"YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY, BABY"

By Russell Rice
UK Sports Information Director

Women have been playing basketball almost from the game's inception; in fact, Maude Sherman, first of the ladies to play the game, married Dr. James Naismith, who introduced basketball at the International YWCA Training School in Springfield, MA, in the autumn of 1891.

In Kentucky a few years later, girls began playing the new game on "Miss Nettie's Lawn" in Lexington and in match games on some of the state's college campuses.

The first basketball game in which collegians in Kentucky competed against someone outside their campus was played Feb. 4, 1901, when teams from the Art, Bible, Law and Medical schools of Kentucky University (now Transylvania University) selected a squad to represent that institution the following night against the Lexington YMCA.

Basketball that year, consisting of some Friday night games at the YMCA and student exhibitions for fun and amusement, was described by the KU yearbook as "very popular with both the young men and young women."

The men students of the College of Liberal Arts and the College of the Bible at KU played three match games that year while the young women also organized first and second teams and played match games. There were also match games that summer between school and playground teams in Lexington.

Women's basketball at the University of Kentucky, then known as Kentucky State College and not to be confused with its parent Kentucky University, started off near-equal but subservient to the men's game, which in itself was considered merely a winter pastime between football and baseball seasons and of less importance than debating, gymnastics and the glee club.

The first collegiate game involving a basketball team from the University was played Feb. 6, 1903, when the KSC men met the Georgetown men on the State College gym floor in Barker Hall, where spectators sat on a circular mezzanine track containing three rows of chairs.

On the following day, girls at State College, under Coach Jane Todd Watson, engaged in a match basketball game at the gym. Twelve days later, a large crowd attended another match game between the girls, and an upcoming game between the KSC and KU girls was taking the attention away from a game between the boys at those two institutions.

The State boys lost their game to KU, 42-2, but the girls, playing before 500 spectators the following day, defeated the KU girls, 16-10, in the first intercollegiate game between girls' basketball teams in Lexington.

The State boys lost their first four games of the following (1904) season and finished with a victory over Cincinnati while the girls won both their games, defeating Georgetown, 14-10, and the Jessamine Female Institution, 28-1.

The day after their victory over Georgetown, the young ladies filed into the State chapel, gave their yell and counted in unison to 14, their winning total. They bolted for the door when President Patterson took the stand and said the spirit displayed did not exactly fit a religious service.

Giving the girls an "All Hail," the Kentucky noted, "Successful from the start—two years ago—basketball as played by girls caught not only the student, but the public favor as well, and every game played drew an enthusiastic house which packed the standing room to the doors—an appreciative crowd of fellows—mad—riotously mad, over contests abounding in snappy spectacular play."

The yearbook also devoted a full page to an article, written by a male student, about the Georgetown game. The author referred to the girls as "fair Amazons . . . presented to our penetrating stare devoid of all unnecessary weight and curves, and bravely facing the front in skirts barely reaching the ankle. Very barely."

He wrote of how the porters rushed onto the gym floor after the game and made haste "to remove from the vulgar gaze of the public basketfuls of various articles consisting chiefly of buttons, beautiful sleeve buttons and other buttons, hairpins, pins and other pins, vari-colored ribbons and the unknown scattered remains of much cherished voodoo strings."

That was the year a student named Herman Scholtz dressed as a girl and went to Georgetown with the State girls, obviously with their connivance. The heavily veiled Scholtz watched much of the spirited contest, forbidden to all males except those in an official capacity, before the girls noted large brogans sticking out from under his dress and started giggling. Scholtz, ejected from the gym, received a general reprimand.

The Scholtz incident, the chauvinistic write-up on the Georgetown game, and the KSC president's reaction to the girls' enthusiasm point up mores of the time that undoubtedly had much to do with the eventual decline of women's basketball at the University.

However, the progress of basketball in general at KSC was slowed because of inadequate facilities—too many different organizations sought to be accomodated in one building—lack of practice time, substandard coaching and the fact that intercollegiate games were difficult to arrange because few schools had organized teams.

In 1907, for instance, there are records of only two games, both intrasquad affairs, being played by the girls' team coached by Thomson Bryant, who earned his third varsity letter with the men that year.

Bryant, who still resides in Lexington after retiring several years ago as an agricultural specialist at UK, feels they must have played some games outside the campus, but he couldn't remember specific foes.

