STUDENTS PAY TRIBUTE TO GRAINGER'S MEMORY

Memorial Services For Popular Student Held in Chapel

RESPECT PAID BY ALL

Instructor, classmates and fraternity brother honored the memory of Frank Grainger, who died Thursday at the Good Samaritan Hospital, at a memorial service held in chapel Friday morning. Students and faculty members were present to pay their last tribute to the memory of one of the most popular young men in the University.

President Barker, who presided over the services, said that "Frank Grainger was an ideal Kentuckian, clean in action, word and thought." He said that he was proud to have known such a man and that from this acquaintance he was himself a better man.

W. L. Logan, president of the Junior class, and a close friend of Mr. Grainger; Curtis Park, his fraternity brother; Dean C. J. Norwood, head of the College of Mines and Metallurgy, and the Rev. Benjamin Jay Bush all spoke of the virtues of the young man.

Mr. Logan emphasized the respect in which he was held by all the students who knew him, especially the members of the Junior class, of which he was a member.

With tears in his eyes, Curt Park told how Frank Grainger was respected and honored by his fraternity brothers. He said that he had never known a more virtuous or more upright young man than he was, and stated that young Grainger was the best prepared of any in the fraternity to be called away. "The fraternity did not improve Frank," Mr. Park said, "but he improved the fraternity." The same was true of his connection with the Y. M. C. A.

Dean Norwood lauded Frank Grainger as a student and said he was a man of whom the College of Mines and Metallurgy had great expectations. "Frank Grainger, like every other young man, had his faults," Dean Norwood said, "but his faults were the most trivial of any young man I have ever known."

The Rev. Mr. Bush told of Grainger's last moments on this earth. "When midnight had passed, and the first gray streaks of the dawn peeped over the window sill, Frank Grainger prayed," he said. "His prayer then was a true expression of the boy's life, a rich legacy left to follow students and friends; 'Father, I want to live to be clean, brave and strong.'"

Funeral services for Frank Grainger were held at his home in Paducah, Friday afternoon. Many floral designs were sent to his home by the faculty and students, a mute testimony of the high regard in which he was held. The University and fac-

TENNESSEE TO BE NEXT VICTIM OF WILDCATS

Team Ready for Clash With Southern Bunch Friday and Saturday

CENTRE WILL BE NEXT

(By W. Cabel Draddy.)

Here it is! For two consecutive nights will the "Tennessee Turtles" wrangle with our "Wily Wildcats" with the gymnasium floor serving as the "squared circle." Coach Bender, of the Tennessee boys, writes that he expects his lads, pardon, his turtles to repeat the mythical hare and tortoise race, anyway that hare happened to be a rabbit (with apologies to Curry), and the turtles will not be dealing with rabbits but with Wildcats and broncho-busters this Friday and Saturday night.

"Squirrely" Tuttle and the other basketball authorities have been duly informed by Coach Bender that his team is composed of hard fighters, but we beg to reiterate that our team is composed of "fight harders." Several football men are on the Tennessee team, but what care we, as a brand new saddle has been bought for "Doc" with which to "ride 'em." The famed "Chink" Lowe will shake a hasty hoof with the Tennessee bunch and it is hoped that the madding throng crowding the side lines will keep their feet and legs off of the court when Chink gets to "actin' up."

It is you, oh most stellaraneous "Pug" Longworth that we beseech to pull the Royal Glue stunt when "Shorty" Reeder faces you in the circle. It is not for us to offer advice, far be it from such, but we are very much concerned over the presence of this altitudinous youth who "reaches for the sky" for the turtles and Pug will either have to get stilts, get on the referee's shoulders or get a broom for they claim this Reeder man sure resembles Pike's Peak.

Much will be expected of "Dutch" Schrader and "Boo" Ireland, and if it will help matters any, the royal rooters will be requested to chant "Ireland Forever" at shaky periods of the contest. At all events let us hope each man will do his "darndest."

February 16, the Wildcats again clash with the fast Centre bunch. This time the riot scene will be staged on the Centre court at Danville and the Wildcats look forward to another victory. February 2, Coach Hinton's pets from Georgetown College will make their appearance here and reserved sky-light seats are now on sale, so be there early as this battle will make Somme look like a style show.

