WILDCATS TO MEET LOUISVILLE UNIVERSITY ON SATURDAY

Excursion Over the Southern Will Carry 400 State Students.

EVERYBODY WILL BE THERE

Saturday the Wildcats are slated to engage the eleven representing the University of Louisville in a four-round battle for the State championship. The bout is to be staged at Eclipse Park and will be the first appearance of the Wildcats in the Falls City.

Saturday's game will prove one of the best scraps on the Blue and White schedule. Last year the Wildcats met an unkempt aggregation representing U. of L.'s first effort at a foot ball team, and on the friendly turf of Stoll Field they blanked this shaky Cardinal eleven with 41 points. This season the Cardinals have a heavy, well-coached team that will give the Wildcats all they can do to score a victory.

This Louisville team has a perfect record for the season, and has reflected credit on Head Coach Larson. Captain Walker is a genuine star, and plays his position at tackle in a class that ranks with the best in the state. Rogers, Baker, J. Daniels and Caldwell form a back field that outweighs any quartet that can be picked from the Blue and White squad. Falls City football fans expect this year's team to surprise the Wildcats, land a victory and put Louisville on the football map.

The game Saturday will certainly not be a repetition of last year's exhibition. The Wildcats need the moral support of 400 students when they invade strange territory against a team that is as yet an unknown quantity. It is up to every student in the University to be on the field Sat-

ASSOCIATION OF ALUMNI RECENTLY ORGANIZED IN CITY OF PITTSBURGH

The "Old Boys" of Kentucky State Gather and Speak in Remembrance of Us.

REPORT IS COMMUNICATED CONCERNING VASTNESS AND SPLENDOR OF PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, the home of many sons of "Old Kentucky," is situated in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, at the point where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers unite and form the Ohio.

It was founded by the French in 1754 and called Fort Duquesne, occupied by the English in 1758, the name was changed to Fort Pitt, in honor of the famous English statesman, William Pitt, from whom the city obtained its present name.

Pittsburgh is the center of the greatest industrial region in the world, and it leads the world in the manufacture of air brakes, electrical machinery, iron, steel, glass, steel cars, tin plate, fire brick, white lead, pickles and preserves cork and aluminum.

To pay the employees of these vast industries requires a pay roll of over $1,000,000 a day.

Nor is its prestige confined alone to industrial supremacy, for it has within its borders two large educational institutions of high rank. The University of Pittsburgh with 2,000 students and the Carnegie Institute of Technology, with 2,500 students.

Besides these the city has numerous other educational institutions.

The Carnegie Institute, built by Andrew Carnegie at a cost of $5,000,000, covers four and one-half acres, one-half acre more than the Capital at Washington, and contains a Library, Museum, and a large auditorium with a magnificent pipe organ on which free concerts are given twice a week. The city has a large number of churches, and its principal streets are lined with handsome and attractive residences, while extensive parks and boulevards are to be seen everywhere within its bounds.

Bigness of Pittsburgh.

Largest use of ozone in the United States.

Largest production of radium in the world.

STUDENTS ARE HIGHLY PLEASSED WITH LECTURE GIVEN BY MR. OTT

THE EMINENT CHAUTAUQUA AND PLATFORM ENTERTAINER KEENLY APPRECIATED HERE

The Clergy, the Professors, the Politician and Editors and all Other Non-Thinkers Have the "Race-Track" Trouble and the "Dashboard Disease" Said Speaker.

What many considered as one of the best lectures ever delivered on our University rostrum was that delivered by Mr. Ott, last Friday evening. Time after time he flashed upon the screen of the minds of his hearers gripping and absorbing pictures of modern social conditions. Never from the time that he bowed to the applause did his hearers manifest anything but the most careful attention and absorbing interest. We think it worthy and appropriate that we give here some of the wonderful truths which he so vividly portrayed by his lecture. We regret that every student and member of the faculty were not present to hear his plea for real thinking iconoclasts in the mighty struggle for intellectual progress. While we are aware that extracts never give an accurate account or due justice to the speaker, yet we must give the substance of some of his most timely and well-presented remarks.