"They played hard," he said of the girls, "and we had a little spurt of interest, but it kinda died out when World War I came on."

Bryant was succeeded in 1908 as girls' coach by Prof. C. W. Leaphart, a Missourian whose innovations included a training table in Patterson Hall. After the girls won all their games that year, the Kentuckian noted that the training table made the girls "stronger and more enduring."

"Kentucky is just awakening to the fact that basketball is a good, healthy exercise for girls," the yearbook said, "and many small teams all over the state have been practicing this season."

What was hailed as a major move in the development of women's basketball at the University occurred in 1910, when the co-eds were withdrawn from the women's program, run by Helen O. Stout, and allied with the Athletics Association, a merger that compelled the boys to share practice time and coaching with the girls.

The girls lost their first game that year to Transylvania, 21-13, and then swept the remaining games on their eight-game schedule.

The Kentuckian had no record of games played by the girls team in 1911, but representative schedules of up to six games were played until the war year of 1919, a period during which the girls had such fine coaches as:

Dr. John J. Tigert, a former football and basketball star and team captain at Vanderbilt who attended Oxford on a Rhodes Scholarship and eventually would become president of the University of Florida and U. S. Commissioner of Education.

William Tuttle, former UK basketball team captain and football star (1911-12-13-14) whose six touchdowns and 43 points against Maryville in 1914 are still UK records.

Jim Park, former UK baseball, track and basketball star and football team captain whose five touchdowns-rushing against Earlham represent another UK record. After playing major league baseball and delivering the first home run pitch to a youthful Red Sox pitcher/pinch-hitter named George Herman "Babe" Ruth, Park returned to Lexington and eventually became a noted lawyer and jurist.

After his girls lost to Cincinnati, 19-9, in the final game of a 1-4 season in 1918, Park wrote: "Then came the University of Cincinnati, led by the gallant Nicholoff and his girls' rules of warfare. The less said of the game, the better—they sent one of our guards to the base hospital for five fouls and almost had the entire team wounded by the same weapon when victory was conceded to them and they went on their way rejoicing."

Sarah Blanding, former star on the New Haven Normal School of Gymnasium, who coached the KSC girls three years and then became player-captain in 1923 under a young post-graduate student named A. B. "Happy" Chandler. Blanding eventually would become president of Vassar College while Chandler would become a two-time governor of Kentucky., U. S. Senator and Baseball Commissioner.

Blanding's coaching debut was a rough experience as the girls lost to Cumberland, 19-16, and tied the same team, 13-13, before flu claimed center Lillie Cromwell. After they lost to Cincinnati, 26-14, flu also took forward Bernice Young and Miss Blanding.

Playing without a coach and two star players, the girls lost to Wesleyan, 18-14, and then called it quits after Margaret Harbison was hurt in that game.

While at UK, the popular Miss Blanding was credited with inaugurating an annual spring meet, a spring exhibition of calisthenic drills and intramural games as regular items on the University agenda.

The Kentuckian described Chandler, who prepped at Transylvania and Harvard before matriculating to Kentucky, as a "lawyer, athletic coach, cosmopolite, amateur Caruso and professional Romeo."

Coach of the last UK girls team of that era (1924) was Bart Peak, a UK football (1915) and basketball (1917) letterman who would serve many year as a YMCA career official and, after retirement, become a Fayette County judge noted for such punishment of juvenile offenders as making them kiss their parents.

That 1924 team swept its 10-game schedule and claimed not only the championship of Kentucky, but the championship of the South, since Peabody and Chattanooga were among its victims.

As the 1924-25 school year got under way, the University senate passed a bill abolishing girls' intercollegiate basketball for that season.

President Frank L. McVey, in an interview for the Kentucky Kernel, said basketball had proved to be a strenuous sport for boys and was therefore too strenuous for girls. He said it was also undesirable to have the university girls traveling over the state and throughout the South in order to take part in intercollegiate sport.

"The trips are very expensive because of the necessity of proper chaperonage and provision," he said. "Some very irritating consequences have developed in the past as a result of intercollegiate games."

After women "A" and "B" teams began playing intercollegiate competition again at the turn of the '70s, the women finally gained varsity status again during the 1974-75 school year.

They now play a full intercollegiate schedule. Welcome back!

DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY
President, University of Kentucky

The University of Kentucky has become one of the major institutions of higher learning in the United States under the leadership of Dr. Otis Singletary, the eighth president of the University.

