Cincinnati Club Defends University

(Editor's note: The following letter has been sent to President H. L. Donovan, as an expression of confidence from the UK Alumni Club of Greater Cincinnati. The University and the Alumni Association are grateful for the club's concrete evidence of support and loyalty, as expressed by Club President W. L. Franz.)

October 2, 1952

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, President
University of Kentucky
Lexington, Kentucky
Dear Dr. Donovan:

The University of Kentucky Alumni Club of Greater Cincinnati feels it is time for the Club to say something about the recent unfavorable publicity the University has received.

We think the publicity has caused many people in Kentucky (and other states) to believe the University is not an institution which encourages the practice of high standards of conduct, either in academic or athletic life. Many people who read headlines only are certain to conclude the teaching and training given the students in Lexington is suspect.

We can cite many illustrious University of Kentucky graduates as an indication of how the University trains for good citizenship, sound thinking and the acquisition of sound knowledge. This training is the University's responsibility to the people. Many of our graduates have achieved distinction in business and industry, in public service, and in education. The list is too long to include in this letter.

The athletic story at Lexington has been given publicity out of proportion to its importance in University life; it seems important to us that the public know the evidence developed in the basketball investigation does not provide any reason for blanket criticism of the University.

The collective integrity of the entire college organization should not be placed under a cloud because two or three members of one athletic team were charged with irregularities. One would not say a good, sound, strong bank is suspect because someone in the organization was charged with loose handling of bank assets.

REGULAR CLUB MEETINGS

Cincinnati Club meets first Thursday of each month, 12:15 p.m. Hotel Sinton

Chicago Club meets third Monday of each month, noon, Builders Club, (21st floor) 228 N. LaSalle St.

Louisville Club meets every Monday, noon, Old House, Fifth St.

Northeastern Kentucky Club meets first Wednesday of each month, noon, Henry Clay Hotel, Ashland, Ky.

Washington, D. C., Club meets second Wednesday of each month, noon, Annapolis Hotel

We believe too much criticism of the scatter-gun variety has been aimed at the University, an organization which is made up of intelligent, hard-working, loyal and honest people. We believe criticism should be aimed at any person who is in error, and not broadly at the University, which means all of the staff, the officers and trustees.

These men are upright and honorable men and certainly would not knowingly condone an individual deviation from an accepted standard. While we like basketball and are proud of our record through the years, we respectfully submit that basketball is but one activity of hundreds carried on at the University of Kentucky.

If rules governing inter-collegiate athletic competition are to be more strictly and universally enforced, we as alumni certainly will not take issue; however, we do think accusers should restrict their fire to the target and not aim thoughtlessly at colleges as institutions, since a very high percentage of any college staff has little connection with or responsibilities for inter-collegiate athletics.

I have been authorized by our membership to write this letter and to say it has been approved by unanimous vote of those present at our meeting today, Thursday, October 2.

Yours sincerely,
W. L. FRANZ
President

George Claiborne, '52, of Hopkinsville, is coaching the Georgetown, Ky., College football team this fall.

Model Marine Is Former Student

John B. Moore, Jr., of Henderson is the model Marine whose picture appears on a Marine recruiting poster which has been on display throughout the country this last summer.

A former University student, Moore left the University in 1950 to join the Marines and was sent to Korea in January, 1952. On June 16 he was injured in action, but was discharged from the hospital July 10 and attached to the 1st Processing Casualty Company.

A descendant of John Bowman, founder and regent of the A&M College of Kentucky, now the University, young Moore and his father, John Bowman Moore, of Henderson, were present on the campus at the time Bowman Hall was dedicated.

UK Radio Director Goes To Indiana U.

Elmer G. Sulzer, head of the department of radio arts and director of the University radio station WBKY, left the University on September 1 to accept the position of professor and director of radio and television communications at Indiana University.

Mr. Sulzer has been a member of the University of Kentucky faculty since 1926. He was public relations director at Kentucky before taking over the duties of radio director. During the past 20 years he has gained a national reputation in educational radio, and was the recipient of the Peabody Award, foremost recognition in educational radio.

Mr. Sulzer built the first university FM radio station in the United States and founded and operated for 13 years the Kentucky system of mountain radio-listening centers, and established the first national radio network school of the air from a state university.

A native of Madison, Ind., he attended Indiana University before graduating from DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind.

Mrs. Cam Henderson Halyard has been named acting head of the University's department of radio arts.

Trustees of the University have authorized the merging of the Departments of Farm Economics and Rural Finance into a Department of Agricultural Economics. Dr. Aubrey J. Brown, head of the Department of Markets and Rural Finance, will direct the department. Dr. W. D. Nicholls, head of the Department of Farm Economics died last July.

Earle C. Fowler, '42, of Lexington, has been appointed assistant professor of physics at Yale University.

Mr. Fowler has been an associate physicist at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, N. Y., for the past three years. He has done graduate work at Harvard University.

DOWNING GIVES UP DEPARTMENT HEADSHIP

DR. H. H. DOWNING, '08

Dr. H. H. Downing, '08, head of the department of mathematics since 1947, relinquished the department headship last July 1 to devote full time to teaching. This is in accordance with a University regulation which requires deans and department heads to relinquish administrative duties at the age of 65.

Kentucky's first scholarship to encourage graduate work in library science has been established by the Kentucky Library Association. Named the Margaret I. King Scholarship in honor of Miss Margaret I. King, '98, emeritus librarian at the University of Kentucky for whom the University library has been named, the scholarship entitles the recipient to do graduate work at the University of Kentucky or any other college in the nation which offers graduate work in library science.

Gifts totaling $19,440, to be used for scholarships, research and instruction, were accepted by the University's Board of Trustees at its quarterly meeting in September.

Master Sergeant Fred Perkins, who started many University of Kentucky youngsters in their military training, retired last August and has taken over management of the Wildcat Bowling Lanes, on the campus.

Sergeant Perkins was on assignment at the University for 12 years as ROTC instructor. He served in both world wars and was a major in the last war. He went to Ft. Meade, Md. last August for retirement with the rank of captain. He is a native of Dycusburg in Lyon county, Ky.

Second Lieutenant James O. Lambert, '51, of Winchester, has been reported as missing in action on the western Korean front with the 23rd Infantry Division. Lt. Lambert was serving as a platoon leader with the 23rd Infantry Regiment.

A total of 91 students, 38 of whom were enrolled in the College of Education, recorded perfect scholarship standings during the past summer term at the University.

* * *

A total of 5,510 students had registered for the fall semester at the close of the regular registration period. It was expected that the grand total would be increased by late registrants. Approximately 1,500 of the enrolled are freshmen and new students.

UK Cancels '52-'53 Cage Schedule

Action Follows NCAA Virtual Suspension

University of Kentucky abandoned plans for playing its basketball schedule for the 1952-53 season on November 3, after it virtually had been suspended by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Council.

President H. L. Donovan announced the cancellation of a 21-game schedule at a press conference held in his office that day, after the Council, in a report from its Kansas City headquarters had announced that it would recommend to the NCAA convention, when it meets in January, that Kentucky be placed on probation, and that it would recommend to all NCAA members that they not compete against Kentucky in basketball this season.

