

Blind Girls 'See' Mississippi Game

By STEPHEN PALMER
Kernel Staff Writer

Five girls from the Kentucky School for the Blind at Louisville came to Lexington Saturday night to "watch" UK beat Mississippi and "to meet the players, especially Herky."

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Lewis brought the girls from Louisville. Each girl carried a transistor radio but the radios were ineffective at the game.

"The reception in the gym was so poor, and the crowd was making so much noise, we finally had to shut them off. However, there was a group of boys behind us from Mississippi who told us what was going on all the time," one of the girls said.

After the game, the girls met the Wildcats outside the dressing room in a training room. Adolph Rupp, UK basketball coach, said this was the first time, since he has been coach (31 years), that girls were allowed there.

Mr. Rupp added:

"They just wanted to meet the boys, shake hands, and get some autographs. They brought neat little cards for our autographs—not just a torn scrap from a peanut bag like some kids do; and when you stop to think they will never be able to see the signatures . . . it really gets to you."

Of the five girls making the trip only two can distinguish light from darkness. All of the girls are members of Girls' Basketball Society, a club which listens to the UK games.

"It started last year, almost overnight," explained one girl. "We almost called it the Ned Jennings Fan Club." Each of the girls has a favorite player, and being girls, fight over which one is the best.

Wanda Coogle, 18, likes Larry Pursiful; Dorothy Drew, 17, favors Roy Roberts; Loma Huddleston, 16, is a Scotty Baesler fan; and Nancy Lewis, 17, thinks Cotton Nash is the best.

Carla Dotson, 13, who did not attend the game, and Linda Crase, 18, both like Ted Deeken. Deeken is from Louisville. Linda also likes Allen Feldhaus. However, all of the girls wanted to meet Herky.

During a long distance telephone call made by the Kernel, Miss Huddleston said:

"I guess the reason we wanted to meet Herky was because he is the coach's son. We had a wonderful time, and it was the first time four of our girls got to go to a ballgame."

Miss Huddleston had the idea for the trip and then wrote to Coach Rupp, saying in part:

"I would like to ask a special favor of you and your team. It might sound crazy to you and your team, but it would make me, as well as four of my friends, very happy.

"I cannot see well enough to go to public school, so I attend the Kentucky School for the Blind in Louisville.

"Our club is planning a trip to see you all play Mississippi, so before the game we would like to meet you and the players, if it is possible. If this is not possible, we will understand."

Coach Rupp replied he would be happy to receive the girls after the game. In their second letter the girls wrote:

"We certainly appreciate your kindness to us, and it will never be forgotten.

Senate Passes Bills On Educational TV

A statewide educational television network came closer to reality this week when the state Senate passed two bills.

The bills now go to Gov. Bert T. Combs for his signature.

House Bill 133 would establish a nine-member independent agency known as "The Kentucky Authority for Educational Television" to operate the network. The bill passed 28-5.

A representative from the University would be a member of the agency.

Other agency members would include the state superintendent of public instruction, a member of his department, a representative from state colleges, three citizen members, and two members qualified in the engineering and technical aspects of educational television.

House Bill 132 would allow the state Property and Building Commission to issue revenue bonds for television facilities. The bill passed 29-7.

O. Leonard Press, head of the Department of Radio, Television, and Films, indicated the detailed plans for the network are already mapped out.

Mr. Press said the network would serve "every inch of the state," reaching into rural areas where it is needed most.

Winners in the First Annual Patterson Literary Society Extemporaneous Speech Contest are from the left, Emmett Moore Jr., second place; Larry Johnson, first place; Brady Deaton, third place.

Enrollment Shows Jump Of 9 Percent 3 Capture Honors In Speech Contest

Enrollment for the spring semester shows an increase of 830 students, about nine percent more than the enrollment figure for this time last year.

The increase is the largest recorded for several years. Dr. Charles F. Elton, dean of admissions and registrations, said the increase is partly due to fewer students dropping out at the end of the first semester because of poor grades.

Dr. Elton said that 9,993 students are taking credit courses compared with 9,163 a year ago. He attributed the large increase to better quality and more serious-minded students who are making higher grades.

The majority of the increase (576 students) is on the University's main campus. The spring semester's enrollment is a six percent decrease from the record 10,623 students enrolled in the fall semester.

Dr. Elton said, normally the enrollment drop for the spring semester amounts to about 12 to 15 percent.

