KIPA Selects Morehead For Spring Convention

Business Session Concludes Two-Day Meet At Transy

Morehead State Teacher's college was selected as the site for the 1941 spring convention of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press association at the college's business session Saturday morning at Transylvania University.

The business session concluded a two-day meeting, attended by 40 delegates from nine member papers. Brief talks and round table discussions on various phases of newspaper work and the convention banquet Friday night were other activities on the program.

Shannon Speaks
Dr. Jasper P. Shannon, head of the political science department, outlined the functions of a newspaperman with regard to the government in his address on "The Press and Politics" at the banquet. The newspaperman should discover and present the facts about government, interpret the facts for the reader, and interpret the people's opinion so that the government may act in accordance. Doctor Shannon declared. The speaker offered one interpretation of the role of the press as being "freedom for the economic elite to say what it wishes and to suppress what it likes."

The trophy for the best all-around paper, The Sollege Heights Herald of Western State Teacher's college, and silver keys for winners in the individual contests were awarded at the banquet. Certificates were given for second and third places.

Placing in seven of the eight individual contests, The Kernel tied the College Heights Herald in the number of points amassed. The Kernel scored 14 points by taking two thirds, three seconds, and two thirds.

Best all-around paper—College Heights Herald, first; Eastern Progress, second; Eastern State Teacher's college, second; and The Kernel, third. Advertising—College Heights Herald, first; The Kernel, second; and College News, Murray State Teacher's college, third.

Cartoon—College News, first; College Heights Herald, second; and Eastern Progress, third.

Column—College Heights Herald, first; Eastern Progress, second; and The Kernel, third.

Sport Story—Eastern Progress, first; The Kernel, second; and College Heights Herald, third.

News Story—The Kernel, first; College News, second; and Crismon Kambler, Transylvania college, third.

Feature story—Crismon Kambler, first; The Kernel, second; and College News, third.

Editorial—College Heights Herald, first; Orange and Black, Union college, second; and The Kernel, third.

Makeup—The Kernel, first; Collegiate Heights Herald, second; and College News, third.

Society Will Hear Experiment Results
Representing the University of the annual convention of the Society of American Bacteriologists in St. Louis will be Dr. Merris Scheraga, head of the department of bacteriology. Dr. R. H. Weaver, professor in the department, graduate assistant David McFadden, Minnie Schreiber, Ellis Starks, Ed Kass, and Dr. F. R. Edwards of the animal pathology department. The convention will be held December 27-29.

Dr. Scheraga will present a paper, "A Study of the Anaphylactogenic Properties of Syphilis Lipid-reactin Aggregates." He will also report on one of a series of experiments carried out by the department that deals with antibodies. Dr. Weaver will present a paper, "On the Effect of 1:2:3-Chenodeoxythracon on the Growth of Escherichia coli," which is a report on one of a series of experimental determinations dealing with the effect of cancer producing substances on bacteria.

Dr. Edwards will represent the state society as ex-officer.

Law Students Will Take Exams
Ten students from the law college will go to Frankfort this week to take the state bar examination which is given twice yearly.

The examination which is given in December and June of each year will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

PHI BETA KAPPA NAMES WINNERS OF FROSH AWARD

Laura McConathy, Bob Ammons Tie For Book Prize

Phi Beta Kappa's annual $25 book award given to the freshman in the arts and sciences college having the highest academic record last year will go to Laura D. McConathy and Bob Ammons, both of Lexington, who tied for the honor.

The two students had perfect standings for the past year and the award will be divided between them. Last year Elnor Erie and Bernard Stall III tied for the prize.

Presented annually at the Christmas convocation, the award will be given this year during the social hour following the initiation Wednesday of five students who have been selected for Phi Beta Kappa.

Prior to the presentation, Constance Garber, Greer Johnson, William N. Lipscomb and Arthur L. Meader, all of Lexington and Vincent Crowder, Morganfield, will be initiated into the national scholastic honor.

