Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Jesse H. Jones of Houston, Texas, and accepted by the executive committee of the University Board of Trustees.

Recipients will be chosen under the direction of the University. The funds will be available at the rate of $500 a year for ten years, with not more than $500 to be used by any one student during a single college year.

Hoover Endowment Inc. through which the gift was obtained, announced that the agricultural scholarship will be known as the "Jesse H. Jones Agricultural Scholarship" and the home economics students as "Mary Gibbs Jones Scholarships."

Meet The Deadline

When a member of the Kernel staff comes down to the news room Friday morning he is often met by an irate student who waves a Kernel in his face and shouts, "Why didn't my item get into the paper?" The usual and many times repeated reply is, "It came in after the deadline and the paper was already filled."

To understand the reasons for deadlines you first have to take into consideration the problems which we have to deal.

The Kernel is one of many jobs which have to be completed weekly in the composing room. There are not enough linotype machines or operators to set all the Kernel copy Thursday and for that reason deadlines of Saturday noon, 4 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday noon, and Thursday noon have been set for Kernel reporters so that news may flow in smoothly and evenly and may be set at a steady pace.

Our deadline for the average run of news which is brought in or phoned in directly to the Kernel is 12 o'clock noon Wednesday; Thursday noon is the absolute deadline for last minute news of major importance. With the amount of advertising conflict with the news made weekly by over 7000 students, the faculty, the staff, and the administration, it is impossible to print all the news regardless of when it is turned in to the Kernel news room.

Observing the deadline then, is no guarantee that your item will find its way into the paper since space is scarce and other news may be of more importance. If the deadline is not met, you may be certain that your article will be held over until the following issue.

Faulty Auto Habits Spell Road Disaster For Student Drivers

Drivers of high-school age have the country's worst driving record. Drivers of college age are not much better. Between the two groups, a fatality record three times worse than that of all other age levels has been recorded.

In cooperation with the National Safety Council and the AAA, Varsity—the young man's magazine—is now campaigning for school driving programs.

Meanwhile it's up to the individual driver. Check your knowledge on this quiz, condensed from the November issue of Varsity.

1—The first motion in starting a car is to slip on the ignition.

False. The first move of every professional is to make sure the car is in neutral. The compulsive leap of the car that is accidentally started while in gear is the greatest pedestrian hazard.

2—Most highway accidents occur on curves. You should use your brake from the moment you hit a curve until you straighten out again.

False. The proper way to take a curve is to slow down before you swing into it and accelerate after you have passed the center. Don't coast—you lose control when you do. Grip the wheel firmly, for even the heaviest car will try to sway into the next lane. On sharp curves, shimmy your front wheels a little; this will keep wheels in alignment.

3—If a driver finds himself going so fast on a curve that he can't hold the road, he should take his foot off the gas and hit the brakes.

False. Keep feeding gas. You need traction to keep from skidding. Apply the brakes slightly with your left foot—don't try to stop just keep on the road.

4—When passing another car on a two-lane highway, always get as close behind him as possible before turning out.

False. The correct plan is to drop well back of the car in front of you. This gives you a better view of the road ahead and a chance to pick up passing speed while still in the right-hand lane.

5—When passing in the fast lane, you should pass on the right rather than swing over illegally, into the fast lane, on the on-coming traffic.

False. Both moves are illegal. Blow your horn until the car ahead pulls into the slow lane and allows you to pass.

King Honor Guest At Farm Luncheon

David Earl King, a freshman and dairy science major in the University College of Agriculture and Home Economics, was an honor guest at the annual farm awards luncheon of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, held at the Louisville Times and WHAS.

The 1947 4-H Club Champion in agriculture, King was presented a gold watch by Mark E. Ridge, publisher of the newspapers and vice-president of WHAS.

The 1947 4-H Club in Verona two years ago and has been its only leader. He has exhibited a total of 131 state, county and county projects. Among his major awards in addition to the 1947 State Championship are 25 district and county prizes. Sixty-six of his projects were valued or sold at $18,813.

A department survey has completed more projects already than most farmers even attempt in a lifetime, said his county agent, William K. Davis.