March 1, 2, 3, the Wildcats will "ride the cushions" to Knoxville to mix it up again with the terrible turtles. However, they will stop off and give the population of Williamsburg a treat, after which they will cross knives with the Cumberland College fives on March 1.

PLAYERS REPORT FOR BASEBALL PRACTICE

Pitchers and catchers have already responded to the first call by Coach Tuttle for indoor baseball practice and preparations are being made for the opening game of the 1917 season, which will be played on Stoll Field, March 26, with Indiana University.

Several uniforms have been given out by Coach Tuttle and outdoor practice will be begun as soon as the weather permits. It is expected that at least forty men will be in the squad when outdoor practice is begun.

Indiana University, which is reported to have a strong team, will open the season here while on a trip South, where the Hoosiers will play Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Georgia.

The following men have been called out by Captain Curtis Park for practice: Crum, Waters, G. Park, Kelley, McIlvain, Cooper, Frazier, McClelland, Ireland, Hayden, Grubbs and Scott.

RIEFKIN IS DELEGATE TO ALUMNI CONFERENCE

Resources of Colleges of Country at Disposal of United States

Philip Riefkin, a 1906 graduate of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, was appointed Tuesday by President Barker to represent the University of Kentucky at a meeting of college alumni in Washington Saturday. At this meeting plans will be formulated to place the trained scientific resources of the college world at the disposal of the United States Government in the event of war.

The conference of alumni was called by Dean William McClellan, of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, who is also connected in an advisory capacity with the Naval Consulting Board. His message was as follows:

"An intercollegiate intelligence bureau at Washington is suggested to assist the Government in getting college students and alumni who desire to enlist and placing them where their specialized training will count. Will you wire me name and address of younger alumni appointed to represent you at conference February 10 at Washington?"

Mr. Riefkin was notified by President Barker of his appointment and the information was sent also to Dean McClellan. Mr. Riefkin is purchasing agent for the Bureau of Mines and is located at Washington.

JUNIORS, NOTICE!

A meeting of the Junior class for the purpose of fixing prom dues and transacting other important business will be held in chapel at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. It is urgent that all Juniors be present.

KENTUCKIAN DEDICATED TO STATE OF KENTUCKY

Senior Class Sets Precedent in Honoring the Commonwealth

LAST CALL FOR COPY

The 1917 Kentuckian will be dedicated to the Commonwealth of Kentucky. This action was decided on at a meeting of the Senior class last Thursday afternoon after the report of a committee composed of Jesse F. Gregory, C. R. Gaugh and Miss Johnnie Cramer had been approved. The report of the committee was to the effect that the Commonwealth was the logical subject for the dedication, and that it would be appropriate for the Senior class to express its appreciation of the education the grand old State has given it in this manner.

Heretofore all dedications of the Kentuckian have been made to persons connected with the University in administrative or professorial capacities. Nearly all of the more prominent officers and professors on the campus have already been honored with dedications, and the class is being congratulated on setting a new precedent at the University. In other state universities dedications to the State is the accepted procedure.

More than a hundred members of the Senior class have had their photos made for the book and practically all the rest will have them made within the next week. Editor Street says positively that all pictures must be in his hands by February 15, otherwise the pictures of the belated ones will not go in the book. A number of books, excellent in other respects, have been marred by hasty work in the print shop, and Mr. Street is determined to obviate this trouble. He promises that the copy will be in on time and that the book will not be held open for any one. It is not with him a question of getting enough material to make up; his task is to cut his material to the limits of the book. The wise will be in on time.

GOV. STANLEY TO ADDRESS SENIOR ENGINEERS TOMORROW

Governor A. O. Stanley will address the Seniors of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the subject of the big steel companies. Governor Stanley was chairman of a congressional committee which investigated the alleged "steel trust" several years ago, and his lecture promises to be extremely interesting.

NOTICE, "K" WEARERS!

All "K" women and men in the University report at the Gymnasium Saturday at 12 o'clock to have picture made for the Kentuckian.

Be sure to wear your letter.

STROLLERS CAST WITH UNDERSTUDIES NAMED

Frazier and Misses Woods and Morancy For Lead Roles

GOOD WORK IS DONE

A cast and an understudy for each part in "The Lion and the Mouse" was announced during last week. Although this may be changed in the course of the rehearsals many of the members of the cast as announced will probably appear in the final presentation of the Strollers' annual production.

