

A black and white photograph of the entrance to the Telford Community Center. The building is constructed of brick. The entrance is framed by a classical portico with two columns and a decorative pediment. The text "TELFORD COMMUNITY CENTER" is inscribed on the pediment. Above the entrance is a large, multi-paned window. To the right, a large column is visible, with shadows cast upon it. The overall scene is captured in high contrast, with deep shadows and bright highlights.