More Roads Built In Kentucky In '47

The Kentucky Highway Department's postwar road building program is now well advanced. During 1947 when an estimated $23,000,000 worth of contracts were let for improvement and construction of state highways.

A department survey indicated in late letters for 1947 would exceed by some $5,000,000 the record figure of $18,188,000 established in 1946.

Construction and improvement projects placed under contract last year covered approximately 2050 miles, compared with 1890 for the previous year, the report indicated.

In addition, the department completed or began construction of many new bridges the total cost of which was approximately $3,000,000.

STICK O' TYPE

Well, the winter necking season has swung into high and the only quotation they ever taught me in English that I remember comes to mind now.

"O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us
 To see ourselves as others see us!"

The lovin' croon is gone from under the warm, soft shade of last summer's green leaves. They're retreated to loads of places behind the Union, of course, but I continue my observations to it since that's where those of us who major in campology spend most of our time.

These characters, that's what they are, but also people in general, divide themselves into several classifications:

1. The SEAWEE—Usually found in clumps attached to a large cactus. The more the weather. When the character on the bottom of the heap wants to move it grows and the whole thing turns over so that everybody sits at a 45 degree angle. This is known as KAPPA at its best.

2. The BARACADE—Sits in one of the hard little chairs for hours at a time reading a magazine or newspaper. You think it is asleep, it rears its legs and when you're positive it has passed out it lights another cigarette.

3. The TURTLEDOVE—Found in pairs surrounded by each other's arms and a sticky atmosphere. Most often found in broad daylight. These specimens aren't as dumb as they look; it takes so much less energy to sit down and neck than to shuffle around a dance floor for an excruciating time to do so.

4. The STARGAZER—This is my type. Sits for hours in the most comfortable chair available, gazing at the ceiling. Props for this act include a book open on the lap.

5. The FROM-TROTTER—Makes a circuit from the front door to the music room to the lounge to the front door again about once every seven minutes. Usually female, though a male is occasionally seen going through this little routine.

These are the chief classifications, although it does not include such lower forms of animal life as the SLEEPER, the GRILL, the HOUND, and the CAFFETERIA-ALINE CRABSTER. To include descriptions of these would only be to raise the quota of persons who come to me and say: "Hey, I wish you'd quit talking about me in that fool column of yours."

Dr. McFarlan Discusses Conservation

"The soil is Kentucky's most important natural resource," was the keynote expression of Dr. Arthur C. McFarlan, head of the Geology Department in presenting a report on Kentucky's natural resources to member organizations of the Committee for Kentucky at a recent meeting in Louisville.

"Although Kentucky is primarily an agricultural state, the value of our raw mineral products is 40% to 50% of the state's total agricultural products," the report continues. These mineral products are in the main, coal, to which Kentucky ranks 4th in the nation, petroleum and natural gas. Fluorapat and clay are other important mineral resources of a sedimentary nature which could be developed extensively to raise the level of state income.

Electric Power
 Water resources as a source of transportation, electric power, domestic and industrial supply, and as a means of sewage disposal, were also discussed in the report, which is a product of the cooperative effort of a number of experts in the field. Serving with Dr. McFarlan, who heads the Committee on Natural Resources for the production of the Committee for Kentucky report, were: Lyle B. Dawson, Head, Department of Chemistry; Charles S. Crouse, Department of Metallurgy; Daniel K. Hamilton, Department of Geology; Perry E. Karkner, Professor of Soil; William S. Ligon, Associate Professor of Soil; J. R. Schweendeman, Head, Department of Geography, all of the University of Kentucky; and Earl Wallace, Director, Division of Game and Fish and Harold E. Newland, Director, Division of Forestry for the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The committee's report pointed out that there is a serious depletion in the forested areas of the state. In its plan of action, presented by Mr. Harold Browning, Commissioner of Conservation of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, it was recommended that more attention be given to conservation and reforestation.

Wasteland
 There are about one and a half million acres of wasteland, suitable for tree growth in the state which could be developed into forested areas. Only 650,140 acres are government owned. This means that more than 11 million acres of forested areas in the state are outside the protection and management which is devoted to government-owned forested lands.

