

From Martin the author of "Bon Gaultier" Ballads.

Chambers, 10, New Palace Yard, Westminster 13 July 1854

My Dear Bannock

I send a copy of the "Correggio" which you will be kind enough to say you would forward to your American friend. I should of course like it to be nicely got up, if it be thought worth reprinting at all. My two other little books have been printed promptly & extensively.

I hope you got home safely last night. Were we not in luck as to the day?

Yours most truly,
Theodore Martin

My dear Field,

From Mr. Martin's "Bon Goultier" I send you his translation of Correy's, which you will find to be charming, and I enclose his note or letter - It is appended to this - Should you, republicans, be ever so happy to give your most precious introduction to the American publics. He is a worthy fellow and a worthy wife.

Ever My dear Field,
Yours faithfully
S. Bowditch
