

JOHNES, THOMAS, was born at Ludlow, Shropshire, 1748, and educated at Oxford (M.A. 1783). He was elected M.P. for the borough of Cardigan; and appointed auditor for the principality of Wales, and colonel of the Caermarthenshire militia. In 1795 he was returned to parliament for Radnorshire. He built an elegant mansion at Hafod, Cardiganshire, which was destroyed by fire 1807. Mr. Johnes died 24 April, 1816. His publications are—A Cardiganshire Landlord's Advice to his Tenants; Palaye's Memoirs of Froissart, translated from the French; The Chronicles of Sir John Froissart; translation of De Joinville's Memoirs of St. Louis; Travels of Bertrandon de la Brocquiere in Palestine; The Chronicles of Monstrelet, with notes.

JOHNES, THOMAS, a gentleman who distinguished himself by his attachment to literary pursuits, was born in 1748, at Ludlow, in Shropshire; studied at Eton, and Jesus college, Oxford; and sat in parliament for Cardigan, and subsequently for Radnorshire. He possessed an estate at Hafod, in Cardiganshire, where he built an elegant mansion, and furnished it with a noble library, and a complete typographical establishment, whence proceeded the works on which his literary reputation is founded. He translated the "Chronicles of Froissart and Monstrelet;" "Joinville's memoirs of Louis;" "Bertrand de la Brocquiere's Travels in Palestine;" and "St. Palayés Life of Froissart." Died, 1816.
