Loved Traditions of 'Ole State' Are Revealed as War Memorial Building Is Erected on Campus

With almost an shovel of dirt that was being turned for the erection of our Memorial building on the University campus, Mother Earth is releasing some of her buried memories, relics of "Old State College," and is revealing, incidentally, an unwritten history of the institution.

How many University boys and girls today think of the time when there were just four buildings on the campus? Or of the time when kerosene and wood fires were the only means of lighting and heating the dormitories?

HOMECOMING

While the completed plans for the annual homecoming of Alumni during commencement week are not yet ready to be announced, they have progressed far enough to call for a mention at this time. Special effort is being exerted to make the program for the homecoming Alumni this year interesting and entertaining for every one who will attend. It is the plan to have one big get-together other than the annual business meeting. This get-together will be in the form of a social function, probably a luncheon or dinner. The Alumni luncheon held last year met with such success that something similar will be tried again this year. This year we are looking forward to a larger attendance than in past years. The officers of the class of 1908 are planning a reunion of that class and from all indications a majority of the members of '08 will be back on the campus. This will be the first twentieth anniversary reunion and much interest is being displayed by the members. In the years gone by, and to relate, there has been comparatively little interest shown by Alumni in the homecoming in the spring. In other universities and colleges this annual homecoming is one of the biggest events in the Alumni year and is attended by hundreds of graduates and former students. Kentuckians should be more anxious to return than most other Alumni. Kentucky in the spring is a place of beauty and there is not a Kentuckian who does not feel a certain feeling of homesickness during this time of the year. What could be better than a visit to your native State and a visit to your Alma Mater at this time of the year, when the campus is most beautiful? You can relive your college days and the weight of the years away from your Alma Mater will be lifted from your shoulders. It is not too early to begin making arrangements to come home for homecoming. Make your plans now. Drop us a line and tell us to expect you. We will be glad to make any arrangements for you.

THE UNIVERSITY DINNER

We wish to call your attention to the program for the annual University of Kentucky dinner which will be held at the Brown Hotel in Louisville, Thursday evening, April 19, during the meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association. The dinner this year promises to be even more enjoyable. Tickets will be on sale at the Alumni desk at University headquarters in the Brown, all day Wednesday and Thursday. Louisville Alumni can obtain them either from our desk or from Mr. N. Gray Rochester, at the Brown Hotel. The Alumni desk is maintained each year during the meeting of the K. E. President of Alumni Association Appointed Alumni Member of Board by Governor Flem D. Sampson.

James Park, president of the Alumni Association of the University and Commonwealth's Attorney for Fayette county, recently was appointed Alumni member of the board of trustees of the University of Kentucky by Governor Flem D. Sampson. Mr. Park was appointed in place of Howard P. Ingles, whose term expired January 1, 1928. Mr. Park will serve as a member of the board for a term of six years.

The appointment is the result of the election which was held last year by members of the Alumni Association. Three Alumni were named and these three names were submitted to the governor. From them he selected Mr. Park for the appointment. There are three Alumni members of the board of trustees, and one of the three is selected every two years.

Mr. Park is the youngest member of the board and his appointment comes as another tribute to his popularity among the Alumni and friends over the state. His appointment was made public April 1, 1928.

FOOTBALL TEAM IN 1897 SUCCESSFUL

Grandstand Burned and Centre Blacklisted by S. I. A. A. During Same Season; Year an Eventful One.

Soon after the opening of the fall term, session of 1897-98, President Patterson announced as the new Athletic Committee of the Faculty, Professors Roark, Kastle, Anderson, Mathews, and Foxe. The coach selected for the football season was Lyman B. Eaton, from Cincinnati University. T. K. King, who had been selected the preceding year as captain, did not return, and Campbell '98 was elected in his place. Lafayette Brock was manager.

The games resulted as follows: October 2: S. C. 8, K. U. 6. October 9: At Nashville, Vanderbilt 22, K. U. 0.

October 9: At Frankfort, Centre 5, Capital 0. October 16: At Danville, University of Cincinnati 4, Centre 0.

At the close of this game the Cincinnati players were charged to the depot and badly beaten up.

October 16: At Georgetown, S. C. 31, Georgetown 0. S. C. was represented on this occasion by its second team.

There was talk at this time of the team disbarring on account of alleged opposition, as was stated in the Lexington daily papers, of "President Patterson and certain members of the faculty."