University centers at Ashland, Covington, Henderson, and Ft. Knox, also showed an increase. Enrollment at the Cumberland Center decreased by 44 students.

Dr. Elton said figures do not include several thousand students taking courses by correspondence and those who enrolled in courses for non-credit.

Over 14,000 students are receiving college instruction from UK.

Larry Johnson, Arts and Sciences senior, took top honors Tuesday at the First Annual Patterson Literary Society Extemporaneous Speech Contest.

His prize-winning speech was entitled "United States Trade Policy." Johnson said the European Common Market low-tariff policy has made it mandatory for the United States to adopt a similar low-tariff policy.

Second-place winner was Emmett Moore, who scored with "The Constitution: Have We Lost Faith?" Moore stated that the present generation tends to take the freedoms guaranteed by the United States Constitution too much for granted.

Brady Deaton, Agriculture sophomore, won third place with his speech "Economic Depression in Eastern Kentucky." Deaton said that better education and more industry would go a long way toward solving the problem of economic depression in Eastern Kentucky.

Degree Deadline

The last day for seniors graduating in June to file for degrees is Thursday, Feb. 28. This is done in the offices of the college deans.

Education Bill Offers Little Change In Ties With Centers, Says Dickey

University President Frank C. Dickey said yesterday the education bill which passed the House Wednesday does not substantially effect UK's relation to its centers.

The bill set up a system of community colleges administered through the University.

Dr. Dickey said the bill would allow the legislature instead of the Board of Trustees to establish community colleges whenever funds were available. Previously, only the Fort Knox-Elizabethtown Center was established by an act of the legislature.

The president said the curriculum of the colleges would still be under the direction of the University.

"We have always attempted to maintain a strong sense of community interest in the centers," Dr. Dickey continued. "Perhaps the bill is a means of clarifying a legislative definition of responsibility for the establishment of such colleges."

Fraternity Denies Religious Prejudice

By DAVID SHANK
Kernel Staff Writer

Phi Gamma Delta fraternity yesterday denied the charge by Gerald Berzofsky, Jewish sophomore from Queens, N. Y., that his religion prevented him from becoming an active member of the group.

Fiji president Ronnie Wagoner said religion was not the factor that caused the fraternity to reject Berzofsky. Instead, he said, the fraternity felt that Berzofsky's personality made him unacceptable. Berzofsky had said he handed in his Fiji pledge pin after three members told him of dissension within the fraternity. He said they decided against him, after they had thought about it for a while, because they could not accept one of his faith.

Wagoner presented the Kernel with a list of points which, he said, would clarify the fraternity's position on the controversy and would show that religion was not the deciding factor:

"1. We knew that the boy's parents were Jewish, and that he was of Jewish inclination — before pledging him.

"2. The religious question had nothing to do with the second decision.

"3. Depledging is nothing new on campus.

"4. He had been declined by at least one other fraternity.

"5. We presented to him, as secretly as possible, the situation so as to not hurt his campus standing.

"6. Depledging at the time he did left him free to pledge another fraternity.

"7. Prejudice wasn't the question: (A.) There is nothing in the Fiji constitution against religion. (B.) A man must be compatible. (C.) This religious question had been resolved when the question of pledging him first arose."

Dean Issues Statement On Berzofsky Charge

The Dean of Men's Office announced late yesterday afternoon that it would look into the "charge by Jerry Berzofsky . . . that he has been barred from Phi Gamma Delta fraternity because of his religion."

The memorandum said the office would take the following action:

1. The dean's office, the Interfraternity Council, and the Board of Control of Phi Gamma Delta will investigate Berzofsky's charge, probably early next week.

2. If the charge is substantiated, action relative to the fraternity's status will be taken.

Since 1954 no student organization with charter or by-laws containing discriminatory provisions concerning race or creed has been given a favorable recommendation by the UK Faculty Committee on Student Organizations. As a result, no such organization has been given official University recognition.

Phi Gamma Delta, whose charter and by-laws contain no discriminatory provisions, was given official recognition in 1958. The dean of men interprets this to mean that the fraternity is prohibited from discriminating against any student because of race or creed.

The dean of men's office, which handles fraternity matters, said Berzofsky was not formally pledged to the fraternity.

You Will Represent UK

As Student Congress promised last semester, the Washington Seminar project is on its feet.