Emery Frazier, probably the best student actor the University has known for many years, is cast for John Burkett Ryder, the "Lion," and those who have visited rehearsals say that he is doing better work in this part than he has ever done before.

"Frizzy" has had leading parts in all the Stroller plays since he entered school, and has also appeared in other amateur productions in Lexington. His work as Lem Morewood in "Father and the Boys," the Stroller play of the 1915-16 season, was declared by many the best piece of amateur acting ever seen in the city.

The part of Shirley Rossmore, the "mouse," whose fight against Ryder makes up the theme of the play, is entrusted to Miss Mamie Miller Woods, with Miss Angela Morancy as understudy. Both of these young women are first-year students but the unusual ability they displayed in the rehearsals demonstrated their fitness for the part. Miss Woods recently scored a success by her artistic interpretation of the role of Galatea in "Pygmalion and Galatea," given by students of the Lexington College of Music.

"Bill" Shinnick is still "striving to please" and has opportunity to make another big hit in the leading comedy part, that of Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, the "third son of Lord Oxhurst," and secretary to Ryder. "Bill" has been a leading Stroller actor for years, making his first appearance in "The Lost Paradise." He was stage manager last year for "Father and the Boys" and what he doesn't know about acting "ain't worth knowing." "Bill" is also understudy in the part of John Burkett Ryder. Tilford Wilson is understudy for Bagley.

The Strollers are fortunate this year in having a group of excellent actors for the small parts in the cast, and it is expected that the work in the minor parts this year will be as good as that of the leads. "The Lion and the Mouse" has a number of parts in it which have only a few lines but give opportunity for excellent acting.

Rehearsals are being held in the Y. M. C. A. room, which has been found most satisfactory because of its large size. Tonight the second and third acts will be gone over, starting at 7:15. There will be no rehearsal tomorrow night, in order that the cast

ADA MEADE MANAGER IS HEIR TO MILLIONS

Nelson Van H. Gurnee, manager of the Ada Meade Theatre, is one of the eight heirs to a fortune estimated in 1908 to be $38,000,000 with accumulated interest since that time, which was left intact by the death of Mr. Gurnee's aunt the first part of January. The fortune was amassed by Mr. Gurnee's father in the Colorado copper and silver strikes in 1908.

Altho Mr. Gurnee knew the conditions of the inheritance, he did not realize that he would come into possession of a part until he returned from Chicago a week ago. He will go to New York next week to consult his attorneys regarding the matter.

SARAH BERNHARDT TO BE AT OPERA HOUSE

On Friday, December 9, at the Lexington Opera House, the last appearance in this city is announced of the world's greatest artiste, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, fresh from new triumphs at the Empire Theatre, New York City, where for several weeks, acting as high as ten performances a week, she electrified the big city and the marvel of it all is the entire indifference this terrible strain seems to have had upon her strength and activity, she appearing in no less than four plays in each performance.

Mme. Bernhardt will be accompanied by her own special company from the Theatre Sarah Bernhardt, Paris, and a singular coincidence, is that the leading man this season, Jean Angelo, who received special permission from the French Government to make the tour with Madam, is none other than the son of that Angelo who was her leading man when she first came to this country in 1880.

Each play to be presented will be embellished by the properties, scenery and costumes from her Paris theatre. The plays to be given here are: "Cleopatra," "From the Stage to the Field of Honor," "Rosalie," and "Camille."

In the part of the royal Queen of Egypt (Cleopatra) Mme. Bernhardt will reveal herself in one of her most tragic moods, defying Caesar and preferring death to shame. In the dramatic little work entitled "From the Stage to the Field of Honor," she will bring home to us some of the terrible phases of the great war now raging. As a young French soldier dying for his fatherland after saving his flag, she will doubtless thrill her audience as she did lately in New York, where she brought them literally to their feet by the intensity and fervor of her performances. Out of deference to the neutrality of Americans, Mme. Bernhardt will omit in this little drama the ironic "Prayer for our Enemies," which appears in the original and substitute Victor Hugo's beautiful "Patria." Last but not least, the great actress will interpret as she only can, the pathetic last act of "The Lady of the Camelias," best known here as "Camille." Mme. Bernhardt's company will be seen in the amusing one-act comedy, entitled "Rosalie."

SHORT COURSE IN HIGHWAYS BEGIN

Engineers from all parts of the State at the call of Professor Walter E. Rowe, dean of the College of Civil Engineering, met at the University Tuesday morning for the short course in highway engineering, held under the auspices of the College of Civil Engineering.