"One man out of a thousands ever really thinks accurately, consistently and persistently toward the accomplishment of some definite end. May the day hasten when men can really throw off the slavish yoke of superstitions, customs and prejudice and stand out for what they know to be right regardless of criticism and unpopularity. Our lives are like a race course—in a circle. We allow ourselves to be led as sheep by the quacks and imposters whose only interest in us is the financial returns. The God of Science flashed electricity across the heavens and followed it with a clap of thunder, but men saw it for five thousand years without ever realizing that it was for any other purpose than to frighten superstitious and ignorant people. Steel, electricity, water, coal and the other agencies of nature were made to perform the onerous and wearisome duties necessary to human existence. The greatest words of the modern day are efficiency, service and union. No man ever knows his powers until he learns to make his mind obedient to the will. Our brains are but as an unorganized mob when they should be a great trained army marching on in triumphant tread to the battle fields of intellectual conquest. With our great progress in national sanitation we have overlooked the sanitation and purification of minds from the ancient

KITTENS SUBJECT PLEASUREVILLE BOYS TO A MUD BATH

State's Second Team Smears it on Lads From Happy Hollow in a 12 to 0 Scrap.

PARS PRESTON HAS A GOOD DAY

The Kittens eased over in the lime-light Thursday afternoon by defeating the Pleasureville Academy eleven 12 to 0.

The game was played in a sea of mud, and it was necessarily the best mud horse that came under the wire. In spite of the slippery turf, the Kittens handled the treacherous pigskin in fine style. The youngsters had a percentage on the heavier lads from Pleasureville in every department of the game, and deserved to win by a larger margin.

On the first kickoff the visitors fumbled and a Kitten recovered. In a series of line bucks Elliott, Johnson and Preston shoved the oval toward the Pleasureville goal line, Preston rushing it over for a touchdown. No goal.

Subsequently the play was in the enemy's territory, and the Kittens' goal was never threatened.

The third period ended just as Preston had carried a forward pass to Pleasureville's 5-yard line. When play was resumed, three line bucks failed to gain, and a forward pass to Preston scored the Kittens second touchdown. No goal.

Preston was the Kittens' main dependence in advancing the ball, and the work of Park, Dulworth and Rodman was exceptionally good. Ratliff and H. Shuck seemed to be the backbone of the visiting aggregation.

THE IDEA WILL ENTERTAIN AT BENEFIT DANCE

The Social Event of the Thanksgiving Holidays Has Been Entrusted to The Idea Staff.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON AT ARMORY

Owing to the high cost of living and the fact that The Idea has been severely handicapped this fall by a large indebtedness inherited from last year, the staff has decided to give a Benefit Dance on the afternoon of November 28th, from 2:30 to 5:30 o'clock in the armory.

The original plan was to make this an evening affair, but we were forced to abide by the "iron laws" of the dance committee. However, as the day following Thanksgiving is usually lacking in entertainments, this event will no doubt be a pleasant means of breaking the monotony. Many alumni, visitors and former students will be here to add attractiveness to the occasion, and the function should prove the social event of Thanksgiving week.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by Thomas Saxophone Trio—nuff sed. Tags will be placed on sale at the Business Agent's office, and may be had for only half a bone. And let it be said now—MAKE THAT DATE EARLY.

DOUBLE HEADER THANKSGIVING

Lexington High-Stanford Strong Added Attraction.

Additional interest is added to the Turkey Day game on Stoll Field, with the announcement that Lexington High will play the Stanford (Ky.) High School eleven, as a curtain raiser for the State-Tennessee scrap. This provides the strongest attraction of the season for Thanksgiving and Stoll Field should present that crowded aspect that was characteristic of the State-Central games of yore.

FEAR.

I.

The candle's out;
The prayers all said;
And round about
The the trundle bed
The Sandman's troopers hover.

Ah, the shapes and sounds
Of the goblin, Fright,
That haunt the bounds
Of Childhood's Night!

And the smother'd cry of "Muvver!"

II.

The gleam and flash
Of the gun and sword;
The first mad crash
Of horde on horde;
When the souls of the stoutest
quiver,—

A grip at the heart
From unseen hands;—
He flies in the dark,
And a livid brand's
On the brow of a coward forever!

III.

The claw-like hands,
Grown stiff and cold,
Cling fast to the lands
And glittering gold
Of four-score years' contriving,—

The starting eye;
The rattling breath;
A trembling cry;—
And the Rider, Death,
Has borne a Soul to its shivering!
—The Friar, Canterbury.

THE UNIVERSAL MOTHER.

O Love that set each star in place
And tuned a world-wide melody;
That far across the gulf of space
Flung golden chains of mystery.

Night saw thy face and shadows fled,
The oceans heaved from pole to pole,
Earth rendered up his prisoned dead
When Love brought forth the human soul.