Dr. Donovan said that he had notified President H. C. Willett of the NCAA that UK "will accept the verdict of the council of the NCAA without appealing at its meeting in January 1953."

President Donovan's statement, issued to the press on November 3, and a copy of his letter to President Willett, follows:

The NCAA at the invitation of the University of Kentucky has investigated the athletics program at the University. The Council of the NCAA has found the University of Kentucky to have been in violation of the NCAA Code on the following two counts.

"A. Athletes received pay for participation in athletics in violation of a constitutional principle and

B. Athletes were certified as eligible for NCAA events when ineligible and the coaches involved had knowledge of the facts which made them ineligible, in violation of a provision of the bylaws."

The specific incidents upon which the Council's conviction is based are as follows:

1. In the spring of 1948 members of the basketball team on their departure for the NCAA Tournament were given $50.00 each by sports enthusiasts not connected with the University.

2. In the spring of 1949 before their departure for the NCAA Tournament members of the basketball team were given $50.00 each by sports enthusiasts not connected with the University.

3. Before the Kentucky team left for the St. John's game in New York City in December, 1950, six of the players were given $50.00.

4. After the basketball team returned from the Sugar Bowl game in January, 1951, several of them were given sums ranging from $25.00 to $50.00.

5. Between October, 1946, and December, 1950, two members of the basketball team had received monthly stipends of $50.00 from sports enthusiasts not connected with the University.

As punishment for the violations of which they have found the University of Kentucky guilty the NCAA Council has recommended that the University be placed on probation for the year 1952-53, that the University be prohibited from participating in NCAA tournaments for the year 1952-53, and has requested that the University refrain from participating in basketball during the 1952-53 season. The University has agreed to comply with this request of the NCAA Council and accordingly has written to each of the institutions on its basketball schedule asking that the University be relieved from its obligation to those institutions during the 1952-53 season.

October 30, 1952

Mr. H. C. Willett, President
National Collegiate Athletic Ass'n
University of Southern California
Los Angeles, California

My dear Mr. Willett:

Your letter of October 22 was received on October 25. Upon receipt of your communication I called a meeting of the Board of Directors of the University of Kentucky Athletics Association and read your letter to this Board.

After due consideration the Athletics Board of the University of Kentucky directed me to communicate to you that it will accept the verdict of the Council of the NCAA without appealing this decision to the NCAA at its meeting in January, 1953. It was the opinion of our Athletics Board that the penalty inflicted upon the University of Kentucky is unduly severe and far more harsh than any penalty that has ever been inflicted upon a member for violation of the NCAA rules in the past.

We bow to the request of the Council of the NCAA that the University of Kentucky not participate in basketball for 1952-53, and we are requesting all institutions on our basketball schedule to release us from our contracts to play them this season.

Permit me to thank you on behalf of the Athletics Board for accepting our invitation to investigate the athletics situation at the University of Kentucky and for your courtesy in permitting Vice President Leo M. Chamberlain and Dean A. D. Kirwan to appear in person before the Council for the purpose of presenting our case. I also wish to thank you personally for your kindly attitude in conferences and letters toward me and other representatives of the University who have contacted you.

Cordially yours,
H. L. Donovan
President

"WAH" JONES EDITS NEW TV MAGAZINE

Wallace "Wah Wah" Jones, one of Kentucky's greatest native-born athletes, who starred on Kentucky football, basketball and baseball teams during his four years at the University, has entered his first non-sport venture; the publication of a new television magazine, "TV in the Blue Grass."

With his entry into the business world Wah has pulled his famed No. 27 out of mothballs. The number which distinguished him as an outstanding Wildcat for four years will be his Lexington postoffice box number.

Wallace was a four times All-Conference selection and a 1949 All-American basketball choice. He has withdrawn from professional basketball, relinquished all his stock in the Indianapolis Olympians basketball team and refused to sign another contract because he "wanted to come back to Lexington."

He and his wife, the former Edna Ball, '47, of Middlesboro, and their two children, Wallace Clayton, Jr., and Vicki, 2, live at 512 Chinoe Road, Lexington.

KENTUCKIAN, ALUM, TO HEAD MATH DEPT.

Dr. William H. Pell, a graduate of the University of Kentucky and professor of applied mathematics at Brown University, has been appointed professor and head of the University of Kentucky's department of mathematics and astronomy.

A native of Lewisport, Ky., Dr. Pell holds the B.S. degree from the University, earned in 1936, and the M.S. degree, obtained in 1938. He also holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin.

During World War II Dr. Pell was associated with the Bell Aircraft Company as a mathematician. He has written extensively in the field of aeronautical mathematics.

E. R. Michel, '31, Is Promoted By Company

E. R. MICHEL, '31

Earl R. Michel, '31, of Glen Ridge, N. J., has been named manager of direct sales of the air conditioning and refrigeration division of Worthington Corporation.

Formerly assistant manager of the division, Mr. Michel now will be in charge of all air conditioning and refrigeration product sections located at the Harrison, N. J. plant.

Mr. Michel was formerly in charge of centrifugal refrigeration sales at Harrison and was previously located in district offices in Chicago and Cleveland as a sales and application engineer.

The Kentucky graduate holds the BSME degree, and while an undergraduate was a member of Tau Beta Pi and Phi Mu Alpha. He is now chairman of the centrifugal and axial flow compressor technical committee of the American Society of Refrigeration Engineers. A frequent speaker at engineering society meetings, he has authored articles for trade publications.

Stahr Home From Army Tour Of Duty

Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., '36, dean of the University's School of Law, returned to the campus for the opening of the fall semester after a 17-month tour of civil duty with the Department of the Army.

An integral part of the staff of Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., he served as a consultant from June 1951 until mid-September, 1952.

Dean Stahr's job was that of special assistant to the secretary of the Army for reserve forces, a position officially created in June, 1951.

In this office Dean Stahr acted as principal adviser on all matters relating to the National Guard, the Organized Officers' Training Corps and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. He was liaison representative on reserve and related matters for the Army with the Reserve Officers' Association, the National Guard Association and the American Legion, as well as the Navy and Air Force, the Department of Defense and the Congressional Committees on the Armed Services.

Traveling 35,000 miles in the United States and visiting several foreign countries, Dean Stahr encountered numerous alumni of the University at Army installations. He has resumed his consultant status with the Army Department since his return to the College of Law. When his successor as Pace's special assistant has been named, Dean Stahr will relinquish his Army assignment.

The University of Kentucky graduate and dean was a Rhodes scholar and a graduate of the University of Oxford at the age of 23. Before taking his present position as dean of the College of Law he was a Wall Street attorney and a lieutenant colonel in infantry, having served in the Broadway theater in World War II.

Dean and Mrs. Stahr have one daughter, Stephanie, born last September.

Million Bond Issue OK'd For Housing

A new building program was launched by the University last September when President H. L. Donovan announced that the Board of Trustees has authorized the construction of eight fraternity houses and a building to house male graduate students.

President Donovan estimated that the overall project will cost between $1,000,000 and $1,400,000, the cost to be defrayed by bonds to be amortized over a period of 30 years.