Dr. Singletary was named president of the University in August, 1969. He had previously served as executive vice-chancellor for academic affairs in the University of Texas System and director of the Job Corps program for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Dr. Singletary, a native of Gulfport, Miss., holds degrees from Millsaps College and Louisiana State University.

As president of the principal institution of higher learning in the Commonwealth, Dr. Singletary is greatly concerned with the University's role as a land-grant institution, a "people's university" accessible to all who can profit from education.

In the nine years he has been president, the University has grown to where there are now some 22,000 students on the Lexington campus and more than 17,000 students in UK's 13 community colleges, and the University has become one of the major research institutions in the country.

Recognition of his service to the University was evidenced by the UK Alumni Association, which presented to Dr. Singletary its Alumni Service Award—an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

Dr. Singletary is the author of two books and several monographs.

A Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict, he is a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He and Mrs. Singletary, the former Gloria Walton, have three children: Bonnie, Scot and Kendall.

The Singletarys live at Maxwell Place, traditional home of UK presidents.

CLIFFORD O. HAGAN
Athletics Director

The person in charge of all varsity athletics at the University of Kentucky since the merger of the men and women July 1 is Cliff Hagan, who has seen and overseen vast improvements in all phases of the operation since he joined the Wildcat administrative staff six years ago.

With the addition of six women's sports, Hagan now has under his supervision a total of 16 varsity sports involving more than 500 student athletes.

The merger has given the Athletics Association an entirely new dimension and has meant expanding all facets of the department. On the physical side, new offices were created in Alumni Gym for some of the sports, while much renovation has been in progress in Memorial Coliseum, where athletics administrative offices are located.

Hagan joined the University staff in 1972 as an assistant athletics director whose primary duty was to create and implement the Blue & White Fund for 57,000-seat Commonwealth Stadium and later for Rupp Arena.

After being involved in administration for two years, he replaced Harry C. Lancaster as director of athletics in July 1975.

A former basketball All-American at the University, Hagan received one of his highest individual honors last May when he became the first former UK basketball player to be installed in the Naismith Memorial National Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, MA.

The road to that honor began at Owensboro, Kentucky, where he established a then state high school tournament record of 41 points, which was recently voted the greatest individual performance by anyone in the history of that tournament, in leading the Red Devils to victory over Lafayette in the 1949 championship game.

At UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to participate in the national tournament.

Hagan set a dozen Southeastern Conference records and an NCAA record of 528 rebounds as a junior. He averaged 24 points a game, led the nation in rebounding, and scored a UK record of 51 points against Temple in 1954.

He was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity, Student Government, Baptist Student Union, Fellowship of Christian Athletes and twice was selected among the top ten students in the College of Education.

After graduating from UK in 1954, Hagan served two years at Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, D.C., as a commissioned officer. He led the base to two World Wide Air Force championships and won All-Service honors both years.

During ten years with the St. Louis Hawks, he ranked high among 11 players on the league scoring charts with 12,433 points in 672 games for an 18.5 mark and was selected to play in five East-West All-Star games and was named to the NBA second All-League team twice. He hit over .790 from the free throw line seven years in a row and held the NBA record for most field goals scored in a single quarter (12).

The Hawks won the Western Division six times during Hagan's playing career there and defeated the Boston Celtics in 1958 for the world championship. Hagan was All-Pro in the NBA in 1957-62, inclusive.

He received his M.S. in education from Washington University in 1958.

In 1965, a Herbert Hoover Boys Club of America was organized in Owensboro and named the Cliff Hagan Boys Club of America.

He then joined the Dallas Chaparrals as player-coach and was selected as the 1958 Texas Professional Coach of the Year. When he left Dallas, he was only 92 points shy of a regular-season career total of 15,000 points.

In 1974, he was named to the Hall of Fame Magazine's All-America second-team for the 1951-1973 period, to the Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel Star's All-Time Southeastern Conference first team, and the All-Time top collegiate player in the State of Kentucky by Inside Kentucky Sports Magazine. In 1975, he was named to the Kentucky Athletic Hall of Fame, was inducted into the UK Alumni Association Hall of Distinguished Alumni and was a recipient of the University of Kentucky Centennial "K" Medallion tendered by the UKAA for past athletic accomplishments, during UK's Centennial Year observance.

He is married to the former Martha Milton of Owensboro. They have four children: Lisa, Laurie, Amy, and Kip.

ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

SUE FEAMSTER, Assistant Director of Athletics for Women's Sports

Sue Feamster joined the athletics association July 1, with the merger of the men's and women's programs, after serving as director of women's athletics since 1974.

A native of Frankfort, she came to the University as a graduate student in 1970 and was named assistant director of campus recreation in 1972.

She is a graduate of Franklin County High School, where she was an outstanding athlete. While in college, she earned letters in tennis, field hockey, basketball and track from Indiana University and Kentucky State University, where she graduated with honors and earned a B.S. degree.

FRANK HAM, Assistant Director of Athletics

Frank Ham became Assistant Director of Athletics in July 1975 soon after Cliff Hagan succeeded Harry C. Lancaster as Director of Athletics.

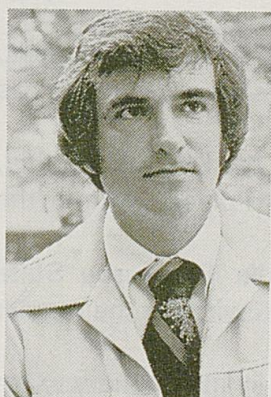

A native of Scranton, Pa., Ham came to the University in 1969 as Administrative Assistant to football coach John Ray, and was reassigned to the Athletic Director's staff in 1972 when Ray resigned.

Ham graduated from high school at Niles, Mich., and completed his undergraduate work at Olivet College. He did graduate work at Indiana University and coached high school football and track at John Adams High in South Bend in 1944-46 and then returned to Olivet as athletic director and head football and basketball coach.

In 1962, he became assistant to the president at Olivet, with responsibilities in public and alumni relations. He was in private business from 1954 until 1968.

He is married to the former Rosemary Woods of Niles, Mich. They have two sons, Michael, of Raleigh, N.C., and Craig, a U.S. Army Captain, and two daughters, Mrs. Andy Hunsberger of Cassopolis, Mich., and Jennifer, a 1978 UK graduate.

LARRY IVY, Assistant Director of Athletics of Finance

Entering his third year as Assistant Director of Athletics for Finance is Larry Ivy.

Ivy, who came to the University as Director of Housing in 1969, will be involved primarily with the administration and management of financial aspects, and will help develop and initiate policies for accounting procedures and related business management activities of the department.

A native of Alabama, Ivy graduated in 1961 from Huntsville High School, where he lettered in four sports. He is a 1967 graduate of the University of Alabama, and earned his M.B.A. from Alabama in 1968.

He is married to the former Barbara Foster of Huntsville. They have one daughter, Kim, 8.

BOB BRADLEY, Assistant to the Director for Academic Affairs

Entering his second year in academic affairs is Bob Bradley, a New York native who earned his M.A. at UK in 1972.

Prior to joining the athletics association, he served as coordinator of counseling and head of finances at the Lexington Technical Institute.

Bradley earned letters in football, baseball, basketball and track at Hornell High School (N.Y.) and played football at Salem College in West Virginia.

He is a son of Mrs. Delores Bradley of Hornell, N.Y.

DEBBIE YOW
Head Basketball Coach

Beginning her third year as engineer of the UK women's basketball express, Debbie Yow's challenge and ambition is to keep her Lady Kats on a track that has seen them compile many "firsts" during the past two years.

Among those accomplishments were a 20-plus win season, the KWIC state title, a fourth-place finish in the Region II Tournament and a third-place finish in the NWIT.

The Lady Kats opened the season by winning the Middle Tennessee State Tournament, placing two players on the all-tourney team, and winning the regular conference season race and the state title.

One of the season highlights occurred on a cold, wintry day in late January when the Lady Kats, playing before the largest home crowd ever to witness one of their games, took then No. 1 ranked Tennessee into double-overtime before losing, 92-90.

In her first season (1976-77) at UK, Yow directed the Lady Kats to a third-place finish in the KWIC State Tournament after early predictors had picked them to finish last (6th). It was during that season that the Lady Kats registered their most impressive victory, upsetting then No. 2 ranked Tennessee Tech, 72-70, and eventually gaining a ranking in the national polls for the first time.

Yow enters this season with a 42-19 UK record and a 77-45 lifetime mark. Her coaching debut in 1972-73 was in her hometown of Gibsonville, N.C., where she coached the junior high to a 7-8 record. She spent the following season at Walter Williams High, which finished 3-15 in its inaugural year in the girl's high school basketball program. Yow's next coaching assignment, also in North Carolina, was at Eastern Guilford High, which she guided to a 25-3 record.

