

UK Coaching Clinic Opens Thursday

Five Top Mentors Will Lead

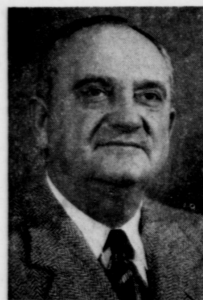

Five of the nation's top coaches of basketball and football will be featured in UK's annual coaching clinic, which will open Thursday in Memorial Coliseum.

Highlights of the three-day clinic will be the All-Star Basketball game at 6 p.m., CST, and the All-Star football game at 7:30 p.m., set for Saturday night.

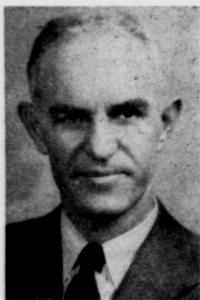

Tickets for the two All-Star tilts, between selected teams of East and West high school players, are on sale in the Coliseum ticket office and at Graves-Cox. Each ticket will be $1.25; all basketball seats will be reserved. All football tickets will be general admission. Proceeds will go to a permanent fund toward the compensation of high school athletes who suffer serious injuries.

For the clinic, 145 advance registrations have been made from Kentucky, 14 other states and Canada. A total of nearly 500 is expected. Publicist Ken Kuhn said, with registrations from Kentucky high school coaches making up the late numbers.

Visiting basketball coach will be John Bunn, head of the cage sport at Springfield, Mass., College—the school noted as the birthplace of basketball. He is past president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and was influential in bringing about changes in rules credited with speeding up the game and increasing its popularity. A 10-letter athlete at the University of Kansas, Coach Bunn has coached on both the east and west coasts during a long career.

Two stellar grid coaches will participate in the clinic sessions. Clarence (Biggie) Munn, head coach of the national champion Michigan State Spartans, was named football's "coach of the year" last season. Much of Munn's spectacular success in the grid world is attributed to his development of one of the most complex offensive systems in modern football. An off-shoot of the singletwing, the Munn style incorporates elements of the split-T, double-wing, winged-T and other formations.

Ray Eliot, veteran football chief at the University of Illinois, has headed the fighting Illini for ten years. Besides producing two Western Conference titlists and a like number of Rose Bowl championship outfits, he has fielded teams in four other years which were contenders until final games of the season.

Strongly featured in the clinic, of course, will be UK's own nationally known head coaches.

Adolph Rupp, "Man in the Brown Suit," is widely credited with doing more than any other modern cage mentor to make basketball a national spectator sport. With his 23rd year as headmaster of the Wildcat brigade behind him, Coach Rupp can look back on a two-decade regime of unparalleled success that has made him the nation's winningest cage coach. He has a record of 471 victories against 82 losses—a winning average of better than 85 per cent.

Paul (Bear) Bryant, pioneering director of the newly-prominent grid Wildcats, is regarded generally as one of the nation's outstanding collegiate mentors. In seven seasons, the youthful former Alabama flankman has guided UK elevens to four major bowls and a conference title. He also has inaugurated a unique recruiting policy drastically limiting out-of-state selection of athletes.

Assistant UK coaches helping with the discussions and lectures will include Harry Lancaster, basketball, and Ernal Allen, Clarence Underwood, Jim Owens, Phil Cutchin, Jerry Claiborne and Pat James, football.

The clinic schedule, with all times CST, is:

Aug. 13, 7 a.m., Bryant, Kentucky defenses; 8:30 a.m., Eliot, football; 10 a.m., Owens, end play fundamentals; 12:30 p.m., Munn, football; 2 p.m., Eliot, football; 3:30 p.m., Underwood, tackle play; 4:30 p.m., James, guard play; 7 p.m., Cutchin, scouting and use of movies; 8 p.m., football training movie.

Aug. 14, 7:15 a.m., Munn, football; 9 a.m., Bunn, basketball; 12:30 p.m., Rupp, basketball; 1:30 p.m., Bunn, basketball; 2:30 p.m., Allen, fundamentals for offensive backs; 3:30 p.m., Claiborne, fundamentals for defensive secondary.

Aug. 15, 7 a.m., Bunn, basketball; 8 a.m., Rupp, basketball; 9 a.m., Lancaster, basketball; 10 a.m., Munn, football; 12:30 p.m., Eliot, football; 2 p.m., Bryant, Kentucky offense; 3 p.m., Kentucky staff, questions and answers; 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., All-Star games.

1953-54 School Year Events Include Sports, Speakers

The 89th group of new UK freshmen will arrive for orientation activities on Monday, Sept. 14. Old students will report Thursday, Sept. 17, for a three-day registration and classification period.

Classwork will begin on Monday, Sept. 21.

The fall semester will run through Jan. 29, broken only by a four-day Thanksgiving vacation and the usual two-week Christmas holiday.