October 23: At Lexington, S. C. 20, Georgetown 4. October 30: At Nashville, Vanderbilt 50, S. C. 0.

October 30: At Lexington, S. C. grounds Washington and Lee 22, C. U. 0. (The Washington and Lee team was coached for this season by Wallace Muir, now an attorney in Lexington. He had learned his football while playing as a preparatory student on the S. C. second team.)

October 30: At Winchester, Centre 12, Winchester Athletic Club 0.

November 6: At Cincinnati, University of Cincinnati 10, Centre 0.

November 6: At Richmond, C. U. 18, S. C. 0.

Centre Criticized The Cincinnati papers, in giving an account of the Centre-Cincinnati game, roasted Centre, accusing the college of playing ringers, and giving as illustrations "Dicky Vanwinkle, a practicing attorney in the town, and Harvey, a professional baseball player, and Gene Cook, a young farmer from the vicinity of Danville."

November 14: At Georgetown, S. C. 12, Georgetown 4. S. C. played her second team.

November 14: At Catlettsburg, Centre 18, Catlettsburg 0.

November 18: At Danville, Centre 18, Miami 0.

About this time it was announced by the S. I. A. A. that Centre was blacklisted. Centre replied to this announcement by saying that this was because she had, the preceding year, defeated Vanderbilt 46 to 0.

November 30 (Thanksgiving Day): At Lexington, Centre 30, S. C. 0.

It appears that Campbell resigned the captaincy before the season was over and Severs was elected in his place.

It will be noted that one of the above players on the Centre team, Steely, was formerly a student at S. C., and a member of the football team there. It only goes to show how very little college loyalty there was among some of the students in those days.

The '97 team was the weakest S. C. had put forth since football was inaugurated in the college, yet it was practically this same team that in '98 was to be one of the strongest, if not the strongest, that ever represented the institution.

Grandstand Burned It was during this season, to the U. OF K. DINNER PLANS ANNOUNCED

Annual Affair Will Be Held at Brown Hotel Thursday Evening, April 19; Large Attendance Expected.

With the completion of the program for the annual University of Kentucky dinner, which is held in Louisville each year during the meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association, plans are being made to take care of the largest attendance in the history of these dinners. The success of the dinner last year is in a large measure responsible for an increased interest in the affair this year. The program is made up of talks by men, all of whom are widely known in Kentucky and especially among the teachers of Kentucky. The program for after dinner is as follows: Toastmaster, President Frank L. McVey. Introducing Honorable Flem D. Sampson, Governor of Kentucky. Introducing Honorable W. C. Bell, Superintendent of Public Instruction. Introducing Dr. H. L. Donovan, President Eastern Teachers College. "The College Student of 1928," by Gayle Mohney, president of senior University of Kentucky. "Gleanings From the Campus," by W. D. Funkhouser, dean, Graduate School of Education, University of Kentucky. Music will be furnished by the Men's Glee Club of the University. The dinner this year will be held at the Brown hotel, where headquarters of the K. E. A. will be located. The time is 6 o'clock, Thursday evening, April 19. The program of speeches will be over in sufficient time for all those present to attend the evening meeting of the association.

This year, as usual, several departments of the University will have desks in the general University headquarters which also will be located in the Brown hotel. The Alumni office will be in charge of the program for the use of all graduates and former students of the University who will attend the meeting. All graduates and former students are urged to call at the Alumni Association desk soon after reaching Louisville. Tickets for the banquet will be on sale there. This desk is maintained for your convenience and a register of all former students of the University who are attending the meeting will be kept. You can locate classmates and old college friends through this office. Louisville Alumni can obtain tickets in advance for the dinner by communicating with Mr. N. Gray Rochester at the Brown hotel.

best of my recollection, that the covered grandstand on the grounds burned down, due to unslacked lime having been carelessly stored under it. A fire came up one night soon thereafter, the ground under the stand was flooded, the lime slacked, the barrels caught fire and the grandstand was burned to the ground before morning.

This was a considerable loss, for though a very modest structure, there were no funds to replace it.

The Grounds Improvement Company had gone out of existence. It was started entirely for the interest of the students, because there seemed no other way by which improvements could be secured for the grounds.

However, with the rapid changing personnel of the student body, it was evident that there was a growing feeling in it that it was being exploited in some way by this company. The student management endeavored to hold back from the general public the part that was due the company. Rather than be placed in this attitude the stockholders of the company, therefore voluntarily made a present of their stock to the Athletic Association.

