A. J. Lawrence, Chairman of the Rules Committee, presented the following report on the action of the committee on the request of Chi Delta Phi to be allowed to publish a magazine. The request had been referred to the Rules Committee by the Faculty on November 12.

The request of Chi Delta Phi fraternity to sponsor and publish a literary magazine was referred to the Rules Committee for consideration and recommendation. The Committee met on Tuesday, December 4, 1945, at 4 p. m., and heard explanations from a committee of students from the fraternity and Miss Jane Haselden, proposed sponsor. The Committee raised a number of questions as to content, responsibility for supervision, and financial responsibility.

fraternity to publish a literary magazine be granted with the following provisions: (1) that the publication be under the direction of the Publications Committee, or another faculty committee designated by the President, and (2) that no issue go to press without assured funds to pay the cost of that issue.

The University Faculty approved the Rules Committee's recommendation.

On motion, duly seconded and passed, the University Faculty voted to reconsider the University Calendar for 1946-47 approved at the meeting November 12. After some discussion covering the opening date of the Fall Quarter and the Christmas vacation, the Faculty approved a motion that the calendar be left to a committee of which Dean Chamberlain would be the chairman.

The Faculty then considered the following recommendation of the Post-War Planning Committee, which had been deferred from the November meeting. Whereas this Committee has before it numerous problems of a long range nature which it feels are not proper to the problems of a Post-War Planning Committee, we recommend that the University Faculty consider the possibility of a standing committee whose purpose it shall be to study such problems and to suggest to the Faculty additional policies in the light of such study. A motion was made, seconded, and passed that the President appoint a committee on educational policies.

In accordance with the rules of the University Faculty, the Dean of the University had prepared a list of student organizations and their respective advisers. This list was mimeographed and distributed at the meeting.

On recommendation of the College of Arts and Sciences, the following course changes and new courses were approved by the University Faculty:

Drop: Physics 151, Introduction to Atomic Physics - 5 quarter hours
Physics 202, Measurements in Optics, 3 quarter hours.

Change (in description and credit):

Physics 110. Spectroscopy. Credit changed from 4 to 5 quarter hours. This course considers the production, recording, and interpretation of spectra, both atomic and molecular. Bohr-Sommerfield theory, energy levels, normal and excited states, absorption and Raman spectra. The laboratory will emphasize those principles of spectroscopic apparatus; theory and use of prism and grating spectrographs; light sources, photographic procedures; wave length and intensity determinations; spectrophotometer and densitometer; qualitative and quantitative analysis. Prerequisites: Sophomore Physics and Integral Calculus.

New Courses: Physics 155. Fundamental Atomic and Nuclear Physics. 5 quarter hours. This course will stress the fundamental principles of atomic and nuclear theory and practice thereby providing a foundation for students interested either in applied nucleonics or in a broader study of atomic and nuclear physics. Physics 135. Experimental Physics: Atomics and Nucleonics. 3 quarter hours. Methods of producing and detecting nuclear particles will be studied. Instruments to be employed in measurements are ionization chambers, Greiger counters, cloud chambers, photographic films, mass spectrographs, and Van de Graaff generator. Measurements will be made on half-lives, absorption coefficients, ranges, particle energies. The experiments include methods appropriate to alpha particles, electrons and positrons, photons, neutrons, fission fragments and mesons. Prerequisites: Physics 155 or concurrent.

Anthropology and Archaeology 108. The Development of Culture. 3 quarter hours. A study of the origin of human culture and of the history of human cultural behavior. The course will contain a study of the origin and development of primitive behavior along cultural lines. Upon recommendation of the College of Arts and Sciences, the Faculty approved the following changes in requirements:

Changes in Requirements for the A.B. and B. S. Degrees:

Our Committee on Curriculum studied the changes made in our requirements last year and came to the conclusion that it would be wise not to increase the number of quarter hours for completion of the lower division and for the degrees of A.B. and B.S.
