

The World Whirls On

By JIM WOOLDRIDGE

Lightning and rain, and then a stroke of lightning was out of clear sky of dawn and merrily set a thunderous roll of marching troops and fighting ships across Scandinavia...

Monday afternoon's papers had carried headlines of Britain's mining of territorial waters of Norway in open disregard of the little Scandinavian nation's warning...

German's March Hitler got in the argument too. He decided that Norway was being treated fairly and decided to send his army over the Skagerrak to help the Norwegians.

Apparently, the Nazi legends had been preparing for this expedition for some time. In a perfectly planned order, the field army corps first marched into Denmark from three sides, seized the capital, and forced a complete surrender...

Other German divisions proceeded northward in huge squadrons of tank troops and landed by the thousands on Norway's coast. After several attempts by sea, Oslo, the capital, is in the hands of the invaders.

Hitler's troops captured nearly all the key seacoast cities along the Atlantic and Baltic coasts. The army troops were not given time to organize; the government assembly appointed a committee to accept the terms of capitulation with the Germans.

Screen by Nazi Navy Meanwhile, to keep the British fleet from interfering with the army's crossing, all available Nazi warships were pressed into service, including in one large armada sent out into the North Sea to engage the British.

Chamberlain admitted in two British broadcasts had already been lost, but destroyed that the German navy vessels had been taken into the Skagerrak, and played havoc with the British fleet.

LAST MINUTE FLASHES: The gigantic sea bottle which is raging down the entire length of Norway, and which is in progress despite the presence of strong wind storms which were shipping the waves.

Berlin - Government officials stated in an official communique that they had no knowledge of any battle in the Skagerrak, German troops were proceeding to sea landing more troops which were occupying key Norwegian plants.

With the approval of SuKy, the student legislature changed the date of the May Queen election from today to Monday at their regular session Wednesday afternoon. Voting will take place from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., in Room 264, Union building.

Since the unapproved list was published in Tuesday's Kernel, several new candidates have been nominated. The group from which the men will select the queen, her maid-of-honor, and four attendants, consists of 17 sorority representatives.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

This may sound slightly screwy, but I'm firmly convinced that American sports are haunted by immortals from out of their past.

Not that these athletic-ancients, who have long since joined the celestial corps in that Valhalla where mortal-mysteries are answered, take ghostly forms by night and flit blithely about. But tales of their exploits, like bubbles in a ginger ale bottle, are constantly popping up in any phase of sports gossip. The things they did were just a bit better than anything the modern athletes have ever done.

Modern boxing has its Joe Louis, the tennis emblems who has undoubtedly the nearest thing to a perfect light record in the history of the sport, but the tales of these fighters dominated the bell-bottomed trouser days of bully-boy John L. Sullivan or at least some 20 years back. Demme is finding their nominee for the greatest champ of them all. Yet neither of these fighters dominated his day nearly so completely as does Louis.

In every branch and limb of sport it's the same. Tennis stars are honored by the deeds of Bill Tilden; football heroes must conform to the pattern cut by Red Grange; golfers' ears ache over the par-halting of Bobby Jones and even liars are stalked by the tall-tales of Baron Munchausen.

Our Day's Pretty Good

To me, unofficial press agent of the past decade that I am, such idolry of the past is neither right nor logical. All things have a tendency to become greater and more important with the passing of time, and so it may be with the accomplishments of these past day sports heroes. Not that recognition is not due these athletic pioneers, but an equal chance for immortality should be given present day greats. It seems too much like being so near the forest you can't see the trees.

Possibly ghosts of the past most of all haunt baseball, a sport whose 100 years of past dates back to the side-whiskered days of original Abner Doubleday. This fact is perfectly illustrated in the recent issue of a national weekly magazine by Harry B. Center, who picks the all-time all-star team. Of the 12 players named, not one is of even fairly recent vintage.

Says Mr. Center

Says Mr. Center "Take these players, put them together on the diamond, and this is the team that would beat the world, before or after."

After finishing a comfortable second in its first two bouts of the season, Kentucky baseball team, this time a week of practice to the good, will meet the Eastern State Teachers college Maroons this afternoon on the Stoll field diamond.

