

Sir Baldwin Leighton <sup>Bd</sup>
Loton Park
Shrewsbury

a Peace Monument.

Yours truly

Chas. J. Fox

P.S. A more appropriate monument to the same kind from eminent literary men - occurs to me as a common resort in regard small persons. Don't think the disagreeable to the purpose

Duke of Argyll

Dear Sir Dalrymple

Remember your reputation of a good deal of diffidence & delicacy: and really
I don't know how to deal with it. My antagonism to the Madame has become 10

"concentrated", and, as you suggest, in regard to a question in which Pennyson took some part in the sense as I do, that as at present advised I do not see my way to open the question into him. He was a great admirer of Pennyson as I know from personal observation. But I have an impression that it has been at least as hearty in recent years

I know nothing of the need he had a tribute in your support - altho' it is highly probable that the literary income can be enough to support