High on a throne of rainbow light,
The God of Nations in that hour
Looked down with joy upon the slight
And blessed the child with deathless power.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

Literary Work Was on the Go
Last Week.

Fire Breaks Out at the Union Saturday Night.

A cold rain was not sufficient to dampen the ardor of many members of the Union Society last Saturday evening. Those of the faithful ones who came enjoyed one of the best impromptu debates heard in the Union hall in recent years.

The trouble arose over the question, "Resolved, that it would be better for the whole people of the United States if the Senators were apportioned according to population." Of the six debaters on the program, only one was present, that one being "Dawg" Norris. The question was given for open discussion after the lone debater had given his side, and much difference of opinion seemed to have arisen. Two hours of discussion seemed only to widen the breach between those who held that our Senatorial system is undemocratic and those who deemed it otherwise.

Mr. Donovan led in the devotional exercises. Mr. Henry Spencer gave a splendid address on the "Modern Tendencies of Jurisprudence." A declamation was delivered by Mr. Crowder, and "Doc" Hardin was acting critic.

Patterson Society Embellishes the Evening With Mirth—Officers Chosen.

The Patterson Society elected Mr. Sartan, president, C. E. Wilson, vice-president on last Saturday evening.

A debate was held in which the steam of controversy spouted liberally.

During the business meeting the eligibility of certain members to enter the contests aroused unguaged frenzy and "much ado about nothing" was the result. The members in ancient standing declared two new initiates not eligible to participate in the coming contest.

Freshman Challenge.

We the Freshmen of the Union Literary Society hereby challenge the Freshmen of the Patterson Literary Society to a joint debate. This notice is official and we trust that you will take this up at your next regular meeting and appoint a committee to meet a committee from our society to arrange the preliminaries.

Signed. FRESHMEN OF U. L. C.

Dr. Mackenzie Talks at Philosopher Society.

Last Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock the Philosopher Literary Society held its usual meeting at Patterson Hall. Most all the members were present and a most attractive programme was rendered. Dr. A. S. Mackenzie made a splendid and helpful talk to the girls, while Miss Nancy Innis gave a reading, Miss Elsie Speck read a paper on Louisa M. Alcott and Miss Elizabeth Moore discussed several important current events. The meeting was closed with a magazine contest, which was very unique indeed. Miss Dot Wood received the prize. Miss Michot, president, is pleased very much with the society and has some splendid plans to be carried out.

Horace Mann Literary Society.

The Horace Mann Literary Society held its weekly meeting last Thursday evening and those present had the pleasure of hearing one of the best programs of the year. The debate on the proposition, "Resolved, that Hamlet was neither cowardly or insane," was skillfully handled by Mr. Jones and Miss Reider on the affirmative, and Mr. Blevins and Miss Brown on the negative. A strong argument was presented on the negative side, but the affirmative prevailed. After listening to the careful analysis of Hamlet's character, the society was delighted with Miss Michot's humorous discussion of woman suffrage. She went back in history to the time of Adam to prove her convictions.

The Horace Mann will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Education building.

THAT "SIX-ONE CLUB"

In this day of "Prohibition Clubs," "Suffrage Unions," and "Societies for the Prevention of Dancing," it seems fitting that there should arise in our midst an organization for MEN. It was thought that the climax in clubs had been reached when the "Chor-awl Society" was organized and started upon its harmonious career; but alas, not so! Last Friday will go down in history as the day that gave birth to the "Six-One Club," and marked the beginning of a new era in the social life of the University.

With the solemnity due the occasion those six-footers were quietly measured and either passed into the ranks of the society or cast weeping into outer darkness. Later the purposes of the club were outlined. They are to be kept a dire secret from all except members.

The qualifications of the club are not complete. To be eligible for membership one must merely possess the requisite height of six-one or more.

The officers of the organization are as follows: H. D. Palmore, president; H. F. Felix, vice-president; J. F. Corn, secretary; James Park, treasurer. The following is a list of charter members: T. D. Grubbs 6-1 1/4, H. N. Woodson 6-2 1/2, R. S. Clayton 6-3 1/2, C. B. Ellston 6-4 1/4, H. W. Golden 6-3 1/2, R. E. Hundley 6-1 3/4, V. Mills 6-3 1/4, James Park 6-2 1/4, H. F. Felix 6-3-16, N. M. ### LAW DEPARTMENT BUILDING UP

The last shipment of English Law Reports has been received by the College of Law, making a complete set of English reported cases from 1650 down to the present time. The law library now contains about 5,000 volumes.