In the fall of '98 the President appointed the Faculty Athletic Committee consisting of Professors Anderson, chairman; Whizzy Miller, Brown and Wernicke. The football manager selected by the students was W. L. Bronaugh '99. The coach selected was Bass, of the University of Cincinnati, and the captain was Roscoe Severs.

This is the famous team which has gone down in the annals of State University football as the "immortals," they having scored 181 points to their opponents 0.

The schedule played with the results is as follows: October 1: S. C. vs. K. U. at Lexington, 18-0.

October 8: S. C. vs. Georgetown, at Georgetown, 28-0.

October 15: S. C. vs. Co. H. 8th Massachusetts, at Lexington, 50-0.

October 29: S. C. vs. L. A. C., at Louisville, 17 (18)-0.

November 5: S. C. vs. Centre, at Lexington, 6-0.

This game stopped on account of a terrific storm of wind and rain.

November 8: S. C. vs. 16th Indiana, at Lexington, 17-0.

November 19: S. C. vs. Newcastle team, at Lexington, 36-0.

While no teams were played from without the state this year, on account of the Spanish-American war, football was at a low ebb in a number of Southern universities, especially as a great many of the more athletic students volunteered. Withal, the above is a very creditable performance. To beat those soldier teams from Camp Hamilton, situated just north of Lexington, with its 15,000 men to draw from was actually the case in the second game, though credited to the 16th Indiana) was no light task, for a great deal of football was played between the companies that fell and many crack ex-college football players were numbered among them.

(By K. I. P. A.)
The Transylvania library has recently received several treatises on the life and work of Constantine Rafinesque, for seven years professor of Natural History on the Transylvania campus in the early years of the nineteenth century, and recognized today as one of the most outstanding pioneers in the field of American scientific thinking.
One of the most notable of these treatises was received from Earl L. W. Heck, 48 Sheen Road, Richmond, Surrey, England. It gave in fine detail the life of this famous scientist who was born on the shore of the Bosphorus of Franco-Turkish and Greco-German parentage, and told of his wanderings, his troubles, and his ultimate success. His bones now rest in an archive provided for them in Morrison college on the Transylvania campus.
Today Rafinesque is considered as having stood one hundred years ahead of his time. He was misunderstood while he lived, but recently a new interest has been shown for him and his contribution.

Famous Exhibit Will Be Brought Here Sketches By William Rothenstein Secured Through Efforts of His Son

The largest exhibition of paintings of the heads of famous men, all done by Prof. William Rothenstein, of England, has been brought to America through the efforts of the artist's son, Prof. John Rothenstein, and Prof. Carol Sax, of the University, will be shown during April at the Chicago Art Institute.
The exhibition was sent first to Chicago, in order that it might fit into the schedule there, but art lovers may have a chance to view the paintings at the Art Center before the end of this semester, it has been announced.
Prof. William Rothenstein is one of the most famous and outstanding artists of today in the line of paintings of his contemporaries. Some of his best known subjects have been George Bernard Shaw, John Singer Sargent, Emil Zola, Lord Balfour, H. G. Wells, the Dutchess of Rutland, Einstein, Thomas Hardy, George Moore, General Smuts, and Viscount Grey.
Professor Rothenstein is principal of the Royal Academy of Art in London and a trustee of the National Gallery of British Art. His works hang in some of the greatest galleries of the world, the Metropolitan in New York, the Luxembourg in Paris, the National Gallery of British Art, London, and galleries in Berlin, Moscow, Dublin, and Chicago.

Gentlemen:
The worst thing in the world to try to find is a good pipe tobacco that is well within the reach of everybody, and at the same time does not taste like it had just come out of the cabbage patch.
I have been smoking a pipe for two years and have just this month started to smoke a real smoke, Edgeworth. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. Believe me, I tried for two years, but finally success is more than mine.
I have just been looking around, and have found to my delight that I can get Edgeworth practically anywhere. I even found it out at the lake near Dallas where I go fishing. Oh boy, what a combination—a perfect day, a can of good tobacco, and your pipe.
I always thought these ad letters were the dumb, but this time I know somebody is wrong and that is me.

COLONEL HOBBS PRAISES C. M. T. C.

Head of Department of Military Science States That 200,000 Young Men Have Been Trained in Encampments.

