

Shrewsbury Henry James Radcliffe

My dear Sir,

After many interruptions, I have at last of a heavy kind when I did not expect it. I have ^{to the point of the} ~~the~~ ^{with the} Dramatic Artiste, the whole of the residue of the Essay on the life of writing of Mr. Radcliffe, except about one other article of my Dr. L.S., just to complete the Paragraph on the Italian, & add one I was of conclusion. This I will send in the form of a letter addressed to you by the real post ^{to you} ~~to Shrewsbury~~. I have been up writing the whole night, hoping to complete all; - but am now too much exhausted to finish the last sentences; - & the carrier waits to take me to Shrewsbury.

I send this expecting that if the parcel is not delivered in time you may enquire at the Office of the Shrewsbury Mail. I perceive the parcel carried in safety from Worcester.

You will receive the last paper containing on Wednesday morning.

In the utter dearth of Recitations, I have sent a little Essay, which I hope will answer the purpose.

I am nearly well my dear Sir, but am never healthy,
Very truly yours,
J. H. Talford.