The proposal calls for fraternity houses to have accommodations for 48 boys each, and the graduate building to house approximately 75 students. Under the present plan the new structures would cost between $100,000 and $125,000 each.

New fraternity houses will be leased to individual fraternities after their completion. Rent paid by the fraternities will be sufficient to pay interest on the bonds, liquidate the debt, pay insurance and maintain the buildings.

Fraternities occupying the new buildings will be permitted to purchase bonds to increase their equity in building, Dr. Donovan said. After the bonds are paid off the same fraternity will continue to operate house at a greatly reduced cost.

Houses Located

Location of the new fraternity houses will be east of Rose Street and south of the west wing of Coopers-town. The graduate building will be located in the same general area.

The University will develop the utilities and road ways for the new section, and plans call for recreation areas for volleyball, tennis, horseshoe, and other games. Parking areas also are planned near the new buildings.

According to the UK president, an architect has been employed to design and plan the buildings. The project has been approved by the Kentucky Building and Property Commission.

Although no dates were given for the taking of bids or the start of actual construction, President Donovan expressed hope that the new structures would be available for use by next September.

In a recent interview, Dr. Donovan said that the University hopes to build another dormitory for women in the near future.

Buildings Are Disgrace

Dr. Donovan told the Board of Trustees that many of the University's classrooms are "in deplorable condition." He declared that White Hall is "a disgrace to any modern university."

Predicting that by 1960 more than 10,000 students will be enrolled in the University, Dr. Donovan told the board that plans must be made now for additional buildings to take care of the greatly increased enrollment.

"Practically every state university and land-grant college in the United States has already entered upon a great building program for living quarters for students," he said. "The University of Kentucky can no longer afford to wait, hoping that building costs will be cheaper."

Donovan Lists Buildings

Dr. Donovan listed in the order of their importance the building needs of the University.

He listed the following:

1. Dormitories, residence halls, sorority houses and fraternity houses for undergraduates.
2. Apartments for graduate students and younger faculty members.
3. A science building for chemistry and physics.
4. Repairs and alterations on the Experiment Station farm.
5. A building on the campus for the College of Pharmacy (now in Louisville).
6. A building for the College of Commerce.

Dr. W. D. Nicholls, '07, Dies In Louisville

Dr. William Durrett Nicholls, 67, head of the University's department of farm economics since 1917, died July 18 at the Kentucky Baptist hospital in Louisville.

Dr. Nicholls was stricken while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank S. Lewis.

A native of Bloomfield, Dr. Nicholls was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1907 with the degree of bachelor of science. He received a master of science degree from UK in 1915 and the Ph.D. from Cornell in 1926.

He had been on the faculty of the College of Agriculture since 1912, as assistant professor of animal husbandry, professor of farm management and professor of farm economics.

During World War I, Dr. Nicholls was chief of farm-labor mobilization in Kentucky. He was a member of the Kentucky Academy of Social Science and in 1937 was president of the Kentucky School Boards Association. His articles on economics as related to farmers' problems attracted wide attention.

Survivors include his wife, who was in Louisville with him at the time he was stricken, Mrs. Lewis and another daughter, Mrs. James D. Toy, '36, of Louisville; a son, Dr. William Hord Nicholls, '34, Nashville, Tenn., and a brother, Arton A. Nicholls, Louisville.

Funeral services and burial were held in Lexington.

7. An animal industry building.
8. A horticulture greenhouse and soil house, and a plant science building.
9. Completion of the Mineral Industries building.
10. An annex to the library.

UK Awarded Road Research Contract

Some day you may be driving on rubberized roads if experimental work now under way at the University of Kentucky is successful.

Research engineers here hope to come up with the answer to a question that has long plagued highway builders and motorists alike: How can the nation's highways be made to last longer.

One way to prolong the life of pavements may be to add rubber to bituminous mixtures, and tests are being conducted in the University's highway laboratory to find out just how well such materials would wear if used for surfacing roads, highways, and streets.

Financed through grants from The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, the research project is being carried on by the Engineering Experiment Station of the College of Engineering. Preliminary work was begun last year and the contract has been extended four times.

Rubberized paving materials are subjected to a series of tests at the University of Kentucky. In one step, the bituminous mixtures are aged in an "aging chamber," much as they would be if exposed to the weather. In the second step, samples of the aged materials — black oblong bars — are placed in a "fatigue tester" designed by the Engineering College. This device is installed in a refrigerating unit and the paving blocks, at varying temperatures, are put in motion under stress to simulate the pounding they would take from cars and trucks.

The Firestone project is one of a number of contracts presently being administered by the Kentucky Research Foundation, a corporation organized in 1945 to further research, public service, and scholarship at the University. Grants received from industry and Government for research of various kinds so far have totaled more than a third of a million dollars.

UK Man Teaches In USC Civic Center

Three of the Federal Government's top-echelon administrators, including W. Russell Cox, UK '39, were instructors in the Civic Center summer session at the University of Southern California's School of Public Administration last summer.

Mr. Cox, a native of Scott county, Tenn., is assistant chief of employment for the Federal Civil Defense Administration at Washington, D. C.

Mr. Cox has been in personnel administration since leaving the University. He was associated with the National Resources Planning Board in 1942, following which he spent a year with the Industrial Relations Department of the Westinghouse Electric Co. at Baltimore, Md. He has served as recruitment and placement officer and administrative officer with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; and as assistant to the director of personnel, executive office of the secretary, Navy Department, and was granted leave of absence from that position to serve the State of Kentucky on personnel matters as special assistant to the Commissioner of Finance, subsequently being appointed assistant director of the National Civil Service League in New York.

In 1950 Mr. Cox returned to the Navy Department as head of employment relations, Naval Research Laboratory and in 1951 became assistant chief of employment, specializing on executive recruitment with the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

He has served as president of the Washington, D. C. Alumni Club of UK; and is associated with many professional and social organizations in the capital city.

Mr. Cox is married and has two children. His home address is 17 N. Uhle St., Arlington, Va.

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, University vice president (left), Dean D. V. Terrell of the College of Engineering and Carl R. Shaffer, president of the Xylem Rubber Co., subsidiary of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., look over a "fatigue tester" in the University's highway laboratory where experiments are under way in an effort to make bituminous pavements last longer by adding rubber.

Administers Grants, Scholarships, Etc.

By Leo M. Chamberlain,
President of the Kentucky Research Foundation and Vice President of the University

(Editor's Note: The work of the Kentucky Research Foundation is so vital and important in the furtherance of research, public service and scholarship at the University, that we have asked the president of the foundation to outline its seven-year program to alumni of the University.)

Although it was organized at the University of Kentucky seven years ago and has been operating successfully since that time, the Kentucky Research Foundation perhaps is not as well known to alumni as are some other service agencies of the University.

The Kentucky Research Foundation was organized in 1945 for the furtherance of research, public service, and scholarship at the University. While it is organized as a separate corporation, it is, in fact, an arm of the University since its Board of Directors is composed of members of the University staff and of the University Board of Trustees. The Foundation renders an important service to the University in the management of endowments and scholarship funds, in the promotion of research, particularly of the contract variety, and in handling expeditiously funds from private sources.