Among those who are attending the course is A. L. Chicken Chambers, a former student of the University, who is now road engineer in Greenup County.

The sessions yesterday were devoted to lectures on subjects relative to municipal improvements. These lectures were illustrated with moving pictures.

Samples of various styles of road-building materials, illustrating the process of building are now on exhibition for visiting engineers.

BREAK IN RELATIONS IS MUCH DISCUSSED

Co-eds Treated to Many Expressions of Love—For Our Country

BATTALION IS SAFE

"Relations Ended; War Threatened; United States Ready to Strike at First Overt Act; Rushes Preparation for War."

These are the headlines that are being flashed daily before the eyes of the American people, including the students of the University of Kentucky. Excitement reigns everywhere. In one corner of the library, a couple may be seen talking as earnestly as if in one hour he will be torn away forever to join in the mighty conflict. She is telling him he must not go and leave her in this cruel, cruel world alone and friendless, and that if he goes she knows she will die. But all in vain are her entreaties. "My country calls," he says, "and I must go."

A group of the fair sex is seen in the girls' rest room reviving the once-held Red Cross Nurses' First-Aid to the Injured classes that Mr. Roger D. Williams had begun before she went to the border.

The battalion prances as if some one had shot some dope into them, so full are they of "pep" and vim. Excitedly the officers are yelling, "Squads Right! Forward! March! Charge!", and the privates, picturing themselves heroes of the battlefield, are charging forward. Some of the officers are huddled together over the much appreciated register, planning the titles they will receive upon request due to their invaluable service here in the University as officers. There's Charley Planch in the corner dreaming of the time near at hand when the President will bestow on him the medal of bravery with his (Charley's) best girl looking on. Distinctly, Charley hears the tramping of a whole regiment (over 2,000 men) behind him under his command. So great has been the excitement and enthusiasm that the commandant was interviewed to see at what important post the President and the chief of staff would order our battalion stationed.

Briefly the commandant said: "The battalion of cadets of this University has no official standing with the Government. As such a battalion we are bound by no promises, actual or implied, to the Government. The only bond is our bond to our mother country as individuals; each individual has this bond, but the battalion as a whole has no bond whatever. The battalion is not a part of the land forces of the State or of the United States. What the members of the battalion will do is a matter they should decide with their God and their conscience at the proper time if that time should come, just as if they were not at the University."

KERNEL REPORTER INTERVIEWS MR. I NEVER RISE—DORMITORY LIFE IS REVEALED

Having been assigned to write a series of interviews with well known students of the University, herewith is presented the first interview with Mr. I. Never Rise, from Slumber, Kentucky. He is undoubtedly one of the best known of the students and has a host of friends on the campus.

Mr. I. Never Rise, rooms in the "old dormitory," to be specific. Having a vacant second hour I climbed the well worn "dorm" steps and knocked on his door. Rap, rap, rap, kick, thump, kick, no answer. It was as I expected, Mr. I. Never Rise had not arisen. I gained entrance however by the usual route, by walking the ledge and climbing in the window. As I lowered the window a sleepy voice from the "second deck" greeted me with, "Why can't you guys from the first division chip in and buy yourselves a box of safety matches and quit coming in here and borrowing ours?"

I assured him that I was only a harmless reporter who had come to interview him in regard to the great crisis just past, the examinations and the present problem of whether or not he would get up in time to go to supper tonight.

"What time does that alarm clock over there say?" I told him seven minutes and sixty seconds after nine. "Well (and he heaved a deep sigh), set the alarm for nine-thirty. I want to get up then." "Say," he continued, "aren't alarm clocks great bother?" I nodded in agreement. "Now, when I went to bed last night at eight, after getting up my chemistry notes, studying my botany and writing a theme for English, why I set the alarm for six-thirty, so that I could get to breakfast at least by seven-thirty."

"It seemed like I had been asleep but a few minutes when the blessed thing went off and then I had to get up and set the fool thing for seven-fifteen, as I just didn't feel like getting up then. You know, I am not used to getting up before eight or nine or ten o'clock and my constitution would not have stood it if I had arisen at six-thirty. Well, I was just having the best dream, it couldn't have been anything but a dream of killing "insect" in chemistry when that bunch of cogs started walking up and down on the dresser, talking in a loud voice about it being seven-fifteen. I just lay there and didn't talk back to it hoping it would finally get tired and quit and then the next thing I knew the whistle blew me awake. "I was already late for English so I just snoozed some more and then I heard you open the window. Alarm clocks sure are a nuisance." He emphasized the last statement by a mighty heave of the covers as he turned over to assume a more comfortable position in the bed.