The application period will open tomorrow and extend to Feb. 22 and a faculty and administrative screening board will interview prospective participants March 3.

The seminar will present an opportunity to interested students for a chance at a job with a federal agency and weekly discussions with Washington officials.

Comments from many of the students have shown agreement that the seminar would be a wonderful first-hand experience in learning about our government.

But upon these few students who may be hired by the federal agencies will rest a great responsibility. Each student will carry a personal recommendation of the University.

The nature of the effort that Student Congress is taking to select the most qualified students for the University to recommend should be enough to reflect the caliber of the student that should be hired in Washington, D. C.

Besides including the routine personal information of the student, the prospective participant will be asked to write briefly why he would like to participate in the Washington Seminar. Then the student may be interviewed by a board of nine faculty and administrative officials for final selection.

As Jim Daniel, Student Congress president, said, the University cannot assure that the student selected by the faculty screening board will be hired by a federal agency, but it can recommend the most qualified student to the agency.

But, whether there are five or 25 students who are hired by the federal agencies, each must remember his responsibility as being recommended by the University of Kentucky.

The Critical Press

Dr. Guy S. Potts, superintendent of the Fayette County schools, told Lexington Kiwanians the other day there has been criticism of educators by the press that he didn't think was "deserved."

Maybe we don't read the newspapers like we should, but his charge certainly comes as news to us. Dr. Potts also said that not all school administrators are as "crooked as newspaper stories tend to present them." From what we have read in the past few months, we were not aware newspaper stories were slanted to make any school administrators seem crooked.

From past observations, newspapers have tried to point out some mistakes of the administrators and the system and let the chips fall where they may. To us, this is a healthy situation. How can Kentucky ever hope to improve its school system if we ignore its faults?

To The Editor:

I have just finished watching one of the worst examples of sportsmanship in my long association as a UK basketball fan. Never, since Memorial Coliseum was opened, has such an exhibition been seen. The UK student body has made me feel ashamed to admit that I am a UK student.

Some who read this may say that I have no school spirit or that I don't support the Wildcats. But I question whether those who threw paper cups and hurled abuse at the Mississippi

State team are true UK fans. They do not seem worthy of that honor.

Coach Rupp has always bragged about the fans in Lexington. What can he say to sportswriters now?

We deplored the treatment our Cats received on the road in the past, especially in Starksville. After Monday night's performance, do we have the right to complain again?

Is it some sort of sin to be a good sport and a good loser? Can we not acknowledge that an opponent is our equal, if not superior? The Bulldogs of Mississippi State played a very good game of basketball. Coach McCarthy used sound strategy in making the Cats come to them.

Is it sound basketball to risk throwing away a lead over the nation's second ranked team? If Kentucky had been ahead and gone into a stall the roar of approval and delight would have been tremendous. These tactics by an opponent most certainly did not merit Monday night's exhibition.

I, for one, would like to offer my

By HOMER T. RICKABAUGH

Associate Pastor, Presbyterian Center

In the 16th century there lived a man named Ignatius of Loyola. In Paris, France, it is said that he gathered a small group of students about him. Ignatius taught this little group of students to think about themselves and to think about God. He tried to make everything very clear and simple, so that no one could misunderstand.

He set forth a plan for discipline or self-examination illustrated by five fingers.

The first was to "give thanks." This we should do, thanking God for all that He has done for us. The second finger suggested to the students that they should "ask for Light." Let us not fail to ask God for wisdom and for the light of Truth.

The third finger suggested "look at yourself." This we should do frequently lest we come to think of ourselves as too important. The fourth finger suggested that we should "be sorry." This means that we should turn from all that is wrong, and ask God to forgive us.

The fifth finger suggested that we should "do something." We should be ready and quick to do many things that will help others and give glory to God. What are you doing with your life?

apologies to Coach McCarthy and his squad. I feel apologies are also due our own Coach Rupp and the Wildcat squad for the juvenile way in which we supported them.

In the future, may we, as students of UK and citizens of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, remember that hospitality and sportsmanship Coach Rupp has bragged about.

'Give It The Boot'

To The Editor:

It seems the Kernel should adopt a motto like "We overlook the importance of the trivial."

Your staff has a lot of nerve to criticize moot for not fulfilling its announced function when the Kernel fits the definition of a daily newspaper only in the sense that it is daily.

