley and W. A. Stansell informed him that the Federal Housing Administration had set aside money to pay for the transfer of the barracks and that work on moving the buildings would start within a few days.

The University will bear the cost of making heating and plumbing installations, Dr. Donovan stated, but the FHA will dismantle the barracks, move them to the campus, and re-erect them.

With such a vast increase in the University's enrollment, even the seasoned students have been running around acting like dazed freshmen. We heard of twenty upperclassmen who sat through half an hour of a Sociology lecture thinking it was a Phys Ed class.

Banquet Honoring Basket Ball Team Given By Alumni Association To Be Held In Union Ballroom

N.I.A.C. Champions Return; To Be Feted Tomorrow Night

By Hal Yard
Kentucky's Wildcats who lost only two games during regular playing season and none during post season and tournament play, and who shattered numerous all-time Kentucky records, will be guests at a banquet given tomorrow night by the alumni association. The banquet intended as a tribute to the team will be held in the Bliergass room of the Student Union at 6:30 p.m., and will be open to the public.

The Kentucky team added victories number 26, 27, and 28 to their count by capturing the first Invitation crown for their alma mater. Fresh from their revenge win over the Temple Owls the 'Cats traveled east by air. Coach Rupp, who had gone on ahead while the members of the team finished up their exams, had a bit of a scare when he had weather grounded the team in Cincinnati for at least 12 hours.

However, the weather man finally gave the OK and the team got there in time to meet the Arizona Wildcats in the opener. Although the team arrived too late to practice according to plans they had little trouble in disposing of Arizona 77-53. Jones pitched in 16 points and was closely followed by Parkinson with 14 and Tingle with 13. Beard and Schu each accounted for nine points.

Immediately following the Arizona game, Jones suffered an attack of appendicitis and was still in a weak condition when the 'Cats met West Virginia in the semifinals. It proved to be a "rip and tuck" game all the way, with the score being tied 14 times before Kentucky managed to pull ahead in the last two and a half minutes to win 52-51. Tingle and Beard headed the scoring column with 16 and 15 points respectively. Parkinson added ten and Holland nine.

By virtue of their closing spurt that led to victory over the Mountaineers the 'Cats advanced to the finals to meet the Rhode Island Rams. Rhode Island started in the tournament a 20-1 favorite to cop the crown, but by this time the sports writers and book makers were figuring them as just an eight point under dogs to Kentucky with the possibility that anything could happen. And something nearly happened. The Rhodies probably played their best game of the entire season, and were on top 47-26 at the half. The score was tied an even dozen times before the 'Wildcats' leading scorer for the night cashed in a charity toss to mark up his 13th point and put the Kentuckians on top 46-45.

The partisan crowd of well over 18,000 had been screaming in an attempt to rattle the speedy little Kentucky guard, but their efforts were in vain. They remained standing for the fleeting seconds of the game and continued to cheer, as Rhode Island made several desperate flings at the basket, all of which failed to connect. Finally, after a seemingly endless period of time to Kentucky fans the horn sounded, ending the game and the school located in the heart of the blizzard had won its first Metropolitan Invitational Tournament Championship.

Beard, who had been guarding Ernie Calverle, Rhodies' sparkplug in previous games, held the shiny led to eight points, four of them coming via the charity method. Jones was back in shape and contributed 10 points, while Schu dropped in nine.

The banquet tomorrow night is a tribute to this Wildcat team. A team which certainly deserves all the tribute that the alumni can and will pay them. The dinner which starts at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by a speech by Coach Rupp and then Bernie Shively will present letters to members of the '45-46 squad. A dance will follow the presentation with Bob Bleid's orchestra playing. Members of the football team will be guest at the dance. The public is invited to attend either the dinner and dance or just the dance.

TIME OUT!

By O. C. Halyard, Jr.

With the possibility of a game between the Oklahoma Aggies, NCAA champions, and the Kentucky Wildcats, Invitational champs, just idle chatter, and the Wildcats have put away their uniforms, bringing to an end the most successful season ever enjoyed by a Kentucky cage team.

The hardwood sport will step aside to a complete program of spring sports, the first since 1942. Baseball, tennis, track, and golf will get underway immediately. Also the footballers are beginning to loosen up again in what has been termed the "real" spring practice.

Coach Rupp hasn't said how he compares this year's team to his favored 1935 team, which the Baron has often said was his greatest, but the records give the retiring basketballers undisputed claims for the highest spot. Although this year's squad featured no all-American, it was composed of a great bunch of fighting boys who knew the meaning of team work. Team work was the one factor that helped to make the team a success.

