

SCOTT.

52, Lincoln's Inn Fields. W. C.

16. January 1853.

My dear Mr Charles Keble,

I most very sincerely to come on Monday to see you in the love of mine and that is now to write about it. To secure this would you send writing to Mr. Levy at the D. J Office or otherwise it might be looked on as an ordinary reward and doubtless accordingly unfortunately I am not by our master and can only write here I am anxious to do so. I will use all my personal influence however.

I should have been to see you long ago but my daily duty of leader writing keeps me at the desk every day and I find it difficult to get away at weekend time.

I am delighted with your advertisement I have asked my publisher to send you "The Electric" for January - published in the middle of December - to show how accidentally I hit upon the same idea.
I don't see the globe
Hoping to see you soon

Yours sincerely,
Clement Stone.

Clement Scott

1841 -

Author
Dramatist
Critic

1/28