Dear Mrs Smalley, how can I thank you enough for your goodness? I had guessed some little of it; from your card, and visit which the servants reported of; - but anything like the whole I could not know - certainly not deserve: but I can be grateful for it, I believe. The name which caused the mistake was that of a somewhat distant relative of mine who died two months ago. I will say no more now - but go on thinking, you may be now, how much you have gratified

Yours truly ever

Robert Brownning.
