The Party Line

Christmas Dances Open Holiday Season

Although this is by no means a medical page, some mention of the "Christmas dance rash" rightfully belongs here.

In perfect harmony with the holiday tradition, Sigma Alpha Epsilon will entertain with a dance at the Lexington Country Club from 8:30 to 12:00 tonight.

The Electrical Engineers' dance at the Student Union Building tonight, and the Triangle formal at the Bowling Springs Country Club tomorrow night are two more dances on our Christmas Calendar.

The weather man has finally given us a break, but the football games are over, so tomorrow night at 8:00 we move into the Coliseum, where it is warm—remember those wind-swept bleachers on Still Field?—to see the Washington and Lee basketball game.

The pledge class of Kappa Kappa Gamma will entertain the pledge classes of the other sororities with a tea on Monday.

Congratulations to Sigma Phi Epsilon for the most unique achievement of the year. They have won five trophies since the beginning of the semester: the homecoming decoration trophy, the homecoming band formation trophy, the cheer contest trophy, the turnip chomping trophy (Bill Rice), and the LJI Amber trophy (Bill Green).

Despite the rush of Christmas activities, gift shopping and the general confusion of the sororities, fraternities and other organizations are planning Christmas parties for children on December 13.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will entertain with a Christmas party for the colored orphan, Santa Claus will distribute gifts from under the tree and refreshments will be served.

Congratulations to "Mr. and Miss Kentucky," who were announced Thursday, and to Sig Ep Larry Meyer, the winner of Alpha Phi Omega's "Ugly Man" Contest.

THE FINAL WINNERS IN THE ODK TAG SALES CONTEST were presented last week. In the sorority division, Chi Omega was first and Kappa Delta second. For the fraternities, Sigma Alpha Epsilon won and Sigma Nu was runner up.

SAE, Chi O Win Trophies For Tag Sales

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Chi Omega were the respective fraternity and sorority winners in the ODK Tag sales, it was announced by Jack Ballantine, a member of ODK.

Placing second and third for the fraternities were Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega. Kappa Delta and Alpha Xi Delta were second and third for the sororities.

Ballantine said Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Chi Omega will each have a representative on the committee for recommending this year's ODK project. Other members of the committee will be two independents, appointed with the assistance of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women, and a faculty member not a member of ODK, chosen by ODK.

A member of ODK will act as moderator of the recommending committee, but he will have no vote.

Ballantine said ODK hopes to announce the project before Christmas. Last year the group put lights on intramural field.

College Standards Week

Ideal Ed, Coed Shown To University Students

By Ann O'Rourke

This past week has been College Standards Week. The Activities Committee of the Student Union Board presented this program and has devoted the whole week to informing the student what the ideal college ed and co-ed should be like.

On Monday, there was a Coke Party at the SUB to introduce the candidates for Mr. and Miss Kentucky and to get the program started. Tuesday, Miss Adrienne Stratton, Charles of the Ritz, gave a talk on personal appearance for girls called "From Tip To Toe."

On Wednesday there was a talk on "First Date—And Last." Then to conclude the program, Miss Ruth Guenther, Home Economics Instructor, spoke on "Click With the Crowd."

These talks and gatherings stressed the need for good manners, courteousness, friendliness, and an interest in other people. They gave hints on the appropriate dress for all occasions and the advantages of consulting Emily Post for any questions of etiquette that may arise.

The value of studying is very important, but it is not good to have no other interests. The ideal person knows the right combination of these qualities and will use them to his or her advantage so that he or she will be the person you would most like to be stranded under the mistletoe with.

Most of the time carelessness is the cause for the social errors people make. It is every person's responsibility to learn how to act properly in society as well as to get an education. In order to use the knowledge that you have learned, you must know how to sell yourself so that people will pay attention to what you have to say. You must gain the respect of your friends and the directors.

Young People Work On Student Center

The Wesley Foundation and Canterbury Club have begun work on a temporary student center at 561 S. Lime.

Decorating, painting, and carpentry are being done by students from both church organizations. The building, formerly storage space for the University Book Store, will contain a student lounge for group and committee meetings and offices for the directors.

English-American Understanding Advocated By Blazer Lecturer

By Nol Peers

A need for closer understanding and awareness on the part of both the English and American people toward one another was expressed by Dr. Charles S. Snyder, professor of history at Duke University, Durham, N.C., in a speech Nov. 29 in the Original theater.

Dr. Snyder recently returned from teaching in England, was the second in a series of Blazer lectures presented by the UK Departments of History and Social Sciences.

Advocating the facing of facts and realization of conflicts between the two nations, Dr. Snyder pointed out recent examples over which there has been disagreement. He referred to the British recognition of Communist China, crossing of the 38th Parallel in Korea, British purchase of grain from Communist countries, and the appointment of an American admiral over U.N. forces.

English Economy Controlled

As an example of the sharp contrast between the British and American way of life, Dr. Snyder explained that the English have lived under a controlled and restricted economy for the past 12 years.

"It has reduced the English people to a dull, drab life," he said, "and I have found them to be courageous and cheerful through it all... and, above all, honest."

England's economic status was briefly analyzed by the professor.

He explained that loss of investments abroad and casualties suffered in World War II have greatly affected the plight of the British. It is because of insufficiency of essential materials and resources that England must turn to other countries for imports and trade, he added.