A great deal of interest is shown in the Tri-State Debate being arranged between this College of Law, Cincinnati Law School, and either the Law Department of Indiana University or Vanderbilt University.

The debates will be some time next spring.

Judge Edelen, prominent at the Frankfort bar, will speak to the lawyers today in third floor of the Science building.

KENTUCKY CLUB

Kentuckians who live in Oklahoma enjoy the unique distinction of being the only people who have organized a "Kentucky Club" in this "Young Empire of the West." A group of Kentuckians held a meeting at the Oklahoma State Fair September 30, and completed the organization of the club.

Judge Keaton, of Oklahoma City, was elected president of the club. A former member of the Blue Grass state, in which the pleasant associations of Kentucky were recounted. The club decided to have a clubhouse at the fair next year. The speech of the day at the gathering was made by Representative Carr, of Muskogee. The club adopted a constitution and by-laws and the motto of Kentucky was adopted.

All native sons and daughters of Kentucky are eligible to membership, and many others are expected to join.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY MEETS.

The Agricultural Society met on Monday evening, last. Due to the absence of the president, Vice-president H. F. Bryant officiated.

J. W. Whitehouse gave a very clear explanation of the Currency Bill, and Miss Elsie Speck told the society some of the ways in which domestic science helps a girl. After a short business meeting the society adjourned to attend the choral rally.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS.

Every university has its official student publication, the success or failure of which depends upon the support given it by the student body.

The Idea had as its beginning, a syndicate, composed of a few loyal students who were willing to devote their time and energy to make the paper a success. Several years ago the syndicate was dissolved and The Idea became the property of the students of Kentucky State University.

From that day until this The Idea has been forced to struggle against overwhelming odds for its existence. It has not received the support it deserves from our student body. Each year less than fifty per cent of the students are regular subscribers while the percentage is even greater among the faculty. But for the loyalty of a few students who have had its destiny in charge it would have been stranded upon the rocks of indifference long before now. The Idea today has reached a critical period in its history. The question that must be answered by every student in this University is, shall we have one and only one real live publication that will reflect credit upon ourselves and our University, or shall we continue to encourage a multiplicity of minor publications, the result of which, if not the purpose, is to cut and undermine the strength of our official paper.

There exists in our University today, in regard to student publications, a deplorable condition. It is a sad thing indeed that we have no student self-government organization to control these things. We have noticed in the catalogue of the University that there is a faculty committee on student publications, yet we know that there are those in our midst who for personal gain are permitted to "bleed" the merchants of Lexington for advertising matter to defray the expenses of foot ball programs, student directories and other pamphlets which are of benefit to no one and meet with the disapproval of the student body. As a result, many of the prominent merchants of Lexington refuse to advertise in any of our publications. Looking at it from a business standpoint we cannot blame them. The cry is, "Too many publications." It is this state of affairs that makes it at most impossible for The Idea to meet its current expenses, since we are almost wholly dependent upon this source of income. How then, is it possible for our paper to be what it should when hampered by financial difficulties?

As we see it, and we are not alone in our view, there is but one way to remedy the situation and that is to combine all of our publications into one real paper that will have as its propelling power the co-operation of the entire student body.

"THE FRIAR" OF CANTERBURY.

In another column of this number you will read "Fear," by The Friar, Canterbury. No more sublime lines were ever planned and penned than the first section of this lofty theme:

"The candle's out;
The prayers all said;
And round about
The trundle bed,
The Sandman's troopers hover."
The atmosphere is so cautious and commanding to the attention that throws a force and splendor into the lines that follow:

Oh, the shapes and sounds
Of the goblin, Fright,
That haunt the bounds
Of childhood's Night!
And the Smothered cry of 'Muvver!'"
This impresses us as being as good as the best that ever appeared in our paper. The muse of "The Friar" has been gracious to his pen. He has been endowed with a divine diction to delineate the most intense human emotion from the terrors of trundle-bed childhood to the whispering invitation of a venerable four-score. And we subscribe to The Friar, for his crafty gem, the name poet.

Don't forget to bring that girl.

PIQUANT PARLEY.

We notice that a Baptist preacher in Kansas was recently tied to a tree, and "forced" to drink a huge swig of "booze." We stake our birthright against the parson's Sunday collection that it was a bad jug. Such a story is enough to throw a Kentuckian into autrophometers.