"I really ought to sleep 'till after Mrs. Marshall makes the rounds, 'cause this room is a sight and naturally if I am asleep why then she won't know that the beds are not made up. Chapel? at nine-forty-five, you say? Well, that's great! Change the alarm to ten-fifteen then and I'll get to rest until Chem. Lecture anyway."

"What course you say you're taking?" "Oh! Mechanical! Well, you all sure have it easy. You fixed the alarm? Yes, you will find a match in the left pocket of that vest over there on the back of that chair and there is some tobacco in an envelope behind that pennant over the radiator, so sit down and make yourself at home. I'm gonna try and catch up in my sleep if I can't in botany. Got to go to class? It's a shame you've got that habit and so young, too. Well, if you'd stayed a little while longer, I might have gotten fully awake. Shut the door as you go out. Well, so long."

MEMORIAL SERVICES

uty, officers of the battalion, the athletic committee, students and faculty of the College of Mines and Metallurgy, the Junior class and Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, Alpha Zeta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Delta fraternities sent flowers to the Grainger home.

A CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Grainger and family wish to express their deep appreciation and gratitude to the faculty and student body of the University of Kentucky for the kindness shown during their recent bereavement.

BOARD SUGGESTS SCIENTIFIC STOCK-BREEDING COURSE

The executive committee of the Board of Trustees January 18 considered the institution of a chair of scientific stock-breeding in the College of Agriculture, and Mr. J. Gano Johnson, of Montgomery county, was endorsed by Abram Renick, of Winchester, a representative of the stock breeders of Kentucky, to occupy the position. Frank McKee, a member of the executive committee, also endorsed Mr. Johnson, saying he was a wealthy man who would be glad to devote his energies to improving the live stock of Kentucky for a small salary.

The committee instructed President Barker to confer with Mr. Johnson and determine what steps could be taken by the University to provide for the new chair.

The raising of live stock in Kentucky has been on the decrease for several years and breeders of the State have been considering for some time plans for inaugurating a movement to improve live stock and to raise the industry to its former importance.

Freshmen at the University of Cincinnati were forced to roll a peanut across a room with their noses for disobeying upper-classmen's rules.

UNIV. PROFESSORS WILL LECTURE AT AGRICULTURE MEET

President Henry S. Barker and five professors of the University will deliver lectures at an agricultural meeting which will be held at Bowling Green, February 19 to 23, inclusive, when farmers of the State will convene to join in the "Rural Life and Rural School Conference," arranged by Dr. H. H. Cherry, president of Western Kentucky State Normal.

During the five days of the convention five experts from the College of Agriculture will speak. Professor W. D. Nichols, connected with the dairy department, will speak on dairy methods used in the State; Thompson Bryant, of the department of extension, is scheduled for a pig club talk; E. S. Good, animal husbandry expert, will talk on beef cattle; D. O. Slade, poultry expert, will discuss "Poultry for the Farm," and Dr. Fred Mutchler will make several addresses on extension work subjects.

President Barker will speak Friday, February 23. His subject has not been announced as yet.

GOV. COX, OF OHIO, TO SPEAK HERE FEB. 22

Special patriotic exercises in honor of the birthday of the first President of the United States will be held in the University chapel Thursday, February 22, with Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, as the principal speaker. Professor C. R. Melcher, on behalf of the University, has been in correspondence with Governor Cox, and Tuesday he received his acceptance.

The celebration will be one of the most ambitious the University has undertaken. All class work will be suspended and students will be free to put their entire attention on the exercises. Governor Stanley and other prominent Kentuckians will be invited to attend and to enjoy the annual faculty luncheon, which will be held the same day.

PROBE COMMITTEE IS READY TO BEGIN

Preliminary arrangements have been practically completed and the special committee appointed from the Board of Trustees to investigate the affairs of the University and Experiment Station will probably begin work the latter part of this week. President Barker has expressed himself as pleased with the personnel of the committee and will co-operate with the investigators.