"The Englishman thinks we do well in politics, but he can't see the life of him see how we do it in the way we do it," Dr. Snyder declared, turning to the subject of British and American politics.

Most of the English people know little about U.S. political operations, he continued, and they become bewildered when they try to fit American political terms to similar-sounding terms in British politics.

British Deplore Corruption

In comparing British and American attitudes toward dishonesty and corruption in higher governmental offices, he said that to the English it was deplorable and something to be done away with quietly. On the other hand, he pointed out, the American is intrigued and desires to probe into it.

In closing, Dr. Snyder emphasized Britain and America's common history and heritage. He added that both countries oppose tyranny and firmly believe in freedom, decency, integrity, and self-government.

A prevailing thought among the British during World War II was expressed by one Englishman, he concluded: "If England went down, the things for which she stood would be kept alive in America."

Students applying for jobs paying $3,825 a year must have completed a four-year or longer professional civil engineering curriculum, or have had four years of professional civil engineering experience, or show a combination of such education and experience.

College students who expect to complete the required amount of study by Sept. 30, 1952, may submit their applications.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from most first-class and second-class post offices, from Civil Service regional offices, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Miss Christmas Seal Race Ends Thursday

Kitty Comer Leads Next Candidate By Four Votes

The contest for "Miss Christmas Seal" is now in the final stages, with Kitty Comer, 643 Maxwell Court, in the lead by four votes, followed by Pat Patterson, Kappa Delta. Joy Fields, Boyd Hall, is in third place, and Ann Grillo, Alpha Gamma Delta, is in fourth place.

The other candidates, in respective positions, are Barbara Lee, Alpha Delta Pi; Beth Deen, Alpha Xi Delta; and Betty Raugh, Dillard House. Marion Greeney, Jewel Hall, and Jane Bartlette, Kappa Alpha Theta, are tied for fifth place. Jo Doris Hoover, Delta Delta Delta, and Janet Wood, Chi Omega, are tied for sixth place. The other candidates in order are: Peggy Martin, Delta Zeta; Jane Webb, Zeta Tau Alpha; Joan Martin, Kappa Kappa Gamma; and Gloria Travis, Tau Alpha Pi.

Only 37 votes separate the first and last place contestants.

One more week remains before the contest will close. Midnight, Thursday, is the closing date of the contest.

W. W. McLondon, Executive Secretary of the Lexington and Fayette County Tuberculosis Association, sponsors of the contest, in a recent statement said, "We want to make it clear that any 'Miss Christmas Seal' contestant can easily win the contest because so few votes separate the first place and last place contestants. The continued interest of the students at the University gives them the opportunity to select their choice in the contest and at the same time contribute in the fight against the dread disease, tuberculosis. Last year 1,073 Kentuckians died of tuberculosis, and of these 43 were from Fayette County.

"Because Kentucky's tuberculosis rate is so high—third in the nation—everyone should be especially generous in purchasing Christmas Seals," Mr. McLondon pointed out. "I would like to urge everyone to buy and use Christmas Seals on all their mail to let others know that you are helping to do something about Kentucky's number one communicable disease problem."

"I feel confident that the students at UK will justify the confidence held in them. Also I feel sure that a continued interest will be shown in selecting their choice for 'Miss Christmas Seal'."

All contributions should be mailed to the Lexington and Fayette County Tuberculosis Association, 190 Market Street, or given to one of the "Miss Christmas Seal" contestants.

The winner of the contest will be presented with an engraved trophy from the TB Association.

State Meet Of Engineers Held At UK

A meeting of state engineers was held here last Friday to make plans for selling greater numbers of Kentucky high school students on the advantages of engineering careers. The plan is part of a nationwide effort to ease the current serious shortage of technical manpower.

A statewide guidance committee was appointed at the meeting. Its chief duty will be to supply high school students with information concerning the engineering profession.

Dean D. V. Terrell of the College of Engineering was named to head the committee, and R. C. Barnst, dean of engineering at the University of Louisville, was named vice-chairman.

Dean Terrell said the committee's goal is to channel more qualified boys and girls into the nation's engineering schools.

The present shortage of trained engineers has educators, production chiefs, and government authorities worried, he said, and unless an increased number of engineering students can be recruited promptly, the current shortage will become more acute and might prove a definite threat to national safety.

The state has been divided into 10 districts to facilitate the information program planned by the guidance committee. District chairmen, named at the meeting, will select professional engineers from their home districts to assist in counseling high school groups.

Former College Dean Honored Last Week

Dr. Thomas Poe Cooper, dean emeritus of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics of the University of Kentucky, was honored last week for his contribution to American agriculture.

The American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, meeting at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago, presented Dr. Cooper the D. Howard Doane Award. This award is given each year for outstanding work in agriculture.

The society has approximately 700 members, including a chapter in Kentucky. Beach Cragmyle, Louisville, is president and John H. Bondurant, UK, is secretary of the Kentucky group.

J. Ed Parker Jr., Lexington, and Lawrence Bradford of the University faculty attended the Chicago meeting.

UK Orchestra Will Perform At Coliseum

The University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Edwin E. Stein, will present a concert at 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon. The program will take place in Memorial Coliseum, instead of Memorial Hall as previously announced.

