

Broude. Apr. 24.

Home Rule:

I enclose a cheque for to 2. for the Club. I am going with ~~to London~~ on Monday on Tuesday & had some thoughts of dining -- on the 28th when I was the Chair would like to see -- but I don't feel equal to it

Ever sincerely yours

My dear Broude.

The Edinburgh came yesterday -- I must thank you heartily for the cordial reception you give a Cook which in many ways was a new to Edinburgh tradition.

I am specially glad that your article has attracted and apparently admitted my defence of Lord Carnarvon against the charge of having encouraged the rebellion. - Nam was accusation more unfounded.

As to what I am especially surprised - so far - at the reception of the Wharfedale in Ireland.

Each party seems to be gratified as to showing up of the other. - but it condones and I say of itself -

I read the political article which I enclose to you more with my great pleasure indeed. I confess to a fear that if parties had been more evenly balanced in Parliament Gladstone might have been tempted into taking up
