Eleven Classes to Meet in June; Treats In Store for Those Who "Reune"

By BETTY HULETT

CLASS REUNIONS! How much do these two small words mean to you Alumni? Just as much as you will let them mean because you can get almost as much pleasure from your university after graduation as you did before. Your university life did not stop when you received your degree nor when you stopped school. It may have been only beginning then.

Of course, there are some alumni who's minds have never turned to the university since they left it. They never wonder about the changes, about their friends among the faculty members or about their class mates. The alumni of the University of Kentucky which belong to this species are few and far between, for not many people have ever attended this wonderful Alma Mater of ours and left with no love in their hearts for the school and all for which it stands.

And that is why we have CLASS REUNIONS: Because the members of the classes want to come back to the university and to Lexington. In June, 1931, the classes ending in 1 and 6 and the class of 1929 will hold their reunions. At the February meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, plans for the reunion were discussed and a committee was appointed to formulate further plans. Dr. G. Davis Buckner, past president of the Association, originator of class reunions at the University of Kentucky, and chairman of the committee above mentioned, is very much enthused over the prospects for a big year. Last year the goal was 500. This year it is many more than that. Doctor Buckner states that he has already heard from many of the class secretaries in regard to the reunion. All signify their desire and willingness to cooperate and help with all the plans. It is through these secretaries that we will reach the alumni and tell them of the many good things in store for them when they return to the university in June.

Many of you have not been back to the university since you received your degree, maybe years ago, and you certainly wouldn't know the place now. Perhaps you have read in the ALUMNUS of the many changes that have taken place, the beautiful new buildings that have been erected. We have tried to keep you in touch with every thing that has been happening here but you can't realize all that has happened unless you see it for yourselves. Aren't you just a little bit anxious to see beautiful Memorial hall, the handsome Teachers' Training building, McVey hall, the new library, the new dairy building and many others that have been erected since your school days?

And how about the Prof who gave you a D instead of a C and knocked your standing in the head? Perhaps if you could meet him now, you might patch up all such things. You might even be able to laugh with him about it and admit that he was right, that is, if you haven't been in school for a good many years. And there is the Prof whom you talked out of a grade to make up for the unexpected D. You know you will be glad to see him and thank him for his much needed friendship. And then there is your faculty advisor who helped you out of many a tough spot and the professor who turned out to be human after all, only you didn't know it when you took his course, yes, they are all here, waiting to welcome you back to your Alma Mater, talk over the many pleasant memories that you have, or let "by-gones be by-gones" as the case may be.

And last, but not least, how about the friends you had in school? You know you want to see them. The men will want to find their old "Gang" and talk over the pranks they used to play on the profs and the girls. The girls will want to get with their "confidantes" and talk about the boys who were in college, and discuss how this or that courtship broke off or terminated. Then, of course, there is that only natural curiosity to know how your friends have turned out in life, whether they have done well, fair, or foul. You will want to meet the husbands or wives of your former classmates and meet their children, and see if you think

REUNIONS

IS IT too early for the officers of the Alumni Association and editors of the ALUMNUS to begin making plans for class reunions at commencement time? Well, to some it may seem a little early, but we are expecting a large number this year and our enthusiasm is running so high we have to start now, spilling plans to you.

Of course class luncheons, and things like that, are always a part of the reunion time, teas, orations, and all have their place, but even more important this year is the adopting of great policy for our association for the expressed purpose of getting things for our university.

More about plans and details later, but now a warning that the time is coming when all alumni are to gather for the support of their Alma Mater, to recall and live over the happy days of college life. We are expecting you and are making arrangements accordingly; you do the same.

ENDOWMENTS

A MONTH has elapsed since our first attempt to give you what we believe to be a happy thought in regard to securing our association against any ravages that time might bring in; in this second plea for encouragement in a material way we want to apply our original plan to a broader one and hope that these suggestions will bring forth some real expressions from our active and interested alumni.

Is it possible that our graduates have not gone out into the world of business and been less fortunate than those of other institutions? We do not believe so, yet our university has not been the recipient of many gifts from those who can attribute at least a part of their success to the school that mothered them. We are wondering if there is a better way to memorialize some one or do a deed that will result in greater good, than to give your native state's leading educational institution some gifts. May we suggest a possibility or two for such a gift? Endow some research problem; give to the university a union building; other schools this size have them, and one is badly needed at Kentucky; offer scholarships so that some bright mind may have an opportunity; create a trust fund for the student loan fund; and lastly, secure the work of the alumni association through some endowment.