The University Orchestra is composed of students, faculty members, and townspeople. Three or four concerts are presented annually by the group.

Nathaniel Patch, soloist for the concert, is a member of the UK piano department. Special guests attending the program will be the Central Kentucky Youth Orchestra. Several of its members will serve as soloists.

The program will open with "Toccata," by Frescobaldi-Kinder. Rachmaninoff's "Concerto for Piano, No. 1 in F-Sharp minor" will feature Mr. Patch as piano soloist.

The remainder of the concert will include "Hoe-Down," from the Rodeo Suite, by Copland, "Eight Russian Folk Songs," by Lislov, and Wagner's "Overture to the Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

Cartographic Jobs Open To Applicants

Examinations for cartographer and cartographer aid positions were announced this week by the U.S. Civil Service Commission. Salaries range from $2200 to $7600 a year.

Positions also are open for cartographic draftsmen, paying from $2200 to $3825 a year. Draftsmen must submit a sample of their work with their applications.

Written tests are not required, but applicants must have had from three months to eight years of experience, though education may be substituted in part.

Additional information may be obtained from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

On A 'Bathtub' Size Stage, Guignol To Give 'Oedipus'

In an area about the size of an extra large bathtub the cast of "Oedipus Rex" put on their dress rehearsal this week of the first attempt at arena staging at UK.

Unlike ordinary theatrical stages, the sunken playing space is almost completely surrounded by 100 audience seats. The players enter and leave from one end of the circle.

You would think that nobody could produce much of a play in such limited space, wouldn't you? Your reporter thought so too, until the action began.

Depending mostly upon the acting ability of the cast, the play moves along unhampered by the small stage. The players give you the idea that they don't need any more room for the performance.

The fact that "Oedipus Rex" (Oedipus the King) was written in ancient Greece made this reporter a little doubtful about whether or not the average student could understand it. It was surprising to find the cast speaking plain English and doing it slowly enough so that every word is clear. The plot is as easy to follow as that of any modern play. If you ignore all the proper names except the ones pertinent to action, you will find that the whole thing is amazingly clear.

The only prop used in the entire play is a large altar with an incense bowl on top. The smoke arising from it is caused by electrical coils. All the characters wear different styles of academic gowns except Ann Handstone, as Queen Jocasta, who dresses really in a gray robe with a long purple scarf held in place by two large rhinestone brooches. It is these same brooches that King Oedipus uses to prick out his eyes (backstage, of course), and when he stumbles blindfolded back on stage, all he needs is a little

WHAT'S SO DIFFERENT ABOUT ENGLEWOOD, N. J.?

In Englewood, the local telephone exchange looks pretty much like the telephone building in any other town.

And Englewood's telephones seem just the same as the twenty-seven million other dial telephones in the country.

But there's a difference . . .

You can pick up a telephone in Englewood and dial San Francisco telephone numbers direct!

In fact, you can dial any one of eleven million telephone numbers in thirteen widely scattered areas from coast to coast.

That's what makes Englewood different — the new kind of Long Distance telephone service on trial there by the Bell System. Long Distance dialing is another example of the Bell System's constant search for ways to provide you with ever-better telephone service.

Kernel Finds Smith's Estimate Too High

Editor Bill Mansfield attempted to obtain the resolutions from Smith early Tuesday evening in order to make the count. Smith refused to give them up when Mansfield said he intended to publish a count. Mansfield did obtain a sample number of the resolutions however.

Later Tuesday evening, Mansfield called Smith to ask him again for the resolutions. He also told Smith that the assembly had offered no objections to the Kernel making a count. Smith again refused to give them up and said he had talked to members of the assembly who said they were opposed to such a count.

He refused to disclose the names of the members he talked to. It was at this time that he made the allegation concerning the "political motives of the Kernel."

Smith claimed the Kernel wanted the count merely to further the political aspirations of Co. 1. Mansfield stated that Cordell's candidacy had nothing to do with the Kernel and that Cordell was not being backed by the Kernel. Smith persisted in his belief.

Cordell Offered To Withdraw

Cordell then offered to withdraw his candidacy if Smith would release the resolutions, although he also claimed that the Kernel was not backing his campaign.

Smith replied that such an action would merely increase his suspicions and again refused to give up the resolutions.

Later Tuesday night the Kernel contacted Henry Neel, president of the United States Party, and informed him of the situation. Neel said that since Smith had not been at the meeting, perhaps he was merely being cautious about releasing the resolutions. He said he would call Smith and talk to him about the matter and inform him, as a member of SGA, that the group had agreed to let the Kernel check the resolutions.

At 12:30 a.m., Neel called the Kernel and said that Smith had officially said he would permit a count. Smith was also quoted by Neel as saying that the Kernel and himself had had a misunderstanding about the whole affair.

Smith Turned Over Some Resolutions

Despite Smith's altered position,

Cordell withdrew his candidacy. Cordell stated, "Although the Kernel had no part in my candidacy, I would rather withdraw than leave any doubts in anyone's mind as to the integrity of the paper."