In the care and improvement of the state's most important natural resource, soil, the report carries an SOS—"Save Our Soil" message. It recommends use of land according to its capability, increase of soil fertility, conservation of moisture and run-off water, good pastures, drainage of wet lands to return them to productivity, maintenance of an adequate livestock water supply, and use of good farm woodland management.

USAF Offers Opportunities For Training

Pilot training and non-rated officer candidate opportunities now being offered to civilians by the United States Air Force will be described by USAF officers at a meeting to be held at SUB on Jan. 19, 20, and 21.

Lieut.-Col. Joseph Pacht, who is in charge of the USAF program in the 11th Air Force area, said that anyone desiring to sign up for Aviation Cadet Training or for Officer Candidate Training would be able to determine at once whether or not they could qualify. He said that the simplified procedure recently adopted by the USAF authorizes the traveling teams to give all the qualifying tests required for the courses except the final physical examination.

Admission standards are high. Col. Pacht said. Only unmarried male citizens between the ages of 20 to 28½ years who have had two or more years of college are eligible.

Training leading to an Air Force Reserve commission for non-flying duties is open to high school graduates of sound physique and health who are between 20½ and 28 years of age at the time of enrollment.

UK Students Go Modern, Fly Home For Vacations

University students straightened up and flew right home for the Christmas vacation. Approximately five students were on each flight out of Lexington, Dec. 15th through the 15th when more students booked reservations on planes this year than any previous Christmas vacation.

Lexington's improved air facilities are the reason for the increase according to Gladys Well of a local travel bureau.

Santhine And Snow Many people flew south for winter vacation. Daytona Beach was the destination of Annette Marshall while Caroline Lee flew to Sanford, Florida in 12 hours. Others returned to homes in Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina.

Federal Aid's Effect On Education Good, States Dean White

Federal aid to education on all levels is likely to have a beneficial effect upon the type of student enrolling in the nation's colleges by eliminating the type of students who seem to attend college at present because they lack something else to do.

Dr. M. M. White, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, forecast Monday in an address before the American Conference of Academic Deans in Cincinnati before the American Conference of Academic Deans.

According to the Dean, governmental grants-in-aid to schools may tend to establish institutes patterned after those created in New York and increase the probability that "the student coming to our colleges will do better work, not only because he is more adequately prepared, but also because he wants the kind of educational opportunity the colleges offer."

Selection Method Selection of college students "on the basis of the economic wealth of the parents also is likely to be eliminated," and federal aid should at least halt the forward march of "tuition," he added.

Forecast of the effect of federal aid on the educational policies of colleges, Dean White declared that it is inevitable that in general more planning on the part of the school is the question. "More extensive planning in terms of future needs, especially with reference to personnel is long overdue and the need for it is likely to become acute with any substantial federal aid."

"Federal aid will doubtless increase the use of the criterion of economic wealth in the evaluation of school programs and could without much effort increase the likelihood of schools becoming interpreters of acceptable state beliefs."

Insurance Deadline Extended For Vets Veterans Administration Thursday reminds veterans that the deadline for reinstatement of lapsed GI insurance now is July 31, 1948. The period was extended from Dec. 31, 1947.

The extension gives veterans additional time to reinstate lapsed insurance without necessarily taking a physical examination.

To reinstate prior to July 31, 1948, a veteran generally needs only to certify that his health is as good as it was on date of lapse and pay two monthly premiums.

Foreign Languages Beneficial To All, According To Skiles

The foreign language teacher should take his place alongside the scientific student and the scientist in the councils and activities of the community since he has the "human viewpoint" too often lacking in the statistical approach of the social studies and in the materialistic approach of science," in the opinion of Dr. Jonah W. D. Skiles, head of the University Ancient Language department.

Dr. Skiles declares that "if classical languages are a valid instrument in education for modern life, then they are valid for the masses who need a humane and cosmopolitan outlook. Language and literature are definitely the key to this outlook."

No teacher of high school Latin or other languages should discourage the weaker students from entering a language class. With the present diffuse and unintegrated education we have in America, the only safe procedure is to assume that the student has no previous knowledge of anything and to be most fervently thankful if and when he shows that he does have some previously acquired facts, skills, and attitudes that will prove helpful in what we are going to teach."