The question is asked in a lengthy article of The Leader whether the average college girl is timid. No man could see our college women in the late dance performances and have the disgruntled presumption to use "timid" behind a countenance of such garrulous innocence.

What a supreme comfort would it have been to see our entire faculty out at the lecture by Mr. Ott, to get the benefit of his "race-track" teaching! Thanks to Ott, for that "race-track" illustration was all he said worth while to students whose preceptors, many of them, have the "dash-board disease."

When we see a large, ugly, brawny, pompous and rotund-stomached sir out in the hurley burly shouting for woman suffrage, we conclude forthwith that his step-mother overspanked him in his childhood.

"These Senior mustaches tickle me," some coed was heard to say. This is a splendid incident of bad choice in synonyms. Surely the Innocent maid was not "tickled," but was rather "brushed" with amusement.

When Eve, with ever present mirth, Perambulated on this earth,
She gazed at Adam's scant array,
(A fig leaf, two or three, they say),
And said, as only woman can:
"It's a good thin clothes don't make the man."

AH, SHUCKS!

She—"Ain't the stars numerous?"
He—"Yes, and ain't there a heap of 'em."

Everybody will be there.

THE CLEWS PRIZE IS OPEN TO STUDENTS OF UNIVERSITY

The Rules Governing the Contest Appear Below.

We have never come to realize just how many handsome prizes there are at our beckoning. The Clews prize will be decided in a few months and many students should participate in the trial for the $50 and $25 prizes.

Any man could well—lady either, for that matter—spend a few days in such a valuable enterprise.

Revised Rules Governing the Clews Prize Contest for 1913-1914.

I. There shall be two prizes, the first of $50 and the second of $25.

II. Essays shall be written on some subject relating to Japan and the United States.

III. The contest is open to any student in the University; minor questions of eligibility to be settled by the committee conducting the contest.

IV. The length of the essays shall be between 1,500 and 6,000 words.

V. All essays must be typewritten on paper approximately 8x10 inches, with a margin of one inch.

VI. Each essay shall be signed by a pseudonym and accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name of the author.

VII. All essays received shall become the property of the committee, to be printed or used in whatever way the committee sees fit.

VIII. The award of any prize may be withheld in case all the essays submitted are deemed of inferior merit.

IX. Previous winners are debarred from the contest.

X. The contest will close April 1, 1914.

SENIOR ROOM.

Nesting among the offices of the Department of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering is a beautifully decorated room used by the Seniors of the department as a study room. At one end of the room is a large red brick fireplace with a huge gas grate and brass railings. Around this fire the men gather and discuss engineering problems of the day, or perhaps some of the college activities, and again perhaps gaze into the fire and see in the future a success in the ever increasing engineering field. A long mission table, beautiful in design and material, occupies the center of the room. The table is supplied with study lamps and chairs which, while comfortable, correspond in design and style to the table. Around this table the men gather to work problems that come up in their studies. Along the east wall of the room, deep leather morris chairs are placed and here under the lights attached to the wall, the men prepare their work for the class room. On another side book cases containing the theses of all the graduates of the Department of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering adorn the room. The walls are covered with pictures of interest; here a picture of an old graduating class, in another place the picture of some prominent man in the engineering world and in still another place a picture of some University campus and buildings. On the floor is a thick rug which deadens sounds that would disturb one while hard at work. The room is well lighted at all times.

The influence of this room is evident. On entering one finds the atmosphere a pleasant but studious one. One is stimulated to do work under pleasant, cheerful, home-like conditions; one's capacity for work increases and the student finds pleasure in his work. The room is not supervised by any instructor or official, but is entirely in the hands of the men using it. This fact stimulates the occupants to use the room as they would their home. The Senior class of Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen are very grateful to Dean Anderson for the privilege of the room and the great benefit they derive from its use. E. T. B.

POLYPHASE BILL,

—or—

A Chapter from the Life of a "Double-Acting, Cross-compound, High-Speed, Automatic Cut-off, Synchronous" Detective.

PART THE FIRST.

It was a wonderful, wierd, wild, wireless night. Sparks leaped from the tight-strung antennae of the good ship, "Dishpan," into the stygian blackness of the bleak night. Kate, the cook, was peeling potatoes with one hand and playing the violin with the other two.