Truly, this plea is to the point, and in it we are trying to open the way for you to create lasting impressions on the progress of our school.

Our ALUMNUS and other notes and letters from the Alumni office do not go to all our graduates, not because they are not paid members of the Alumni Association, but merely because the money budgeted for this kind of information is limited. In case there is an endowment established for alumni work at the university, dues would be lowered and all graduates would share alike. The efforts of this office are trying to keep alive the spark of love for the University of Kentucky that all graduates and former students should have.

We hope this appeal will bring to a head the problem of some one trying to do something that will benefit many. A former Kentuckian gave to his native state Cumberland Falls for a state park; all former Kentuckians can give to future generations an outstanding educational institution, with opportunities, and a well founded alumni association to keep alive the traditions of the school.

COVINGTON ALUMNI

THE LAST issue of the ALUMNUS carried a short message from our university president, asking alumni to come to the front and give a helping hand to the cause of education in our state; to give for a union building, a shop for student activities, a place for students to use to take the place of off-campus "loafing" places; also he suggested scholarships from alumni, pointing out that the student loan fund was entirely too inadequate to meet the present student needs.

In the same issue there was a letter from the University of Kentucky Club of Greater Cincinnati mentioning the fact that they have a scholarship fund started and soon hope to have northern Kentucky boys and girls here in school that have earned for themselves a place in the university.

Did Doctor McVey make such a suggestion to that club? If not, they are ahead of the administration, or at least abreast of the leaders. If he did, then there is a wise club for they have seen the opportunity and accepted the challenge to do something worthwhile for those that deserve an opportunity. We congratulate the club on this wise as well as altruistic step, and hope that other far-seeing and progressive alumni clubs will follow a good leader.

FOOTBALL OVEREMPHASIZED

BY THE time this editorial will go to press, spring football practice at the University of Kentucky will be well under way. Is it necessary that football become a year-around sport to maintain its place in the sport world? The ALUMNUS after getting some few opinions believes that football is being over-emphasized, not only at our own school but schools in general.

Truly you would expect the University to have football practice in the spring if all Southern Conference schools persisted in continuing such a practice, yet we could be a leader in a movement to do away with such a strenuous program.

We all love the game and few graduates and former students lose the chance of seeing the Wildcats in action, if they have the opportunity, and all look with great interest for results following a game, yet would interest not be as great, would gate receipts be less were we to have football confined to football season, and not let it encroach on the other sports in their season?

Many of the football players are in school for something else besides donning the pigskin togs, and it is doing them a grave injustice to tie them to a grind that will make them less equal than their fellow students to meet the real purpose for which they are training.

Only within the last few weeks several schools have announced that spring football is a thing of the past in their institutions, and this announcement is being hailed by many football men in our colleges as a good sign. Players themselves have expressed the sentiment that winning a letter now is less of an honor due to the undue amount of hard work now required, not that they object to hard work, but because they have to pass their grades. Could the spring practice be optional without endangering the chances of those players that did not want to report for spring practice? If not, then is it wise for it to be discontinued altogether

Let us hope that our school will be a leader in this movement and not a follower.

ELEVEN CLASSES TO MEET IN JUNE; TREATS IN STORE

they have done well for themselves. Then, when you get home, you can talk all this over with your own "better-half" and decide whether or not Mary could have done better and how did John make all that money when he was never as smart in school as you were.

So let's all start making our plans now to attend the class reunions in June. It isn't too early. Within the next three months you will receive communications from Doctor Buckner and from the Alumni Association urging you to send in your name to be put "among those present." These letters will also tell you of the elaborate arrangements that are even now under way to make you have a good time when you return to the university. We cannot give you anything definite along this line at the present time, but as a general idea, you may start looking forward to the Alumni banquet, the class luncheons, the alumni parade with the graduating class, teas, meetings, and many other enjoyable occasions which will feature this gala time.

