Dear Mr. Brown

Thank you for your letter and for your comment - which gives well and says something. Only please don't make two syllables of "fixe".

I haven't heard of any recent disturbance among the Elysian Dwellers, and I doubt if there has been any;
and I don't quite make out from your writing whether their most is now a battle or bottle-burnished name. But there are trifling matters, and I like to infer from your pleasure in writing that some things that I have written have given you some sort of pleasure. Captain Craig had an external original, more or less, but the other people are entirely imaginary, so far as I am concerned.

Yours sincerely

J. A. Robinson