The membership of the Kentucky Research Foundation includes seven members of the faculty of the University, all members of the University Board of Trustees, and nineteen elected members, designated as either National Councilors, Alumni Members, Industrial Councilors, or Research Members. The elected membership includes the following persons: Frank L. McVey, President Emeritus, University of Kentucky; Paul Porter, Arnold, Fortas and Porter; Fred M. Vinson, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court; T. Jere Beam, James Beam Distilling Company; Alexander Bonnyman, Blue Diamond Coal Company; John R. Bullock, Taft, Stettinius and Hollister; James W. Carnahan, Lyons and Carnahan; Edward S. Dabney, Security Trust Company; Eger V. Murphree, Standard Oil Development Company; William H. Townsend, Stoll, Keenon and Park; W. M. Reed, American Air Filter Company; Harry W. Schacter, Kaufman Straus Company; Fred B. Wachs, The Lexington Herald-Leader; Earl D. Wallace, Standard Oil Company; Louis Ware, International Minerals and Chemical Corporation; Robert M. Watt, Kentucky Utilities Company; Eli Lilly, Eli Lilly Company; William H. McAdams, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and J. K. Roberts, Standard Oil Company.

During the seven years of its existence the business of the Kentucky Research Foundation has included primarily the management of certain endowments and a large number of scholarship funds, and the administration of research contracts with government agencies and with business and industry. The research under these contracts is performed in the various colleges and departments of the University.

The three endowments presently managed by the Foundation are the Frances Jewell McVey Memorial Scholarship Fund, the William S. Taylor Memorial Fund, and the Fannie L. Jones Scholarship Fund. The value of these three endowments is now approximately $40,000. During the past year the Foundation administered twenty-two scholarship funds and certain other restricted accounts, involving a total of approximately $46,000. A total of fifty-two scholarships were awarded from these funds. Among the scholarships managed by the Foundation is the Alumni Loyalty Fund Scholarship, a four-year award in the amount of $700 per year. This scholarship was awarded for the first time in 1948 to John Biggerstaff of Berea, Kentucky. Mr. Biggerstaff completed requirements for graduation in January, 1952, with a major in Physics. He was graduated with high distinction and was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. Since his graduation Mr. Biggerstaff has been enrolled in the Graduate School, working toward his Masters degree in Physics. Since the initial award, the Alumni Loyalty Fund Scholarship has been assigned to four additional students.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the work of the Kentucky Research Foundation is the administration of the research contracts with government agencies and with business and industry. Since its organization, the Foundation has helped arrange and has administered twenty-five contracts. Government agencies with which these contracts have been made have included: The Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Fort Belvoir; United States Department of Commerce; Squier Laboratories, U. S. Army Signal Corps; Cincinnati Ordnance District, Department of the Army; Wright Air Development Center, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base; and Bureau of Ordnance of the Department of the Navy. Business and industrial concerns with which contracts have been arranged are as follows: Shell Development Company, Joseph E. Seagram and Sons; Steel Founders' Society, Pratt and Whitney, NEPA Division of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation, Ethyl Corporation, Solvay Process Division of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, National Engineering Company, Louisville Cement Company, and Kratz-Wilde Machine Company.

Research under the above mentioned contracts has dealt with a variety of interesting and important subjects including the following:

1. Evaluation of properties of experimental lubricating oil blends.
2. The development of a conversion kit to permit tractor engines to be operated on either alcohol or gasoline.
3. The increase of the service life of exhaust valves in small, aircooled, stationary engines.
4. The development of a low-cost power plant suitable for sawmills.
5. The evaluation of the efficacy of various commercial mold washes.
6. Tests of new and discarded steel foundry sands with a view to determining causes of deterioration.
7. The determination of engine response to experimental aircraft fuel blends when operated in a 2400 HP air-cooled engine.
8. The development of a bullet-proof gas turbine inlet screen for airplanes.
9. A physico-chemical study of solutions of organic and inorganic solutes in organic and mixed solvents over the temperature range from a  $-70^{\circ}\text{C}$  to a  $+60^{\circ}\text{C}$ .
10. The elimination of lead deposits in aircraft engines.
11. The obtaining of fundamental nuclear data having to do with the inelastic scattering of neutrons in various heavy elements.
12. The suitability of an alkyd sulphate as a detergent for use as an air-entraining additive in the production of Portland cement.
13. The construction of facilities suitable for testing automotive engines down to  $65^{\circ}$  below zero and the running of such tests.
14. Means for evaluating durability characteristics of bituminous paving mixtures containing various types of powdered rubber additives.
15. The basic deformation and annealing orientation textures which form in titanium.

16. Methods or processes for removing carbanaceous and clay contaminants from used foundry sands.

17. The properties of liquids having very high dielectric constants.

18. The possibilities of hardening soil mixtures successfully with natural cement.

19. The solution of certain fundamental problems in the bonding of foundry sands.

20. Design and construction of certain confidential analysis equipment.

21. The scaling behavior of titanium and alloys of twelve of the binary systems thereof.

22. The testing of stoves for military emergency kits.

23. Solution of certain sets of partial differential equations with constant coefficients.

24. Nuclear energy levels using the University Van der Graaff generator.

25. Standardized tests and procedures for the purpose of evaluating certain additives used in the current specification Air Force fuels and lubricants.

The researches listed have utilized the personnel, laboratories, and equipment of the Highway Materials Laboratory, the Aeronautical Research Laboratory, the Department of Mining and Metallurgical Engineering, the Department of Electrical Engineering, the Department of Chemistry, the Department of Physics, and the Department of Mathematics.

The twenty-five research projects listed above have involved expenditures of about $838,000. Recently the annual expenditure on contract research has been approximately $100,000.

In addition to the above research covered by contract, the Foundation has administered three research grants to individuals in a total amount of $8,091. These grants have covered research on the following topics: methods of standardizing dust extracts used in testing allergic patients, the synthesis of thiophene analogs of pharmaceuticals, and soluble complex ions of certain metals.

UK Man Singled Out For Graduate Work

Four men, one a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, have been singled out from a field of 40 graduates chosen in a nation-wide examination, to enter the University of Southern California's newly established program for graduate study in hospital pharmacy.

William Strohbeck, of Louisville, a 1950 graduate of the College of Pharmacy, is one of the four men thus honored. Mr. Strohbeck has been serving as a pharmacist at the Jewish Hospital in Louisville.

The program has been established at the University of Southern California by the Veterans Administration of Washington, D. C. and is the site of its first program for graduate study in this field.

The men will live at the Veterans Administration Center, Sawtelle, and get on-the-job training there in hospital pharmacy, in addition to their classwork on the campus.

The University's newest acquisition for its rare book room is William Blake's "Songs of Innocence," printed recently by an English artist and presented to the University of Kentucky by an anonymous Canadian.

The present officers of the Kentucky Research Foundation are: President, Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice President of the University; Secretary, Ernest N. Fergus, Professor of Farm Crops; and Treasurer, Frank D. Peterson, University Comptroller.