From time to time, the committee will publish a report of its progress in the ALUMNUS. It is the plan now to give the names of some of those who are returning. We hope that your name will be listed. These class reunions mean much to the university and they will mean more to you if you will join us in June and take part in the many activities we are planning for you.

So, when you return to Lexington in June, we will make arrangements for the men to have a special rendition of "Sweet Adaline" and we will try to have some song equally appropriate for the women.

President McVey Outlines Expansion Program

President McVey, in a recent report issued to the press, outlined the expansion program that the university's growth demands. President McVey commented on the fact that the recent building program has scarcely kept pace with the ever increasing needs of the student body. His report in part follows:

"A good deal of progress has been made and the university more nearly represents today the need of a great state than ever before. Each year, with its enlarging group of students, brings new difficulties and problems. The university has just finished a considerable building program. The additions, however, have only kept pace with the demand for more room and even that does not cover the whole situation as many departments are housed in old buildings and inadequate quarters."

Doctor McVey further announced that a building in which the students might gather between classes and one in which they could hold their social functions was badly needed. He suggested that a student union building be erected and that those in charge of the appropriations should take steps to see that this much needed equipment be provided.

Additional dormitories to house the students and especially the women students are needed to care for the increasing enrollment. It was pointed out that the additions built several years ago are now woefully inadequate.

The department of physical education is also in dire need of additional room and a new field house is necessary to care for the students. The gymnasium erected several years ago has been found to be adequate for the varsity teams only.

While the university has been cramped because of the lack of room the faculty has been operating with the greatest efficiency and much valuable data has been gathered for use in all parts of the state. Members of the College of Commerce have served on commissions appointed by the governor to help untangle economic problems. Members of the education college faculty have made several surveys to determine the needs in Kentucky schools. Instructors in the department of political science have worked in cooperation with the department of public health to determine the distribution, age, and training of physicians in the state. The Agricultural College has proven to be of much help to the farmers of the state and is making plans to continue its work in an extensive study of forestry on the experiment station farm at Quicksand, Ky.

President McVey also acknowledged the fine gift made by F. O. Robinson of Ft. Thomas who gave the university the mineral rights on the Quicksand Sub-station. This will enable the university to conduct the contemplated forestry experiments.

In closing his report it was noted that more than half of the students graduated have received degrees within the last ten years. President McVey expressed the opinion that their influence would be felt greatly within the next few years and that the state would profit immensely through their work at the university.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS

Members of the Executive Committee of the University of Kentucky Alumni Alumni Association met at the Green Tree Monday evening, December 2, where they were the dinner guests of Miss Lullie Logan. After dinner, there was a business session over which President L. K. Frankel presided.

Members present were: Miss Logan, Dr. G. D. Buckner, Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, Mrs. Rodes Estill, Dr. George H. Wilson, Dr. E. C. Elliott, Pres. L. K. Frankel, Mr. Walter Hillenmeyer, Mr. Wayland Rhoads, and Mr. James Shropshire.

Guests were President Frank L. McVey and Mrs. McVey.

President McVey will go to Pineville, Kentucky, on Monday, March 9, where he will address the University Alumni Club of Pineville.

PHI BETA KAPPA ELECTS FIVE AT DECEMBER MEET

Five students were elected to membership in the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary Arts and Sciences fraternity, at a meeting held December 12, Dr. W. R. Allen, secretary of the local chapter, announced recently. The date for the initiation has not been set, but will be held in the near future, Dr. Allen said.

Three students who were especially honored by being elected on their junior standings are, Katherine Duvall Carr, Lexington, major in anatomy and physiology; Kendall Bennett Holmes, Lexington, major in chemistry, and Charles Eugene Morrell, Stanford, major in chemistry.

Others who were elected are: Miss Edith Elicia Allison, Paris, English major, who graduated last summer; and Mrs. Lillian Combs Meacham, Lexington, English major, who graduates at the close of this semester.

The student elected with the highest scholarship standing is Charles Morrell, who has an average of 2.8. Each of the others has a standing of 2.7. Membership in the fraternity is based primarily on the scholarship standing of the student.

Phi Beta Kappa, an organization especially for Arts and Sciences students but admitting others who meet requirements comparable to those of Arts and Sciences students, was founded at William and Mary College in 1776. The fraternity was originally a secret society and was open to men students only. About 1870, however, some of the chapters admitted women. There are only a few chapters today which have only male membership. There are more than 100 chapters throughout the country at the present time.