It was the same kind of a night as described above when the moon, coming from behind a cloud, gazed upon a scene that "made its blood run cold." Wandering from the tall buildings of State University its gaze had reached the wicked town. Ha, ha, he, he; likewise ho, ho, for it beheld this stirring sight:

Creeping like snakes over the rooftops, armed with their teeth, came "Eagle-Eye" Chief Reagan and his horde of dusty warriors. What are they after and why so silent? Easily answered. They are after evidence against the "hoodlums." Soon the tall buildings loomed up before them. "Halt," quoth "Eagle-Eye," "I will reconnoiter." Disguising himself as an ash barrel, he disappeared on his back into the darkness. Almost instantly he was among them again. Quoth he, "O, my warriors, there are lights in Mechanical Hall." "What are they doing there at this time of the night?" "Haste, men, as 'Tempus is fugiting.' On to Mechanical Hall."

PART THE SECOND.

It was in the "Catacombs" of Egypt, alias the "Dog-a-brushes" of the Pacific. "Hickory Nut Clew," the Bulgarian outlaw, has escaped with Kate, the cook, after hitting her in the head with a stove-pipe, (a smutty story.) But hold, gentle reader, back to "Eagle Eye."

"Squonk, squonk, squonk."

It was a wierd, Herpicide (hair-raising) sound. "It proceeds from the Senior room," quoth "Eagle Eye." "Halt, and wait here." His men crouched in the shadow of the flag staff on the Main building.

"Squonk, squonk, squonk."

Again the sound came. "A person in distress," quoth "Eagle Eye." A fierce light of determination now crept into his glass eye. Loudly "wringing" his neck and moving his cork leg frantically, he strode forward. That the "hoodlums" might not hear his footsteps, he was shouting at the top of his voice. Halting in the protecting shadow of a mighty telephone pole, he changed his disguise to that of a load of hay. "Ho, ho, Hoodlums," he cried, "I now have you in my power. You will soon enter the doors of the 'Public Safety' and the public will be saved," he cried, in "parafindish" glee, as he raised his head above the window sill and saw the screen from which the wierd sounds issued. "A person in distress. I will rescue him from his peril and the 'LEADER' will laud me to the skies." Again changing his disguise to that of a cuspidor, he entered the room. "Zounds, Zizzards, Colses," he cried, "foiled again." This is what he beheld: High-tension Watts was ripping the International rag from the bosom of hundred-thousand watt-minute organism of the Senior class.

Here, gentle reader, let us draw the International Rag over the scene, as the moon whispered "Cheese it," and "Eagle Eye" crept back with his "dusty" warriors to the "wicked" town from which they had issued.

JUNIORVILLE JOTTINGS.

Jackson has discontinued the wearing of his monocle because so many others were beginning to infringe on his copyright.

Sam Courtney flunked in electricity the other day. He had studied hard the night before, but on his way to school he happened to catch hold of a wire and a short circuit ensued.

Barth has finished his Kinematic design. He saw his ink supply was running low and he drew fast so he could finish before it was all gone. Reuben Taylor will quit drawing on the table near the door. The frequent opening of the door gives him cold feet.

"Trig" Otto intends quitting trigonometry. The books are changed every year and he is tired of buying new books.

Peck is not filling engagements with his Kinematic design this year. He is booked too far ahead on his shopwork circuit.

Pete Ireland says Sophomore Hardwick has been spending so much time in drawing pipe fittings that his promise for graduation has become a sort of pipe dream.

The Tau Beta Pi Brotherhood was the direct cause of Aud taking his meals on the mantelpiece last week.

The price of chalk has gone up. Too many were availing themselves of the blackboard privilege in the Mechanics class-room in the preparation of the next day's lessons.

—Quincy.

THE ADA MEADE.

Every act on the bill at the Ada Meade is a headliner of its kind, but George Wilson, the veteran minstrel man, who has been making every city in the country in his black face act for thirty years or more, was the hit of the show. His stories are good, his songs are better and his suffragette talk to the ladies in his new wired skirt bars imitations.

The show started with a bright Kinemacolor picture, then the Carroll Gillette Trio, a man and two women, did a comedy rapid fire acrobatic act lasting only six minutes, which kept the house noisy with applause. The women worked in skirts.

An act away from the usual was the Sharrooks, one that is certainly a brain teaser. Just how the little lady (she weighs not less than 90 pounds) knows the number of your mileage book, and even if she does, how can she answer the questions that are put to her so rapidly and with so few errors when she is blindfolded and separated from her confederate by the length of the theater is decidedly puzzling.