A small city in itself, the University of Kentucky has its own theater, bookstore, library, postoffice, newspaper, radio station, hospital, and police force.

Why I'm an Air Force Pilot

"I guess it began when I was just a kid, making non-stop flights around the dining-room table. Later on, the town got an airport. I got to know every plane, right down to the smallest bolts and screws.

"During the war I took off with the Aviation Cadets. The folks were all for it. They figured—correctly—that it was the best way to get me into the air where I belonged.

"I made it all right. Trained in the best planes the Air Force has, and now I'm heading for transition work in jets. The pay? Now that I'm a pilot, $336 a month, plus $500 for each year of active duty. And there's plenty of room for promotions.

"But that's not the real point. Some men belong in the air. They were born wanting wings—with the action, the pride, the freedom that go with them. There's no better way to have all that, along with the world's finest flying training, than to join the Aviation Cadets. And the future—in civilian aviation or in the Air Force—is as wide open as the horizon. If you want the fast-moving life, why not drop around to the Recruiting Station in your community or the nearest Air Force installation."

Ralph Beard, 20-year-old Wildcat guard, was recently selected as the top basketball player in collegiate ranks for 1947, by a committee of 11 famous sports experts. In the voting, the unanimous Leonard and easily won over Sid Tanebaum of NYU for top honors by a margin of 9 to 2. The judges included Red Barber (CBS), Grantland Rice (AP), Arch Ward (Chicago Tribune), Fred Russell (Nashville Banner), Harry Wimmer (APC) and Bill Stern (NBC).

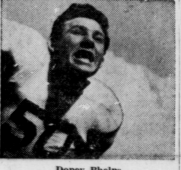

As a result, the Falls City Flash will receive another wrist watch (an Elgin) to add to his collection. Incidentally, during the time Beard has been here, the Kentucky Kats have won 75, while losing only six games. The Lexington Lyons-men have had a 37-4 record while Alex Groza was in the lineup, and a 63 won-nine lost mark for Captain Ken Rollins.

The University of Georgia's first-string center this season has been 215-pound Larry McLean, a lanky lad from West Liberty, Ky., who has become a favorite with Bulldog rooters. After the Athens aggression won their first game in a row, McLean decided to grow a beard, until they were beaten. However Coach Benjamin Jordan, faced the idea, but has allowed the freshman center to grow a moustache as long as the Georgia basketball team continues to play winning ball. The surprising news have now captured their first 10 contests in this season.

McLean was a former star at the Fort McPherson (Ga.) basketball team. He isn't as flashy as Bob Henley or Joe Jordan, but is a good team player, and gets more than his share of rebounds for the Georgia squad.

Georgia Tech's head football coach, Bobby Dodd, a former Tennessee star, got what he wanted for Christmas when Darrell Crawford signed a football grant-in-aid contract with Tech on December 20. Crawford, a T-quarterback for the Kingsport, Tenn. High, was one of the most outstanding football players of the 1947 season. Looks like Tech will be going to big bowls for some time to come.

Introducing... Ralph Beard, All-American

By Stan Schell

Ralph Beard, the colorful, sun-cheating, All-American, and twice all-conference Wildcat guard, has just been made the recipient of another honor. Sport Magazine named him "player of the year" for 1947. The little demon really deserves this honor. Since 1946 he has played in 80 of 81 games, missing only the Xavier tussle this year because of an injury.

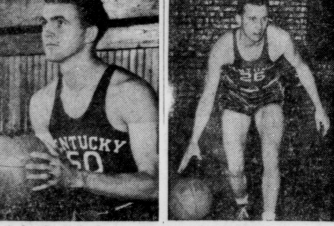

In those 80 games, Ralph has scored 811 points. Last year he was second highest scorer, with 392 markers to his credit, one less than Alex Groza. So far this season he has 140 markers. The 66-17 season saw the Louisville Lightbeater selected for at least a half dozen All-America fives, including that of the Holm's Foundation, one of the most important basketball authorities in the country.

At the same time the New York sportswriters voted Beard the most valuable player to appear in Madison Square Garden last year. Ralph was also the boy who scored the free throw which won the National Invitation Tournament in 1946 over Rhode Island, 46-45.