The committee, which was appointed by Governor Stanley, Friday, is as follows: H. M. Frohman, of Ghent; R. G. Gordon, of Louisville; J. Irvine Lyle, of New York; Dr. J. A. Ammon, of Lancaster, and J. N. Turner, of Paintsville.

The investigating committee is the outgrowth of a recommendation of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees that the Colleges of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering and Civil Engineering be consolidated, with Dean F. Paul Anderson at the head.

COMMANDANT IS MUM ON MILITARY AFFAIRS

The commandant requests the Kernel to make the following statement:

"While the commandant is glad at any time to be interviewed regarding University matters that fall within his province, or more especially regarding those that are in his own department, he must follow out orders published by higher authority in 1915, decline to make any statements regarding national or international policies or the state of preparation of any of the armed forces of our country. An attempt to obtain any such statement will inevitably be met by a refusal to discuss the matter.

"It can, perhaps, be readily surmised that the average officer of the comparatively low grade of captain is not high in the military counsels of the nation, and therefore the commandant is not in a position to speak because he knows practically nothing. However, if he did know anything, for obvious reasons he would be in the same position."

Frank Grainger.

The death of Frank Grainger has deprived the University of a man it could ill-afford to lose. His was a character that did not need death to glorify it; there is no need to say anything of him now that he has gone that could not have been said of him while he was yet with us. The truth is his highest tribute.

Frank Grainger was a good student and a good friend, an optimist and a Christian gentleman. In the class room and on the campus he was recognized as one who did more than his share. An unkind deed or an unkind that was as foreign to him as the breath of scandal. The Kernel feels that the University and the students have lost in him one of their greatest assets.

The Investigation.

Governor Stanley has appointed the new probe committee that will investigate the affairs of the University, and it is expected that the first sessions will be held this week. The men who will compose this committee are of the highest type; men of affairs who enjoy in their respective communities respect that goes with the highest character. They are H. M. Froman, of Ghent; R. G. Gordon, of Louisville; J. Irvine Lyle, of New York; Dr. J. A. Ammon, of Lancaster, and J. N. Turner, of Paintsville.

The editor of the Kernel is not personally acquainted with these men, but he believes that no better committee could have been selected in the State. He believes that they will go into this investigation with open minds and a determination to get at the truth, and that they will make a forceful, truthful report of conditions as they find them. Only by such a report will we be benefited; only after such a report can the University of Kentucky be raised to the place of honor she deserves as the foremost educational institution the State possesses. A committee with axes to whet or one which would gloss over unsavory proceedings on the part of officials, if such there have been, would do infinitely more harm than good. No word of adverse criticism concerning the appointees of the Governor has come to the Kernel. This paper has confidence in the committee; it has no doubt that its report will do much to clear away the clouds that obscure the reputation and usefulness of our University.

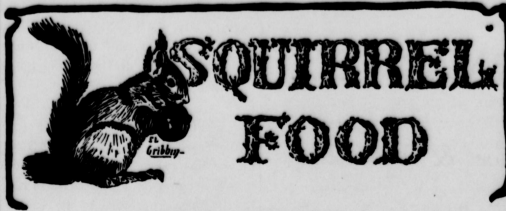

The methods the committee will pursue in its work are not yet officially announced. It has been suggested, and the Kernel heartily endorses the suggestion, that the sessions be held on the campus and full opportunity be given for the bringing out of all testimony germane to the administration of the University. The Kernel is not violating any confidence when it says that there are factions and friction in our administrative forces. The University will not progress while internal dissension exists; the way to get at the causes of and the remedies for this dissension is to allow, or require, full information from those possessing it.

The Kernel takes no sides—it has never done so. It knows little or nothing about the affairs of this University that have been complained of. It is the official organ of the students, and for them, and for the students who are to come to the University in future years, it asks that an era of harmony be instituted. If harmony can be procured only by the removal of some of our officials, they should go! The highways and the byways and the dark corners have heard too much gossip and too much recrimination. The committee of investigation is the body before which the grains of truth must be winnowed from the chaff of deceit and misleading statements.

We ask now, as we asked once before in these columns, that charges be substantiated with facts; that those who accuse be made to prove, and that the students of the University of Kentucky be protected from any persons who put personal ambition above the high ideals of education.