Initiation ceremonies will be conducted by Dr. W. R. Allen, president of the Alpha Chapter of Kentucky chapter, and Dr. T. M. Hahn, secretary. Mrs. Lola Robinson will act as guide and Miss Vera Gillaspie is in charge of arrangements.

NINE CHORUSES OF 'THE MESSIAH' WILL BE SUNG

McDowell Club Program Slated For Thursday

Handel's "The Messiah," traditional Christmas music for almost 200 years, will be sung in part by the McDowell club chorus in Memorial Hall Thursday night.

Nine of the most famous choruses of oratorios will be presented in a performance scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. Prof. Carl A. Lampert, head of the music department, will direct the chorus of 70 voices, which will be assisted by the University Philharmonic orchestra.

Dr. Raymond F. McClain, president of Transylvania college, will read about the solo passages, and the group will be accompanied by Mrs. Leila W. Cullis at the organ.

The nine choruses to be sung are "The Glory of the Lord," "O Thou That Tellest," "Good Tidings of Great Joy," "For Unto Us a Child is Born," "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs," "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates," and the famous "Hallelujah Chorus."

The theme of the oration deals with the life of Christ, the crucifixion, and ascension. Composed in 24 days in late 1741, it is perhaps the most famous of all sacred choral works.

The oratorio contains more than 50 numbers and full length performances are rarely given.

ALUMNI TO HOLD GRID BANQUET

Most Valuable Cat Will Be Picked

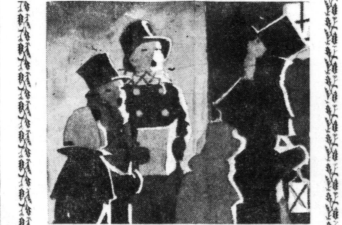

The final chapter of Kentucky's 1940 football season will be closed at the annual football banquet given in honor of the varsity and freshman platoon participants at 6 p. m. in the Bluegrass room of the Lexington branch of the American Association of University of Women. It is open to men and women of the University staff and to adult townspersons.

Reservations for the dinner will be accepted at the office of the Dean of Women until noon today.

Herman Slated For Swing Contest
"Woody" Herman and "the band that plays the blues" will present, during the week end, the greatest session of the semester from 3:30 to 4 p. m. Tuesday in the music room of the Union building.

Selections to be played by the various swing artists in the band, believed by many to be the greatest "blues" band in America, are "Woodchoppers' Ball," "Indian Boogie Woogie," "Pee-wee," "Blues on Parade," "Get Your Boots Laced Papa," "Johh," "Cashin' Blues," "Blues Downstairs," "Blues upstairs," "Music by the Moon," and "Laughing Boy Blues."

Library Hours Set
During the holidays, the library will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. during the week and 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon on Saturdays according to library officials. The library will not be open on Sundays.

President's Greetings

To students, faculty and staff, I extend my best wishes for a happy holiday season. Christmas of all times suggests a reunion with one's family, felicitations to one's friends, and the pleasure one feels in similar greetings from them. May there be every joy for each of you in all these happy associations. May the return to your homes bring the opportunity to do something for others, and a rest from college duties that will bring you back to the University with renewed interest in your studies and the most worthwhile associations to be found on the campus.

Faculty Committee To Manage Union Cafeteria After Holidays

'Best Quality Food At Lowest Prices' Promised Under University Administration

Miss Sarah G. Blinding, dean of women, Dr. Statie Erikson, head of the home economics department, and Prof. James W. Martin, director of the Bureau of Business Research, will compose a committee for management of the Student Union cafeteria. The Kernel was informed yesterday.

Dean Blinding said that the cafeteria will offer "the best possible quality of food at the lowest possible prices." Under University management, the cafeteria will not necessarily be a profit-making enterprise, she added. Prices will be charged in accordance with food, wages, and overhead expense.

Since Dean Cooper is out of the state at present, no official committee came from the president's office. However, the president's secretary said that no further developments have occurred.

The special committee, consisting of Dr. Lee Kirkpatrick, Paris, and Robert P. Hobson, Louisville, which has been appointed to consider proposals by which the cafeteria equipment will be purchased will meet Thursday afternoon.