The Citizens' Military Training Camps have trained over 200,000 young men since their formation seven years ago, according to a statement made by Col. H. P. Hobbs, head of the department of military science and tactics at the University.
Colonel Hobbs also stated that while only 10,000 men were trained by the camps in 1921, last year 40,000 were given training, and 20,000 more were turned away because of lack of room.
"Seven years have demonstrated the value of the Citizens' Military Training camps. No better proof of this can be found than the increasing desire of young men to return year after year for the advanced courses, although the course may be taken as an approval of parents, who have welcomed their sons back from camp to find them better and stronger mentally, morally, and physically," Colonel Hobbs declared.
The courses of training, which any young man between the ages of 17 and 24 years is eligible to attend, embrace a full term of four summers, although the course may be taken as a whole or in part, as the student wishes. All expenses are paid by the government, including laundry service and transportation to and from the camp.

Wesleyan Month of Joy Nears Close

Girls Have Asked Boys For Dates Since February 29 Banquet

(By K. I. P. A.)
The men of Kentucky Wesleyan College are nearing the close of their Leap Year Joys. At the quadrennial Leap Year Banquet, held on February 29, a petition, known as the "Spiler-veh Compromise," because of its shape, was presented by one of the senior boys. The girls voted almost unanimously in favor of the measure, which stipulated that for one month no boy of the college should ask any college girl for a date. Practically all of the boys had previously signed the petition.

Since the inauguration of this famous compromise, the phones in the boys' dormitories have been ringing merrily, as fair co-ed's calmly attempted to make dates with the boys of their dreams. The reversal of social conditions has caused many peculiar situations and brought to light more than a few heretofore unsuspected "crushes." In the opinion of the leaders of the movement, much good will come from the temporary change of viewpoint, probably a greater mutual appreciation between the courtiers and the courted.

ILLINOIS RALLIES TO DEFEAT 'CAT NINE, 7-4

Ashland Tomcats Win National Title; Carr Creek Quintet Shows Up Well

"Things may come and things may go, but Carr Creek and Ashland will go on forever." For the benefit of those who might not know, it perhaps will interest them to be informed that it was a Kentucky team which won the national basketball championship of the United States. It was none other than the Tomcats, from Ashland, on the Big Sandy river, who gained for themselves a record that will be mighty hard to beat in the years to come.

The Ashland Tomcats, the same team that won the state title here three weeks ago, encountered some mighty difficult obstacles on its march to the national title and not enough credit can be bestowed upon the team. Entering the tournament along with the best from 42 other states, the Tomcats were regarded by the experts as a team that would cause any serious trouble and would probably not survive the second round. Once in Chicago, the Tomcats took things into their own hands and after the first game they showed the spectators and other teams the game was played in the state of Kentucky. Keeping up the same driving and persistent pace that was a "Waterloo" to the teams they met, Ashland kept driving until their goal was in sight. After that it was just "too bad" for the others. They were not to be denied the cherished crown before them, and putting every ounce of their remaining strength and fight into their last game, they came out on top the victors and also the champions of all the high schools in the United States. Their goal had been reached and their task accomplished. It was a tired, but happy bunch of fellows who faced the tournament officials to receive their various trophies and awards for their achievements.

The Ashland team was also honored by having one of their men chosen on the All-American team. He was Captain Ellis Johnson, whom many will remember for his brilliant work during the recent state tournament.

Kentucky was also represented at the national tournament by a team that fooled the whole basketball world and established a name for themselves and the village that they represented. Carr Creek, the team that was on the tongue of every man, woman and child in Lexington and elsewhere a few weeks ago, as the fame has spread, for the people in Chicago have taken up the chant and look with awe and wonder on a team using such an unorthodox manner and way while playing in Chicago. Going to the "Windy City" as a team that didn't have the slightest chance in all the world of even winning one game, they proved the sensation of the whole tournament and won three games besides. Winning from schools whose attendance outnumbered their own many times and whose cities were large enough to lose the hamlet in which they lived, the Carr Creek boys played these teams to a standstill, defeating the best from three states.

While in Chicago, the Carr Creek boys made such a hit with the people that they were immediately swamped with invitations to various places of amusement and dinners. It was just impossible for them to accept them all. In fact if they had accepted every invitation it would have taken them two whole weeks for that alone. The excellent work of Shelly Stamper earned for him a place on the All-American team. In two games he scored more points than the opposing team in each game. He won the game single handed and this marked him as one of the leading players and scorers of the tournament.