The Kernel editorial page is a lovely little bunch of borrowed editorials about boring subjects and clippings from national publications.

Surely a school of journalism with as many students as UK's can find a few writers more worthy of a byline than Bobbie Mason, that world famous critic of movies, magazines, novels, and etc., who is also widely known in the field of sarcasm.

It seems entirely possible that the Kernel can find a few issues of more importance than the saving of a former brothel across town. If this place were still operating, it would be worth the space, but preserving one that is closed as a historical monument hardly seems to be an issue of earth-shaking importance.

Your page of critical reviews seems to suggest the fact that Miss Mason thinks anything that is not filled with passionate illicit sex is not only boring but unsophisticated.

To make a pun on the fabulously humorous pun Miss Mason used to end her moot article, the password for the Kernel should be "Give it the Boot."

'The Singer Not The Song'

Arriving in the remote Latin village of Quantano, Father Keogh (John Mills) finds the townspeople cowering under the tyranny of the bandit Anacleto (Dick Bogarde) and his outlaw band. This is a scene from the Warner Brothers release of the Rank Film Presentation of "The Singer Not the Song," at the Strand Theatre.

Retired Dramatic Soprano Lives In 'Regal Splendor'

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE—How does a prima donna fill the void created by retirement?

Rosa Ponselle, a dramatic soprano who was once the pride of the Metropolitan Opera Company, lives in regal splendor and keeps close to the musical life of the community in which she resides.

Miss Ponselle, discovered by tenor Enrico Caruso before she became the first American-born, American-trained singer signed by the Met, retired in 1938 after a 20-year career as a star performer.

Now she lives in a 17-room, $500,000 Italian Renaissance mansion, serves as artistic director of the Baltimore Civic Opera Company and coaches five hand-picked students.

Caught amid preparations for an open house for the benefit of the civic opera, Miss Ponselle bustled from one tapestry-bedded room to another—with 14 poodles in her wake—and talked about her life.

"Ideas. We're getting ideas," she remarked. "Every year we try to do something different."

She meant the open house, which involves converting the mansion into a riot of decorations, tableaux, statues and lights. Visitors pay a dollar each, and the proceeds go to the opera company.

"Here, finally, are the draperies," she said, before going off into another room to consult one of the army of artists, interior decorators and friends engaged in the project.

Student Takes Over Play In Absence Of Director

During the two-week absence of Wallace Briggs, director of the Guignol production of "Doctor Faustus," Mary Warner Ford assumed the directing responsibilities.

Since Mr. Briggs' return, Miss Ford, a senior drama major, has continued as assistant director and stage manager for the Christopher Marlowe play which opens Feb. 26.

There have been several additions to the large cast of "Doctor Faustus," including Ann Shaver, Kenny Bruce, Paul Cherry, Kyle Branam, and Gene Arkle.

Miss Ford said that since beginning on "Doctor Faustus" she has learned more about what preliminary study includes, and that she has thought of directing on the show as more of a challenge than a responsibility.

"This entire year I have been learning that direction does not just come from the top of your head. It's not just what looks good on the stage, but the why behind it.

"I can already envision my favorite scene in 'Doctor Faustus,' because I fully understand the function of the design."

Miss Ford is the first recipient of the Robinson Scholarship Fund which was established last year for drama majors.

She returned and ordered the poodles out of the house. "I have too many dogs. Perhaps I shall get rid of some."

Asked about her responsibilities as the opera company's artistic director, the singer replied:

"I do the same things Rudolf Bing does at the Met. I have never vetoed a selection made by the auditions committee, but I do have that power."

She explained that in addition to having a role in the choice of the company's performers, she also has a part in the selection of its productions.

"This year's schedule calls for six productions, and we're expanding constantly," she said.

The singer, whose art was once described as being "vocal gold," explained that she considers the civic opera an excellent training ground for young singers.

The phone rang. Miss Ponselle picked up the receiver. "Hello . . . yes it is . . . are you the one who aspires to be a singer? . . . come to me, I will tell you the truth. . ."

Later she returned to the subject of the civic opera, apparently her pet project.

"This year, for the first time, we are having the Baltimore Symphony accompany our performances. That costs more."

That's all very well, but doesn't the singer miss the thrill of performing herself?

"Of course."

Traveling?

"I loathe it."

About teaching, what does she look for in a singer?

"Musicianship, talent, personality, perseverance and dedication. Technique you can always get later."