The price which the University will have to pay the Catering company has not yet been announced. The equipment originally cost about $30,000.

Kernel Meeting

A compulsory meeting of the Kernel staff will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday, in the newsroom, according to an announcement by Jim Caldwell, editor.

UK Choristers Present Program Twice Sunday

By ROBERT W. MILES
On Sunday afternoon and evening, the University Choristers, under the direction of Miss Mildred Lewis, presented a delightful program of Christmas carols.

Miss Lewis was assisted by Mr. Donald Allison and Mrs. Mary Knapp Allison. Fitting stage decorations and effective lighting contributed not a little to the impressiveness of the occasion. A large and enthusiastic audience paid tribute to each performance.

The beauty and joyousness of the Christmas season were realized in the fine presentation of each carol. Many notable musical virtues comprised the almost perfect artistic whole. The tone quality was clear. With the exception of a trace of flatness in one of the unaccompanied numbers, the intonation was excellent.

The phrasing, dynamic treatment, and response to the conductor were above reproach. The correct balance between the different sections of the choir was maintained throughout. Individual members of the ensemble carried their part in solo lines in several instances.

Commendable indeed was the choice of selections. Each carol with some aspect of the Christmas story.

but the carol, "Sunrise on Christmas story, but the carol, "Sunrise on Christmas Morning," embodied in its words and music all that is significant in the birth of Christ. Mrs. Allison played the violin with characteristic finesse and liveliness. A beautiful Christmas melody was interpreted expressively in all registers of the instrument. The organ accompaniment produced by Mr. by Mr. Allison revealed good taste and left nothing to be desired. Extremely gratifying was the spirit in which the members of the audience sang four familiar Christmas carols: "Silent Night," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," "I Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and "The First Noel."

Frosh, Pitkin Clubs To Entertain Tots

Candy and toys will be presented to 100 children of Lincoln school at a Christmas party given by the Freshman and Pitkin clubs at 1:30 Friday afternoon at the school.

Joe Muskie will act as Santa Claus and give the presents and candy, which are to be wrapped and sacked in the Freshman club meeting tonight. The committee arranging the party is composed of Anne Crutcher, Paul Kinnaird, and Betty Carr. Expenses for the party were contributed by students at the intramural boxing and wrestling matches, and at the basketball games.

Union's Hanging Of Greens, Annual ODK-Cwens Sing

Will Top Christmas Season

Ten Organizations Will Participate In Contest Tonight
Cwens and Omicron Delta Kappa will hold their seventh annual all-campus sing at 8 p. m. tonight in Memorial Hall with ten organizations participating.

Four trophies will be awarded: one each to the men's and women's organizations with the best singing ability and one each to the men's and women's organizations with the most cleverness and originality. These cups, which were shown last night at the carnival are on display today at Duna's drug store.

Judges will be three persons from out-of-town who have no connections with the University, the committee announced.

Entrants include three fraternities: Alpha Sigma Phi, Delta Tau Delta, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and seven women's groups, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Independent Women.

Chesters To Lead
The University Choristers, directed by Miss Mildred Lewis will sing one song and will lead the audience in singing Christmas carols. Each participating group will sing a Christmas song and not more than two other songs. Their vocalists will number from 12 to 24 will wear formal clothing, unless their arrangements call for costumes.

Seats on the sides of the auditorium will be reserved for participants. Admission is free for both students and townspeople.

Former Winners Named
For the last 10 years, cups for the best singing have been won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and the Independent women's group. The trophies for the most enthusiasm were won last year by the Kappa Delta sorority and Sigma Chi fraternity.

Members of Cwens who will act as hostesses include Sarah Denny, Myrtle Binkley, Jane Birk, Dorothy Angie, Jeanette Graves, Sonia Hagenback, Jane Meyers, Mary Elton, Wilma Salomon, Agnes Smith, Ida Schonen, Joyce Rogers, Lorraine Harris, Joan Taylor, Jean Williams, Betty June Pugh, Mildred Murray, Josephine Balaust, and Mabel Warnecke.

