

Early days, and the other (the current number) having the first portion of the toxic novel which you mentioned in one of your letters in the "journal".
I also send in sheets, my article on the Northwest Boundary in the current number of the American Law Review just published.

Now don't say to yourself "I am willing enough to send him things, but I wish he wouldn't bother me with his rubbish!" because I shall not be likely to have any more to send at present

with renewed thanks Faithfully yours

Dear Major Poore

You have literally showered benefits upon me. What you have sent me is exactly what I wanted, and I am very much obliged to you indeed. I am very glad to have the "Review", - and had also taken much satisfaction in the Congressional Directory, ~~when~~ ^{and} yesterday came to hand the Diplomatic Correspondence which is of especial interest to me.

I hope you will be kind enough to continue your good offices. — I know you must have exhausted the single dollar I sent you. If you will let me know what the Record costs, I can make ^{at once} an intelligible remittance; or if more convenient to you, let it all wait for the present, only do not let it get forgotten, and do not stop sending whenever you see anything likely to interest me.

I find you ^{by some host} herewith two numbers of the "Old & New" one containing my paper about Webster as a newspaper man in his
