

illustrations from that most powerful of modern satirists "Punch". This is the only way in which I can show my earnest desire to atone for the circumstance of my not being present on Tuesday

with kind remembrances.

I remain,
Dear Sir,

Yours very truly
W. Lloyd Garrison

34 Montague Place

Russell Square

10 April, 1863.

My dear Sir,

I deeply regret to say that owing to the sudden death of a near relative, an aunt, who is to be buried on Tuesday, I shall be unable to keep my promise of attending the vice. This is a great disappointment to me, inasmuch, as I was very anxious to renew the kindly associations which have sprung up between myself and a number of warm hearted friends in Huddersfield, and it would also have afforded me the opportunity of testifying the deep interest I feel in the success of your admirable Educational Institution.

I expect in the course of a short time to be engaged for a week, professionally, at Leeds and while there, I would, if you thought it desirable, come over and deliver a lecture to your members upon the subject of Satire and Satirists with copious