Wednesday morning Smith turned over a bundle of resolutions to the Kernel. He said that they (the bundle) represented all the resolutions he had, but that other SGA members might have some. He also said the Dean of Men's office probably had received some resolutions. At this time, Smith apologized to Mansfield for the allegations he had made the previous evening. He explained that he had been awakened from a sound sleep and was rather irritated at being called to the phone.

During the SGA meeting Monday night, it was explained by Dean A. D. Kirwan how the original estimate had been derived. Dean Kirwan said he got his information on the estimate from Paul Crowder, public relations news editor.

Kirwan Explains Estimate

Dean Kirwan said the estimate was made by taking a few sample resolutions and averaging the number of signatures on the samples. Then the total number of resolutions was counted and that figure was multiplied by the average per page found on the sample.

As the Kernel goes to press, neither Dean Kirwan nor anyone else has stated who made the estimate.

The Kernel count was made on an adding machine by members of the Kernel editorial staff. Each sheet of the resolutions was checked individually for false names. The sheets were each checked twice by different people and their results compared to ensure strict accuracy.

The Kernel carefully investigated all the known sources to obtain as many of the resolutions as possible. Those contacted were Bob Smith, president of SGA; Dean A. D. Kirwan; Paul Crowder, public relations news editor; and every member of the SGA assembly.

realms of possible achievements of the SGA.

"The Constitutionalists at first considered advocating revision of the SGA constitution, but after careful consideration it is our opinion that the constitution is adequate if not used properly in the past by SGA."

Discussing several of the points of the Constitutionalists platform, Richardson explained the party viewpoint on each.

Favor Residence Inspection

"We favor inspection and approval of student off-campus residences because of several complaints," Richardson stated. "Students have been directed by the Dean's office to use safe, unsanitary, or uncomfortable residences."

"In advocating higher student wages, we realize U.K.'s employment wage rates are not illegal, but we also realize they are far below wages paid by other businesses or industries. If it is in the province of the budget, wages should be raised."

The case to be tried in the national series, sponsored by the New York City Bar Association, has been argued throughout the 1951 series. It involves the right of a witness to refuse to testify before a Congressional investigating committee when the refusal is based on objection to television and radio broadcasting of the hearings. Law teams must be prepared to argue either side of the mock case.

Judges in the regional finals were George R. Elliott, chief justice of the Missouri Supreme Court; William A. Smith, justice of the Kansas Supreme Court; and C. B. Leitner, judge on the Kansas State Court of Appeals.

The UK team reached the semifinals by defeating two representatives from Lincoln University Law School of St. Louis, Vanderbilt University of Nashville, and Washington University of St. Louis, and St. Louis University.

Tickets For Wives Are Now Available At Ticket Windows

Ticket manager Harvey Hodges announced that tickets will be available for wives for basketball games today at the Coliseum ticket windows.

The same procedure will be followed which has been in effect each semester. The student must get a card from the personnel office and present it at the ticket window. Price of tickets for the remainder of the semester is six dollars.

Athletic Director Bernie Shively said children of students will be admitted for one dollar. These tickets may be purchased at the Coliseum at regular ticket hours or at the windows prior to games.

The filling of orders for Cotton Bowl tickets is just beginning and Hodges estimated that between 400 and 500 student tickets have been sold. Shively said he believes the entire 10,000 tickets allotted the University will be sold before the closing of the sale Dec. 16.

Cotton Bowl tickets are priced at $4.80, plus a forty-cent handling charge.

Three Cats In Senior Bowl; Babe Prefers Pro Football

By Ralph Byron

Quarterback Vito Parilli, center Doug Moseley and tackle-guard Jim MacKenzie have accepted bids to play in the 1952 Senior Bowl game at Mobile, Alabama on January 5.

The Senior Bowl's first selected players will leave immediately after the Cats' engagement with TCU in the Cotton Bowl to begin practice with 22 other seniors who will comprise the remainder of the South squad. An additional 25 squadmen will be picked to represent the North.

Making their professional debut in the Senior Bowl will mean the loss of "Babe" and "Mose" for the coming baseball season since each player on the winning team will take home $500, and each member of the losing squad will receive $400.

"Babe" stated he didn't mind missing the baseball season too much because he will have plenty of time to catch up on his studies and get a B.A. degree in physical education a year from January. "Babe" said he definitely intends to continue his school work until he has worked 12 or 14 hours that will be remaining after the spring semester.

Parilli has been contacted by baseball scouts in the past but believes he would rather play professional football after graduation. Parilli came to Kentucky as a hot baseball prospect and was a standout on the 1949 squad.

Moseley is a fine third baseman and catcher on the same squad as in New York at the present time, receiving an award for making Grantland Rice's Look All-American team. All Southeastern Conference tackle.

Cats Ahead In Statistics Despite A 7-4 Record

The Wildcats football team wound up its regular season play with a 7-4 record, but did no better than break even in Conference play with a win and lost record of 3-3.

The four games the Cats lost this year mark the first time a Bryant-coached Kentucky team has lost more than three games in one season.

In the statistical department, however, UK had a big lead over its combined opponent. The Cats made 183 first downs to 106 made by the foe, and gained a total of 3,923 yards to 2,294 made by their combined opposition. Of this total, UK gained 1717 via air and 2211 by rushing. All-American Babe Parilli did most of the passing while making 239 attempts and completing 136 for a total of 1643 yards and 19 touchdowns for a percentage of 58.8.

