

INGRAM, Herbert, M.P.; established the "Illustrated London News," first published 14
May 1842; M.P. for Boston, 1856; drowned in Lake Michigan, 8 Sept. 1860. 171.412.5

Trinity College, Oxford,
May 29. 1845.

My dear Sir,

As I understand you are preparing a new edition of Dugdale's St. Paul's -

I send you a facsimile of a rough sketch of the

with the admeasurements & steeple or spire, as it was

"~~restored~~^{restored} ~~restored~~^{restored} in 1498 & taken down re-edified"

probably in the year 1639 - when the repairs mentioned by Dugdale were in progress. This sketch

I lately found in the Archives of the ~~University~~ in the School Tower, & I am not aware that it has been ever noticed. The description of the ballade - seems more full than that in Dugdale.

Excuse this scrawl from Yrs faithfully,
J. Ingram

Farrago verum Geneensium de fol. 134.

Ann. Archiep. in lunc. Scholarum.

"of length of the bole to the Eagle 20 foote 6 inches of aspen of breadth overwart 6 foote and an halfe of copeffe about of copeffe at the bole 12 foote 2 inches of copeffe of the bole round about 16 foote 5 inches of inner part of the copeffe oake of second part leade of outter, copper gilt with gold of bole & of caples copper and gilt of bole was hollowe and stuffed full of saint's reliques."

Spire of the church of St. Andrew anno 1498. by 14 of Hen 7

I have taken the liberty of placing the spire as nearly perpendicular as possible to its base; in other respects I believe I have been faithful.

191.20.8.2

A. Ellis Esq
British Museum
London

OXFORD
1862

Faint handwritten notes on the left side of the envelope, including the date '1862' and some illegible text.

708

John Goodall.

- 1834

Author Master of Chon

708 2

James Ingram

1774-1850

Author + great

Anglo Saxon scholar

708 3

George Greenhill

- 1853

Author, Antiquary