The local chapter was organized in 1926. It was the hundredth chapter in the country. The officers of the local chapter are: president, Dr. T. T. Jones, of the department of Ancient Languages; vice-president, Dr. George K. Brady, of the English department; secretary, Dr. W. R. Allen, of the Zoology department; and treasurer, Miss Mary L. Didlake, of the Experiment station. There are 36 active members in the local chapter.

ALUMNI AND EXTENSION STUDENTS SPONSOR ENTERTAINMENT

Dr. Jesse Adams gave the principal address at a dinner sponsored by alumni and extension students of Ashland, Catlettsburg, and Boyd county. The entertainment was held at the Henry Clay hotel at Ashland at 6:30 p. m., January 16.

Other speakers were Dr. J. D. Falls, superintendent of schools of Ashland, and Mr. Sneed Yeager, president of the Ashland Alumni Club.

Arrangements were in charge of Mr. H. B. Brown, principal of W. C. Condit school, and Mr. Sneed Yeager.

Those who attended the dinner from the university were: Dr. Wellington Patrick, director of the Extension department; Dr. Jesse E. Adams, Professor of Education; Prof. Louis Clifton, assistant director of the Extension department; Prof. E. G. Sulzer, director of the Publicity department; Mr. James Shropshire, secretary of the Alumni Association; Mr. L. K. Frankel, president of the Alumni Association; Dr. Frank T. McFarlan, head of the Botany department; and Prof. Lawrence Yates of the English department.

There were about 100 guests who represented luncheon clubs, boards of education, and alumni associations.

LEXINGTON CLUB REORGANIZES

At a reorganization meeting of the Lexington Alumni Club held Thursday, January 15 at 6 o'clock in the Gold Room of the Lafayette hotel, Marguerite McLaughlin, '04, was elected president, to serve for the year 1931.

Birkett Lee Pribble, '24, was elected vice-president of the organization, and Helen King, '25, was named secretary and treasurer. The second Monday in every month was chosen for the regular meeting date, and it was decided that the gatherings would be dinner meetings, with William Gess, '28, chairman of the program committee in charge of arrangements for each meeting.

L. K. Frankel, '00, president of the Alumni Association was present at the meeting, and gave a short and inspiring talk on the objectives of an alumni club.

ATLANTA ALUMNI CLUB

The regular monthly meeting beginning the 1930-31 season was held October 4, 1930, at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The following were elected as the ensuing officers: W. C. Thompson, president, C. L. Templin, vice-president, and George A. Weisenberger, secretary. As Mr. Thompson is now a deceased member of the club, Mr. Clare was elected president and Mr. Templin vice-president.

Regular monthly meetings of the club have been held since October on the first Monday in each month at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The meeting consists of a luncheon following with a business session. They will welcome to the club any new Kentucky Alumnus living in the city of Atlanta.

The roll of the club follows:

O. M. Ard, Warren F. Clare, C. R. Coogle, Ed. Danford, Louis R. Jesse, J. M. McWhorter, J. R. Marsh, W. R. Peck, R. L. Porter, Pete J. Scott, J. S. Shaw, E. L. Shuff, C. L. Templin, J. M. May, C. R. Henry, J. A. Weingartner, J. C. Baughman.

The February meeting of the club was held February 2, at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12:30 p. m. A dinner and a theatre party was planned for February 9, for the members, their wives and friends.

KENTUCKY PRESS GROUP ELECTS LOVETT PRESIDENT

Joe T. Lovett, class '22, editor of the Murray Times-Ledger and former member of the Kernel staff, was elected president of the Kentucky Press Association at the closing meeting of the annual two-day convention held in Dicker hall January 30-31. Mr. Lovett will succeed Herndon Evans, class of '21, publisher of the Pineville Sun, also a former member of the Kernel staff.

The editors were the guests of the Kernel for luncheon in the University Commons Saturday, January 31. The luncheon was preceded by an inspection of the Kernel plant.

Members of the association were the guests of the university for a luncheon in the University Commons, at noon Friday, January 30. President Frank L. McVey spoke at the luncheon and welcomed the group to the university.

