Hurrah For AlphaPhiOmega

Alpha Phi Omega deserves more than the proverbial three cheers for recognizing a long-neglected campus problem and taking concrete steps to solve it. We're talking about the need for presenting information about campus organizations to new students.

It seems the recent letter in the Kernel moved Alpha Phi Omega to investigate the situation. Matters were, they found, just about as bad as the letter and the accompanying editorial said they were. It takes many students a couple of years of wandering through the fog to find just which clubs are right for them - and some never do.

APO, service fraternity, has already sent letters to presidents of all campus organizations setting forth their plan for a booklet giving all the whys and wherefores of each club and honorary. Enough books would be printed now to last five years, at the end of which time revisions could be made.

Alpha Phi Omega is offering to bear the major part of the expense, compile the information, and take care of all necessary transactions. Each organization is asked to contribute three dollars toward the expense of the booklet. This sixty cents per year looks like a good investment for any club which is interested in securing new members who really know what they're joining and why.

The proposed booklet would tell name, purpose, meeting time and place, requirements for membership, when new members are taken, how they are selected, how the student goes about joining, fees, and any other pertinent information. The Freshman Week Committee would be in charge of distribution.

Alpha Phi Omega's plan seems to be about the best method of getting all this information across to the new student in a permanent form to which he can refer. If all the organizations will cooperate, they, as well as the students who use the booklet, should benefit greatly. There will still be difficulties, but the new student should find the whole picture much less confusing if the plan works out.

We consider this a very worthy project and believe Alpha Phi Omega is making a real contribution to the campus by undertaking the publication of this booklet.

Mrs. Phoebe Worth "Kentucky Mother Of '51" Is Graduate Of University

Mrs. Phoebe Beckner Worth, 69-year-old Lexington school principal and alumna of UK - is Kentucky's candidate for American Mother of the Year. The veteran educator-social worker, mother of three sons and two daughters, last week was chosen Kentucky Mother of 1951 by a state selection committee. She now goes to New York as a candidate for the national honor. Mrs. Worth has taught in Lexington city schools for 25 years, the last 16 of which she has served as principal of Lincoln school. Two years ago the Lexington Chamber of Commerce named her as the recipient of the annual Community Award "for years of interest and untiring effort on behalf of underprivileged children of the city." That same year, 1949, Chi Beta Sigma sorority selected her as "the outstanding woman of Lexington and Fayette County." Born in Winchester in 1881, she received her early education in Clark County schools and later attended Smith College and the Cincinnati Conservatory. In 1908 she married

Mrs. Worth is the third Lexington woman to win the award in the past 10 years. The other two were Mrs. W. T. Fowler in 1942 and Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes in 1944. Mrs. Holmes is now UK's Dean of Women.

Pharmacists Hold Meet

John W. McPherrin, editor of the "American Druggist," was the principal speaker yesterday at the workshop sponsored by the Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association in Louisville. McPherrin's subject was "For Freedom's Sake Rely on Yourself."

President Sidney Passamanek gave a report of progress at the morning session, and a forum on "Pricing Prescriptions" was presented by William Curry of Lexington, Price Webb of St. Matthews, and Dr. A. E. Simpson, head of the UK Pharmacy Department, who acted as moderator. Dr. Sam A. Overstreet, president of the Kentucky State Medical Association, discussed "Physician-Pharmacist Relationships."

McPherrin spoke at a luncheon in the Seelbach Hotel. After the afternoon session, Max Waldman, a tax expert spoke on "Price-State and Federal," Homer Lewis, price executive of the Kentucky District of the Office of Price Stabilization, discussed "General Ceiling Price Regulations," and James Driskell of Carrollton discussed "Clerk Education."

