

3.00 net
RE

Author of
"A Life on the Ocean Wave"
Boston, Sept. 28th 1854.

Wm
Sargant

Dear Sir,

I will prepare an article from the paragraph you sent me, and get it inserted in the Transcript, the principal literary organ in our city. I am glad to learn that you are engaged upon a work so similar in its character to that you have so well discharged; and do not doubt that your history of the last war, as well as your lives of the pioneers, will be truly valuable contributions to the solid literature of the country.

I answer by this mail an invitation to lecture in Poughkeepsie, which I am obliged to decline. I regret it the more now that I see the date of your letter.

I have recently put forth a School Reader, which is having a good success in this part of the country. I send you a circular which will give you some idea of its character. Should ^{you} be acquainted with any teacher or school committee-man in Poughkeepsie, who may take an interest in examining a new candidate for adoption in schools, I will take pleasure in sending him a copy in any way he may signify.

With sincere regards,
Yr. frnd. & old fr. Servt.,

Geo Sargent

Benson J. Lossing Esq,
Poughkeepsie
N. Y.