Friday night, January 30, the convention attended a banquet at the Phoenix hotel, given by the Lexington Leader and the Lexington Herald. Dr. A. W. Fortune, pastor of the Central Christian church, spoke to the group on "Our Common Task."

Other officers who were elected were

James T. Norris, Ashland Independent, vice-president, and Lawrence W. Hager, Owensboro, chairman of the executive committee. J. Curtis Alcock, Danville Daily Messenger, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

MARY VIRGINIA WILLIS WINS BEAUTY CONTEST

Miss Mary Virginia Willis, Ashland, junior in the College of Education, was selected by Earl Carroll, New York dramatic producer, as winner of the recently concluded beauty contest which was conducted by Frank Stone, director of the beauty section of the Kentuckian.

Eight other co-eds of the university were picked as most nearly measuring up to the standards of beauty set by the judge. These were: Misses Virginia Dougherty, Lexington; Georgetta Walker, Wilmore; Irma Pride, Madisonville; Sue Rogers, Midway; Alice Bruner, Louisville; Carleen Grant, Winchester; and Jane Hamilton, Minnetonka Beach, Minn.

Miss Willis is a junior in the College of Education, a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and a Stroller eligible. She appeared in "Local Color," Stroller production last year.

SECRETARY OF WAR TO ATTEND FETE

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley will be the ranking guest at the dinner to be given by the Kentucky Society in honor of Irvin S. Cobb, at the Willard, Tuesday, January 27.

Among those who have reserved tables of 10 are former Senator A. O. Stanley, former Gov. E. P. Morrow, Representative M. H. Thatcher, Col. R. S. Pratt, Jouett Shouse, Judge C. C. McChord, Col. Allen Gullion, Mrs. E. R. Oliver, Mrs. Mattie Wyatt Porter, Mrs. Frank C. Henry and Miss Gladys Wood.

The Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky will have a large table. The dinner will feature a humorous address by Mr. Cobb. Dancing will follow.

TOCSIN RINGS CALL TO GIRD VETERANS; FIRST SPRING DRILL

Although cheers that reverberated through McLean stadium on Stoll field during the 1930 football season died away, Coach Harry Gamage has started spring practice. Worn by the strain and fatigue of old man examination, players, slowly relaxing from the strenuous 1930 campaign, once again must get back to business and hard work.

Bernie Shively, line coach, has been conducting wrestling classes, in which players have been developing speed and muscle. Frank Seale, Kipping, Aldridge, Humber, Dye, and Noel Engle have been busy getting into condition.

It is expected that Gamage will have his boys do some blocking, tackling, and other necessary fundamentals that a player must know. "Spinner" Campbell, backfield coach, is expected to appear here soon to give some time to spring practice.

All freshmen stars of last season and all eligible varsity men will appear in uniform. Twelve varsity players are lost from last year's team. They include the two great guards, Capt. L. G. Forquer, and Conrad Rose; Howard Williams, center; Spicer, quarterback; Baughman, tackle; Bronston, end; McGinnis, and Gentile, guards; Colker, center; McElroy, fullback; Ollie Johnson, tackle, and Louis Toth, halfback.

Some of the stars who are coming back and who will probably make their initial appearance soon are: Kipping, and Aldridge, tackles; Andrews, Cavana, and Darby, ends; Frank Seale, and Gibson, centers; Ellis Johnson, quarterback; Kelly, Evans, Urbaniak, Foster, Myer, Phipps, and Richards, backs.—Kentucky Kernel.

CHATTANOOGA BOWS TO WILDCATS

The University of Chattanooga Moccasin basketball team, on a barnstorming trip through this state, lost their third game in as many starts to the University of Kentucky five here, 55 to 18.

The Kentucky team, said to be the best quintet in the state, had little trouble with the visitors and proceeded to make a farce of the affair. Spicer, an expert dribbler and floor man, connected for thirteen points to take high scoring honors for the winning team.

Coach Rupp of Kentucky used many substitutes in routing the Chattanooga and every man inserted into the line-up looked as good as the man replaced. Second high point honors were evenly shared by McGinnis, a forward, and Yates, with ten tallies apiece.