Parilli, in his career at UK, broke many all-time national records which were previously held by such stars as Baugh, Baugh, Ford and Heart. The records surpassed by his kicking of extra points along with one field goal.

Steve Mellinger, who was the team's pass catching ace, was second in the scoring department with 49 points. Mellinger, sophomore end, caught 38 passes for a total of 515 yards and 8 TD's.

The most touchdown passes in a three year period, Parilli passed for 50 in his three years of varsity ball at UK to better the old record set by Ford of Hardin-Simmons, who had 48 over a four year period.

Bill Leskovar Set To Play Fourth Post-Season Game

By Ralph Byron

When "Bullet Bill" Leskovar trots onto the Cotton Bowl field at Dallas, Texas on January 11, he will be participating in his fourth post-season game. Hitting his stride on the comeback trail after a bad injury in the Mississippi game of 1950 and re-injured in last year's Tennessee scuffle contest, Bill could be setting some sort of record with his Dallas performance.

Now Kentucky's power driving fullback is to have his fourth and final fling at the post season game before possibly entering the professional ranks. Leskovar will be running against the ever-tough Texas Christian University "Horned Pops" in the Cotton Bowl. It would seem that Bryant and Leskovar have made the cycle; Great Lakes, Orange, Sugar and now Cotton.

Basketball Team Opens Tomorrow Against W. And L.

'E' Team To Play Fort Knox At 6 In Preliminary Tilt

By Earl Cox

Mighty Kentucky, collegiate basketball kings last season and the choice of the experts to repeat this year even though its most valuable player may not see action until January opens its season tomorrow night, playing host to Washington and Lee in Memorial Coliseum at 8 o'clock.

Assistant Coach Harry Lancaster's B squad will meet a highly-rated Fort Knox club in a preliminary game at 6 o'clock.

Next week the Wildcats travel to Cincinnati for a game with Xavier University on Monday and then Thursday the Ruppmen will be in Minneapolis to do battle with the University of Minnesota.

Rupp In Twentieth Year
Coach Adolph Rupp, whose record over the past 21 years at Kentucky establishes him as retiring coach in the entire world, optimistically awaits the time for the first ball to be thrown up. Rupp, who can look back over a two-decade regime of unparalleled success — an amazing record of 442 wins against only 79 losses, has a club this year that is loaded with stars.

Back intact are the top seven players who sparked the Wildcats to the championships of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Southern Conference. There is just one thing that keeps a Man in the Brown Suit from jumping with joy — the biggest Cut of 'em all, seven-foot All-American Bill Spivey, will not be available for duty tomorrow night and possibly not until mid-January.

Spivey, who underwent an operation last month for the removal of a cartilage from his knee, is better this week, but still has water on his knee. No one knows exactly how long the big boy will be out of action, although Rupp thinks it will be until January.

Three Sophs On Squad
Carrying on without Spivey will be the Big Six, Shelby Linville,

Bobby Watson, Skippy Whitaker, Frank Ramsey, Cliff Hagan, and Lou Tsoropoulos. That terrific sextet will be backed up by three promising sophomores, Billy Evans, Gayle Rose, and Gene Neff.

Here's a rundown on the squad:
Lucian "Skippy" Whitaker... A probable regular this season. Skippy is a serious-minded student of the name who worries constantly about his shooting average. He's fast in typical style of Kentucky guards and a classy ball handler. Opponents find it's often too late to stop him, once he cuts for the basket at breakneck speed. Rupp calls him "the fastest player in the country." He picked up 101 points while playing in portions of 21 games in 1950-51. He hails from Louisville by way of Saratoga, Fla., stands six feet even, weighs 175, and is playing his third varsity campaign.

Frank Ramsey... One of the top junior cagers in America, Frank scored 345 points in 34 games last year. He averaged 10.1 points per game. He is a cinch for a starting position and will see action at both guard and forward, and possibly at center. He is just as fast as some of the smaller guards, although he measures 6-3. He specializes in driving layups. Observers say he is "just like a bull." A Kentucky high school product, Frank comes from Madisonville.

Shelby Linville... He was the second highest scorer last year with 255 points and is an excellent rebounder. He has a virtually unstopable one-handed jump shot. This should be his greatest year. A senior, he stands 6-5, weighs 210 and plays both forward and center.

Bobby Watson... A perfect testimony to the axiom of the basketball coaching fraternity that "a little man has to be twice as good as the good big man," Bobby is diminutive but dangerous. He is shy off court but once on the hardwood he's a demon. His specialty is deadly long shot. He was the third high scorer last year behind Spivey and Linville. He's 5-10, weighs 175, and comes from Owensboro.

Cliff Hagan... Potentially Cliff is one of the greatest prospects ever to don a Kentucky uniform. He was one of the most sought-after school-boy cagers in the country before he made up his mind to come here. He climaxed a stellar prep career by scoring a record 41 points in 1949 state championship finals between Owensboro and Lafayette. He plays either forward or center and is a terrific shot and good floor man.