The twenty-year-old junior is a fiery, but cool and determined, but calm hooper. When the score gets close and the going rough, Beard's apparent unconcern is a marvel to the fans.

This is Ralph's third year on the squad, and the five-foot, ten-inch, 175-pounder has been outstanding every time he has appeared on a court.

Besides being a scoring wonder,

Wildcats Nip Mich. State; Then Romp Over Ohio U.

Kentucky's top-ranking Basketball team struck deep into the North the week-end with their twelfth and thirteenth games of the season, edging Michigan State 47-45 Saturday at East Lansing, and then outclassing Ohio University's Bobcats Monday night at Athens, 79-37. Although billed as one of the toughest games of the season, the Wildcats were comfortable pre-game favorites against Michigan State, but poor shooting form and the fact that this was the "game" as far as the Spartans were concerned, made things rather hot for the Kentucky invaders. Bob Brannum, the former All-America pivotman from Kentucky, apparently wasn't touched by compassion for his old teammates that night either, as he scored more than half his team points, 23 to be exact.

The affair was very similar to the early season Temple game, which ended with the Wildcats on the short end of a 69-50 score. In the first time Kentucky won a close one. Never more than five points separated the two teams at any time during the game. Most fans thought the Cats would get their second wind and roll on after intermission, but Brannum and his crew got their second wind also, and the game wasn't decided until the final whistle. Both teams hit less than 25 percent of their shots.

Against Ohio University on Monday night, Ralph Beard, Jim Line, Alex Groza, Wally Jones, and Company came back roaring to hand a hopeful but outclassed Bobcat quintet a 75-37 trouncing. All-American Ralph Beard and Alex Groza hit the nets for 20 and 14 points respectively, followed by Jim Line, who souped-up in 17, and Wally Jones with 10.

Despite a steady influx of second and third-stringers in the second half, the Wildcats hit nearly 40 percent of their shots and seemed to hit better as the game progressed. Sixty-eight fouls, forty-one against the Bobcats, kept the action centered around the free-throw lines most of the night.

The Kentucky victory in the Michigan State game was the eighth in the twelve game series, and their seventh straight against Ohio U., who has never beaten the Wildcats.

University group. The appropriation is considerably short of the University's request, but is substantially increased over the last appropriation. Other activities of the University have been increased.

The over-all education appropriation for 1948-49 is $6,774,925 higher than the 1947-48 outlay.

A total of $2,340,000 was requested for the Division of Colleges and a total of $1,000,000 was recommended. Other requests, budget recommendations, and the amount of reductions, if any, follow:

Members and guests of the University Faculty Club are invited to attend the club dinner for January at 6:00 o'clock. Party bridge will be played after dinner.

Robbing Effective Roland said the effectiveness of the veterans' group could be seen in that all of the representatives who spoke in favor of the bill during the closing hours of the special session of the Legislature were members of the student veterans group.

The veteran group elected Richard J. Maughan of Utah Agricultural College chairman of the National Conference of Veteran Trainees for the year.

Election plans for officers and a report from Clayton Roland on his recent trip to Washington will be the topics of discussion at a Veterans club meeting in Room 128 of the Student Union building at 7 p.m. Monday. Election of officers will probably be held in February.

Underwood Added To Football Staff

By Dudley Saunders

Clarence Underwood, newest addition to the Kentucky football coaching staff, comes to Lexington as one of the outstanding high school grid coaches of his native West Virginia. As an athlete at Marshall College, he was an outstanding football player and boxer, winning honors in both sports.

The 22-year-old former Thundering Herd athlete, in becoming the seventh member of Paul Bryant's coaching staff, joins Frank Moseley, Carney Leslie, Joe Atkinson, Mike Baltimore, Bill McCubbin, and Ernie Allen, on leave the past season to play pro ball with the Cleveland Browns, to continue the Kentucky policy of having one of the youngest college football coaching staffs in the nation.

Except for a coaching during the war, Underwood has served as head line coach at Woodrow Wilson High School in Beckley, West Virginia, since 1928. Last season, the Beckley team went undefeated in 11 straight games to share the state co-championship with Stonewall Jackson High of Charleston. Long a holder of excellent prep school gridder, West Virginia is the holder of 12 members of last season's Kentucky football squad.