U. K. AHEAD 27-9 AT HALF, BEAT VOLS IN OVERTIME, 36-32

A field goal by Charley Worthington and another by Capt. Carey Spicer gave the University of Kentucky basketekers a 36 to 32 victory over the University of Tennessee team in an overtime game at Knoxville. It was the undefeated Wildcats' fourth Southern Conference victory and keeps the team well up at the top of the pre-tournament race.

The Wildcats, playing a spectacular, fast-breaking game, went out at the start as if they would sweep the Vols off their feet as they did in the team's previous meeting at Lexington. At the end of the half Kentucky led by 27 to 9, but when play was resumed the Volunteers, led by LeClaire Greenblott, veteran center, came back and held the 'Cats to five points in the half, at the same time making twenty-three. Two seconds before time was up Greenblott caged the goal that tied the score.

Kentucky went in the overtime without either of its regular guards, as Bronston, Johnson's running mate, went out on personal fouls shortly after Johnson's retirement. Greenblott, who had made sixteen points in the regular time, was effectively checked, however, and soon Worthington shot the winning goal. Spicer's followed and the game ended without more scoring.

KENTUCKY TEAM UPSETS GEORGIA TECH FIVE 38-34

The undefeated University of Kentucky Wildcats February 9 stopped the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech, 38-34 at the Euclid avenue gymnasium, led by Carey Spicer, captain, who scored 20 points.

The tilt was, without a doubt, the fastest game of the season on the local floor. Both teams used a fast breaking offense, and missed many shots. Tech attempted many long shots in the first half, but was held at bay by the two Wildcat guards. The Golden Tornado hit the basket with great consistency from near the center of the floor.

Kentucky played brilliant basketball but missed many crisp shots, bagging only nine field goals in 44 attempted shots in the first half. The Yellow Jackets attempted 21 shots and made eight field goals. In the last frame the Wildcats made five shots out of 25 attempted and Tech tallied six out of 21.

Kentucky assumed the lead as the second half started, 26 to 23. Perkins scored from the foul line. Phillips scored for Tech, putting the Tornado in the lead, 27-26. Worthington fouled Phillips and he converted, tying the score. Yates scored a crisp, followed with another by Spicer. Perkins and Phillips scored for Georgia Tech. The score was 32 to 30 in favor of Georgia Tech with 10 minutes to play.

Bronston connected for a long one, tying the score. Perkins fouled Spicer, and the Wildcat captain made both goals. Darby, who was substituted for McGinnis, tossed in a beautiful one-hand shot. Kentucky lead 36 to 32. The playing was furious and Tech missed many pot shots. Phillips fouled Bronston and he scored both tries from the foul line. Kentucky, 38, Georgia Tech, 32. Tech took time out and, as the game ended, Phillips scored under the basket. Final score, Kentucky, 38, Georgia Tech, 34.

WILDCATS NIP VANDERBILT AT NASHVILLE, BY 42 TO 37

The jinx that has lately been camping on the trail of Captain Carey Spicer was evaded and the Wildcats came through with a 42 to 37 win over the Commodores of Vanderbilt University to mark up their third victory in conference competition.

Vanderbilt took the lead at the start, registering six points before the Blue got a tally, but the end of the half found both teams fighting furiously to break an 18 to 18 tie.

Captain Spicer, after calling time out, set a good example for his team mates and started the scoring which led to a final subjugation of the Commodores. His floor work coupled with that of his running mate, "Little" McGinnis, was the feature of the game. Jake Bronston decided that he had contributed enough goals for one guard in the Tennessee game so he dropped back and helped Johnson sew up the scoring machine of the enemy. These two broke up many of Vanderbilt's scoring chances.

The victory was Kentucky's third in the conference competition. Vandy had previously lost one and won one.

DARBY LEADS KENTUCKY TO NINTH CONSECUTIVE VICTORY

Darrell Darby steadied a faltering University of Kentucky basketball team in the U. K. gymnasium February 6, and led the undefeated Big Blue to a hard-earned 23 to 18 victory over the Washington and Lee Generals.

The victory was Kentucky's ninth this season and its fifth in the Southern Conference.