In the spring of 1977 Yow assisted her older sister Kay Yow, head coach at North Carolina State, in the Hanes All-American game. She spent that summer (1977) touring Europe as head coach of an Athletes in Action team that compiled an 8-1 record against Olympic-caliber teams. The lone loss came at the hands of the Yugoslavian National team. Included on the U.S. team were two players from Kentucky, along with outstanding athletes from UCLA and Missouri.

For the 1977-78 season Yow was a member of the Wade Trophy Selection Committee that honors the most outstanding women's college basketball player.

A superb prep ball player in her own right, Yow earned All-Conference and All-Region honors as a forward at Gibsonville High School, where she was the team captain two consecutive years.

At Elon College in North Carolina, Yow captained the Fighting Christians to a North Carolina State championship while playing for Kay and alongside her All-American sister, Susan. Winning that particular state title as a family affair is what she considers her most memorable moment in sports.

Presently Kay is the women's head basketball coach and athletic director at North Carolina state and Susan is in her first year as head basketball coach at East Tennessee.

Coach Yow spends much of her off-season speaking at clinics and summer camps as well as conducting her own summer camp. Due to her rising popularity and reputation as an excellent and entertaining speaker the public's demand for more personal appearances has increased steadily in the two years she has been at UK.

DIANE BEAUCHAMP
Assistant

Diane Beauchamp became the first full-time women's assistant basketball coach at the University of Kentucky this season, after guiding the women's junior varsity to a 7-7 record in 1977-78.

A native of Macon, Ga., she graduated in 1973 from Central High School, where she won Most Valuable Player honors in tennis and basketball.

Ms. Beauchamp graduated from Mercer University in 1976 and earned her M.S. in physical education at UK last August.

Ms. Beauchamp's primary duties will be scouting and recruiting.

1978-79 KENTUCKY WOMEN'S BASKETBALL OUTLOOK

The return of seven experienced players, plus a solid recruiting year, has University of Kentucky women's basketball coach Debbie Yow looking with cautious optimism toward a 1978-79 season that she hopes will be as successful as last year, when the Lady Kats finished 23-12, won their first state crown, finished fourth in the AIAW Region II and third in the National Women's Invitational Tournament.

The only bad news is the void left by the departure of Pam Browning, the school's all-time scorer and rebounder. But everything else seems to favor the Lady Kats. All seven returnees started at one time or another last year and two new freshmen plus three walk-ons also mean good news in the depth department.

Of the returnees, sophomore forward Maria Donhoff (5-foot-11) has the most impressive statistics (12.5 ppg, 6.0 rbs.), followed closely by 5-8 junior forward Debra Oden, a strong rebounder (10.6) and scorer (10.5). Both women, as well as Liz Lukschu, were busy last summer competing on the international level as representatives of the United States on touring teams. Janet Timperman (5-10, 8.4 ppg, 4.3 rpg), one of two seniors on the squad, will swing between forward and guard.

Returning to the backcourt is three-year starter Debbie Mack (5-3, 6.8 ppg, 3.5 assists), who will have support from junior floor leader Linda Edelman (5-10, 9.0 ppg, 3.3 rpg). Coach Yow expects this duo to shore up outside shooting that was a weakness last year. Additional aid in the backcourt will be sophomore Geri Grigsby (5-5, 7.8 ppg, 1.4 rpg), who is expected to be quicker and much improved.