Three members of his championship club at Beckley, all of whom won all-state honors, are reportedly headed for Kentucky after graduation to try their football fortunes with the Wildcats. Richard Davis, end, and "Tillie" Gallego, guard, were named on the all-state first team, and Lloyd Shukto, tackle, won second string honors. At last report, the trio was still interested in continuing their careers under Coach Underwood.

The new line coach will not be a stranger to all members of Bryant's staff, for during the recent war he and Backfield Coach Frank Moseley directed the athletic program at the Los Alamitos, Calif. Naval Base.

Underwood played guard for three years at Marshall, just across the Kentucky line at Huntington, and while there he won a berth on the Buckeye Conference honor team. He also made quite a reputation for himself among boxing circles, coaching as well as boxing on the college team. Not only did Underwood punch his way to two Buckeye Conference light-heavyweight titles, but he also won the West Virginia state amateur heavyweight crown one year, and he took part in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in Chicago, twice.

The high caliber of Underwood-coached forward walls is evident in that he has coached forward walls in the past to give up a meager average of just 20 yards per game last year to opposing teams.

Underwood, his wife and two and one-half-year-old daughter, will take

Free Throw Crown Won By Leskovar

Bill Leskovar, an independent, won the University's free-throw tournament held this week when he tossed in 44 out of 50 tries. The runner-up in the tourney was Woody Pritz, Independent (Dormitory), who made 41 in 50 chances. Leskovar is on the UK football team.

Mac Mays, SAE, won the Fraternity honors by completing 40 out of 50 tosses.

Intramural co-coordinator, Bill McCubbin, announced that today, January 16, is the deadline for entering basketball teams in the UK intramural league, as the quinquies begin action on Monday, January 19 in what promises to be an interesting season.

Wah Wah Jones is featured in the February issue of Sportfolio Magazine in a story written by UK's sports publicity director, Roy Steinfort.

In this month's issue of Surf Magazine, a publication for and by Southern colleges, O. C. Halyard, sports editor of the Kernel, has written a feature article on the Kentucky Wildcat basketball team, which also has pictures of several Cat cagers, including one of Harlan's Wah Wah Jones.

Cat Cagers Headed South For Conference Encounters With Vols, Bulldogs, And Tech

By Tom Diskin

The Kentucky Wildcat basketball team travels to the Lower South for games with Tennessee, Georgia Tech and Georgia to start competition with other Southeastern Conference quintets for the 1947-48 season. The UK Kats will meet Tennessee tomorrow night in Knoxville; Tech on Monday evening in Atlanta; and Georgia Tuesday night in Athens.

In the initial game of the brief road trip, Rollins and Company take on an unpredictable Tennessee five. The Vols, Kentucky's arch rival, will be out to give the Ruggenans a busy evening. Although weak in reserve strength, the Orange and White aggregation has a better-than-average squad in forwards Paul Walthers, Marshall Hawkins, Center Art Burris, Guards Hugh Jones and Britches Montgomery. Their record thus far is nine wins and two losses.

The leading scorer for the Volunteers is Paul "Lefty" Walthers, who is a clever ballhawk and a fine left-handed jumpshot cager. Walthers, who hails from Covington, Ky., made All-American at Tennessee in 1945. He is 20 years of age, stands six-foot-two, and weighs 160 pounds.

This season, the lanky forward has been averaging over 15 points per game. Last Saturday, Walthers led the UT Vols to a 47-35 win over Alabama by scoring 19 points in the game.

Guard Hugh Jones, older brother of UK's Wah Wah, plays a good steady game. Marshall Hawkins and Art Burris, both towering well over the six-foot mark, are dangerous offensive threats for the Orangemen of Knoxville.

Georgia Tech

The Wildcats will be heavily favored in their game against Tech on Robert E. Lee Day (Monday) Coach Roy MacArthur's Engineers are led by a freshman from Flora, Illinois, namely Melvin Dold. Dold scored 43 points in a recent 3-game tournament in Oklahoma City, while Joe Keener, another freshman forward on the starting five, tallied 31 points for Tech in the meet. At center, "Spider Jim" Nolan will probably get the call. Nolan, an end of the Tech grid squad, is a six-foot, five-inch youngster who lacks experience but rebounds well. At the guards, Captain Herb Bergman will start with either Colin Anderson, another Tech football player who has recently joined the cage squad, or Mickey Bernhardt, a freshman flash from Jasper, Ind.