A&S College Sponsors Weekly Radio Series

A series of 31 radio programs, centered about the theme, "What is a Liberal Education?" has been inaugurated by the College of Arts and Sciences. The 15-minute programs are presented at 8:30 p.m. each Wednesday over stations WKBY and WJAP. The object of these programs, according to their originator, Dr. M. M. White, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is to show how the various fields of learning in the college are related to the public. For instance, the Mathematics and Astronomy Department will present "Is the Universe Exploding?" and the Library Science Department will present "Roads to Tomorrow."

Judge Adams To Give Last 'Courtship' Talk

Judge Chester Adams, Lexington, will conduct the fourth and final discussion of the Courtship and Marriage Series being held by the District Student Fellowship "University for Life" group Sunday night. His topic will be "Happiness in the Home." A supper will be served before the meeting at 8:45 p.m. at the Kentucky Utilities Auditorium. A retreat to Camp Daniel Boone is planned for this weekend by the DSP. All those members interested in attending the retreat should contact Don Yohé or Ken Darnell.

I-M Softball Opens With Four Games

Softball got under full steam on Tuesday and Wednesday with four diamond contests being played in the intramural double-elimination tournament.

Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Kappa Phi advanced Tuesday over Kappa Alpha and Sigma Alpha Epsilon and on Wednesday Alpha Gamma Rho beat Sigma Chi and Zeta Beta Tau beat Phi Delta Theta.

The Pi Kaps took the KA's by a score of 19-9 in the first game and Triangles upset SAE by 7-3 in the second five-inning tussle. ZPT whipped the Phi Dels, 5-3, and AGA thrashed Sigma Chi by a 13-1 count.

Pleasant weather was on hand to warm both contests as the sun blessed things up a bit.

This year's softball season will be run off in the form of a tournament. Each team will be allowed two losses before being dropped. As long as a team is victorious, it stays in the winner's bracket, but if it loses, it slips back into a loser's bracket.

There are two separate divisions, one including fraternity teams, and another smaller one (six ball club) with independent units. Winners of the winning and losing brackets will play for the division crowns, then the two division champs will meet for final laurels.

Today's games pit B.S.U. with the Barbers and Newman Club with Farm House. South Street Barbers and Men's Dimes drew first-round byes.

Don Graham and Dick Haas of Sigma Chi won the I-M badminton doubles tournament last week, beating Doug Osborne and Jerry Luman of Delta Tau Delta.

Haas and Graham took Cayce and Johnston of Sigma Nu in the semi-finals as the Delta club won over Zeta Beta Tau's Ivy Goldstein and Henry Abraham.

Luman advanced to the finals in badminton singles by beating Osborne in the semi-finals and is scheduled to meet the C. M. Newton-Phil Johnson winner. Newton, last year's champ, is representing SAE, while Johnson is a Sigma Nu.

Handball singles and doubles are set to start on Monday after the deadline for entries falls at noon tomorrow. The only other event scheduled on the I-M calendar is track, which is set for May 17-18 with a deadline on May 5.

Kentucky Nine Meets Centre Today

Cats Play Cincinnati In Saturday Game

By Lewis Donohew

Hoping to improve a not-too-impressive record of four wins and four losses, Kentucky's baseball Wildcats move outside the conference today and Saturday for games with Centre and Cincinnati.

The Cats meet Centre's Colonels at Legion Field this afternoon at 3 p.m. Tomorrow they move to Cincinnati to take on the Bearcats at 10:30 a.m. Lexington time.

Prices for today's game will be $1.00 and 50 cents. UK students will be included in the 50-cent group.

Although Kentucky has not met either team this season, the results of today's game with Centre may give some indication as to how they will fare against the Bearcats. Cincinnati opened its season against the Colonels and blasted them, 11-4.

Kentucky does not return to its Southeastern Conference schedule until May 4 when it plays host to Centre, current conference leader.

The Cat diamondmen play a return meet with Cincinnati at Legion Field on Wednesday, April 25, and then take on Centre again at the latter's home field on April 28.

SEC standings up until Thursday afternoon ranked Kentucky in a tie for fourth place with Mississippi. Umpires for today's game will be Al Shannon and John Showalter.

