Dear Godwin,

I cannot imagine how you, who never in your writings have expressed yourself disrespectfully of any one, but your Maker, can have given offence to Pickman. I have written to the Numberer of the People, to ask when it will be convenient to him to be at home to Mr Booth. I think it probable he may not be out of town in the Parliamentary recess, but doubt not of a speedy answer. Pray return my recognition to Mr Booth, from whose excellent "Tables of Interest" I daily receive inexpressible official facilities.

Yours ever
C Lamb