ODK hosts are James Winn, James C. Harris, Arthur R. Foy, Harry Dentman, John Clark, Charles C. Harris, John C. Harris, John H. Staker, and Mory Holcomb.

The committee planning the Sing is composed of Arthur R. Foy, chairman, John Clark, and Prof. R. D. McIntyre, Mildred Murray, co-chairman, Joan Taylor, and Lorraine Harris.

AN ESSAY ON WOMEN

FROM THE DARKSOUTH
Women is women is women. And there is no getting away from it. Schopenhauer didn't think they were so hot; he called them the short-legged race...

Houseparty dates come from much higher I.Q. brackets. Some of them speak in complete sentences almost. And on a wider range of topics. Fashions, movies, roommates, fashions, Carnival, movies, fashions, dancing. The Stock Club, fashions, movies and fashions.

There are any number of ways in which women are better than men. They make better mothers. They're fuzzier. And if you want to get down to creature comforts, they're chummer. (See "Terry and the Pirates," Nov. 24, panel 4).

Women are handy things about the house. They cook, they sew, they knit, they change diapers, they put flowers in vases. They go to school to learn all these things. Freud says they are good for other things too.

Yeah, women are all right.

Alumnus Tells Of Prank Played By 'Old Dormitory' Boys In 1896

To The Editor of The Kernel:
In your issue of December 6 we note a picture of the Old Dormitory with comments by Pierce Whiting as to the building, history and some of the pranks played by students who once lived there. To me it brings back vivid memories since I was on of the old gang that called it "home." Proud was I to graduate from the old dormitory and in 1896 to move over to the new and beautiful structure so modern and up-to-date.

One day about high noon Reese donned his gay girlish costume and took his seat on a trunk immediately in front of the dormer window on the second floor of the new dorm's south-west corner where he would be in plain view of all on the campus. Well did we know that at this hour President Patterson ("He Pat" as we called him) would pass that was on his daily inspection of the grounds. As he moved in sight around the old Chemistry Building, Bill Duncan in masculine dress took his seat beside girlishly attired "Rosie Reese" and the show began.

I venture to say that "He Pat" never witnessed a more touching love scene—with a bit of nineteenth century necking thrown in. At the psychological moment "He Pat's" presence was discovered and an act put on to make it appear we wanted to avoid being caught. Thereon "He Pat" and his crutch put on speed to reach and enter the new dorm to personally locate and catch the culprits. Reese hastily shed his choruss girl costume and stored it out of sight. Thus when "He Pat" all out of breath, barged into our room it was only a group to most studious boys to be found.

"Where's that woman?" were his opening angry words and his temper was not helped one bit when each and all denied there had been any woman in the room. It was impossible to convince him that his eyesight was bad, for had he not seen with his own eyes a young lady clasped in the arms of some boy? Well, though he fumed, fussed and threatened, he got no satisfaction in all the investigations that followed. And it was only after years had passed, after the writer had graduated and was "safe"—that the then president of the university was actually acquainted with what happened.

THEY LIKE SCHOOL

Lucy and Zoe are two British refugees who have found homes in Lexington. Both are enrolled in University Training school, and they say they like to go to school.

Fear Of Blackouts, Bombings No Longer Haunts Zoe, Lucy

Young Refugees Enjoy Bluegrass, Like School

By BUSH BROOKE

Far from their native England, with no worries of terrifying air raids and alarming blackouts to perturb them, a couple of the war's young refugees have successfully transplanted themselves into the Bluegrass with an overflowing measure of happiness and content.

The tiny refugees, a pair of blonde, blue-eyed English girls from London, are Lucy Rothenstein, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. M. Rothenstein, and Zoe Smith, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith. The families were neighbors on Folwell road, near Lexington, before the war broke out on September, 1939.

Both are residing in Lexington. Lucy with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Smith, of 235 South Limestone street, and Zoe (pronounced Zoey), with Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Alexander, and will remain here until the European scrap is over.