Lou Tsoropoulos... Lou is an extremely well-coordinated, agile ball player. He's fast and rugged, and should be giving a hard time to both his teammates (for a starting position) and the opposition (in trying to stop him). He has been looking great in practice. Lou was an All-

American high school football star at Lynn (Mass.) High School, as well as a cage standout. He scored 97 points in 27 games last year. Lou is 22, stands 6-3, and weighs 195.

Gayle Rose... He is an outstanding sophomore guard prospect. He has a terrific one-handed jump shot.

An excellent dribbler, Gayle will have the job of freeing the ball if the Cats ever have to rely on such tactics. An all-state in high school, he played under his brother Jimmy Rose at Paris... He's 6' even, weighs 170, and is 15.

Bill Evans... Kentucky took a chance on this unheralded sophomore guard and forward to come through and so far he has passed with flying colors. He possesses excellent co-ordination. He played high school ball for Berea Foundation. He's 6-1, weighs 180, and is 18.

Gene Neff... Neff is one of the best all-around athletes on the squad. Although he hasn't looked too good in practice, Neff is expected to snap out of it. He's 6-2, weighs 195, is 19, and from Eaton, Ohio.

Willie Rouse... Another sophomore who has been somewhat of a disappointment in pre-season practice. He attended University High School. He plays guard, is 6' even, weighs 170, and is 18.

George Cooke... Probably to be the only frosh to dress with varsity, this has a habit of getting into the thick of things early. He played in state tournaments while still in grade school. He is a flashy guard from Maysville, where he played on the state championship team under one of Kentucky's top prep coaches, Earle Jones. He has a good eye and his best shot is a left handed hook. He's 6' even, weighs 180, and is 16.

Peek at Wildcat opponents:
Washington and Lee... The Generals are noted as a cage power, although one of their players made the Helms All-America second team last year. He is Jay Handlan who is team captain for the second consecutive season.

The team is coached by Scotty Hamilton, an All-American at West Virginia. Two soph, forward Warren Dean and center Jim Rich, and two frosh, forward Charlie Topp and guard Paul Goldsmith, join Handlan in the starting lineup. Members of the Southern Conference, the Generals won eight and lost 17 last year.

Fort Knox... This service team is loaded with stars. I-M Swimming Meet Set For Dec. 10-11; Basketball Entries Now Being Accepted

The division of Intramurals and Department of Athletics are planning an intramural swim meet on December 10 and 11, at the University pool at 8 p.m. Deadline for entries will be Dec. 7. Quarterfinals for events will begin Dec. 10, at 8 p.m., with the finals slated for 8 p.m. the following evening, as announced by Bill McCubbin, director of intramurals.

Participation will be limited to two swimming events and one diving event for each individual. Mr. McCubbin has requested that all team managers or representatives meet at 1:30 on Saturday at the basketball court in Alumni Gym. The meet will adhere to N.C.A.A. rules. The events in order will be: 100 yd. medley relay, for three man teams, 200 yd. free style, 50 yd. free style, diving from one meter board, 100 yd. free style, 100 yd. back stroke, 100 yd. breast stroke, and 200 yd. free style relay, for 4 man teams. For any additional information, either contact Mr. McCubbin at the intramural office or see the bulletin board outside his office.

In the golf doubles, Crabtree and Burkey (PDT) defeated Burke and Wagner (DTD), while in the tennis singles, Bob Wagner (P&A) against Gene Auen.

LXA Wins In Volleyball
In the volleyball semi-finals, SAE squeezed over the finish line ahead of SN by the score of 13-15, 16-14, and 18-16 in a game that Bill McCubbin called one of the finest matches he has ever seen. Ordinarily a volleyball match can be completed in thirty minutes but SN pushed SAE for a full hour and a half. In the other semi-final match, LXA overpowered TTT 3 by 12-4 and 12-14. LXA continued their mastery in the finals by taking SAE into camp, 15-8 and 15-5.

Ping pong quarter-finals will be completed by Dec. 8, with Dec. 15 the deadline for final competition. Quarter-final matches will pit Dan Wish against Bob Wagner (P&A), Frank Widener (P&A) against Ken McGee (ATO), Sid Halperon (BSB) with Jack Colson (ATO) and Bill Turpin (ATO) will meet Bud Asch (P&A).

On the football scene, Men's Dorm won the independent division with a 13-0 victory over Civil Engineers while the fraternity division was taken by SAE over ATO, 21-0. The final game for the championship will be played between the two division champs on the first clear day, Mr. McCubbin announced.

All interested parties should sign up for intramural basketball and practice periods at McCubbin's office in Alumni Gym.

Moseley Becomes Fourth UK Player To Be Selected As All-American; Track Work Of Wallace Praised

Congratulations to our All-Americans! Babe Parilli and Doug Moseley deserve any honors that have been awarded them. There isn't a back in the country who can match the overall talents of the Kentucky Babe. And there isn't a linebacker or center anywhere who drives with more power or who hits with more thunder than Mose.

Moseley becomes the fourth All-American in Kentucky history. Clyde Johnson, tackle, won a berth on the mythical teams in 1942. Big Bob Cain was rated the top in tackles both in 1949 and 1950. Parilli is a repeater from last year.

The 1951 team has had leadership with Moseley and Parilli as co-captains. You would have to look a long way to come up with two men at the same time who possess the qualities desired of captains of a team who are more capable than these two. This fact is borne out in the respect given them by squad members.