As usual the activity book will be good for student admission and the game is scheduled to start at 3:00.

A remodeled team in all probability will take the field this afternoon for Kentucky. Joe Shepherd is due to move over to short stop in place of Charley White with Nolan Navarre coming in from center field to inherit the third base vacancy. Billy Black, in turn, will start in center field. Formerly a pitcher, Lincoln Ellington is undergoing a transformation into an outfielder because of his batting power and will possibly open in left field in place of Charley Martin.

Kentucky's starting pitcher was uncertain yesterday afternoon, but either George Tognocchi, Staff Kelley or Alan Rathbone will open for the Cats on the mound.

Last week the Cats opened their season by dropping a two game series to Ohio State by scores of 9-1 and 10-4. The games were featured by Kentucky's ability not to hit the ball, but, with one full week of practice behind them, the Cats are looking for their first win of the year. The Ohio State series was played with just two days of practice.

STUDENTS VOTE

Another group, to be chairmanned by Arthur Bryson (Sr., law), was appointed to make a check on the proportional representation of each college in the Student Legislature. (The student constitution requires that an annual check on populations of the various colleges be taken so as to keep representation on a proportional basis).

Those absent from the legislature meeting were Cleve. Hillemeier, Hunsaker, Lowry, Ramsey, Staker, and Webb.

An executive council was selected to administer the Vocational Guidance conferences to be held during the next school year. Named to the women's division were Lida Belle Howe, arts and sciences sophomore, and Dorothy Angle, agriculture freshman.

Chosen for the men's division were Leonard Greathouse, agriculture sophomore; Robert Ammons, arts and sciences freshman; and Ben Sublett, commerce sophomore.

BOARD HOPES

The opinions of those who believe that 1) only an out of state man should be selected, 2) only a Kentuckian should be given the job, 3) that a new head should be chosen from the University campus.

Rumors Rampant

Rumor has it that there are groups throughout the state which believe that the new president should be an industrialist rather than an educator. It is also rumored that Dean James H. Graham, Doctor McVey, and Judge Richard C. Stoll stand together for an industrialist. However, this report is fact that many believe Doctor McVey should be asked to remain as president for another four or five years due to the crucial period through which education is passing. Since most people in Kentucky know and respect Doctor McVey's educational theories and his handling of the University, it is deemed inadvisable by some to make a change at this time.

The Favorites

Most frequently recommended in unofficial circles as presidential candidates are Dr. William S. Taylor, dean of the education college; Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the agriculture college; and Dr. E. B. Ford, dean of the graduate school, University of Wisconsin.

Contrary to recent reports, however, Board members said that Dean Ford has not as yet been mentioned picks his racing cars for speed—his cigarettes for slow burning

Slower-Burning Camels Give the Extras

EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR EXTRA SMOKING

SPEED'S MY DISH IN A RACING CAR— BUT I WANT MY CIGARETTE SLOW-BURNING.
CAMEL CIGARETTES BURN ON THE SLOW SIDE— GIVE THE "EXTRAS" IN SMOKING PLEASURE

WITH BOB SWANSON, it's always a slow-burning Camel. "That slower burning makes a big difference," says Bob. "Camels are milder—easier on my throat. They don't bother my eyes. And they never tire my taste. They give an extra amount of smoking, too." Yes, speed is fine in the right place, but millions have learned that in cigarettes the coveted extras of coolness, mildness, and full, rich flavor go with slow-burning Camels.

In recent laboratory tests, Camels burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested— slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

HERE THEY COME in a hurricane of flying dirt and spinning oil. You can almost hear the high whine of the motors and the shriek of brakes and burning tires as they streak into the sharp unbanked curves. They may call 'em "midget racers," but there's speed to burn underneath those toy-like hoods. Leading the pack in the picture above is Bob Swanson, Pacific Coast champ. In a split second these racers may be climbing each other's hoods, hurdling, somersaulting, flying through fences. Bob Swanson likes a slower pace in his off-time. Fishes a lot. Smokes Camels a lot. He explains: "I don't like overheating in my cigarette any more than I like it in a racing motor. I stick to Camels. I know they're slower-burning...milder and cooler."
