

TRINITY COLLEGE,
CAMBRIDGE. March 30. 1891.

My dear Lord Bishop,

I have received from Macmillan's a copy of your Essays on Religious Thought in the West sent by your direction. It was a great pleasure to me to have this proof of not being forgotten amidst all your new interests & absorbing work. Most of them — all but two — I know already.

having read them generally soon after they first appeared in separate form, ~~with~~ ~~reference~~ The titles awake many recollections, & I look forward with pleasure to reading these again as well as the two that are new to me.

I feel sure that the republica-tion of the essays in this con-bined form will do much good.

I was grieved to hear from Dr. Hort when I saw him about a week ago, that he thought you were feeling overwhelmed with the pressure of various work. I hope you are trying to set other people to do any-thing ^{that they can} for you - that is - I will not say mechanical - but not relatively of so much im-portance as other work which you might do if more free. You must try to remem-ber how much you used to preach that Bishops ought to act on this plan.

Believe me,

Ever Y^rs. affectly,

W. H. Stanton.