Washington and Lee, employing a slow-breaking guard offense taught by Ray Ellerman of Wisconsin, jumped into a lead early in the game and ran up seven points before Kentucky earned a shot at the basket. Little McGinnis finally broke the ice for Kentucky with one good free throw out of two opportunities but Cox, Washington and Lee forward, on a favorite one-arm shot, overshadowed that with a neat field goal. With the score 9 to 1 against Kentucky, Coach Adolph Rupp replaced Capt. Carey Spicer with Darby and the youngster from Ashland made a crisp shot immediately.

Washington and Lee had the Wildcats on the run in the first half and it made what proved to be a fatal mistake by stopping its own offense and stalling.

Washington and Lee has the biggest team the Wildcats have encountered this season. The Generals towered above the Ruppmen who are pretty husky themselves.

CLASS NEWS

Paul I. Murrill

Paul I. Murrill is now living at Norwalk, Connecticut. His address is Bettswood Road. He holds the position of chief chemist for the R. T. Vanderbilt Company of East Norwalk, Conn.

After receiving the degree of B. S. in 1895, Mr. Murrill spent an additional year as lecture assistant to Prof. J. H. Castle and doing graduate work. He received his M. S. in 1896.

From August, 1896 to February, 1897, he was employed in the Biological Department of Parke, Davis, & Company of Detroit, Michigan. However, at this time he enrolled as a graduate student in the University of Michigan, receiving his Ph. D. degree from that institution in 1899. During 1899-1900, he held the Frederick Stearns Fellowship in Chemistry, doing special work at the University of Michigan.

In 1900-1901, Doctor Murrill taught Chemistry at Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Alabama, as acting professor of Chemistry. In 1902-1903, he was associated with Professors Atwater and Benedict in Nutrition Investigations at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Since 1903, Doctor Murrill has been engaged in chemical research or manufacture of organic chemicals for explosives, dye stuffs, and rubber industry. From 1903 to 1913 he was with the E. I. duPont de Nemours & Company as research chemist, assistant director of the Experiment station, assistant manager of the Development department, and European representative, successively. Then for two years, he held the position of Research Chemist with the United States Rubber Company of New York, after that engaging in manufacture of explosives and dye intermediates at Copperhill and Kingsport, Tennessee, for two years.

From 1917 up to the present time, Doctor Murrill has been engaged in the study, preparation, and manufacture of chemicals entering into the manufacture of rubber goods, particularly vulcanizing accelerators and antioxidants. Since 1919 he has been Chief Chemist for the R. T. Vanderbilt Company.

Among other things, Doctor Murrill is a life member of the Alumni Association and one of the most loyal supporters of the university, a member of Kappa Alpha, American Chemical Society, Society of Chemical Industry (London), American Institute of Chemical Engineers, and the Chemists Club of New York. Also, he is a member of Masonic orders, including Knights Templar, 32 degree, Scottish Rite, and Mystic Shrine.

Doctor Murrill was married to Miss Louise E. Faig, of Lexington, Kentucky, in 1906.

Mary LeGrand Didlake

Miss Mary L. Didlake received her degree of B. S. from the University of Kentucky in 1895. At that time she was valedictorian of the class, the first time that first honors had ever been given to a woman at the College.

For the next two years Miss Didlake took graduate work at the university, along with assisting Professor Shackelford with teaching a class in English Literature and working with Professor Garman in the Experiment station. She received her M. S. degree in 1897. During 1900-1901, she attended the University of Chicago, receiving another M. S. degree there in June 1901.

In September, 1901, Miss Didlake started at the Experiment station as assistant to Prof. H. Garman in Botany, Entomology, and Bacteriology, and she has held this position ever since, serving as acting head of the department and acting State Entomologist in the summer of 1930, during the months intervening between the retirement of Doctor Garman and the arrival of Dr. W. A. Price.

Miss Didlake has published some bulletins and articles in scientific magazines along the lines of Bacteriology and Entomology. Upon the organization of a Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the university in 1926, she was made a member of this organization.

Miss Didlake is an interested and active member of the Alumni Association. She is a member of the American Association for Advancement of Science, a charter member of the Kentucky Academy of Science, and is chairman of a joint committee from the university and the Lexington Garden Club in charge of developing a Botanical garden on the campus. She states that she is very much interested in this project.

Miss Didlake's residence address is 248 Market street, Lexington, Kentucky.

