

Coleridge.

My dear Sara [Hutchinson]

I was much vexed and startled when on my return to the house I found that my standing Ticket had been lent by my sitting me locked up in Mr Gillman's Escrutoir, who is gone on a little Tour. I ~~was~~ ^{am} glad however that I have been able to procure a substitute and I believe a good seat.
It is but for me; but with management Mr Monkhouse will get in, I doubt not. As to a standing Room, if you are there by 10, there will be no doubt.

I have just written on the other side what perhaps may in case of any scruple which I do not anticipate (for standing Room at least) with you on this' Seat. Ticket, remove the obstacle -

May God bless you, and your sincere and faithful Friend

S. J. Clevage.