When the investigation has been completed, the committee should see that remedial measures are taken at once. Half-way action will be worse than no action. We want relief either from the evil of exploiting the State's educational resources or the evil of too much irresponsible talk.

The boastful boob told how he'd fight;
He pictured exploits brave

His friends had heard his rave,

I'd be the first to go."

According to our esteemed friend, Col. Enoch Grehan, "A Daughter of the Gods" outstripped by far any screen production ever shown in Lexington.

It IS a Queer Disease.

We never could abide the fellow who talks learnedly on subjects he knows nothing about. And that gentlemen, is why we have never attempted to diagnose the mind of a woman. —Russellville News Democrat.

Boo-hoo!

"We must have blubber," muttered the starving arctic explorer as he took down his lash and began to beat the cabin boy.

True Enough.

Recruiting Officer: "Remember, my good man, that more than 75 per cent of the wounded recover."

Prospective Recruit: "Yes, but the percentage of killed who recover is very small."

John's a Tough Guy.

John Herring, employed at Warren's grocery was struck by an unknown automobilist while riding a bicycle yesterday morning. He was not hurt but the machine was demolished. —Lexington Herald.

Eggactly.

Wife: "What did you do with those egg-shells? I wanted to keep them as souvenirs."

Hubby: "I put them in the coffee."
Wife: "Well, that settles it."

In response to a Freshman query, the Kernel wishes to state for the benefit of all who are in doubt that the term, "bibulous," which was used in "Squirrel Food" last week, does not mean one who reads the Bible.

We Hate to Pull This One—Honest.

The Lexington Herald contends that Villa is stronger now than when the expeditionary force went into Mexico. Very likely, since the boys in khaki kept the gentleman so busy that he couldn't have taken a bath even if he had wanted to and could have procured the requisite amount of water.

The Anesthetic, Doc.

It is true that Sarah Bernhardt has been a great actress for many years, but it is no less true that she has had one foot in the grave for a long time.

STUDENTS ARE SHOWN PIPE-MAKING PROCESS

The various steps necessary in the manufacture of pipe were explained to the students in a lecture given Tuesday morning at the New Chemistry Building by C. L. Holmes, of the National Pipe Company, of Pittsburgh. The lecture was illustrated by a three-reel film representing all the processes.

The pictures, which were shown under the auspices of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, showed the evolution of the pipe from the raw core thru the various processes of its manufacture to the finished product.

KENTUCKIAN NOTICE!

We have requested that all pictures intended for publication in the 1917 Kentuckian be taken and the proofs O. K.'d by February 15. To do this will mean that all Seniors, class officers and the staffs of various publications who have not attended to this matter, must have their pictures taken this week-end, that the proofs may be O. K.'d in time. The Kentuckian is again giving notice that there will be no extension of time and that all persons affected are hereby warned to meet these dates.

The business manager asks all secretaries of the various organizations, fraternities and clubs, to call at the office before the 15th prepared to give us the names and other data which they desire to appear on the pages reserved in the Kentuckian. This is important and should be attended to at once.

'CLEAN LIVING' SUBJECT OF ADDRESS IN CHAPEL

R. H. Edwards Tells Students 4 Great Moments In One's Life

TALK IS INSPIRING

"Be yourself; stand up straight; live a clean life; be community-minded men and women," was the manner in which R. H. Edwards, of New York, secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., expressed his message to the men and women of the University when he addressed them in chapel, Tuesday morning. Mr. Roberts, who was brought here at the instance of the University Y. M. C. A., was introduced to the audience by J. C. Johnson, secretary of that organization.

Before he began his tour of the different universities and colleges of this country, Mr. Roberts said that he went to an old gray-headed woman and asked her what was her message to the students of this country. "Tell them to wake up and get out of their niches," replied the old woman. "College men and women are caught in little circles of thot."

The speaker said that there are great moments in the life of the normal person. He wakes up four times. The first important moment is when he wakes up to himself. This elemental experience is undergone by everyone.

Secondly, he wakes up to the personalities of other people. He looks at his father and sees that he is more than just his father. He finds that he is a man among the world of men. Some people never outgrow a little group of human beings of which they are a member. The climax of this great awakening comes when one person unites with another for life.

Man's life comes with realization that there is democracy, that there is common life. The power of a student body, such as this is unlimited as far as it concerns the morality of the State. The attitude of a nation is to determine whether or not the life in a village is to be clean, sound and sweet or gutted.