Had Never Been To School Until they came to America the duo had never entered a schoolroom except for maybe a few weeks in kindergarten or other primary work, but are now enrolled in the first grade of the University training school. Unlike many American children, both are thoroughly wrapped up in their school work. All Lucy had to say about liking to attend a school here was the traditional Yankee slang, "Yea, boy."

Lucy's father is director and manager of the universally-known Tate Art Gallery in London, which, Lucy says, he is going to have to "build up all over again" after the war she came to America before the breach of hostilities, but Zoe waited until last October, and had a "front-row-center" seat for the Anglo-German fireworks.

While visiting in Lexington early in 1939, Mrs. Rothenstein became quite worried about the turn of events in Europe, and fearing a general war, returned to England to bring her daughter to this country. It happened that Mr. Rothenstein was engaged for a number of art lectures in the United States, including one in Lexington, during the summer.

After the Rothensteins went back to England, Lucy remained with her grandparents here. She sadly related how her parents had to flee their London home, and sought refuge in the art gallery until bombs damaged it.

Zoe saw Bombings. Zoe, with thousands of young Britishers like herself, was evacuated from London when war was declared. Returning to London from the Liverpool sanctuary, she was greeted by Nazi bombers and spent many hours dodging bombs in concrete and steel bomb shelters.

Zoe sailed for New York from Liverpool late in July and spent a perilous 11-day voyage, crossing the submarine-infested waters in heavily-convoysed ships bearing other refugee children to America. Landing in New York on October 4, she was taken to the Seamans' Home there. A similar convoy ship, laden with children from England was sunk a few days later.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander were interested in "adopting" a refugee child, and through the Rothenstein family "contracted" for Zoe. Her father is head of the department of Egyptian and Assyrian antiquities for the British Museum in London.

They Like School. Zoe likes to go to school almost as much as Lucy, and is equally as taken back with Americans. Both youngsters, reserved and tactful, are very much against the current war. Zoe even more than her pal, possibly because of her closer contact with actual hostilities. She has often expressed the desire to not have the war mentioned in her presence.

However, both cannot fully shut out the memory of their overseas friends. Lucy is sewing for the British cause, and Zoe is knitting woolen squares to be made into a quilt for some English family. As to what they want for Christmas, they are undecided. Lucy's paring shot was surprisingly a "pro-war" statement: "I hope the war isn't over soon, because then I will have to leave America," she said.

On The Air

By JOHN SUTTERFIELD

The University radio studios today will pay tribute to one of the biggest Santa Claus combines in the country when the Lexington Home-crafters club speaks for the 400 clubs of the National Home Workshop guild.

David M. Young, Dr. W. D. Val- leau, E. G. Sulzer, and R. E. Shaver, of the University staff, are members of the Homecrafters.

From 1:30 to 1:45 p.m. over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, the Lex- ington members will explain how they make and distribute over 600 toys annually to the mountain listening centers, as members of the other 299 clubs listen by appointment.

Harison Elliot, University student, and Janet Sulzer will be featured vocalists, accompanied by the studio orchestra.

Last Saturday's Varsity Spell, a regular feature of the Wildcat Re- view, broadcast every Saturday from the UK radio studios over WHAS, matched the abilities of teams from the Alpha Xi society, and the Delta Tau Delta fraternity, with the Alpha Xi's emerging the winners.

Participants were: for the Alpha Xi's, Marcia Willing, Ruth Turner, and Bobby Howard; and for the Delta Tau Delta, Tommy Bowling, T. H. Mc- Donald, and Jack McNeill.

The individual winner was Marcia Willing who was the only contestant to spell all words correctly. The Varsity Spell chooses contestants from all campus organizations.

Running Wild

By Jim Brown

The 1940-41 edition of Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcat has kebabbed them, now that they have their season off to a flying start, will have their work out for them, if for any reason, they should want to make this year the most successful season in Kentucky cage history.