How long does it take Miss Ponselle to evaluate a singer's potential?

"As long as it takes her to open her mouth. I can tell right away."

How?

"That's something you can't put into words."

What about current musical activity in America?

"That's a sensitive subject. Let's say its growing, despite financial difficulties. I think we should have subsidies, like the European countries."

35 TV Shows To Be Junked

The three major television networks have decided to junk some 35 programs by next September.

This amounts to about a third of TV prime evening-time schedules. It seems that cancellations will primarily affect police-action and filmed comedy shows, since many of them haven't lived up to expectations.

Some older programs expected to go are "Lawman," "Adventures in Paradise," "Surfside 6," "Bachelor Father," "Hennessey," "Twilight Zone," "National Velvet," "Thriller," "The Detectives," and "The Tall Man."

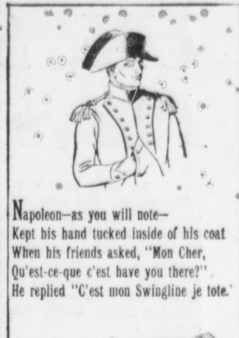

At present, there are only about seven hours left open to fill—and there are at least 200 show ideas and pilot programs competing for those hours.

Jack Paar plans one final working trip before he leaves his late-evening show for good—to London for three shows which will be seen in mid-March. Meanwhile, NBC has lined up Art Linkletter and Joey Bishop to play host on the show—the former for two weeks and the latter for one—in April. They are the first of a string of substitutes to keep the show alive and sponsored until Johnny Carson takes over in the fall.

Mitch Miller has had his contract renewed for another two seasons of sing-along. "Yours for a Song," ABC's version of NBC's "Sing Along with Mitch," announces an important change. Henceforth, its title, said ABC in a special bulletin, will be "Yours for a Song, starring Bert Parks."

NEW YORK (AP)—Twice as many producers as actors are involved in the Broadway presentation of "Do You Know the Milky Way?" The play has a cast of two—George Voskovec and Hal Holbrook. The production squad comprises Ninon Tallon, Paul Feigay, Dick Button and Roger L. Stevens.

Napoleon—as you will note—Kept his hand tucked inside of his coat. When his friends asked, "Mon Cher, Qu'est-ce que c'est have you there?" He replied "C'est mon Swingline je tote."

UK, SEC's Bouncer, Plays Vandy Next

By BILL MARTIN

Kentucky's Wildcats, the long time bouncer in the Southeastern Conference basketball races, will be trying to muscle their way to the top in the conference title picture when Vanderbilt's Commodores visit Memorial Coliseum Monday night. Game time is 8 o'clock.

It is more than appropriate that Vanderbilt will furnish the opposition for what the Wildcats hope will start them on the road to a NCAA tournament bid.

The Commodores of Coach Roy Skinner are the only team that has been able to deface the record of Mississippi State's Bulldogs. Back in early January Vandy slipped by State, 100-86, in Nashville, but since that time has dropped to seventh in the SEC standings with a 4-5 conference mark. Their latest victim was LSU 70-67, Monday night.

Coach Babe McCarthy's Bulldogs are the only team in the conference that has thus far been able to hang a loss to the Cats. That loss came just Monday night when State used some slow down tactics to cap a 49-44 win here at the Coliseum.

UK and Vandy have played once before this season when the Wildcats invaded Nashville and took a 77-68 win on Jan. 8.

Cotton Nash was the big man for the Wildcats then as he led all scorers with a 31-point effort. However, it was guard Larry Pursiful who came up with the clutch points in that contest.

Pursiful was injured in the Miss State game but is expected to be in the lineup for Monday night's game. Other Wildcat starters are expected to be Nash at center, Scotty Baesler at the other guard post and Carroll Burchett and Roy Roberts or Allen Feldhaus at the forwards.

Vandy is led by guards John Russell, Bobby Bland and Bill Johnson. Other front liners are Ron Griffiths, Ray Clark and Lance Gish.

Monday night will also offer the opportunity for the Kittens to stage a return game with Vandy's Baby Commodores. The Baby Commodores were the first team to hand the Kittens a loss as they downed them 82-76 in Nashville.

Since that time however Coach Harry Lancaster's chargers have lost three of six contests. The Winchester AAU club has downed the Kittens twice and the Tennessee Frosh dropped them once.