JEFFRIES' ERROR IN SIXTH IS COSTLY

By Wayman Thomasson
Miss April forgot her showers Monday afternoon at Stoll Field and windy blasts ruffled her skirts while a Kentucky ball team was frozen in a 7 to 4 defeat by some diamond dusters from the University of Illinois. Mr. Jeffries committed a costly error in the sixth when Illinois made five runs, and this man Ericson, the blond Viking from Sweden, fanned the air with a funny bludgeon when hits in the pinches meant runs.

Stumbling up from under Southern blows, four games had been blown in the gentle breezes, these Wildcats of Coach Majors' ruffed up their winter fur and looked as formidable as a squad of irritated porcupines on quill parade during the first three innings when they made four runs and held the Illinois batsmen to a prayer.

It was the second inning and Raymond Rhoads was shivering at the bat. He walked, and Johnny Cole took up his bludgeon and sacrificed while Rhoads ran to second and then through the pitcher's box.

It was the third inning, there was one down and Irvine Jeffries was standing placidly on first base, this base being a gift from the admiring Finn. Illinois short stop, who had just muffed Jeffries' grounder. The boy stole second. (He now has two bases. Keep your shirt on.) He went to third on Layman's single and scored on Gibb's sharp one-blow to second. The bases are filled and Ericson fans out.

This ended the Kentucky scoring and Illinois made five runs in the sixth when they batted around. They tallied another run in the ninth when Sweeney singled and then circled the bases after the hit rolled through Layman's legs.

'CATS LOSE FOUR GAMES IN SOUTH

Georgia Wins Two Games, Oglethorpe and Tennessee Take One Each From The Varsity Nine

Kentucky's Wildcat baseball nine returned last Sunday morning after completing a most disastrous Southern invasion. The 'Cats did not bag a single conflict, and although one was tied, four games were entered on the debit side of the Blue ledger. The annual trip, in which Kentucky encountered some of the best nines in the South, was begun a week before. On Monday, April 2, the 'Cats played their first game with the Georgia Bulldogs, and were defeated by a 9-0 score. Wertz started twirling for Kentucky, but was replaced by "Lefty" Rhoads, whose excellent pitching after his belated entrance, featured the game. Murdock, Red and Black moundman, pitched an excellent game, only 31 Kentucky men facing him in the duration of the game. On the following day, the Wildcats were again handed the small end of the score, and drubbed by a 6-1 count. Georgia made her only score in the fifth inning when Captain Bill Crouch led off with a single. Mauser walked, and Goodwin fanned. Jeffries struck out. Georgia scored two runs in the third inning, one in the fourth, and ended their tallying with three runs in the seventh. Walker, Georgia hurler, whiffed seven men.

After these debacles, the Blue and White journeyed over to Oglethorpe for a two-game stay. In the first game, played on April 4, the Petrels just nosed out the 'Cats, 5, in a very tight game. Boswell, Petrel star, hit a homer in the second inning, scoring three runs, and providing the game winning margin. Jeffries and Gibb were the heavy hitters for the Blue, getting two hits out of five games at bat. Lawson, Petrel pitcher, struck out nine Kentuckians, and aided materially in winning the game. Wertz had a very bad day, walking seven men and hitting two others with the pellet. Oglethorpe made seven errors, but the 'Cats could not avail themselves of many of these as scoring aides.

The second game ended a tie, 4-4, in the tenth inning. After a ninth inning rally had pulled them into an even break, the 'Cats were forced to leave after the tenth inning in order to catch a train for Tennessee. Oglethorpe was off to a good start, scoring three runs in the first inning. Kentucky got two runs in the ninth to tie the count. Bob Rhoads pitched the game for Kentucky and aided his team materially with the willow, hitting a home run, triple, and scoring three of the four runs.

Tennessee's Volunteers were the

NOTRE DAME WINS FIRST TENNIS MATCH 3-0

Notre Dame's tennis team handed the University's varsity racquetists a severe drubbing last Friday afternoon, on the University clay courts. Markey, ace of the Green, defeated Hammersly, Kentucky first man, by an overwhelming score. Griffin defeated Johnson, Kentucky, after a grueling three-set battle. In the last match played, Captain Cohen and Brock, Kentucky doubles combination, was socked by Markey and Burns, Notre Dame, by a 6-2, 6-2 straight set defeat. Rawlings Ragland, the ace of the Blue and White, watched the fray from the sidelines, since he was ineligible due to a technicality in filling out an eligibility blank.

last team on the Wildcat invasion program, and the Vols managed to take in the fifth inning, and pitching warden, struck out five men and whitewashing the Vols for the last four frames. Captain Crouch led the Blue and White sluggers with two hits. Both teams were weak in hitting strength. Wertz relieved Rhoads in the fifth inning, and pitching warden, struck out five men and whitewashing the Vols for the last four frames. Captain Crouch led the Blue and White sluggers with two hits.