Members of the Board of Directors in addition to the above officers, are: H. L. Donovan, President of the University; J. C. Everett, Maysville; Robert P. Hobson, Louisville; H. D. Padmore, Frankfort; Willburt D. Ham Associate Professor of Law; D. V. Terrell, Dean of the College of Engineering; and William S. Webb, Emeritus Professor of Physics.

Col. William E. Rentz, '28, Named Brigadier General

Col. William E. Rentz, '28, chief of staff at Technical Training Air Force headquarters, Gulfport, Miss., was appointed a brigadier general by President Harry Truman last October 18. General Rentz has been chief of staff at Technical Training Air Force since its establishment in July 1951.

Technical Training Air Force operates the 10 major USAF technical training schools and indoctrination centers. One-fifth of all Air Force personnel are stationed at these bases.

A native of Newport, Ky., General Rentz was graduated from the University of Kentucky with a bachelor of arts degree, and a commission as a second lieutenant in the Army.

He served in China from July 1946 to January 1949 as chief advisor to the Nationalist Government for Air Force training. Before going to Gulfport, he was chief of the technical training division at U. S. Air Force headquarters in the Pentagon Bldg., Washington, D. C.

General and Mrs. Rentz, the former Carolyn Van Court of Cincinnati, have one daughter, Barrie, seven years old.

WILLIAM E. RENTZ

Sidney A. Forsythe, '42, of Lexington, is working on his Ph.D. degree at Harvard University this year. Mr. Forsythe holds the A.B. degree from Kentucky; the M.A. degree from Vanderbilt, and his doctor of theology from the Baptist Theological school in Louisville.

My thanks I extend unto you;
Your punishment's over, no longer remain;
Kind friends and dear classmates, Adieu!"*

Minimum Law Degree Course, Six Years

High school students who entered the University this past September to study for a law degree found the minimum time for graduation from the College of Law raised from five to six years.

A change of requirements announced last summer by the College of Law provides that students enrolled in the September 1952 fall term in that college must have completed three years of pre-legal college work or must spend four academic years in law school.

In the past the University College of Law and most approved law schools have admitted students to the regular three-year law course with a minimum of two years of college.

The four-year plan will be designed by the law faculty to provide additional training in law and to permit the student to take course work related to law in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Commerce.

The same change in admission requirements is being adopted this year by many other law schools approved by the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association.

DR. H. B. LYMAN TO UNIV. OF CINCINNATI

Dr. Howard B. Lyman, Ph.D., '51, of Athol, Mass., has been appointed assistant professor of psychology at the University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Lyman has been a research psychologist in tests and measurements at the U. S. Naval Examining Center, Norfolk, Va., and served later in the same capacity at Great Lakes, Ill. He holds the A.B. degree from Brown University; the master's degree from the University of Minnesota and the Ph.D. from Kentucky.

Dr. Lyman served in the U. S. Army, European theater, as personnel consultant assistant.

1902 Class Poet Visits Campus

Last July, Orville F. Smith, of Phoenixville, Pa., 1902 class poet, made a pilgrimage back to the campus to visit "the old stamping ground, so changed and extended in recent years."

Following his visit, Mr. Smith wrote to the alumni secretary expressing his pleasure in the visit, "frought with keen interest and delight," and included a copy of his class poem, written 50 years ago.

Part of the poem is reprinted below, for the pleasure of all alumni, and because the concluding stanzas were written by Mr. Smith to remind his

Mable Warnecke, '43, Working In Manila

Mabel Warnecke, '43, of Lexington, a graduate of the University with the B.S. in Commerce degree in 1943, and the M.A. in Psychology in 1948, came home last summer from Manila, P. I., on a leave of absence from government service where she is employed as statistician with the Mutual Security Agency, better known as the Marshall Plan.

Miss Warnecke was employed as secretary to Dean M. M. White at the University when she accepted the government assignment two years ago. Her employment with the Economic Cooperation Administration, (the Marshall Plan), came about through acquaintance with Virgil M. Couch, '33, who at that time was in charge of personnel for the ECA.

Miss Warnecke was first assigned to Korea, and arrived at Seoul on May 7, 1950. South Korea was invaded on Sunday morning June 25 and all that night Embassy and ECA offices swarmed with secretaries and officials stripping the files of classified material to be destroyed. Dependents left for the port of Inchon before daybreak. American employees were called to the Embassy the next evening at midnight, carrying one suitcase and blanket, according to Miss Warnecke, and they stayed in the blacked-out building until four a.m. when slow convoys started for Kimpo airport. Evacuation to southern Japan was effectively carried out by the American Air Force.

After a week at an evacuation camp at Bofu, Miss Warnecke was called to Tokyo on July 4. She stayed there 7 months, working the last three in General MacArthur's headquarters building, in connection with Army and United Nations economic aid to Korea. Following this assignment Miss Warnecke has been in Manila for 16 months with the Mutual Security Agency.

The University graduate has had an opportunity to visit Singapore, Bangkok, Saigon (Indo-China), Hongkong, Tokyo and Honolulu, during her two years in the South Pacific, and returned to Manila last August by air by way of London, Paris, Geneva, Rome, Tel Aviv, Karachi, and Calcutta, stopping for a few days in each of the European cities.

She has experienced strafing and battle sounds in Korea, earthquakes in Tokyo, air raid alerts at Bofu, and typhoons and mild earthquakes in the Philippines, but was returning to her job with a great deal of enthusiasm, when she visited the Alumni Office last July.

Miss Warnecke served three years in the WAVES, 1943-'46, before her employment at the University, and is at present a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve.

Dr. Gifford S. Blyton, associate professor of speech and director of forensics at the University, has been granted a year's leave of absence to direct a special United States Department project at the University of Syria in Damascus. His assignment will be to institute and direct a department of spoken English at the University of Syria.

Cutchin, Claiborne, On Coaching Staff

Phil Cutchin, A.B. '43, M.A. '48, of Murray Ky., and Jerry Claiborne, '50, of Hopkinsville, former Wildcat football stars returned to the campus this fall as members of Coach Paul Bryant's coaching staff.

Cutchin, one of three current full-time assistant coaches on the staff who has played under Bryant was appointed last August. He spent nearly four years in the Army following his graduation, and returned in 1946 to pick up his final year of eligibility as a halfback on the 1946 team in which year he was named honorary captain. In 1947 he became assistant football coach at Ohio Wesleyan and remained until called back into service in December 1950. As an Army lieutenant, Cutchin served with the First Cavalry division in Korea during his year of duty there.

Claiborne was an outstanding safetyman and end during four years' varsity experience under Coach Bryant, and also was called back to the staff last August.

As a collegian, he was regarded as one of the nation's top pass interception artists and his play helped pace UK to its first major bowl game, the Orange Bowl of 1950. He was selected as the team's most valuable player and following graduation became head football coach at Augusta (Va.) Military Academy.

U. OF K. GRANTS 336 DEGREES IN AUGUST

Nineteen states, the District of Columbia and three foreign countries were represented last August 8 when the University granted 336 degrees to summer school graduates.

Included in the graduating class were 10 doctorates, 168 masters, and 158 bachelors.