In their last outing the Kittens downed the Pikeville College freshmen 128-59.

Tourney Set Tuesday, Teams Still Unknown

The Intramural Basketball Tournament will begin February 20. Which teams will participate may not be fully known until then as only the top two in each division will qualify. In the event that two or more teams tie for second place in their division, each will be permitted to play the tournament.

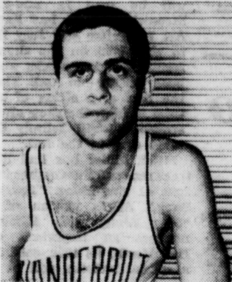

Pairings will be made upon completion of league play on Feb. 19, with teams having the best records being seeded. As of now, leading contenders for tournament births are as follows:

FRATERNITY LEAGUE
Division I—Sigma Nu, Phi Sigma Kappa.
Division II—Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Lambda Chi Alpha.
Division III—Sigma Chi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Division IV—Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Tau Delta.

DORM LEAGUE
Division I—Donovan Paddockers, Donovan 1-L.
Division II—Haggin C-4, Donovan Distasters.
Division III—Bradley Unknowns, Donovan 2-FE.
Division IV—Haggin 3-Raiders, Haggin C-12.
Division V—Breck 3, Donovan 3-B, Breck Bears.

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE
Division I—Tappa Kegs, Barristers, Christian Brothers Fellowship.
Division II—Baptist Student Union, Canterbury Fellowship, Library.
Division III—Three B's, Deacons.
Division IV—Swamp Rats, Wesley Foundation.

Each league will have a separate tournament with the three winners then meeting to determine the university championship.

Catfish Win First Against UL Cards

If you are wondering why you didn't have a very good seat or no seat at all for the Mississippi State game Monday night give me a minute of your time and I will try to explain.

The student government organization (Student Congress) and the Athletic Association, by agreement between the two groups have a standing policy whereby 4,340 seats of the 11,500 in the Coliseum are allotted for student seating. This is ordinarily more than enough to take care of the students, their dates who aren't University students, and student's wives.

What happened Monday and is likely to happen when Vanderbilt comes to town this Monday, is that the tickets were used up before all of the students got to the game. So all those in excess of the 4,340 allowed for, had to stand during the contest.

Tickets are distributed on a first-come first-serve basis and although part of the registration fee is turned over to the Athletic Association for an activity fee this is no guarantee you will have a seat.

It is just a guess as to how many students came to the game but Mr. Harvey Hodges, UK Ticket Manager, said he expects more than the allotted number to show up for the Vandy game.

"We always have better student attendance at the Monday games than the Saturday games because there aren't as many activities on Monday night," Hodges said this week.

"Only once before (the Auburn game of 1959) have we had this many students show up.

"But if the students don't show up for the Vanderbilt game Monday, we have an agreement with Student Congress that we can sell some of the allotted tickets to the general public for the remaining home games."

I understood him to say that student tickets are held until 7:45 p.m. and if at that time any tickets remain they are then put on sale at the Coliseum ticket windows to the general public.

Kentucky's Catfish floated to their first victory of the season over the Louisville Cardinals, .57½-.37½, Wednesday night after eight straight losses.

The Catfish were led by Skip Bailor and Chad Wright, both who turned in perfect performances with two individual victories and teamed with Bucky Teeter and Tom Grunwald for a first in the 400 yard free-style.

Bailor's wins came in the 220 and 440-yard free-style, and Wright's in the 50' and 100 yard free-style. This was the second perfect scoring performance turned in by Bailor, but the most points of the season for Wright.

The Cardinal's Dick Abbott was the only bright spot for Coach Jeff Johnson. He took honors in the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard butterfly for a perfect 11½ points.

The victory was the fourth for Coach Algie Reece's crew in 10 outings with the Cardinals.

The summary:

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: MARTIN CAWLEY

When Martin Cawley joined Illinois Bell Telephone Company a year and a half ago, he immediately was assigned to a job in the Building Engineer's Group. This work involved preparing plans and specifications for remodeling several floors of an important telephone office building, and following details of the field work until the job was completed. A lot of responsibility, but he handled it well and earned an assignment as Project Engineer. Now he handles still more complex building projects, each contributing to better telephone service for Chicago.

Martin Cawley and other young engineers like him in Bell Telephone Companies throughout the country help bring the finest communications service in the world to the homes and businesses of a growing America.
