My dear North

Many thanks for Sargent's Mosaic from Amy Dowell which has its own interest in addition to being printed by Bruce Rogers.
It is very kind of you to pick it out for me.

You will be glad to hear that The Bibliographical Society is now getting established in its new quarters in the rooms of the British Academy in Burlington Gardens and that its books, which have been wandering about for the last 30 years & more, are now housed in the same place where we hold our meetings. I wish I could tell you of some of our publications ^{as} being ready for issue but they are all advancing simultaneously at a snail's pace. I think I have already told you that for the last six weeks I have had a touch of writer's cramp. It is now certainly better though I am still glad to get all the help I can in writing my letters &c. I hope that both you & W^m North are both well and the American Branch of the Bibliographical Society continues to thrive.

Sincerely yours,
Alfred D. Ballard
