My dear Mr Kent,

I really found it too hard to acknowledge your kind present of the Book - on the surprise and sorrow that followed my becoming acquainted with the calamity which has befallen you, and of which I was in complete ignorance: but, after waiting these two weeks nearly, I find myself still as incapable as ever of saying more than the obvious and heartfelt "God console you - for man must not even endeavor in such a case!" - Why add that you have the deepest sympathy from yours, most truly,
Wm. Brownning.