Georgia Bulldogs

The Georgia Bulldogs, coached by Ralph Jordan, have been a surprise in the SEC basketball circles this season, having won their first 10 games. The Red and Black basketballers are paced by Forward Bob Henley, who Coach Jordan declared recently is "the finest set shot I've seen in my coaching experience." Other pointmakers on the squad are Joe Jordan, a freshman speedster and ball-handler deluxe, and Larry McLean, rangy center from West Liberty, Ky. The Georgians meet Auburn tonight and Alabama Saturday before playing the Cats of Kentucky.

HALYARD'S SPORT SIDE SHOW
 Featuring Today —
 Kentucky vs. Michigan State
 Alex Groza vs. Bob Brannum

Following Kentucky's narrow 47-45 win over the Michigan State Spartans, one of this season's tight cage controversies flamed into a full flame. To date, the issue is still smoldering and smoking; good friends are still not on speaking terms; and nothing resembling a satisfactory answer has been achieved.

It all started late last season when former All-American Bob Brannum didn't get to make the trip to Louisville with the Wildcats for the SEC tourney. Disension developed between him and the Baron of Basketball. Hasty words were spoken in New York by Rupp concerning Brannum and future Kentucky teams, and his availability to go elsewhere to participate in the hardwood sport. Result was that Bob turned up in East Lansing and enrolled in school.

Almost immediately the Brannum Bandwagon began beating about. "Just you wait until Kentucky and Michigan State meet on the basketball floor next year and we'll see who's the better, Groza or Brannum."

The 47-48 season began and Spartan Captain Bob Brannum became the star of nearly every game, pacing his team to victories over such long-time opponents as Michigan, Indiana, Wayne, Harvard, and Washington U. Even in losing, Bob was a star, flipping in more than his share of points.

Then came the long awaited Kentucky-Michigan State game, the Groza-Brannum battle, and although the Wildcat coked out a two point victory, Bob, who most Kentuckians thought would fall out before half-time, received credit for 23 tallies, more than half of the total Spartan score, and only registered two personals.

Big Alex could collect only ten points, and was charged with four personals. A victory for Kentucky, a victory for Brannum. Well, not exactly. That's where the flame broke out.

Kentucky had a two point margin, but Wildcat rooters sure had sweated out a tough game. Kentucky definitely was off their usual good game. Why even in losing to Temple they scored 59 points. Their 47 points in that game represented one of the four lowest scores marked up in the last 40 contests. Last year Oklahoma A & M topped the Wildcats, 37-31; Temple beat Kentucky, 53-47; and Utah nipped the Cats 49-45.

The entire Kentucky squad had a bad night, and couldn't hit the hoops. Even with just ten points, Groza tied for top scoring honors on the Wildcats' team.

On the other hand, Michigan State played some heads-up ball, just as their grid squad did this year, and was barely nosed out in one of those hard luck contests that someone has to lose.

And it marked the second time that Big Bob racked up at least half of the Green and White's total points. For in losing to Missouri, 46-44, earlier, Brannum made 22 points. But that is the type of systems the Spartans use, shooting considerably from the pivot, and Bob's hook shot is a natural for that type of game. Kentucky however, uses the pivot more for feeding the ball and setting up the plays. A good percentage of Groza's points are always scored on tip-in shots.

However, we're not trying to say Groza played a better game than Brannum, because we didn't see the tilt, and the statistics would point in the other direction. So we say give credit where credit is due. We think Brannum played an exceptionally good game, one that he couldn't play at UK, and he proved that last season. And we wish him continued success throughout the remainder of the season.

But we say with fans who know Kentucky's brand of basketball best, it's Groza two to one.

Back to that football reference, Kentucky beat the Spartans on the gridiron this season, 7-6. Another of those cases where the Wildcats were not playing their best brand of ball, and Michigan State was putting out a top performance. In that game, it was little George Guerre, MSC star halfback, who was drawing all the attention until he broke his ankle just before the half.