Cats Split With Georgia Tech

UK Now Holds Tie For Fourth Place In SEC Standings

By Don Armstrong

Kentucky split a double-header with Georgia Tech at Legion Field last Saturday and thus kept its even win-loss mark.

The Cats came up with a run in the last of the eighth inning of the first game to beat the Jackets 4 to 2. Originally scheduled for seven frames, the contest was all tied up when the regulation length was over, 3-11.

Georgia Tech exploded for five runs in the nightcap's fifth inning for its only tally. Kentucky picked up a pair of runs in the last of the sixth, but went scoreless in the bottom of the seventh.

With a record of four wins and four losses the Wildcats are virtually out of the running for the championship of the SEC.

Successive singles by Ramey, Hamilton, and Harry Jones gave Kentucky its winning margin in the first Tech tussle. The Jackets couldn't get a third out as the Cats scored the deciding run with two away.

Guy Strong won his second game of the season as he stopped the Jackets with five hits and struck out four. Bud Young was the losing pitcher for Georgia Tech.

Dick Dozier, Calicoira (7), and Don Duizer, MacLeod, Zaranika (6), and Fucci.

Newton didn't allow a run until the fifth hit for the Jackets, when they scored all of their runs. With one out, a base on balls, Rhinow's double, and Bobby North's single tied the score at two-all.

Newton hit McCoy with a pitched ball and another walk loaded the bases. A costly error let two of the runners come home. When Sheffield flied left field, the fifth Jacket run was scored after the catch.

Rhino got the side out in order in the last inning to win the game for Tech. In five and 1/3 innings he allowed seven hits and walked four.

GEORGIA 11, KENTUCKY 10
Georgia won its third game of the season over Kentucky by rallying for all of its runs in the last two innings last Thursday to win, 13-10.

Ben Zaranika, playing for the first time, was called in to relieve Al MacLeod in the sixth and was tagged with the loss. The game was a seven-inning contest by mutual agreement because of the cold weather.

It looked like Kentucky had the game clinched when Ramey poked a home run over the scoreboard in right field in the fifth with Larry Jones on base. Many of the frozen fans had gone home, counting on a Cat win. Three hits and three costly Wildcat errors cost the Wildcats

Vandy Edges Thinlies, 67-64

By Fred Lawson

Kentucky's track team was edged by the Vanderbilt Commodores 67-64 as the Commodores took the final Holmes (V). Time 2:01.5.

The first dual meet of the season for the Cats.

Tom Scorer for the Wildcats was Harold Ziegler, who won the pole vault and placed second in the high and broad jumps for 11 points.

Lucian Whitaker and Dwight Price each brought in 10 points for Kentucky.

Whitaker won the high and the broad jumps. Price placed first in the mile run and two mile run. He ran the mile in 4:41.3.

Capt. Guy Weeks won the 220-yard low hurdles in the time of 35.4. Weeks finished second in the 120-yard high hurdles.

John Ignanski won the shot put with a toss of 44 feet, 4 1/2 inches. Paul Gunsten of Kentucky placed third.

Ziegler, the Cats' top pole vaulter, cleared the bar at 11 feet, nine inches.

Alex Harlin, senior dash man, was top scorer for Vandy with 10 points. He won both the 100 and 200-yard dashes, and was a member of the winning relay team.

The results:
100-yard dash — Alex Harlin (V), Allen Drash (V), Cliff Lawson (K). Time: 1:11.

220-yard dash — Harlin (V), George Hishell (K), Drash (V). Time: 2:28.

440-yard run — Jack Burch (V).

LEWIS DONOHUE
Kernel Sports Editor

As part of the coaching clinic being held on the campus, an exhibition basketball game will be played between the University of Kentucky squad and an All-Star college team picked from central and eastern Kentucky collegiate stars. The game is set for April 27 at 8 p.m.