The best male quartette Lexington has had the pleasure of hearing for many a day is the Broncho Four, doing a western roadhouse drama, with just enough scenery and acting to throw the proper atmosphere around the quartette's singing. They found it difficult to get off the stage last night on account of the prolonged applause.

The closing act of this all-star bill was Carn Cross & Company in a comedy sketch of four people entitled, "Love in a Suburb." This act was properly placed, as it has so many laughs and such an unexpected finish that it sent the large crowd away in a good humor.

EUGENICS WILL BE DISCUSSED AT NEXT CONVOCATION

Dr. Hall, Eminent Lecturer and Physicist to Address Students on Live Subject.

The convocation of next Tuesday will be addressed by Dr. Winfield Hall, Dean of the Northwestern Medical School, of Chicago. Dr. Hall is on a tour of all the leading universities in the south, and has been speaking to audiences on subjects of Sex Hygiene and Eugenics. He has lectured on the above subject in all the larger colleges and in all the largest State universities of America to the largest audiences that have ever turned out to hear a doctor speak.

At the University of Illinois all classes are dismissed at his annual address and all fraternities have a standing rule that every member shall attend.

His first address will be given at the convocation next Tuesday morning on the subject, "The Psychology of Youth in its Relation to Teaching in Home and School." At 3:30 he will speak to men only on the "Sex-Life of Man in its Relation to Society," in the chapel. At 7:15 at Patterson Hall he will address the women on "A Physicist's Message to His Daughter."

THE IDEA

ASSOCIATION OF ALUMNI IS ORGANIZED IN PITTSBURGH

Largest corporation in the world manufacturing rolling mill machinery. Largest commercial coal plant in the United States.

Largest works in the world for finishing aluminum.

Largest pickling and preserving plant in the world, employing 3,500 hands and 500 traveling salesmen.

An electrical manufacturing works employing 20,000 people, making almost everything electrical.

Its steel works and blast furnaces give employment to 75,000 men.

Pittsburgh is the national plumbing center, the annual volume of business done in this line being $7,000,000.

The largest warehouse in the world, covering 23 acres of floor space, is located in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh has a jobbing market serving 10,000,000 people and doing an annual business of $1,000,000,000.

It has 509 miles of paved streets.

Pittsburgh has 22 parks containing 1,387 acres, values at over $7,000,000, on which she is spending $300,000 each year in maintenance alone.

For the hauling of materials, coke, iron ore and limestone, which are made into pig iron in the Pittsburgh district, 88,000 freight trains with an average load of 3,400 gross tons apiece are required every year.

The Pittsburgh district comprises a population of almost 4,000,000 people, living within a radius of 40 miles of the court house.

K. S. U. Alumni.

Thus, in this active centre of many affairs of men, great industrial achievements, and world-wide businesses, it is fit, as well as pleasing, for us to know that Kentuckians are in the front rank.

The K. S. U. Alumni Association of Pittsburgh, has a roll of thirty-five members. We meet at dinner every three months. The last gathering was held at the Fort Pitt hotel on the evening of November 8th. Twenty-five men were present. Our honor guest, Mr. J. G. Scragham, '00, Professor of Electrical Engineering, State University of Nevada, addressed the men with words of enthusiasm, animation and courage typical of the West.

Under the able leadership of H. S. Fry, chairman of the local branch of the association, definite plans are being laid by our older members to give co-operative assistance in helping the young graduates in our midst.

The alumni in Pittsburgh place their services at the command of visitors from the University and it is hoped that everyone coming to Pittsburgh will meet our members.

WITH THE CHEMISTS

OF '13 AND '14

Tell some one you're taking the chemistry course, and immediately he will bestow upon you a look of pity and of wonder that you have thus long escaped the confines of West Fourth Street. "Chemistry Major," while admittedly one of the two best courses offered in the University—now everybody claim the other one—has somehow or other become such a bugbear in the eyes of the students that anyone making chemistry his life work is looked upon as a cross between a martyr, a genius and a lunatic.

There is no reason for it, of course, unless it be that a little work is incompatible with the languid Southern disposition. But this is not intended to be a defense of the chemistry course. Like the negro who went down South Limestone the other night with three revolvers, two razors, a pair of knucks and a bowie knife on his person—it needs no outside defense.

Every year the class of "heroes" who have spent their years in college in the laboratory, go to various parts of the world to follow their life work.

