KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY.

HISTORY.

Kentucky University was chartered January 16, 1858; it is the legal successor of Bacon College, which was chartered February 23, 1837. The latter having been suspended for want of means, Mr. J. B. Bowman, an alumnus thereof, acting with the sanction of its Board of Trustees, undertook its full endowment and its enlargement to the dimensions of a complete University. Seconded by the efforts of the late James Taylor, of Mercer county, Ky., who secured in that county a very liberal subscription to the work, Mr. Bowman prosecuted his labors with great success, and the Collegiate Department of the new institution, which bore the title of Kentucky University, was opened at Harrodsburg, Ky., September 19, 1859.

On the destruction of its building by fire, in February, 1864, negotiations were opened with the Trustees of Transylvania University, at Lexington, for its removal to that city, and for a union of the interests of the two institutions. This union was effected by act of the Legislature, approved February 28, 1865, and the consolidated institution, bearing the corporate name of Kentucky University, was opened at Lexington, October 2, 1865. Under the re-organization then effected, three departments existed, the College of Arts, the College of the Bible, and the College of Law.

One year thereafter, October 1, 1866, a fourth department—the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky—was opened, under the provisions of an act of the Legislature, approved February 22, 1865. This act provided that after the consolidation of Kentucky University and Transylvania University, the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky should be one of the Colleges of the consolidated institution. One year later, October 7, 1867, a fifth department—the Commercial College—was opened.

By an act of the Legislature, approved March 13, 1878, the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky was detached from Kentucky University, and made an independent State College. By contract, dated July 5, 1878, the same is to remain for two years on the grounds of the University, occupying the same buildings as heretofore, the State College and Kentucky University working in harmony.

LOCATION.

The College of Arts and the College of the Bible occupy the Transylvania grounds and buildings, in the city of Lexington, Ky.; the College of Law and the Commercial College, other rooms in the city; while a portion of the combined estates of Woodland and Ashland—the homestead of Henry Clay—is occupied by the State Agricultural and Mechanical College.

The city, containing about 20,000 inhabitants, is located in the midst of the far-famed Bluegrass region of Kentucky, and is noted for its healthfulness and its superior social and religious influences, affording to students, who can board in the best private families, most favorable advantages for culture and refinement.

It is easily accessible by two daily trains from Louisville, two from Maysville, and four from Cincinnati, each city less than 100 miles distant; and it is expected to be soon in more direct communication with the East, via the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, and with the South by the completion of the Cincinnati Southern Road to Chattanooga.

ORGANIZATION.

Kentucky University embraces several colleges, each under the immediate government of its own faculty and presiding officer. The general supervision of the University as a whole is committed to the President, who is ex-officio Presiding officer of the College of Arts. It is his duty, in connection with the Executive Committee, to see that the general laws and statutes of the University are faithfully executed.

Each college is divided into several schools or departments of study; and each school is under the immediate government and instruction of a competent Professor, assisted, when necessary, by subordinate instructors and tutors.

The colleges of the University are severally styled:

1. The College of Arts.
2. The College of the Bible.
3. The College of Law.
4. The Commercial College.

Working in connection with these is

5. The Academy.

GOVERNMENT.

The general government of the University is vested in the Board of Curators, which consists of not less than thirty members, representing the donors, under the conditions prescribed in the charter. The delegated and representative powers of the corporation are vested in the Executive Committee.

For purposes of counsel and co-operation in regard to the general interests of the University, the faculties of the several colleges assemble as one body, under the name of the Senate of the University; but the immediate government of the students of each college is committed to the faculty thereof, each student being amenable to the faculty of that college to which he belongs by virtue of his matriculation.

MATRICULATION.

A student, upon his arrival at Lexington, will report promptly to the President, with his testimonials of character and standing. He will, as early as practicable, secure suitable boarding. Unnecessary delay in either of these respects may bar his admission.

After successful examination and payment of fees, he will, upon reading a copy of the laws, be entitled to matriculate upon signing the following declaration: "I enter the University with a sincere desire to enjoy the benefits of its instruction, and with a determined resolution to conform to its laws."

The number of recitations of each student must, in general, be three daily. More can often be profitably attended; less may be permitted, if circumstances require.

A student may graduate in any school on the following conditions:

1. That he shall have been a member of that school at least one year, and shall have completed in a satisfactory manner the studies thereof, or what the professor in charge may deem a fair equivalent; the record of his scholarship for each term being not less than seventy-five per centum of the scale on which one hundred denotes perfection.

2 That he shall have habitually observed the rules of the University.

Graduation in all the schools, except in that of Modern Languages, is required for admission to the regular Degree of Bachelor of Arts; the candidate, however, being permitted, with the consent of the faculty, to substitute for the Calculus, or the Senior Latin, or the Junior and Senior Greek, the course in the French or German language; or to substitute for the Calculus and the Senior Latin the course in the Hebrew as taught in the College of the Bible.

A student may be admitted to the regular Degree of Master of Arts on the following conditions:

1. That he shall have been admitted, at least one year previously, in this college, to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.
2. That he shall have passed a satisfactory examination in at least three of the following languages: Hebrew, French, German, Spanish and Italian; or in any two of these, and in a course of Historical Study prescribed by the faculty.
3. That he shall have paid ten dollars to the Library Fund.

PRIVILEGES IN OTHER COLLEGES.

A student of the College of Arts can attend, free of cost, classes in the Academy, in the College of the Bible, and in the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky.

COLLEGE OF THE BIBLE.