Ellis Johnson, Morehead coach and former UK player (all-conference in 1932-1933 and All-American in 1933) will coach the all-star group.

Included on the all-star squad are Paul Cliney, 6-8, Morehead player from East; Charles Pennington, 6-4, Georgetown player from Berea; Carl Easle, 6-2, Eastern player from Harlan; Bob Woodluff, 6-4, Georgetown player from Drew Heights; Elzie Whalen, 6, Morehead player from Maysville; Joe Harper, 5-8, Eastern player from London; Joe Haywood, 5-11, Kentucky Wesleyan player from Bellevue; Jess McWhorter, 6, Morehead player from Morehead, and two more players to be added later. All men on the squad are native Kentuckians. They were picked by Coach Johnson. Selections were limited to the eastern and central Kentucky area.

The Helms Athletic Foundation—one of the big names in athletics—has recognized UK's Wildcats as the national basketball champions for 1951. Along with this recognition goes another trophy, which is quite a nice little piece of wood. And that wasn't all the Helms group did. Not by a long shot. They picked out boy, Bill Steyer, as the player of the year. So Bill will also receive an award from the Foundation.

This isn't Kentucky's first honor by the Helms group. They were named team of the year by the HAF in 1932, 1948, and again in 1949. The Foundation has also honored Coach Rupp for his achievements as Wildcat coach. The Helms was named to its Hall of Fame in 1944.

Coach Rupp is presented by the Kernel this week in his role as a farmer (see photo elsewhere in this section). Rupp, a great holder of basketball teams, is really a farmer at heart. He owns three farms in the Lexington area, totaling around 600 acres.

"Farming is the safest investment a man can make today," he says. "In fact, everyone ought to have a farm, a place where he can look over the rolling hills and call the soil his own."

Up at St. John's (beaten in its two meetings with Kentucky this season—43-37, and, in the NCAA tournament, 50-41) the end game had elected its captain for the 1951-1952 season.

Jack McMahon, set-shooting ace, was named to the honor for the second straight year. McMahon was second only to Center Bob Zawoluk in scoring for the past season with 401 points for a 12.9 average. Zawoluk netted 654 markers for a 21.1 season mark.

Up at St. John's (beaten in its two meetings with Kentucky this season—43-37, and, in the NCAA tournament, 50-41) the end game had elected its captain for the 1951-1952 season.

The Lexington Camera Club will exhibit approximately 100 prints in the Gallery of the Fine Arts Building, April 28 through 30. Landscapes, portraits, and typical bluegrass scenes will comprise a major part of the show.

THAT CONTENTED LOOK—Coach Adolph Rupp, just beginning to recuperate from a grueling basketball season, looks over some more prospects. The Baron, who owns a 266-acre farm on which he and his son, Herk, raise Hereford cattle, is planning to shoot for some extra championships in the next few years—in the cattle division. The group being admired above may not fight like Wildcats, but we'll bet they can make more noise.

Fencers Down Vanderbilt, 6-3

Kentucky's fencers evened the count on Vanderbilt last Saturday in winning, 6-3. The Commodores had upset the Wildcats earlier in the season, 5-4.

Captain Alan Solomon had a perfect day, winning three for three. He defeated Vandy's captain, Tom Belser, 5-3; Bill Brown, 5-2; and Russ Campbell, 5-4.

Bill Seiler added two victories and Paul Wright one, to gain sweet revenge over the previously undefeated Vandy team. For Vandy, Brown won two and Belser one.

Against the Louisville freshmen, Hancock and Prather won two each with Tom Owen, another promising freshman, winning the final bout. Against I.U., Hancock and Prather swept three apiece with Owen again taking one.

The next day the Frosh met a team and highly experienced Louisville YMCA "B" team and were defeated 14-2. The YMCA team, coached by Olympic star Albert Wolff, is one of the strongest clubs in this section of the country. For the Kittens, Hancock and Prather won one apiece.