Parilli has been in the limelight for three years but Moseley has never received the publicity due him. Writers have dubbed him "dependable," "hard working," etc. but have never praised him as elaborately as he might have been. Moseley entered UK when his brother Bill was completing a successful grid career. Bill was a back (as was Doug in high school) and many believed that little brother would never reach the heights acclaimed by big brother. Doug moved into the center of the line, forgot about lugging the pigskin, and became recognized as the best center in the conference in 1950. Now, in 1951, experts finally realize Doug has no peer when it comes to plugging holes in the defense or opening holes for ball carriers.

Many people assail college football and are yelling for de-emphasis. Many say go away with the sport altogether.

But as long as there are fellows like Kentucky's co-captains engaged in college sports, the defense of college sports is good. You can't criticize them because they are All-Americans — in every way.

Accolades are in order for Jay Wallace, cross country coach-runner. Jay, you remember, is also a leading member of the track team. And that's where the story lies.

Jay is a conscientious athlete as you will find anywhere. He likes to run and he believes conditioning the prime necessity for any athlete. That is why he suggested to his team mates they form a cross country team to stay in condition the year round. That is why you have been bumping into red-faced, panting runners all over the campus since early October.

The success of the team is more than Jay expected. They have won three straight meets and placed second in the Shamrock Run at Louisville. And anyone who has ever seen a cross country meet will agree the runners will be in condition when track season begins. It's all well and good the track men are interested enough to train on their own hook. But when you note the enthusiasm shown by this group, you wonder why they aren't given more attention by the University and the student body. Indoor facilities for track training are far from adequate. When the really severe weather begins, the fellows are going to be forced to quit running, no matter how much they like it.

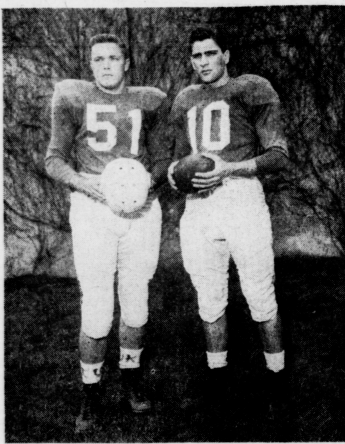

Jay and the other men are already looking forward to good weather and the opening of the track season. With the interest and determination already shown, it looks like a good year ahead.

Only 26 members of the varsity football team have been excused from practice. The rest of the varsity and the freshmen are working out daily. Coach Bryant told the practicing group the rest of the Cotton Bowl traveling squad is open and those who look best between now and departure date, Dec. 28, will make the trip.

The first line ups will resume practice Dec. 11.

There are a lot of ways to get into prison but the football team from Illinois Wesleyan University of Bloomington has a new angle. Officials of the Stone Bowl reported they received an inquiry from the Illinois school about a possible bowl bid. The opponents in that bowl, however, have already been selected. Each year two teams composed of inmates from the Washington state prison at Walla Walla play each other.

Looks like the boys from Bloomington will have to go to other lengths to play in a bowl — maybe like committing a crime.

Doug Moseley and Babe Parilli All-Americans

Moseley And Parilli Named All-American

By Larry Meyer

Well, the experts have come out and appointed positions to the various pigskin stars over the country who are deemed deserving of the honors. The All American teams this year pretty true to form with a few variations naturally being set forth.

Kentucky has been well represented on the honor squads by Babe Parilli and Doug Moseley. Babe was named to the United Press squad (first team) and Moseley to the third.

The experts on the staff of Look Magazine didn't quite see it that way as they put Moseley on their first team and Babe on the second, with Larry Ibehl of Baylor on the first. The strange motivation behind that move is hard for some arm-chair experts to see. Babe out passed and out played him all year. The possible explanation is that in picking a quarterback they might have wanted one from a winning team (Baylor having an 8-1 record for the season).

The Newspaper Enterprises Association elected Parilli to its annual honor roll. Another tidbit among the selections was the placing of Parilli on the defensive squad by International News Service.

Sporting News entertains the names of Parilli on the first team and Moseley on the second; in this case Babe beat Ibehl out by a large margin.

Honorable mention on the UP squad was accorded Steve Mellinger, Bob Fry, Gene Donaldson, John Isenhardt and Frank Fuller.

Moseley, Parilli, Donaldson, and Mellinger were given berths on the Associated Press All SEC squad with Jim MacKenzie garnering a spot on the second offensive team.

The Gridiron Record saw fit to honor Babe with membership on their first team.

The rundown on the picks is: The Quarterback All American Babe Parilli — Kentucky B

Parilli Named Most Valuable In Conference

Well, the Babe (Parilli) has gained some more honors.

In gaining the title of the "Most Valuable Player in the Southeastern Conference," Babe made it for the second time in three years. As a sophomore in '49, he was beaten out for the title by Auburn's great Travis Tidwell but last year he finally caught on with the coaches, sports writers and announcers to take the honor in a run away.

With the results out this year, he is again the unanimous choice of the people who know. Irony comes into the situation in the fact that Babe beat out an old rival, Mr. Lauricella of Tennessee, by 20 unit votes, a good sized margin.

In third place was a boy who caused Tennessee a great deal of trouble in the annual grudge battle with Vanderbilt's Bill Wade.