Dr. Frederick L. Hovde, president of Purdue University was the commencement speaker. His subject was "The Enemy Within."

Dr. McFarlan Honored At UK

1952 Distinguished Professor Named

Dr. Arthur C. McFarlan, head of the University of Kentucky department of geology, and a member of the University faculty since 1923, has been designated "Distinguished Professor of the Year" by his colleagues in the College of Arts and Sciences.

He is the ninth member of the college to receive the award since it was established in 1944 as a means of recognizing outstanding academic achievement.

As a result of his selection, Dr. McFarlan will be given a period free of teaching duties to conduct research of his own choosing and to prepare the annual Arts and Sciences lecture. Dr. McFarlan will be on leave of absence during the current fall semester but will remain on the campus to continue his work on Kentucky geology.

BLAZER LECTURES CHOSEN FOR '52-'53

Six outstanding educators will be presented on the 1952-53 Blazer lecture series under the sponsorship of the University's department of history.

The series, offered annually to students and Lexington residents, is supported by a fund established by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blazer of Ashland, Ky.

The six speakers are Prof. Dexter Perkins, chairman of the department of history at the University of Rochester; Prof. John B. Wolf, University of Minnesota department of history; Prof. Rupert B. Vance, holder of the Kenan chair in sociology at the University of North Carolina; Prof. George Boas of the history of philosophy department at Johns Hopkins University; Prof. Robert E. Cushman, chairman of the department of political science at Cornell University, and Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, who at present is with the U. S. Department of State.

A native of Mansfield, Ohio, Dr. McFarlan is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago.

From 1932 to 1934 Dr. McFarlan was state geologist and director of the Bureau of Mineral and Topographic Survey.

In his present position as head of the department of geology, he serves as director of the Kentucky Geological Survey, which in 1948 was transferred from the Department of Mines and Minerals to the University.

Give to the Loyalty Fund.

PHI BETA KAPPA HAS NATIONAL MEET HERE

The 23rd Triennial Council meeting of Phi Beta Kappa was held at the University of Kentucky last August.

More than 300 national delegates were present for the four-day event, at which the University's Kentucky Alpha chapter was host.

President H. L. Donovan extended the official University welcome to the delegates at their opening session and called his audience "one of the most distinguished groups" ever to gather on any college campus.

A tour of the Bluegrass, a reception at Maxwell Place, given by the President and Mrs. Donovan, and the annual council banquet were social features of the four-day conference.

UNIVERSITY RECEIVES GIFT OF $1,200 — The Kentucky State Association of B'nai B'rith, national Jewish men's brotherhood, has presented the University of Kentucky a gift of $1,200 to support UK work in the Hebrew language. Dr. Jonah W. D. Skiles, head of the University's Department of Ancient Languages, is shown accepting the check from Herschel Weil, '22, of Lexington, chairman of the Kentucky B'nai B'rith language project. The grant will enable the University to offer a complete undergraduate course in Hebrew for the first time in its history. Courses in Hebrew were offered last year through a personal gift from Mr. Weil.

Three Generations Of Reeds At UK

When Avery H. Reed, of Paducah, Ky., enrolled in the old A&M College of Kentucky in 1891, he started what has become a tradition of loyalty in his family line. Since then, six of his children and the wife of one of his sons and three of his grandchildren have obtained part or all of their college education at the University of Kentucky.

The first of his children, Katherine, was graduated from the University in 1922; Martha, the second child in 1926, and then Virginia enrolled, and stayed for two and one-half years. Avery, Jr., attended the 1929 summer session, later obtaining his engineering degree from the University of Virginia; Charles B. entered for the 1928 summer session and was graduated also from Virginia, and Louisa attended during the 1930-'31 school year. Martha holds the M.A. from Columbia University, Virginia the B.S. from Peabody College, and Louisa the B.S. from Murray State and the M.S. degree from Michigan, but all of them were UK students at one time or another.

Katherine, the widow of Edward Kearns of East Liverpool, Ohio, has three children who have attended UK. Virginia Kearns Denham, for two summer terms; Dorothy, who was graduated from the University in 1951, and Edward Reed, who is now a junior at UK. Evelyn Roberts Reed, wife of Charles, holds the bachelor's degree.

Katherine has lived in Lexington since her husband's death in 1946, and has taught in the Fayette county school system.

Hats off to this loyal University family!

'52 Grad Enters Ky. Mission Field

RUTH PIERINGER, '52

Miss Ruth Gertrude Pieringer, 88 N. William St., Bergenfield, N. J., has been accepted as a short-term missionary under the Methodist Board of Missions of the Methodist Church for two years service in the United States. She received six weeks training at National College, Kansas City, Mo.

The US-2 (United States for two years) program is sponsored jointly by the Division of National Missions and the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions. More than thirty young men and women trained July 14 to August 22 at National College. They will serve for two years (three if their assignments are to outpost missions Alaska, Puerto Rico, or Hawaii) in settlement houses, schools, children's homes, and other home mission stations.

Many vocational interests are represented in the group. Horticulturists, psychiatric aides, and teachers are among the "US-2's". The training program ranged from classroom work to practical experience with church agencies and community centers in Kansas City.

38 UK Professors Resign Positions During Last Year

Thirty-eight of the University's faculty members resigned between July 1, 1951 and August 15 of this year to accept other positions at higher salaries, President H. L. Donovan reported to the Board of Trustees at its September meeting.

They included nine in the College of Arts and Sciences; 19 in Agriculture and Home Economics and the Experiment Station; seven in Engineering; one in Law and one in Commerce. All held the rank of assistant professor or higher.

The President told the board, "I believe I should report on the loss of outstanding faculty personnel, that they may be aware of the great difficulty the University is having at the present time to hold its faculty together. Many young faculty members that we hoped to hold here because of their outstanding ability have accepted other positions at salaries we could not match."

Vito Parilli, "The Sweet Kentucky Babe" of college football the past four years, has put on some brilliant performances this year with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League to earn the quarterbacking slot for that professional club.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky in 1952 with a bachelor's degree in elementary education, Miss Pieringer attended Asbury College for three years. A member of the Student Volunteer Movement and the Wesley Foundation, she did city mission work under these organizations. She was on the worship committee of the YWCA at the University of Kentucky, and belonged to the Future Teachers of America.

Miss Pieringer, a member of Calvary Methodist Church, Dumont, N. J., will be on the faculty of a mountain school, Erie School, Olive Hill, Ky.

Injuries Beset Young Grid 'Cats

Young, Green Team Rebuilding For '53

By Ken Kuhn
UK Sport Publicity Editor

A few days before the 1952 grid campaign got underway, Coach Paul Bryant held an off-the-record discussion on the prospect of his Kentucky squad with writer and radio men visiting the Wildcats' pre-season training camp at Millersburg, Ky.

After frankly enumerating problems that were obviously staggering and lending the impression that the season could develop into a "long, hard winter," Bryant prophetically declared "this is by far my most inexperienced team here at Kentucky. We'll start with good boys at each spot, but if somebody gets hurt, we'll all be hurt."