The fourth moment is more intangible than the other three. It comes in the days of our youth when life in all its possibilities stretches out before us. It is likely to come at any time, in any place; in the stillness of night or in a quiet room. It is that little voice within us which tells us "to love the good and hate the evil."

Mr. Edwards' talk opened a campaign of the University Y. M. C. A. to arouse a deeper interest in social service. Members of both the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are doing considerable social work, said Secretary Johnson, but the campaign is aimed to stimulate a study of the work in addition to actual service in Lexington.

More Money from Purebred Cottonseed

There is always a big demand for the best grades of Cotton Lint. Use the best purebred seed for planting, since it is just as easy and twice as profitable to feed a purebred Cotton Plant as it is to feed a low-grade Lint Producer. Don't forget that Nitrate doubles the yield of both Cottonseed and Lint.

Grow more Corn and other crops, but select your seed for all with the greatest care.

If you grow a longer staple you will get a longer price for your Cotton.

EDISON-JOULE TAKES A POETIC LICENSE

The following officers for the second semester were elected at the regular meeting of the Edison-Joule Society Saturday morning: R. W. Waterhill, president; C. R. McClure, vice president; H. M. Henry, secretary; M. L. Watson, treasurer; W. L. Logan, sergeant-at-arms; L. H. Bauer, reporter and R. M. Davis, janitor. The program committee was appointed as follows: H. L. Millward, T. E. Peak, J. W. Cooper and C. W. Gordon. As the society felt the urgent need of a janitor, that office was created and Mr. Davis was unanimously elected to fill it. As an appreciation of his ability to fill this position, the following touching poem was dedicated to him by the Mechanicals of '18:

The Edison-Joule on Saturday met,
Their officers, for next term to
The president, vice and all the rest,
Were chosen from among the best.

One bright student, the pride of the class,
Rose from his seat and gleefully

asked:
Can we not from the society a janitor elect;

To clean the room that we have wrecked.
Of course, you see, he had planned a joke,
At the expense of another he aimed to croak;

He took his seat with a smiling air,
Waiting the approval of this affair.

To this suggestion they readily agreed
We'll elect a janitor that we very much need;

As chalk and erasers cover the floor,
When the meeting of the society is o'er.

But alas, poor boy, his feathers fell,
When he heard what "Useless" had to tell;

Mr. President, said "Useless," I nominate Bob
For I think he is well fitted for the janitor's job.

From president to janitor, oh! what a drop,
Fellows, I'll swear this just must stop.

But Bob was elected I will declare
For the timid president counted them fair.

STUDENTS INVITED TO CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.

The Epworth League of the First Methodist Church will present a pageant, "The Feast of Seasons" tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Sunday School rooms. Refreshments and music will be other features of the entertainment. Students in the University are especially invited to attend. Admission is free.

TENNESSEE NEXT

It is still doubtful whether the Wildcats will journey to Nashville to meet the Commodores and the Ramblers of that city. The boys are aching to repay the football debt and if the trip is called off there will be much weeping and gnashing of teeth among our quintet.

Regular admission will be charged to see the following perform: Ireland and Schrader, forwards; Longworth center; McKinney and Rodes, guards. Boone Simpson might be allowed to perform, not because he's got some shoes to fit him, but because they save him the box they came in.

Religious and Social Questions Will Be On Program

ASSOCIATION NOTES

The fifth general convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement to be held in Lexington, February 20-22, 1917, promises to be one of the largest conventions ever held in the city of Lexington. The first session of the convention will be held Tuesday afternoon. All meetings will be held in Woodland Auditorium.

Professor Gilbert is chairman of the committee for the attendance of students. Topics relative to the welfare of the nation as a whole and Kentucky will be discussed. Great stress will be laid on the conditions, both social and ecclesiastical, in the rural districts of Kentucky, and the effects of foreign immigration will be gone into. Another topic of interest which will be threshed out by the convention is the work of the church in the mountains, on the frontier, among the Indians, among immigrants and especially the foreign population of Louisiana. Workers and leaders in these special lines will be present and discuss the topics mentioned.

This convention will offer a great opportunity for the students of all neighboring colleges to hear topics of public interest discussed by men whose knowledge of the situations is unquestioned and who have come together at this convention for the purpose of reporting the conditions in their sections and to arrive at some conclusions which may improve the welfare of the church.