Four of the starting five on this year's team will be back next year, barring any unforeseen incidents. Joe Holland stands ready to fill Schu's place. He finished up the season with 110 points to his credit and the honor of being the only man outside of the starters who participated in every game. In addition to Holland there are such boys as Barker, who at one time was proclaimed the best ball handler in the nation; Yessin another star from previous Wildcat teams; Davis who saw action on the second team this season; and several others who have returned from the service to take up their basketball careers.

Then there is strong talk, in fact it's darn near certain that Alex Groza, and Bob Brannum, former Wildcat centers who need no introduction to Kentucky fans, will be back from their stretch in the army. Another certain thing is that Coach Rupp isn't going to keep four good boys like Groza, Brannum, Jones, and Campbell tied up at the center spot. Therefore, the only logical place for some of them to play is forward.

The guard positions will probably be the weakest for reserves in proportion to the others. But with men like Parkinson, who has just set a new individual scoring record for Kentucky players; Beard, one of the fastest and most capable men on defense in the nation and by no means a slouch on offense; Parker, whose play has made him a favorite, with Kentucky followers; Crockett, who developed rapidly towards the end of the season, and several others, even the guard positions will be above par.

Next year's team should see some stiff competition for berths on both the first and second teams. Maybe the suggestion that Kentucky field two number one teams next year isn't so bad. One could play in the South including conference competition, and the other could take on the northern teams clamoring for games with the Wildcats. But on second thought which team would Rupp travel with. He plays a hard game on the bench and playing one by remote control might not prove too successful.

Schu To Play In East-West All-Stars Game Tomorrow

Wilbur Schu, Kentucky's senior forward, will see action tomorrow night as a member of the Eastern All-Star team, which will play the Western All-Stars in a charity game at Madison Square Garden.

Wildcat squad and will be playing his last game in collegiate competition when play gets under way tomorrow night.

Schu has always played his greatest ball in the Garden and New Yorkers have long recognized his ability when he appeared there against rugged opposition. He was a member of the All-Southeastern Conference second team and the only member of the Kentucky team to be selected on the Eastern All-Star team. He scored 300 points in games played this season.

Parkinson's 339 Breaks Ky Record

The close of the Rhode Island game found Capt. Jack Parkinson at the head of Kentucky's scoring parade with 339 points. Previously Leroy (Big Boy) Edwards, now a professional player, had set an individual scoring record of 334 points in 1935.

Parkinson was named Friday night to the third-string All-American team selected by True magazine. He and Coach Rupp were among guests at an All-American banquet. Kentucky completed the season with an average of 60 points a game, against 40 points for the opposition. Points scored by the Wildcats during the season totaled 1,821.

Individual scoring is as follows:

Baseball, Football, Track and Tennis Teams Begin Spring Practice To Resume Full Athletic Program

Pre-War Sports Return

By Don Towles
With the close of a very successful basketball season at the University of Kentucky, the sports men now turn to spring practices and games. The opening of practice season for five new sports will begin in the very near future. Baseball, track, and golf will be resumed for the first time since 1942.

According to Coach Bryant, Wednesday's football practice was the opening practice of a series which will last for several weeks. Coach Bryant announced several weeks ago that he was disappointed in the early practices but with the start of the spring quarter and the addition of many new students to the University he has resumed training. About twenty new football prospects were on hand at Wednesday's practice. Coach Bryant said earlier in the season that the men needed much more "spirit" and "get up and go" if they expected to have a decent season.

Coach Bryant stated at the opening practice that this was not spring practice and that the boys were only "messing around" in the shape of it. About fifty players were out at the opening practice, the majority of them being new men. Bryant had previously said that he would like to use some new men that had plenty of "fire" and determination to win. At the opening practice, the squad went through conditioning exercises and did not run many plays. Several men were back that have in the past been stars on Kentucky teams along with some new players that have never seen action in a college football game.

In addition to the previously mentioned sports, the tennis team will begin practice soon. Matches with Notre Dame, Michigan State, Cincinnati and other colleges have been arranged. This will be the second year since the outbreak of the war that Kentucky has had a tennis team. The golf team will begin practice tomorrow with the regular scheduled class of golf given by the physical education department. If the weather permits, several students have been signed up for "try outs" on the golf team with others expected to be on hand at the first session.