If a slight upward trend predicted by national studies holds true, UK's first semester registration figure will be slightly under 6,000. Registrar Richard L. Tutthill has noted.

UK's first football game of the season will be against the Texas A and M Aggies on Saturday night, Sept. 19, at Stoll Field.

Already booked for the season concert and lecture series, to which UK students will be admitted by ID cards, are the Guarde Republican Band of Paris, France; DePaur Infantry Chorus; Trygve Lie, World Affairs Council and Panel; Men and Boys Choir of St. Paul's Cathedral, London; Town Meeting of the Air; St. Louis Symphony; Whittmore and Lowe, duo pianists; New York Philharmonic Orchestra; Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, and Lily Pons.

social sciences will be presented in the Blazer Lecture series. Already signed are Oran J. Hale, Institute of Public Affairs, University of Virginia; Turner Catledge, managing editor of the New York Times, and Ben Thomas, Abraham Lincoln Association, Springfield, Ill.

Newmanites Plan Party Tonight

Newman Club members will hold a swimming party tonight at a farm on the Russell Cave Pike.

President Martin Ginocchio said the group would leave from behind the Student Union at 5:30 p.m., CST. The party would be the main social event for the summer group, he added.

Kyian Distribution Times Are Listed

Kentuckians for 1953 August graduates will be available next week in the main office, first floor, of the Journalism Building, Mrs. Mary Anne Good, secretary, said today.

Others who have not picked up their yearbooks can get them at this time, she noted, but no books will be given out without receipts from the comptroller's office or the Kyian sales.

The office will be open from 2 to 4 p.m., CST, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Books not picked up by noon Saturday, Aug. 15, will not be available again until Oct. 1.

Student Is Holdup Victim

Conrad Richardson, summer school student who plays a feature role in the summer opera this week, was the victim of a holdup after dress rehearsal of the presentation Tuesday night.

His automobile was stolen from him after the Mt. Sterling man told police, he was forced at gunpoint to drive it from Lexington to Jessamine county.

The automobile was recovered Wednesday afternoon in Somerset.

Richardson told city police the unidentified robber forced his way into the car about 2 a.m. Wednesday as he was stopped at Main St. and the Esplanade.

After forcing his way into the car, Richardson said, the gunman ordered him to Nicholasville. Upon reaching Nicholasville, Richardson was ordered to continue driving south on Highway 27.

About two miles out of Nicholasville, Richardson said, he was ordered to stop at a filling station. The gunman, he said, whistled and, receiving no answer, ordered him to drive on.

A few miles farther on, Richardson said, the bandit ordered him to turn onto the Wilmore road. After about six miles on the Wilmore road, he said, the gunman ordered him to stop, climb over a fence and lie down in a field.

Richardson said his companion tore off his polo shirt and undershirt and tied his hands and feet with them. Before leaving, he said, the robber told him his car would be left on Main street in Nicholasville.

Freeing himself, Richardson made his way to a nearby house where he obtained a ride into Nicholasville and contacted Jessamine county and state police.

Richardson said he made repeated attempts to talk the bandit out of robbing him, with no success. "He seemed bent," he said, "on taking the car."

The gunman's conversation, Richardson said, was mostly incoherent, and consisted chiefly of one-syllable answers. "He mumbled to himself a great deal," he said.

Richardson said the man held the gun on him constantly during the drive.

The man, Richardson said, made no attempt to rob him of a diamond ring, which he removed and slipped into a watch pocket, and $19, which he took from his billfold and stuck in his sock.

Richardson said the man drank frequently from a bottle during the ride.

Police said the car was found, apparently abandoned but still in running condition, on a Somerset street.

Clemson Prexy Will Give Commencement Address

Dr. Robert F. Poole, president of Clemson College, will deliver the principal address at Summer School commencement exercises at 7 p.m., CST, Friday, Aug. 14, in Memorial Coliseum.

The South Carolina educator will speak on "The Importance of Sound Educational Principles."

More than 300 seniors and graduate students will be awarded degrees at the commencement ceremony, the registrar's office has reported. Of this number approximately 150 will receive graduate degrees.

University President H. L. Donovan will confer degrees upon the recipients and will introduce the speaker. The charge to graduates will be given by Dr. M. M. White, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Poole holds a B.S. degree from Clemson and M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Rutgers University. His honorary degrees include a D.Sc. from Clemson, an LL.D. from the University of South Carolina and a Litt.D. degree from Furman University.

Principal posts held by the commencement speaker before he assumed the Clemson presidency were those of associate plant pathologist at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station and professor and plant pathologist at North Carolina State College.

Dr. Riley Montgomery, president of the College of the Bible, Lexington, will give both the invocation and benediction at the ceremony. Two vocal selections will be presented by the Summer School Chorus. These numbers are "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" by Bach and "Hallelujah, Amen" by Handel.

