

Balliol Croft,
Cambridge. 23 .ii. 97

My dear Bishop

I have read with the greatest interest
the addresses you have so kindly sent to me.
Every thing you say draws me towards forms of belief, which are not altogether
my own, but the substance of which I am in some measure able to hold fast;
strengthened by holy influences such as yours.

Yours most sincerely

Alfred Marshall