Only one meet remains on the UK schedule. On May 12 the varsity will journey to Indiana University for their last meet of the season.

UK Wins First Tennis Victory; Berea Falls, 7-1

Kentucky's opening tennis match was a winning one.

Last Saturday the Wildcats downed the Berea College letters 7-1. The Wildcats' only setback, in its opener came in the doubles event, in which the Cats won one of the two matches after having made a clean sweep of the six singles matches.

Today the tennis team is in Knoxville to meet the Tennessee Volunteers. Tomorrow the team moves on down to Atlanta to take on the Engineers of Georgia Tech.

Summaries of Saturday's Kentucky-Berea meet follow:

Singles
Price (K) defeated LeMaster (B), 6-1, 7-0.

Doubles
Price-Lansaw (K) defeated LeMaster-Hale (B), 3-6, 6-2, 7-5. Graham-Crubb (B) defeated Kanatner-Williams (K), 6-3, 3-6, 4-6.

Jest Knappin'

By Paul Knapp

After seeing one of the local movies this week... one involving so-called burlesque queens I am firmly convinced that it is just like I said: "We condemn a naughty movie; attend it to see if it's as shocking as advertised, and then kick because the naughty parts have been cut." And, of course, that gives only a remote suggestion as to what follows.

A hillbilly came to town carrying a jug of liquor in one hand and a shotgun in the other. He stopped a man on the street saying: "Here, friend, take a drink out my jug."

The man protested, saying he didn't drink.

The hillbilly leveled his shotgun at the stranger and said: "Drink." The stranger drank, then he shuddered, shook, shivered, and coughed. "God, that's awful stuff," he spat.

"Ain't it?" said the hillbilly. "Now hold the gun on me until I take a gulp."

Joe: "My wife is agreed to death that someone will kill her children." Mike: "Doesn't she love them then?" Joe: "She had a better idea than that. She has someone stay in the closet and watch them. I found him in there last night."

"I see by the paper that nine professors and a student were killed in a car wreck last night." "Poor chap."

Mistress: "You know, I suspect my husband has a love affair with his stenographer." Maid: "I don't believe it. You're only saying that to make me jealous."

"What are you putting in your vest pocket there, Murphy?" "That's a stick of dynamite. Every time that Riley sees me he slaps me on the chest and crushes my cigarettes. The next time he does it he's going to blow his head off."

A small boy was seated on the curb with a pint of whiskey in his hand, reading Equine and smoking a big cigar. An old lady passed and asked: "Little boy, why aren't you in school?" The child replied, "Hell, lady, I ain't but four."

Judge to Prisoner: "Say when were you born?" No reply. "I say, when was your birthday?" Prisoner (sullenly): "What do you care? You ain't gonna give me nothin'."

Linda: "What did all that shotgun weddings before firearms were invented?" Linda's: "They were bean and error affairs."

A certain professor brought a copy of his final examination to be microscopied by his secretary. The girl read it and said to the professor, "Sir, this is exactly the same examination you gave last semester."

"Yes," replied the professor, "but I changed the answers."

Lecture On Allergies Given By Distinguished Professor

"The development of our knowledge of allergy can be attributed to the rise of bacteriology and the establishment of the theory of disease," Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the Department of Bacteriology and the 1951 "Distinguished Professor," stated in the seventh annual Arts and Sciences lecture last night in the Gignoul Theater.

Having been granted a term free from teaching duties in order to give full time to some research project and to prepare the annual lecture, Dr. Scherago spoke on "The Basis of Allergic Reactions."

The allergic individual, Dr. Scherago explained, is allergic because he has developed antibodies, which instead of protecting him, as antibodies such as diphtheria antitoxin do, actually render him sensitive to some otherwise harmless substance.

"WHEN AN ALLERGIC PERSON is exposed to the agents to which he is sensitive, these agents seek out the antibodies that are attached to his cells and unite with them," he explained.