By mid-season, as this article is written, Kentucky's football team definitely is hurting. Problems of inexperience are being slowly overcome as Bryant steadily inserts new men into varsity action, but all early difficulties have had to take a back seat to the injury bugaboo that has tagged the Wildcats from the opening game with Villanova through the LSU encounter.

Perhaps more than any mistakes caused by lack of experience or lapse of memory on the part of the young Bryantmen, injuries have kept UK from fully flexing its muscles. Never at full strength through the first four contests, no opportunity has been afforded the Kentuckians to pull themselves up by their bootstraps into the SEC picture.

Nevertheless, the Wildcats have given a good accounting of themselves under their rating as one of the country's youngest major college elevens, experience-wise.

Minus the services of every offensive and defensive starter from the Sugar Bowl game of two seasons ago and half the two-platoon starting lineups from the 1952 Cotton Bowl contest, Kentucky has displayed moments of brilliance in compiling a record of one win, two losses and a "moral-victory" tie by mid-season. And the schedule has been the toughest in UK history.

One of the first bright spots to show was a brilliant display of open field running by Harry (1A) Jones, the Cats' star halfback, who trucked his way through the entire Villanova defense to return a punt 72 yards for Kentucky's first TD of the season. The gloss soon diminished under constant rubbing by the wrong people—former Army ace Gene Filipski and company of Villanova. The Main Liners dominated the second half to take a final 25-6 decision from the outmanned Wildcats. Press box observers, nevertheless, decided that Kentucky's youngsters had a future if they learned their lessons well and profited from mistakes.

This faith was amply justified the next week as power-laden and cocky Mississippi invaded with the one thought in mind of gaining further revenge—they had measured UK 21-17 last season after the Wildcats had humiliated them two years in a row by decisive shutouts. Playing by far their best game of the season against one of the strongest aggregations in the league, the Bryantmen brought smiles to coaches and fans alike as they clawed their way from behind a 13 point deficit. Stamping themselves not only a coming team but a fourth-quarter comeback unit, Kentucky scored two quick TD's within a period of six minutes of the final quarter to gain an upset 13-13 tie and "moral victory."

Continuing their calibre of play the next week in the first road trip of the season, the underrated Wildcats tripped a good Texas A & M squad 10 to 7 in a thrilling battle decided by the margin of a 36-yard field goal booted unerringly through the up-rights by freshman Bob Bassitt. Perhaps even more thrilling to the players and the official Kentucky party was the tremendous display of impartial and enthusiastic sportsmanship by the Aggie students in hoisting the winning Wildcats to their shoulders after the upset and carrying them triumphantly to the dressing room.

So impressed were the UK players, coaches, officials and the press and radio corps that they gave a hearty welcome to an idea fathered the following week by Sports Editor Tom Easterling of the Kentucky Kernel. Easterling, fed up by the lackadaisical sportsmanship of the UK student body in comparison with the Aggies' demonstration, "set a fire" under responsible student groups urging bigger and better pre-game pep rallies and greater displays of cheering at the games. Successful to a degree thought nearly impossible, the rally came off before the LSU game with nearly 2,000 students and townspeople present and enthusiasm at the game was noticeably improved.

The spark obviously failed to fire up the UK players as much as hoped for the improvement and come-from-behind spirit of the previous two weeks were missing as the Cats succumbed 34 to 7.

Coach Paul Bryant, who had undergone an emergency appendectomy following practice Thursday night before the LSU game to climax a rash of physical troubles suffered by Kentucky, left his hospital bed less than 48 hours after the operation to direct the team against the Tigers. Seemingly, nothing could help the Wildcat cause against a fired-up Louisiana State crew that did everything right.

In the midst of gloom that descended upon the Kentucky camp, there was one bright hope for better things to come. Observers remembered that

U.K. Alumni President Labels Action By NCAA 'Harsh And Unprecedented'

Two rulings which wrecked the University of Kentucky's basketball program for 1952-53 were the targets of a scathing indictment issued by William H. Townsend, Lexington attorney and national president of the U. K. Alumni Association.

Townsend said he made the statement after receiving hundreds of telephone calls protesting the NCAA treatment of the University.

The University recently was suspended from basketball competition for one year by the Southeastern Conference and on Nov. 3 was put on probation for a like period by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The NCAA action, led to an announcement that the U. K. basketball team would not play intercollegiate games this season. The SEC also declared two star football players ineligible.

Townsend's statement follows:

The harsh and unprecedented action of the NCAA does not surprise the Alumni. Since the SEC's recent attack of virtue, the Alumni have become inured to the barefaced vagaries and hypocrisies of so-called Athletic Conferences and Associations.

"One can hardly believe, and yet it is true, that the charges on which Kentucky has been found guilty, few as they are, all occurred as far back as 1946-1950, and that nobody claims that Kentucky has violated any rule of the SEC or NCAA since Jan. 1, 1951. It is even harder to believe, and yet it is true, that the rulings of the saintly SEC and NCAA are, in effect, as follows:

"1. They seriously damage, if they do not actually destroy, the athletic careers of boys on Kentucky's present basketball team who are, as will not be denied, wholly innocent of the slightest wrongdoing and touch in no way any player who violated any Conference or Association rule or regulation.

"2. It is all right for a football player to accept $250, or more, for playing in a bowl game which the SEC and the NCAA both know is in flagrant violation of their rules that they have winked at for years, but it is all wrong for a basketball player from Kentucky to accept $50 as expense money after a bowl game-

"3. It is all right for the coach of a college that not only is a member of the SEC and NCAA but one whose representative actually sits in judgment on Kentucky to offer a high school athlete $7,500, plus a full scholarship, for himself and his sister, as an inducement to the player to attend that particular school. It is all right for the coach of a rival institution—whose representative also sits in judgment on Kentucky—to outbid the other coach by making the same offer, plus a full scholarship for the athlete's young bride, and a comfortable apartment for them to live in. It is all wrong, however, for a Chicago friend of Kentucky—without its knowledge—to buy clothing for an athlete to wear to Kentucky, even down to a hat or necktie!

"4. It is all right for another School that also belongs to the SEC and NCAA—whose representative sits in judgment on Kentucky—to offer an athlete $5,000, after another member of the SEC and NCAA has offered him $3,000, but it is all wrong for a Kentucky athlete—even though he be an all-American—to earn a few sweaty dollars on a pick and shovel job at $1 per hour! This makes him ineligible and an outcast!

"5. It is all right for still another school that also belongs to the SEC and NCAA—whose representative sits in judgment on Kentucky—to buy its athletes, especially its football backs, at so much a head, but it is all wrong for a Kentucky athlete to receive from sport enthusiasts, in no way connected with the University, small sums of money or gifts ranging in value from $5 to $50 with the latter amount a rare exception.

"It may be said by some that the guilt of others has nothing to do with Kentucky's guilt. I say it has a great deal to do with it. If Kentucky has violated any rules or regulations of the Conference or Association, she ought to be punished and no representative of Kentucky has ever at any time or place contended otherwise, but we do contend that such punishment ought to fit the offense and no more. We contend further, that no man or set of men whose schools are guilty themselves, or who have connived with or winked at their guilty associates, should sit in judgment on Kentucky, either as to the question of guilt or the punishment therefor.