SHIVELY'S TRACK-MEN IN GEORGIA RELAYS

By Wayman Thomasson
All the great relay teams in the south and middle west are advancing on Georgia tonight, and the Kentucky harriers directed by Coach Shively are due to make as strong an impression on those people in the land of the peach as the basketball tournaments tomorrow as did a former travelling man named Sherman a few years ago on his march to the sea. The Kentucky team's relay fact L. and N. station at 8 o'clock tonight.

In Atlanta tomorrow will be gathered the running men from Illinois, Iowa, Iowa State, Indiana, Notre Dame, Northwestern, and all the states in the land of Dixie to take part in the annual Georgia Tech relays. Iowa holds the national record in the mile relay. Iowa State won the two-mile relay at the great Illinois meet three weeks ago, and the Illinois teams ran first in the medley and four-mile relays.

Kentucky has seven scantly clad cinder warriors headed by ex-bicletic hero named William Gess to toe the line with these swift nomads of the north, and those of the south who have net yet flashed across the horizon of track fame.

Gess and his Kentuckians, Owens, Root, Shipley, Akin, Rodemeyer, and Thomasson, are entered in the two-mile and sprint medley relays. In the first each of four men, Gess, Owens, Akin, or Rodemeyer, and Thomasson will run a half-mile with the baton. In the latter Thomasson will lead off with a quarter mile, Root and Shipley each will run 22 yards and Gess will finish the race by running a half-mile. Due to Captain Gess' remarkable ability to sprint at the finish, Coach Shively expects his team to win the two-mile relay and lower the Georgia Tech record in that event.

Seniors at Vermont University bloomed out with canes shortly after Easter. It is an old custom at Vermont, a stately and dignified one. The seniors suddenly become the old men of the University, they are ready to pass out.

Ice Cream is Good for You!
Many people often ask us why they always find in our ice cream a clean, refreshing taste. The answer is Quality plus Heathization. Quality means rich cream from selected dairies, fresh fruits—full ripened and luscious—and the finest flavors we can buy. Heathization means our ice cream is frozen in a sterile, flavor-intensifying atmosphere instead of ordinary air. Thus we achieve our ideal in greater purity, finer flavor and better nutritional value.
You enjoy our ice cream more than any other because of this added feature, which is patented and exclusively controlled by us in this city. Write the goodness of our ice cream to your table tonight. It is waiting for you just around the corner, for there is a DIXIE dealer near you.

Dr. Funkhouser Tells of Kentucky's Wealth in Prehistoric Indian Relics

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school in the University, will soon begin his annual spring pilgrimage into the mountains, caves and valleys of Kentucky in search of further data concerning people who roamed the earth hundreds of years ago.

A number of books have been published by Doctor Funkhouser on prehistoric man and he has been making addresses over the state recently with a view of interesting persons in preserving evidences of ancient life.

Prof. W. S. Webb, of the University, has assisted Dean Funkhouser in many of his explorations and possesses an extremely valuable collection of tools, jewelry, and weapons used by ancient man in this and other states.

In regard to his proposed expedition, Doctor Funkhouser said: "Recent discoveries in Kentucky would indicate that this state may be one of the richest of all the states of the Mississippi valley in evidences of prehistoric man. Kentucky has lagged far behind some of its neighboring states, particularly Ohio and Tennessee, in archaeology and only recently has such a department been established at the University of Kentucky, but from investigations conducted in the past few years, it is apparent that the Kentucky material may far surpass that of the other states which have become famous through their publications along these lines," Doctor Funkhouser said.

"Kentucky has long been noted for the wonderful paleontological material, especially the remains of the mammoths, mastodons, ancient horses, and primitive bison, which have been found at such localities as Big Bone Lick and Blue Lick Springs, but unfortunately most of these specimens have gone to great museums in other parts of the United States or to Europe, and there is no good museum in this state in which the citizen can see the remains of the ancient beasts which in prehistoric times roamed through this part of the country.