Still more awards, Babe placed third in the Heisman Award, given annually by the New York Downtown Athletic Club to the outstanding college player of the year. In this race, Babe was topped only by Dick Kazmaier, the Princeton Flash, and Mr. Lauricella of UT.

These awards, combined with other honors, gained this year and in past years, make Babe Parilli one of—if not the most—the most honored athletes in the history of UK's athletic history.

Cotton Bowl Game Is Rated Toss Up On A Record Basis

Only Common Foe, Texas, Has Beaten Both Participants

By Rowland Kraps

Possibly the worst cumulative worst record in Cotton Bowl history will be brought together New Year's Day when Kentucky's Big Blue takes on the Southwest Conference champion, Texas Christian University of Fort Worth.

The won-lost record of the Cats doesn't look so bad, however, when compared to the teams played and the points lost. In the Cats early three-game losing streak, the biggest margin of victory was one TD to Georgia Tech 13-7. Earlier the Cats had dropped a 7-6 decision to Texas and an upset loss to Ole Miss 21-17.

The worst black eye of the season came on the grand finale for the Cats when they were outclassed by the hard blocking steam roller of the General from Tennessee.

But with these four losses, the Cats still gained national recognition and did something that few teams with a 7-4 record ever achieve and that is to produce two All-Americans and a major bowl bid.

Parilli was tabbed on the top list of the UP Sporting News Grid Iron Record, and I.N.S., and Doug Moseley landing the coveted center on Look's All-American selection.

TCU Has 6-4 Record

TCU, while having no All-Americans and sporting a 6-4 record, are expected to make a battle of it for the full 60 minutes. With wins over such opponents as Baylor, SMU,

Southern California, and Texas A. & M., the Horned Toads have furnished warning that they are no pushover.

TCU's main threat is its spread formation which is one of the hardest formations to stop. In a formation of this type, the TCU's offense spreads out any place they wish and their backs everywhere so as to befuddle the opposition, or they may have an end and back over to the right who may receive a pass. Every play calls for a varied defense.

The Cats utilize the spread formation but not as elaborately as the Horned Toads.

Has Good Passing Attack

With a spread of this type, a pass is nearly inevitable. In riding over SMU 13-2 last Saturday and sewing up their berth in the Cotton Bowl, the Horned Toads used up both their TD's on passes.

Ray McKown, the gifted quarterback, set up the first by hitting Bobby Floyd on the 12. Two plays later, Floyd bucked over for the first score. Later Oil Barosh set up the best TCU tally on a pass.

Perhaps the outstanding thing about the Texas Christian team is their line. While unheralded in most of the games, the TCU line has risen up on many occasions to stop would-be scoring threats and have furnished their passers with beautiful protection.

With Kentucky sporting one of the better lines in the Southeast conference, the battling of heads of these two lines may well decide the final outcome.

Only Common Foe

The only common opponent, Texas, holds victories over both Kentucky and TCU. The Longhorns copped a 28-21 win over the Horned Toads and won out over the Cats by virtue of a mis-fired conversion, 7-6.

From this, it would seem that the Cats stand a good chance of upending the Horned Toads. But then, Vandy was not supposed to make a showing against Tennessee.

If Kentucky topples TCU, they will have done something that many coaches dream of and that is playing in three major bowl games in as many years and winning two of them.

Come the breaking dawn of 1952, approximately 75,000 fans will be at the Cotton Bowl with many other thousands around their radios waiting for the first play of the national anthem, then the rebel yell to see if the Cats can prove to all that they have one of the best teams in the nation.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

M.E.'s AT DU PONT [3]

Plant engineering and production supervision offer interesting careers for science graduates

In the past two issues of the Digest you've read of the broad opportunities that are offered mechanical engineers in research and development work at Du Pont.

This month let's look at opportunities for men interested in any of the branches of plant engineering—such as maintenance, power, design and construction—or in production supervision.

Efficient maintenance is an important cost factor in the continuous processes of a modern chemical industry. The M.E. is called upon to diagnose troubles, work out corrective measures, and supervise repairs.

Frequently he increases production by developing preventive maintenance measures. So vital is this work that in one division of the Company, 500 men of all crafts, along with a routine maintenance group, spend almost all their time on it.

Production supervision attracts many mechanical engineers. Men who have the ability and interest usually move into it by one or two routes; they acquire background on all stages of a plant's operations by helping design the plant, or by operating on the job.

OVERHAUL on polythene area injection pump six-hour job for three men. Work must be scheduled for minimum disruption of output.

MAINTENANCE TEAM making a speedy change of a mechanical valve to minimize production loss.

Sometimes students of mechanical engineering feel that in a chemical company they will be overshadowed by chemical personnel. This is not the case at Du Pont. Here, hundreds of administrators and supervisors, up to the rank of vice-president, started as M.E.'s.

Opportunities for men and women with any type of training are described in 40-page brochure "The Du Pont Company and the College Graduate." For your free copy, address 2221 Nemours Bldg., Wilmington, Del.

IN design and construction of chemical plants, mechanical engineering again is of major importance because of the wide variety of plants built and intricacy of their equipment. Engineers collect basic data, design and select equipment. They also supervise many steps of construction until the plant is operating.
