My dear Lucinda:

I received your little note this week but have been too busy during the day and too tired at night to write. Since your father passed away I have had a great many things to attend to besides my business and sometimes I feel that I am trying to do too much.

Your father and I were very closely associated. I do not think that there was ever two brothers who worked as harmoniously as your father and I. It was indeed a great pleasure and privilege to have been with him as constantly as I. I am only too sorry that you could not have enjoyed some of this association, as he loved you and I know you would have loved him if you had been granted the opportunity to have known him. He often discussed you and your welfare with me and he wanted to do things for you but others denied him this