Members of the audience will join with the chorus in the singing of the Alma Mater and the national anthem to close the exercise.

Reception Set For Author, Dr. A.L. Crabb

Dr. A. L. Crabb of Nashville, Tenn., author of the recently published novel, "Home to Kentucky," will be honored at a reception to be held tonight at Ashland, home of Henry Clay, by UK and the Henry Clay Foundation.

Scheduled from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the East Main street shrine, the reception will be open to the public.

"Home to Kentucky" is a historical fiction work based on the life of Henry Clay, and Lexington is the setting for a great part of the novel.

Dr. Crabb, a native Kentuckian, has been professor of education at George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville since 1927. His son, Alfred Crabb Jr., is a UK instructor in English.

Advice To Graduates

It's A Big Jump From Halls of Ivy

"Advice to Graduates," an editorial in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, may appeal to you as much as it appealed to me. "It is a big jump from the halls of ivy," reflected the Plain Dealer editorialist, "to the world in which men have to live and work and compete with other men, to the day they die. "The world isn't as pretty as a college campus; sometimes it is downright ugly and, for most men, there are no dotting parents to pay the bills or pat a guy on the back. He must sink or swim alone. "For the graduate who is willing to keep his mouth shut until he knows what he is talking about; who is willing to work until the sweat literally and figuratively runs down his back; who can develop patience without losing his spirit; who can bear to listen to an opposite point of view without blowing his stack; who can realize that the world has changed and that men must get along together or perish together; who can take personal sorrow bravely; who can bury dead dreams and forget them—for such a man the future will not be too tough."—Ed Sullivan, "Little Old New York."

Pasture Plowing Ends Three-Year Experiment

The plowing up of pasture land on the Experiment Station farm along the Nicholasville road ends a three-year experiment with grass and legume combinations, Dr. D. W. Seath, head of the dairy section, said this week. The plots were used for dairy cow grazing.

'Shooting Star' Display To Start On Sunday Night

What may be the best display of meteors, or shooting stars, in several years will begin Sunday night and continue for several weeks. Dr. H. H. Downing, professor of mathematics and astronomy, said this week that the moon will be dark during the meteor period, causing the shooting stars to show up brilliantly. A bright moon has interfered with observation of the shower for the past few years, he noted.

The display should be at its best Aug. 11 and 12, Dr. Downing said, with the best show offered from about 10 p.m. until 2 a.m.

Just how many meteors will be observed can not be predicted, but "sometimes as many as 50 or 60 an hour" have appeared, he stated.

The August meteor concentration is called the Perseid group, because it appears to be coming from the constellation Perseus. In the early part of the evening, it will appear in the eastern sky, but will shift higher and be almost overhead at midnight, according to Dr. Downing.

The astronomer noted that most of the meteors are tiny pieces of matter, made brilliant by the friction generated when they strike the earth's surface at speeds something like 25 miles per second.

"The earth's atmosphere protects us from the meteors by burning most of them out before they reach the ground," he said.

"If it weren't for that, we would be perforated by falling particles before very long."

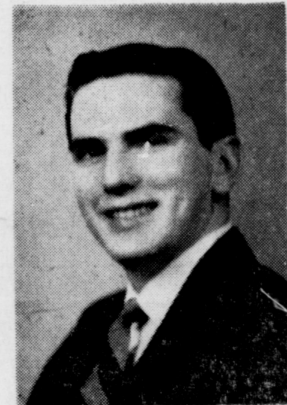

The meteors are usually 50 or 60 miles high when we see them, Dr. Downing reported, adding that most of them burn out very quickly, with the larger ones lasting the longest, and a very few reaching the ground.

Grid Ducats Available, Hodges Says

Some tickets are still available at the Coliseum for all UK home football games this fall, Harvey Hodges, athletic ticket sales manager, has announced.

Only a few bleacher seats remain for the Tennessee tilt. For the Florida and Texas A and M scraps, stadium seats between the 5-yard line and the end zone of the concrete stands are available, and for the remaining three games — with Memphis State, Villanova and Mississippi State — stadium seats from the 10-yard line to the end zone are on sale.

All regular season books have been sold, but special books are available with stadium seats for five games and a place in the bleachers for the Tennessee fracas.

A number of fans want to get "on the list" through purchase of such a season ticket this year so they'll qualify as a priority buyer for next year's sale of season books, Mr. Hodges explained.

Warren Display Has Manuscript

An exhibit featuring the original manuscript of Robert Penn Warren's narrative poem, "Brother to Dragons," is on display on the first floor of the University's Margaret I. King library.

Included in the exhibit is the galley proof and a printed partial version of the poem which appeared last winter in the Kenyon Review, as well as the final manuscript and a copy of the book, published by Random House.