The College of the Bible, under the charter of Kentucky University, is not in operation. The use of its rooms in the buildings on the Transylvania grounds has been tendered to the new College of the Bible, organized July, 1877, and the tender has been accepted by its Board of Trustees.

This institution is entirely independent of Kentucky University, having its separate charter, board of government, and faculty. The two institutions, occupying the same grounds and buildings, agree to work in harmony for their mutual benefit. The students of the College of the Bible are admitted, without charge, into the classes of the College of Arts, and of the Academy; and free instruction in any of its classes is the privilege of any student of the Academy or of the College of Arts.

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

The design of the Commercial College of Kentucky University is to afford full facilities for acquiring, theoretically and practically, a knowledge of the duties of the counting-house, or of general practical business. The course is adapted to the wants of those who expect to become merchants or farmers, and to others who desire to fit themselves for the practical duties of life.

It combines instruction in Penmanship, Business Arithmetic, the principles of Single-entry and of Double-entry Book-keeping, and their practical application to business in its various forms, such as

Retail,	Compound Company,	Manufacturing,
Wholesale,	Commission,	Joint Stock,
Individual,	Farming,	Furnacing,
Partnership,	Professional,	Banking,
Railroading and Steamboating.

Instruction is also given in Phonography and Business Correspondence, if desired.

The session is continuous throughout the year, without vacation. There is no class system, but individual instruction, each pupil advancing as rapidly as he may be able. The "Merchant's Scientific Course" can be completed in from five to seven weeks; the "Full Diploma Course" requires from eight to twelve weeks.

Hours of work from 9 to 12 M., 1½ to 4, and 7 to 8½ P. M.

The certificate for the shorter course, and the diploma for the longer, bear the signatures of the faculty and the seal of the University.

Students in this college have the privilege of attending, free of charge, the classes of the College of Arts, or those of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SESSION, TERMS, COMMENCEMENT.

The collegiate year in all the colleges consists of a single session of nine months, divided into two equal terms. It begins on the second Monday in September, and ends on the second Thursday in June, which is Commencement Day.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Every candidate for admission must present satisfactory evidence of good moral character; and, if previously connected with any other college, a certificate of honorable standing in it.

For admission into the Academy, he must be at least twelve years of age; into the College of Arts, or Commercial College, fourteen; into the College of Law, sixteen; for advanced standing, corresponding increase of age is required.

A professor may, at his discretion, admit into his school a student on probation for a reasonable length of time, upon condition that if he fail to exhibit a satisfactory degree of diligence or proficiency, his connection with the school shall cease.

A candidate not prepared for the Freshman Class of any school may enter, in the Academy, the Preparatory Class of that school; but no one can be admitted into the college unless he be prepared for the Freshman Class of at least one school.

EXAMINATIONS.

There are two classes of examinations: the first daily, in connection with the daily lecture or recitation; the second public, at the close of each term.

Immediately after an examination of either kind, a number is affixed to the name of the student examined, designating the value of his performance. When perfect, the number is one hundred; when an entire failure, zero; when intermediate in merit, the proper relative percentage.

From these numbers, the scholarship of each student for the term is ascertained and placed on record, and a report sent to his parent or guardian. This report also contains an estimate, on the same scale, of the student's conduct in the recitation rooms, his general conduct, or conduct outside the recitation room, his industry, and his punctuality.

FEES.

MATRICULATION.—College of Arts, $20.00; College of Law, $10.00; Academy, $20.00.

TUITION.—College of Arts, tuition coupon worth $2.50; College of Law, $50.00; Commercial College, Merchant's course $30.00, full Diploma course $40.00.

ROOMS.—Unfurnished rooms, each occupant, $5.00.

No tuition fee is required in the College of Arts of any student in indigent circumstances who has had at least one year's actual experience in teaching, and who designs to make it a regular profession.

All fees are required in advance, and no deduction is made from the full fees, however late in the session a student may enter.

BOARDING.

A student can select his own boarding-house, subject in all cases to the approval of the faculty. He can not, however, board at any house where intoxicating liquors are sold, or card-playing or billiard-playing is practiced, or the rules of good order and decorum are, in other respects, disregarded. The cost of boarding in private families, including fuel, lights, and the use of furnished rooms, varies from $3.50 to $4.50 per week.

Unfurnished rooms on the University grounds may be occupied by students desirous of forming a club and boarding themselves; to such the cost of boarding, fuel, and lights is about two dollars per week. The expense of furnishing a room need not exceed ten dollars for each of its occupants. These rooms are assigned to applicants by the Presiding Officer in the order of application; they must be kept in a neat, cleanly condition, and at all times be subject to the inspection of any member of the faculty. Damages done to them must be repaired by the injurer, if known; otherwise, by the occupants.

SOCIETIES.

There are two literary societies in the College of Arts, the Cecropian and the Periclean. They have their respective halls and libraries, and their weekly exercises add to the facilities afforded by the School of the English Language for practice in Composition, Elocution, and Discussion.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Every student is required to attend the chapel exercises at such an hour each day as may be designated by the faculty of the college to which he belongs; and also to attend such other public religious exercises as may be ordered on national thanks-giving day or the Lord's day, unless excused for special reasons by the proper faculty.

LIBRARIES.

The Law, Medical, and Miscellaneous Libraries belonging to the University, which comprise about ten thousand volumes of valuable books, are open to all the students of the University. The Law Library is perhaps one of the best in the West.

APPARATUS.

There is a valuable collection of Chemical, Philosophical, and Astronomical Apparatus belonging to the University, adapted to the purpose of illustration and instruction in the various Schools of Science.