"We contend that no man or set of men, reeking with athletic halitosis, has any right to point an accusing finger at a grease speck on Kentucky's vest! It is simply not true, and ought never to be true, that the sins of Kentucky's executioners have no relation to Kentucky's guilt.

"Indeed, we have the highest authority for our position. When the Scribes and Pharisees brought to Jesus the woman that they were about to put to death on the Mount of Olives, He did not say the guilt of these men bore no relation to the guilt of the accused.

"In fact, He said just the opposite when He declared that 'he that is without sin among you, first let him cast a stone at her.' And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last.

"And the ascetic Man of Sorrows sternly watched their departure and did not even ask the accused a question until the tainted ones who condemned her were gone." Lexington Leader, Nov. 4, 1952.

OBITUARIES

JERRY BROMAGEN, 55, of Ft. Worth, Tex., a 1920 graduate of the University's College of Engineering, died at his home last March, after a heart attack.

An employee of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company since his graduation, Mr. Bromagen worked in the engineering department in Dallas, and in 1925 was selected to be division plant manager at Ft. Worth. He was a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

A native of Bath county, he and his five brothers and one sister were orphaned at an early age. Survivors include his wife; a daughter, his sister and five brothers.

JAMES FOSTER McDANIEL, of Manchester, Ky., a 1950 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, was fatally injured in an automobile accident near Richmond, Ky., last July.

Mr. McDaniel was a partner in the Porter Drug Store at Manchester. Survivors include his wife and an eight-year-old daughter.

BRUCE KEITH, of Louisville, a graduate of the College of Pharmacy in the class of 1906 and honor man of his class, died last August at his home in Louisville following an illness of six months.

A native of Elizabethtown, Mr.

Keith was for many years vice president of the T. P. Taylor Drug Store chain. He joined the company in 1903.

Survivors include his wife, two sons and two daughters.

FRANK T. SIEBERT, of Merion Station, Pa., a 1901 graduate of the University, who came back to the campus in 1951 to celebrate the 50th reunion of his class, died last June in the University hospital at the University of Pennsylvania. His death followed several heart attacks.

Mr. Siebert was associated with the Bureau of Locomotive Inspection, Interstate Commerce Commission, 38 years, since its beginning, and was retired three years ago at the age of 70.

Survivors include his wife and two sons, Dr. Frank T. Siebert, Jr., and George J. H. Siebert.

Burial services were held July 1 in West Laurel Hill cemetery, just outside of Philadelphia.

CHARLES O. PERATT, 76, emeritus professor of history at Morehead State College, died last July at Walnut Creek, Calif.

Prof. Peratt taught in the history department at Morehead from 1923 until his retirement in 1946.

A native of Nicholas county, he received his A.B. degree from the University in 1904 and an M.A. from Columbia University in 1919. He had served as principal of Fleming County, Ewing and Elizaville High Schools, and had taught at Junction City, Paducah, and Threlkeld School for Boys in Nicholasville.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter. Funeral services were held at the Morehead Christian church and burial followed in the Carlisle cemetery.

JAMES EDWARD HUNT, 41, of Henderson, a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Law, died last July of a coronary occlusion, while on a vacation at Kentucky Lake with his family and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Caldwell and family, all of Henderson, were spending several days at Kentucky Lake when he was stricken. He was rushed to a hospital in Paducah, but died shortly after being admitted.

A graduate of the University in 1938, where he was a member of SAE social fraternity, Mr. Hunt was admitted to the Kentucky Bar that same year. He served as city judge and prosecuting attorney at Henderson before entering military service in 1942. He served as a sergeant in the Signal Corps in North Africa and later in the Italian invasion. Later he applied for officer training and was commissioned in the Judge Advocate's command. He received his discharge in 1945 and upon his return to Henderson was ected county attorney. He was a member of the law firm of Hunt and Palmore. His father, the late Judge N. B. Hunt, was circuit judge for a number of years.

Survivors include his wife, his son Edwin Brent, and his mother.

Funeral services were held at the Henderson Methodist church and burial followed in Fairmont cemetery.

A. STEWART AUGUSTUS, 42, of Louisville, a graduate of the University in the class of 1932, died at his home last September, from self-inflicted wounds.

Mr. Augustus had been an engineer with the Louisville Water Company for a number of years.

Survivors include three children, Shirley, 16, Rose Mary, 8, and Jean, 6; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Augustus; one brother, James D. Augustus, Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur J. Schneider and Mrs. Edward S. Schroering, all of Louisville. Funeral services and burial were private.

A. R. BLACKBURN, 60, of Charleston, W. Va., formerly of Louisville, died unexpectedly last April at his home in Charleston.

Mr. Blackburn had lived in Charleston for 14 years where he was a construction engineer for the Carbide Company.

Survivors include his wife and one son, James P. Blackburn, now of Atlanta, Georgia.

A graduate of the University in the class of 1915, Mr. Blackburn was a member of the Christian church.

Funeral services were conducted at the Wilson Funeral Home in Charleston and burial followed in the Lexington cemetery.

Survivors include his parents and a sister. Funeral services and burial were held in Lexington.

JOHN E. BROWN, 69, formerly president of the Louisville Bank for Co-Operatives and general agent of the Farm Credit Administration of Louisville, died Oct. 1 at his home in Shelbyville. Mr. Brown had retired about 10 months ago.

A native of Shelby county and at one time a state representative, he was a graduate in agriculture at the University of Kentucky. Last May, the University conferred an honorary doctor's degree upon him in recognition of Brown's service to agriculture and to the University.

He also had been president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and a director of the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-Operative Association at Lexington.

MRS. KATHRYN PIRKEY STOLL, 30, of Louisville, died October 13 at Norton Memorial Infirmary in Louisville after a short illness.

Mrs. Stoll was a graduate of the University of Kentucky and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority. She was the daughter of Mrs. Marion Pirkey, (Kate Pence,) of Louisville, and granddaughter of the late Prof. M. L. Pence, head of the University's department of physics for many years.

Professor Pence held the M.A. degree from the University and all seven of his children, as well as Mrs. Stoll, had attended the University.

Survivors include her husband, George J. Stoll, Jr., a son and three daughters; her mother and one sister. Miss Sallie Pence, '14, emeritus professor of mathematics at the University, is Mrs. Stoll's aunt.

They Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

Within the next few weeks University of Kentucky alumni will begin receiving letters from T. H. Hardwick, '29, chairman of the alumni ANNUAL GIVING program, urging each one to make a contribution this year to the LOYALTY FUND.

However, whether or not you receive a personal solicitation, it is to be hoped that each of you will budget your funds for 1952-'53 so that you will include a contribution, small or large, to this worthy project.

Donations to the LOYALTY FUND, which provides four-year scholarships for deserving students, are tax-deductible. Now is the time to figure your contribution in your annual report on income tax.

ANY AMOUNT, FROM $1.00 UP IS ACCEPTABLE, AND WILL AID SOME YOUNG MAN OR YOUNG WOMAN TO OBTAIN AN EDUCATION AT YOUR ALMA MATER. GIVE NOW!