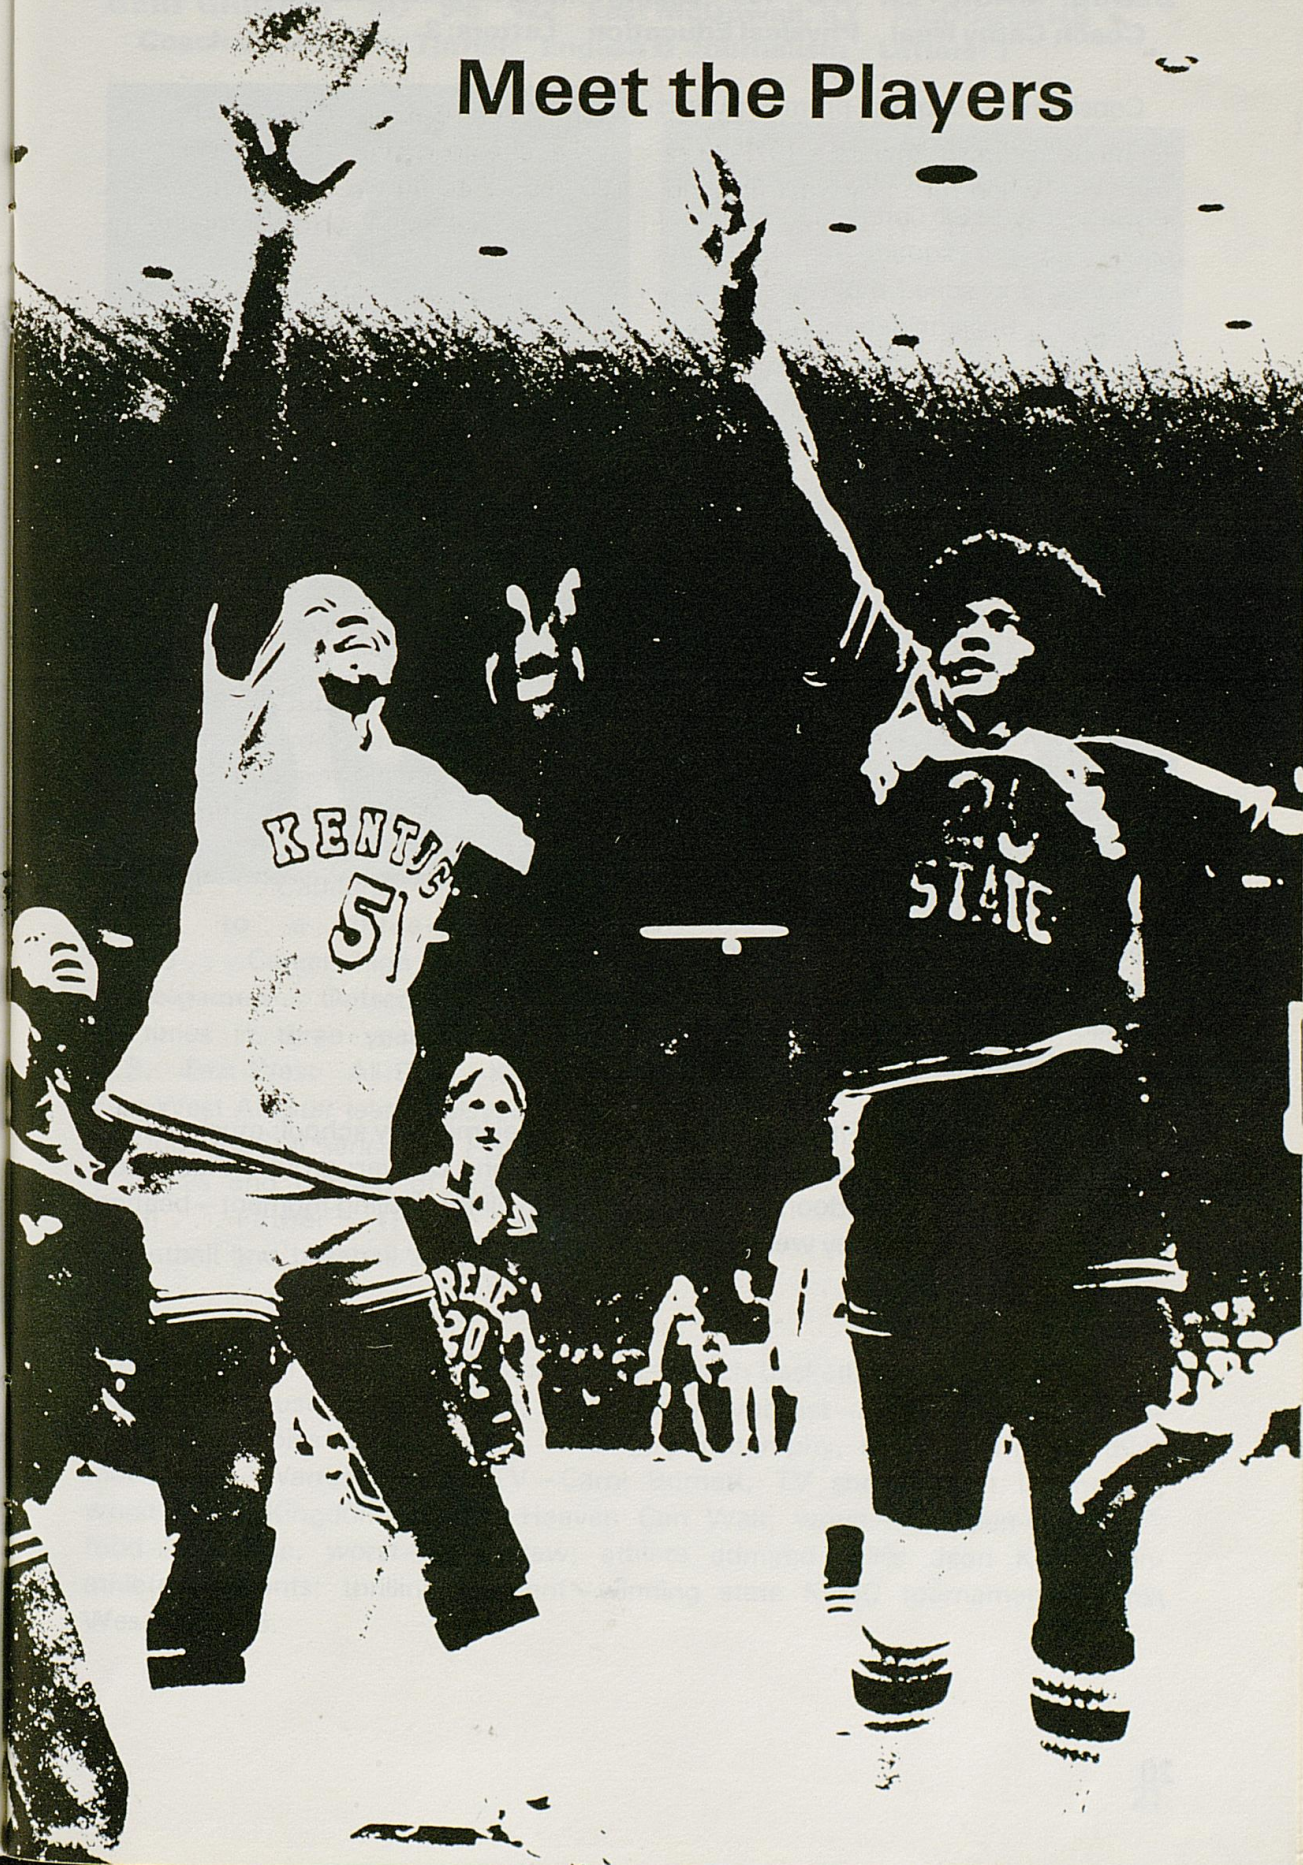

The center position will be the weakest in depth as only 6-4 Lukschu (10.9 ppg, 6.2 rpg) returns. However, Donhoff will move to center and help relieve Lukschu when needed.

Immediate competition may be forthcoming from 5-10 freshmen Tanya Fogle, a power forward who was state shot-put champion at Lafayette High School in Lexington, and 5-11 Caroline Huelskoetter, who will swing from forward to guard.

Bonnie Sizemore, Arlene Baluyut and sophomore transfer Denise Fetter round out the team as walk-ons. Their addition will provide quality depth at guard and forward positions.

The schedule for 1978-79, which has plenty of muscle and should prepare the Lady Kats for tournament play, includes such national powers as Tennessee, Old Dominion, Alabama and Mississippi State plus a special game with the Czechoslovakian National Team. Kentucky also will participate in two tournaments.

MEMORIAL COLISEUM

Memorial Coliseum, former home of the Kentucky Wildcats, has been the home of the Lady Kats since the Wildcats moved downtown to 23,000-seat Rupp Arena in 1976.

In 1941, when Dr. H. L. Donovan became president of the University, one of his first recommendations was for a building "that will properly take care of our athletics, our health services, physical education, and recreation." From this beginning came the plan that culminated in the construction of 11,500-seat Memorial Coliseum, an unparalleled edifice costing $3,925,000 by the time it was completed in 1950.

The huge building, which serves as a memorial to the nearly 10,000 Kentuckians who lost their lives in World War II and the Korean conflict, covers an entire city block and contains as much space as a seven-story office building. Situated along Avenue of Champions, the Coliseum is used primarily for basketball games and Athletic Department offices, but also serves as the site of a sellout community concert and lecture series as well as conventions.

