

Dear Sir, I think I remember an ambiguity ~~in~~ left in the proof of yesterday. Can you remove it? It is where I speak of ~~a~~ Lovell interceding for a delinquent, whose situation he might have succeeded ~~it~~ to. "But the man had a wife & family". Then I go on to say "He (meaning L.) was lively &c. But ~~the~~ "He" follows the ~~word~~ sentence in which the delinq.^t is named — Could He be changed to L. — or the doubt removed by making "He was a lively" &c. begin a new paragraph, which I think w^d be best. Never mind, if it is too late & do not trouble yourself to answer. This O Lamb

Clockwork
AU 22
1821

14

78 1/2 (H)

Lombard St
2 py P. Paid

Mrs. Taylor & Mepoy
Booksellers

Post-street

Mr. J. —

The name of Mr. Beardsley, now I remember, was 'Tisha