Unlike a Southeastern conference championship in football, which would be a choice morsel for Wildcat followers to digest, the winning of conference crowns is an established conventionality for the benefactors of the "man in the brown suit."

Bowl Conference Crowns Have Been Won

In like manner, a victory in the annual Sugar Bowl classic is no cause for "painting-the-town-red," inasmuch as the blue and white cagers have, in two appearances in the city of Mardi Gras, hung up decisive triumphs over two of the nation's outstanding Kentucky cage history.

The Cats could not raise their basketball stock much higher, except in the consistency column, if they were to take both the Sugar Bowl crown and the Southeastern conference haul during the course of this season, for only last season they scaled those heights when they walloped Ohio State in the bowl battle at New Orleans, and then with a flu-infested crew, made one of the most courageous showings ever made by a Wildcat team by capturing the Southeastern tourney title, after a brilliant one-point, overtime decision over a rampaging bunch of Tennessee Volunteers in the semi-final round.

All this reminiscent chatter may sound very beautiful and bring back memories of bygone thrills, and may even cause less optimistic souls to do a little wishful thinking when they speak of the current issue of the Big Blue. But it is apparent that wishful thinking is not the order of the day whenever the chances of a successful season this year are being discussed. Already stamped by their coach as having possibilities of developing into the most perfect machine in the business, Captain Lee Huber and his cohorts will probably be able to take care of themselves in any company.

Team Appears Stronger This Year

Graduation casualties don't appear to have weakened the Cats at all. On the contrary it looks as if they are stronger now than they were at the start of last season, when they were considered the strongest aggregation ever to wear the blue. Although Rouse and Cluggish, the only members of last year's team who did not return, were valuable performers, the vacancy created by their absence seems to have been more than filled by last season's freshman and "Lost Battalion" squads. Two top-notch guards have come up to make the guard posts look stronger than they have in several seasons. They are Marvin Akers, sharpshooter from Jeffersonville, and Ken England, Two Robertson's, J. S. and Louis, are the other sophomore guards.

Taking over Marion Cluggish's "tall man" title will be Mel Brewer, a New Albany product, who towers six feet, four and a half inches into the ozone. Milt Tico, who demonstrated that he is ready for the big show by scoring 28 points in the first three games, and Lloyd Ramsey are the forward additions to this year's five.

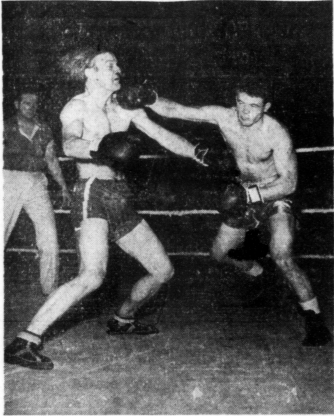

Irish Scalp Is Only One Missing

Although Coach Rupp has coached his teams to about every title there is to win, and has to his credit 164 wins out of 200 games, there is one thing that is missing. It is something that Kentucky teams have tried to do and failed on four different occasions. That something, that Mr. Rupp hopes to add to his list of achievements this year, is a win over George Keoghan's Notre Dame quintet.

A win over the Irish, together with a Sugar Bowl win and victory in the Southeastern conference meet would undoubtedly constitute the most successful season since Coach Rupp inaugurated the era of great net teams back in 1930. For, regardless of what other games the Wildcats might lose, it would be a clear indication of one thing—that the Ruppman have it when the chips are down and the stakes are high.

Schedule 'Toughest' As Usual

Rupp, who yearly brands the schedule as the "toughest ever faced by a Kentucky team" is probably more justified in his statement this year than in any previous year that he has uttered those gloom-invoking words. This year he entrain for a joint through the Midwest, meeting Nebraska, Creighton, and Kansas State, three of the most potent outfits that the prairie lands have to offer.

Although It Cost His Eyesight Langford Is Proud Of Career

Battling Veteran Recalls Brilliant, Fame-Filled Career
By ROY STEINFORT

Only occasionally did the door swing open long enough for him to hear the cheers of the frenzied spectators. But the occasional shout that reached his cauliflowered ears and the distinctive aroma of rosin that filled his nostrils were more than enough to recall memories to one of the greatest fighters the negro race has ever produced—Sam Langford.