It now develops that the same conditions which tended toward the preservation of animal skeletons in Kentucky also preserved in remarkable fashion the bones and artifacts of early types of man who lived in this region long before the discovery of America. These favorable conditions were primarily the many caves of the state, some of them of large size and containing salt-peter and stamagmatic deposits which tended to preserve for long periods of time any material buried in them, and the fact that the state was very little disturbed by glacial erosion so that the superficial strata have suffered little change during many thousands of years.

"Moreover, Kentucky is very rich in evidences of early human occupation. The so-called 'Indian' graves, mounds, rock houses and shelters are abundant in practically all parts of the state, and many of these were built long before the day of the American Indian, as he was known to the early white settlers. In fact, the age of some of the oldest of these is entirely conjectural and may prove to be very great. It has, indeed, been suggested that if evidences of ancient man, comparable to the famous types discovered in the caves of France, Spain and Belgium, are to be found in the Western Hemisphere, they should be discovered in Kentucky where so many similar conditions obtain—the distance from the glacial drift, the climate, the approximate latitude and the abundance of limestone caves with southern exposures," Doctor Funkhouser explained.

"The general culture represented by early man in Kentucky is the Neolithic characterized by the polished stone artifacts and bone implements and particular types of flint weapons. It represents the stage in man's development in which had just begun to be familiar with some metals such as copper, had learned the use of fire, used wood and skins to some extent, had developed ceremonies and perhaps religious rites and buried the dead.

Much New Material

"Thus in all parts of Kentucky may be found evidences of ancient occupation by man which lead the scientists to predict that further study will yield very valuable contributions to the knowledge of the archeology of the Mississippi valley. Already material has been discovered which can not be duplicated in any of the neighboring states.

"Unfortunately, however, most of these ancient landmarks are being destroyed by the cultivation of the fields and by ignorant persons who do not appreciate the scientific value of the sites. There is a common belief, which is of course entirely erroneous, that treasure of some sort or other may be found in these old mounds and graves, and consequently they are often destroyed in the hopes of unearthing another 'King Tut.' It is hardly necessary to state that the aborigines of North America were far removed from the cultures of the ancient Egyptians, and that the greatest treasures of prehistoric peoples of Kentucky were probably strings of shells, polished stones and bone ornaments, which would have no commercial value today even if they have withstood the ravages of time and the action of the elements, during the long years in the soil.

"The department of anthropology and archeology at the University is attempting to make a survey of the prehistoric sites in the states and it is hoped that the citizens in regions where these sites are located will assist in preserving for posterity the evidences of the ancient peoples who inhabited this country long before the white man robbed them of their homes and of their hunting grounds."

OFFERS PRIZES TO AROUSE INTEREST

Fund of $6,000 Offered by New Yorker To Students of "Floating University" Who Best Further International Relations.

John W. Campbell, of New York has offered a fund of $6,000 to be divided among the three students, either men or women, of the "Floating University" who accomplish the greatest service in furthering international friendships on the trip; $3,000 will be given to the most outstanding student, $2,000 to the second, and $1,000 to the third.

The selection will be made by a committee of three, consisting of the president of the faculty, the director of education, and the head of the staff in journalism.

The committee will judge the accomplishment of entrants on the basis of the following points: Promotion of general friendliness and cooperation among all foreign students.

Interpretation of the United States—the government and the people. Pronounced understanding of foreign students—their country, government and special problems.

Specific projections put through to promote mutual understanding. Mr. Campbell's idea in making this offer is to impress students with the feeling of responsibility in furthering international relations with foreign students and associations with whom they come in contact, and at the same time to interest them what our country stands for.

Princeton University will this year award three scholarships to students graduating in June. Two of them are offered by Mrs. Edgar Palmer amounting to $2,500 each. The object is to afford their recipients an opportunity to broaden themselves by travel, by study, by life among foreign peoples, and to mingle as much as possible with the people of other nationalities.

The third scholarship is offered to Princeton scholars only, by a friend of the "Floating University," and will amount to $2,500, covering the entire expenses of the eight months' trip around the world, leaving New York October 6, 1928. There are no conditions attached to this offer but the request is made that it be awarded to the student who would be most benefited by studying international relations or foreign service.

The three awards will be made by a committee consisting of Dean Radcliffe Hearnance, of the Princeton faculty; Stephen E. Sheldon, of St. Louis, Mo.; L. Stockwell Judwin, of New York City, and H. Chapman Rose, of Columbus, Ohio.

WILL ROGERS IS VISITOR ON UNIVERSITY CAMPUS

the forge shop where overalled students were working.