Of the class of '13, John Wilson Porter is second assistant in the laboratory of the Steel Foundries Co., East St. Louis. He has something to look forward to, as his chances of promotion are splendid. And J. W. will make good.

A. O. Snoddy—and very few people even now know what A. O. stand for—is assistant chemist with Proctor and Gamble, Ivorydale, Ohio. Snoddy will see to it that in the future Ivory Soap will gain the fifty-four hundredths per cent purity that the manufacturers have thus far evidently sought in vain.

Todd B. Nicoll is filling the position of assistant chemist in the Fertilizer Department of Armour & Co., Fort Worth, Texas. We can expect Todd to announce the discovery of a fertilizer that will grow blue grass in Texas, and thus make the boy believe he is back once more in K. S. U. taking his minor course in campusology.

Williams H. MacAdams, commonly known as "Mac," has become possessed of a great thirst for learning, and so is taking graduate work under Dr. Tuttle. Blessed be the day that "Mac" can take two more letters of the alphabet, and glue them after his name.

Elmer Rembold, having in his last year acquired enough more knowledge to go back and boss the Pennsylvania system, has resumed his duties in the laboratories of the P. R. R. at Altoona, Pa.

And coming to the man who is a sort of hybrid between '14 and '13, there is J. O. Holbrook, whom we all regret to see leave at this time. "Deacon" is going to be chemist for the Greengbaum Distillery Co., down at Midway. We are informed that his duties will not be to analyze liquor by taste, but to see that the waste grain does not carry away too much valuable material, and in a general way to exercise a scientific supervision.

To those who have gone and are going, K. S. U. extends her sincerest wishes for their success, with a comfortable assurance from past years, that success will be within their grasp. To those who still linger here, in the work of preparation, she bids them not to cease their labors, but work hard, play hard, that in the end all that is necessary for success is the opportunity—and the opportunity will not be lacking.

WILDCATS MEET UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE SATURDAY

urday when the referee's whistle initiates the big game.

A students' excursion will be run over the Southern at a rate of $3.00 round trip. The train leaves the Q. & C. depot at 8:30 Saturday morning and runs straight through with no stops. Returning it leaves the Seventh Street Station after the theaters are out. This is the ideal way to make the trip and should appeal to every man and woman in the University. Tickets are now on sale at the Business Agent's office, and down town at Lall and Sons, Phoenix Hotel Block. The team and the band will leave Saturday morning on the C. & O. The L. & N., C. & O. and Southern run several varieties of trains at all hours of the day and night into Louisville, thus providing ample opportunity for 400 students to make the trip. No matter how you travel, BE THERE Saturday.

The Wildcats had a heavy round of scrimmage against the scrubs Tuesday and showed lots of speed and pep. The team as a whole are in good condition, and providing the weather is favorable, will make a good impression on the Cardinal defense, Saturday. Hite and Turkey Park are likely to gain several yards around the Louisville flanks, and Bill Tuttle is almost sure to succeed in squeezing through the Cardinal line occasionally, provided, of course, he doesn't slip. It is believed here that Scotty would also be able to gain some ground, if he only had a few more days practice. Anyhow, we'll all be there to see what the Wildcats can do with the big Falls City team, and our yelling will sound mighty good to the fellows out on the field in blue jerseys.

diseases of sin. Lift up the millions of human machines and give them a chance where men live. Let regeneration, and not so much reformation, be our motto and battle cry. It is not intellect we need; it is systematized knowledge. Men need to think in universal, not local, terms. Let us be ashamed to speak of civil liberty if we cannot say that we have mental freedom. Every dream that the majority of our citizens cherish must come true; let us see to it that they are noble dreams—not vain illusions. We have no right to accept any creed or belief until we have given it careful study and long reflection. Matter is the plaything of mind; ignorance the master of unsystematized labor. The independent is conquering the partisan, and upon this victory depends the solution of our great, vexing national problems. It takes years for the oak to mature and it takes thought, long meditation and ceaseless labor to give an original idea or a worthy addition to the world's storehouse of truth. The leaders of the world in the future, as in the past, are men and women who are great learners, but more than this, great thinkers."

"Mind filled with light the deepest gloom; Mind made the desert waste to bloom; Mind analyzed the meanest clod, And saw the wondrous art of God."

The lecture of last Friday evening was a great education and inspiration to all who heard it, and everyone went away feeling that the mind had been uplifted and nourished by what we are beginning to recognize as great fundamental and indispensable truths which every college student positively must recognize and use in achieving distinction among intelligent and cultured people.