The battling veteran of more than 200 professional fights stood outside the door of the gym annex last week, appealing to fight patrons who attended the intramural boxing and wrestling matches. Seldom does he miss being at Alumni gym when the Big Blue basketball team is playing at home.

The battling veteran of more than 200 professional fights stood outside the door of the gym annex last week, appealing to fight patrons who attended the intramural boxing and wrestling matches. Seldom does he miss being at Alumni gym when the Big Blue basketball team is playing at home.

Sam came to Lexington in 1926 in the twilight of a brilliant pugilistic career to meet a fellow by the name of Monroe. In ten grueling rounds under a terrific spring sun, Langford punched out a decision over Monroe. But that bout cost him his eyesight.

Sam's eyes had been falling since 1921 when he fought "Panama Joe" Gaines in Detroit. "Panama Joe" struck a terrific punch to the back of Langford's neck.

And despite this injury, Langford's love for the ring kept him in the twenty foot square until his last fight with Monroe in Lexington. A few days after the Monroe fight, Langford found himself living in a new world filled only with darkness. "Fighting was a lot of fun, Sam says, "I made my reputation and now I'm willing to pay for it."

Not many fighters can close a twenty-one year fighting career with the record that Langford did. In twenty-one years, Sam punched out more than 200 wins while dropping three decisions. "I don know," Sam explains, "if I stayed down."

for the count of nine, instead of jumping back to my feet."

Held Many Titles

The soft speaking Langford held many titles in his career. Back in those days, however, they didn't have national champions like today, but rather state titles. In addition to many state titles that he held, he was middleweight and light-heavy champion of Australia in 1912.

The fifty-five year old Langford, who was born in Nova Scotia, takes great pride in telling of a certain July 4, 1919, when he seconded Jack Dempsey when he defeated Jess Willard for the heavyweight title of the world.

After living for sixteen years in a world of total darkness, Langford still holds a spark of hope that some day he might regain his sight.

"The doctors told me I might some day see again," Langford said. "So now I entrust my hopes in the greatest doctor of them all," Seldons, does Sam ever miss a Sunday morning mass.

Langford gave the interviewer a closing quotation when he said: "I'd rather be blind here in Lexington than mayor of New York city sightless."

Let's Go Back 25 Years

By WARREN J. SHONERT

A new southern athletic association, to be known as the Southeastern Conference, was formed this week at the meeting of southern football coaches in New Orleans.

The colleges that this conference will include are Kentucky State, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, University of Georgia Tech, Mississippi A. & M., University of Tennessee, and Clemson college. Coach Dr. J. J. Tigert and Professor Ezra L. Gillis represented Kentucky at the meeting.

The Strollers held their last meeting of the year on Friday. The younger students of the University presented a short program and a membership committee was organized. The committee includes M. Katherine Mitchell, Emory Frazier and William Shinnick.

Holidays Extended

More than three days were added to the Christmas holidays after a petition had been presented to the committee of deans. The holidays will extend from December 18 to January 4.

The Ada Meade theatre is now staging as a holiday feature the big tabloid musical comedy, "Old Heidelberg." This is the biggest production ever to be given at the Ada Meade.

The editorial column commented this week on the fine performance of the cadets at Frankfort recently. It has been said that our cadets were the best drilled and our students the best behaved body present on the notable occasion.

The Kentucky Traction and Terminal company has been made defendant in a suit to recover $23,000 damages for the death of E. L. Dridge Griffith, a freshman at the University, who was killed on October 13 in the downtown Lexington. The occasion was the celebration of the freshman victory over the sophomores in their annual tug-of-war.

The third cadet hop will be given in the Army on Saturday afternoon, December 19, by the battalion of cadets.