"Better than a monkey?" queried the modern Artemus Ward, incredulously.

"Meet our lady engineer," was the dean's dramatic reply and he presented Miss Margaret Frye, who, clad in overalls, was busy at the workbench.

"I'll scratch his head—a characteristic gesture—and murmured, 'Look out, Little! You're doing fine now, but wait 'til you get to shoeing a mule!'"

"Say have you read 'Justice'?" Dean Anderson asked his guest, as he led him into the Engineers' club room, where engineers were drawing.

"Naw, I never go in for any high hat stuff," was the inelegant reply.

"Well, my boys put it on at the theater and everyone says it's the best play ever held here," said the dean proudly.

"Oh, I see," was the knowing response, followed by a loud chuckle.

"It must have been mechanically perfect," every engineer knew his distance. "My gosh! Look at that!"

Eyes of startled engineers and started guide followed Will's finger as it pointed to the wall where hung a huge black beratin coat of the typical college mode.

"I was getting' along fine 'til I saw that," lamented the humorist. "I thought here was one college where they didn't have such things!"

Now, one of the biggest problems up North is how to get beer stains out of coonskin coats.

"Well, goodbye boys, I never saw as many guys working so hard!" And leaving a group of smiling fellows in his wake, the shrewd critic of people's follies, departed.

"Now for the monkey," he sighed with satisfaction as he entered the dean's office.

"Hi Frank, old boy. Good of Frank! 'Member me?' was the incorrigible Will's greeting to the favorite of Dean Anderson's monkey pets.

"He's been eating onions, do you smell 'em?" the dean warned.

"Who has? You or him?" questioned Will with a broad grin.

"We got to go. There's a story to write," said Mr. Rogers when he finally sat down to rest in Dean Anderson's comfortable office. "So don't start anything. I think I can knock off a little work this afternoon."

"Say, Will, I read your article nominating Dwight Morrow for president," spoke the dean in order to change the subject. "Do you really mean it?"

"Absolutely. He's the nicest rich man I ever saw! You know he ain't the socially ambitious type. The usual end ain't the government end and Morrow knows it. You know he gimme a dinner. Yes, sir, he gimme this dinner when I was down there—and President Callais was guest. You know that was the first time a Mexican president was ever in an American embassy. That shows the kind of tact Morrow's got."

"Lindbergh was down there when I was there and you can imagine the crowd that greeted him when he landed. But nobody tried to touch his plane. You could go away and leave that plane for 10 years and it would never have been touched."

"Well, you know if that plane had been up here, we'd of taken it. Shows how ignorant Mexico is. They don't know enough to destroy things!"

"Yes. I'm crazy about Mexico. It's a corking country and chuck full of romance."

And he talked in his forceful, if not exactly grammatical way, this 47-year-old American who grew up on a cow pony but admits that "the president in a Pullman car to an outlaw bucker," did not look the keen, cosmopolitan thinker and writer whose shrewdness of observation gleams through his humor. His clean-shaven face, his wide mouth, his wispy hair being up at the temples, make one think of a laborer dressed in his Sunday clothes and on his way to church.

"I've gotta be goin'. I've seen a girl blacksmith, a coonskin coat, and a monkey. You've got one of the best zoos of any university. 'Cmon dean, I'm leavin'."

Henry says that he spends all his spare time reading books, of which he has a complete set.—Yale Record

tion, which at that time enforced all laws no matter what they were or by whom they were made. All male students were required to take military science not three times a week for two years, but every day for the entire period, whether it was four or six years, until the student remained in college. Chapel every morning was also compulsory.

At the dedication of White hall in 1888, the Administration building and Neville hall were also officially received as part of the University, and were the only buildings, besides the president's home and the boiler house, on the campus until the erection of Mechanical hall and the Agricultural building in 1900. F. Paul Anderson, dean of the College of Engineering, recalls when he helped to select the site for the Mechanical hall from the midst of a cornfield, near a walnut grove, part of which today makes an ideal "Africa" for his pet monkeys.

Dean Anderson also remembers when the main drive-way through the campus was where the Science building now stands.

Just as the initial road was crowded out with modern improvements, so also are various other landmarks being razed to make room for the new, and although the campus is pretty well filled with buildings, we feel it our duty to erect still another one in honor our World War dead who at one time loved and revered the University as we love and reverence it, but who sacrificed their lives that Kentucky might continue to rise with her country.