Nettie Belle Foster

Miss Nettie Belle Foster was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1895 with a B. S. degree. She began teaching in the public schools of Lexington in 1900 and has had experience in both the elementary and high schools of the city.

Miss Foster first taught in Dudley and Harrison Schools and then was promoted to Morton Junior High. From Junior High she was again promoted to the Senior High School in 1924. At present she is a valued instructor in the department of mathematics at Henry Clay High School.

Her home is 624 West Short street, Lexington.

Rufus L. Weaver

Rufus L. Weaver is now a Counselor at Law at Montauk, Long Island, New York. He was graduated from the University of Kentucky with the class of 1895. While at the university he was a member and sometimes an officer of the Union Literary Society, was on its program at a Washington's Birthday celebration, in its contest with other societies to represent the university at the State Chautauqua Oratorical Contest, and won the representation. Also, he was steward of the University Mess Hall.

After leaving the university, Mr. Weaver attended school at Michigan. In his junior year he was president of his law class of about 250 members; in his senior year, he was class orator. To the latter position he was chosen by two committees both with law faculty members; the first were judges of "Thought and Composition," and the second judged the delivery.

This class oration had a definite point to it. During his three years at Michigan Mr. Weaver had heard many public addresses which lead the educated people there to suspect and disrespect the south. His address was on sectionalism. In his talk he mentioned these various subjects and he won the oratorical contest. Since that class day, those subjects and the old way of treating them have become obsolete.

In 1906, Mr. Weaver was married to Miss Sarah Harbine of Xenia, Ohio. They have four children, all girls, the youngest is nine, and the oldest was graduated from Barnard College in 1928, at which time she was not yet 21.

After graduating from Ann Arbor in 1898, Mr. Weaver went to New York and was admitted to the New York bar the next year. He has been practicing law in that state ever since. He resided in Brooklyn at first and attended the Baptist Temple where he was a member, Assistant Deacon, and then Deacon. Then he took up residence in Manhattan, New York County, in 1907, was one of the organizing members of the Fort Washington Baptist church, as attorney incorporated it, was chairman of its board of trustees until he moved to Westbury, Long Island in 1914.

In 1926, Mr. Weaver moved to Riverhead to take a position with the Suffolk Title and Guarantee Company where he was engaged in title work until 1929, when he moved to Montauk as head of the legal department of the Montauk Development Corporation and the Carl C. Fisher Properties there.

In 1920, the 2nd District of Nassau County elected an assemblyman and he was the Democratic candidate; Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was the Republican candidate. Mr. Roosevelt won in the Republican landslide of that year. Later, Mr. Weaver was a candidate for a judgeship and he ran far ahead of the Republican candidate, carrying the village against him although it was Republican by several hundred. Mr. Weaver had no organization and did not appear at many places in the district, but won over the Republican who was also a resident of Westbury.

Mr. Weaver is a member of the Masons, Blue Lodge.

This offer is so unusual that the reason for it needs explanation for the opportunity to be properly appreciated. Recently, the Book-of-the-Month Club—in addition to other conveniences it gives book readers without expense to them—put into effect a 20% Rebate System. Under this, it is estimated, the Club will return to its subscribers between $240,000 and $360,000 a year which they can use to purchase other books. To carry out this plan, one of the things necessary was to increase the number of the Club's subscribers by about 20,000. A campaign is under way to obtain this quota, in which present subscribers are actively assisting; and this offer is part of that campaign. This is the first time in the United States that all of Sherlock Holmes—four novels and fifty-six short stories—have been printed in one collection. To obtain them all otherwise for your library, you would have to buy nine separate books.

Over 100,000 book readers now make use of the conveniences of the Book-of-the-Month Club. IT COST THEM NOTHING. Your only obligation, when you join the Book-of-the-Month Club, is to agree to support the Club by buying from it at least four books a year, out of from 200 to 250 reported upon by the judges. And if any of these is a book-of-the-month, you receive a 20% rebate on them, get the many other undoubted conveniences the Club gives book readers; and also get this two-volume Sherlock Holmes free?

If you are interested, it is advisable to send the coupon below at once. A copy of THE COMPLETE SHERLOCK HOLMES will be held in reserve for each inquirer for a reasonable period, until he can receive and read the booklet referred to.