The 1916 basketball squad is composed of Captain Karl Zerkow, Jim Sever and Derrill Hart, the veterans. Others who are expected to hold the squad include Bamber, Ireland, Swartz, G. Zerfoss, Simpson, Kinne, Anderson, Schrader, Hodges, Clark, Gasser and Yonta.

Coach John J. Tigert announced that practice would not begin until after the holidays.

Vandenbosch Will Speak

Dr. Arny Vandenbosch, chief of the political science department, will discuss "Labor During the War" at a YW-YW Peace Group luncheon at 5 p.m. Wednesday, in the Y room of the Student Union building.

CATS WILL PLAY THREE GAMES IN CORN-BELT

Cagers Leave For Three-Day Tour Of North

The Wildcat cagers left unobtrusively yesterday afternoon for a three-game tour of the corn-belt. Twelve players, two coaches, a trainer, and a manager are making the trip.

Kentucky will meet the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on December 18, Creighton university at Omaha on the 19th, and Winthrop against Kansas State university on December 20 at Manhattan.

The players are Jim King, Lee Huber, Carl Staker, Keith Farnley, Waller White, Marvin Akers, Mel Brewer, Hood Combs, Milt Tico, Ken England, Ernie Allen, and Lloyd Ramsey. Coaches Adolph Rupp and Paul McBrayer, trainer Frank Mann and manager Garret Fitzpatrick completed the squad.

The Wildcats' next home game is against Centenary on December 27.

Varsity, Fresh Swimming Teams Named

Five Veterans, Nine Newcomers On Varsity Team

Kentucky's varsity and freshman swimming squads were selected in competitive tryouts last week at the Lexington YWCA pool.

The varsity matadors, who open an eight-game schedule against Eastern on February 3, consist of five veterans and nine newcomers. Returning to the water are Gil Wymond, and Walter Reid, backstrokers; Gene Riddell, breaststroker; and Leslie Stephenson and Houston Curtis.

Swimmers making the squad for the first time are Frank Ebsorn, and Henry Hillenmeyer, freestylers; Bud Baum, Granville Coblin, Junior Jones, Vincent Spahn, Richard Stoll, and Ben Johnson, backstrokers; and Jim McGraw, breaststroker, first Freshman Team.

Sixteen men were chosen to form the first freshman swimming team in University history. They are Kenneth Keppel, Arthur McFarlan, James Hicks, Thomas Gregory, Don Hillenmeyer, William Valentine, George Walker, Oscar Wiggan, Arthur Francis, R. Skinner, Marion Van Arsdell, Claude McCaughey, John David, William Caywood, William Ledford, and Martin Schwartz, who coaches the varsity and freshman teams.

Six members of the varsity squad, Hillenmeyer, Wymond, Coblin, Stoll, Riddell, and Ebsorn, will train during the Christmas holidays at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Coach Schwartz said.

Prospects Good

Ebsorn "will be the greatest freestyler in Kentucky history," Coach Schwartz predicts. He also expects both Baum and Wymond to break the Kentucky intercollegiate 220-yard freestyle record.

Team opened practice in the Eastern pool Saturday afternoon at Richmond. Following the holidays, the squad will swim once a week at Eastern and continue practice sessions at the YWCA pool here.

Besides Eastern, the varsity will meet Tennessee on February 13; Tusculum, February 14; Georgia Tech, February 15; Michigan State, February 22; Berea, March 3; DePaul, March 7; and Loyola, March 8.

Wildcat Celebrates Christmas Season

With a cover in Christmas red and green, the new Wildcat is on sale this morning in the gift book store and Union gift. The holiday season is also celebrated in a Christmas story, according to John Ed Pearce, editor.

In addition to the usual features, such as a scandal column, pictures of students, and jokes, this issue contains short stories including "The Orpes of Wrath" and "How Was Your Date?"

Greyhound Carries Xmas Cheer

If you choose a Greyhound bus for your Christmas trip you'll find about that honest-to-goodness holiday travel spirit. Freshmen to Faculty agree that more frequent departures, friendly service and lower fares make Greyhound travel the college favorite.