Since her first season (1976-77) at UK, Debbie Yow has witnessed Lady Kat following swell from 50 people her very first game to a record 4,500 in last year's UK-Tennessee game. As a result of that growth, season tickets were offered for the first time this year.

OUTLOOK—Cincinnati has a whole new look this year what with a new coach and ten newcomers joining the squad. Since the team is young, experience is lacking and success this year will depend on how well the girls adjust to UC's system and college ball. Three of the newcomers were signed but the other seven are walkons. UC lost its top scorer and rebounder from last year but does return three starters.

Wilson, who utilized a young squad last year, will be without the services of center June Brewer and 6-4 Cindy Noble, who transferred to Tennessee. Sharing most of the load will be co-captains Kim Jordan, leading scorer (15.8 in 77-78), and junior guard Laurie Pirtle (5.0), along with sophomore Frani Washington (13.1). Melanie Hetz (6-0 soph. C) and Rhonda Spencer (5-10 soph. F) both saw regular action as reserves last season.

OUTLOOK— Second year coach Dr. Jean Smith welcomes back nine performers from last year's 10-19 squad, including All-OVC Jackie Mounts and a host of talented newcomers. Mounts and guard Cindy Barrix represent the experienced element on the squad. "This season we should be a much taller, quicker and more aggressive team," Smith said. "With last year's outstanding players returning and the addition of four good freshmen recruits, and many impressive walk-ons, we should improve."

Best Newcomers—Marcia Player (5-11 C) 18.0; Laurie Smith (5-11 C) 11.5

OUTLOOK—After experiencing a losing season in '77-'78, Coach Jan Pylant is looking for a better campaign this year. The main reason for optimism lies in top returnee Marianne Merritt and the addition of several talented newcomers. The key to success, according to Pylant, lies in Merritt, a senior who holds 22 individual records at Auburn. Also back are three sophomore starters from last season, each capable of scoring big. Pylant feels the Lady Tigers look tough on paper, but the question mark lies in the development of a top point guard to run the attack.

OUTLOOK—With four starters returning from last year's 30-4 squad that captured the NWIT, coach Marianne Stanley and the Lady Monarchs have their eyes on another national championship. Two-time All-American Nancy Lieberman, ODU's leading scorer (20.2) is back along with 6-5 Inge Nissen, ODU's leading rebounder (11.1). Considered the "sleeper" of the team is 5-7 guard-forward Angela Cotman, a NWIT All-American who averaged 12.1 points and 5.6 rebounds. Three recruits should provide valuable depth.

Scores From Early Years

Editor's Note: The first official compilation of past scores of men's basketball games at the University of Kentucky, published in the 1947-48 Wildcat Basketball Facts, contained many omissions and inaccuracies, as did the first list of UK lettermen, published in 1963, but they were a start in the right direction.

There was a little updating of some early scores in the 1961-62 Wildcat Basketball Facts, but a major revision did not occur until 1969, when Russell Rice, then UK assistant sports information director, began researching for an official count as the Wildcats raced Kansas to become the first university to reach the 1,000-victory mark.

Rice found the needed victories, plus some losses, and along the research trail also began filling in other missing data, such as the first names of some lettermen of past years and some unrecorded records.

That research is continuing today in an effort to make the Wildcat Basketball Facts (Men) even more accurate and to keep it atop such publications of its kind.

And now the process is starting anew with the women's basketball program. The games, scores and letterwomen listed here represent the beginning of a research project that will be long and tedious.

Hopefully it will also be fruitful.

ORIGIN OF NICKNAME

Throughout the early years of basketball at the University of Kentucky, the women's teams never had a nickname that caught the public fancy enough to stay around for any length of time. The girls were at times referred to as "Tabbies," "Lady Tabbies," "Wild Tabbies," "Lady Cats" (by a Kentucky Kernel headline writer in 1918), and Kittens. The latter was about to stick when the men came up with a second team schedule and their "B" team became known as Kittens. Then the ladies became "Kittenettes."

The present name, "Lady Kats," was coined in 1972 by Sue Feamster, then assistant director of campus recreation, who wanted a name that would be instantly recognizable as a UK team, and one that had dignity and refinement, yet strength.

The spelling of the name is also symbolic—it capitalized on the word "Cats," and yet accomplished the distinction the women needed by use of a K—Kats.