"This union of the offending agents with the antibodies injures the cells, as a result of which the cells release a chemical substance called histamine which in turn injures the tiny blood vessels. These blood vessels stretch and the fluid portion of the blood in them seeps through their walls into the tissue spaces. This increase in the amount of fluid causes the tissues to swell and the swelling is responsible for the symptoms."

Since allergy is incurable, Dr. Scherago said, the present methods of treatment must therefore be directed towards the relief of the symptoms or their prevention rather than cure. Avoidance for over a period of years of the specific agent to which the patient is found to be allergic may result in considerable reduction or even loss of the allergy to that agent. But continued contact with the offending agent after such a period of lapse may again precipitate the symptoms, or the individual may become sensitive to new agents, he added.

Dr. Scherago said that the drugs that are used in treating the allergic patient during the symptomatic stage are intended to allay the symptoms and bring comfort to the victim.

"TO PREVENT THE DEVELOPMENT of symptoms two principles of treatment are employed," he said. "The first involved the detection of the offending agent or agents either by the process of elimination or by skin tests or both, and avoiding contact in any way with the agent. The second principle involves the injections of extracts of the offending agents to 'hypersensitize' the patient to them."

These injections, Dr. Scherago explained, cause the patient to develop "blocking" antibodies which circulate in the blood and later unite with the offending agents and prevent them from reaching the cell-attached allergic antibodies and thus, from injuring the cells.

One of the most important problems confronting the allergic is applying both principles of treatment: the dosage of extracts to be used in skin testing and in treatment. No present methods of assaying these extracts are entirely satisfactory.

Dr. Scherago then spoke of the experiments which he and his assistants have been conducting in an attempt to devise more satisfactory biological methods of standardizing the extracts. The three methods which they have devised, a serological test, a rabbit skin test, and a leucocyte (white blood cell) test, differentiate between extracts of very high potency and those of very low potency but, he stated, the tests have not yet been refined to the point where they may be used to titrate the potency of an extract on a quantitative basis.

DR. SCHERAGO ALSO SPOKE of a preliminary experiment which he and his assistants had conducted in an attempt to determine whether allergic antibodies would produce "anti-antibodies" when injected into rabbits. Since the action of allergic antibodies is opposite to that of immune antibodies (instead of protecting, they sensitize) Dr. Scherago reasoned that if anti-antibodies could be produced against the allergic antibodies such anti-antibodies might prove of some value in counteracting the cell-attached allergic antibodies. They injected the serum from an allergic patient into a rabbit. Later they took the serum from this rabbit, mixed it with some of the mixture into the skin of a human volunteer. They then tested the skin of this volunteer with the extract (rawaged pollen) to which the patient was sensitive and got no reaction, which indicated that the rabbit's serum had produced an antibody which neutralized the patient's serum and prevented it from sensitizing the volunteer's skin.

The Student Union Board is the governing and policy-making body of the Student Union. Its student members head the Union committees and are responsible for the organization and carrying out of all student activities. Its duties include establishing rules and policies that govern the Student Union.

Student Union Elects Nine

In accordance with the annual custom, nine new members have been elected to the Student Union Board. Seven new student members were elected by popular vote for the 1951-52 school year. They are Carter Glass, Ann Carson, Bettie Bryant, Roy Turner, Barbara Wayman, Mary McKinley, and Kitty King.

Also, two new faculty members were selected to serve on the Board for next year. They are Dr. Earl Kauffman Jr., associate professor of physical education, and Prof. Robert D. McIntyre, professor of marketing.

Requirements for student membership are at least a 1.5 overall standing, a standing of junior or above, and at least one year's membership in one of the Student Union committees.

An active interest in student affairs as well as in the Student Union are the requirements for faculty membership.

The other members of the board are the social director of the Student Union, Miss Margaret Bruce Cruise, the Union Director, Miss Mackie Rastall, Dr. A. D. Kirwin, dean of students, and Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women.
