FOOTBALL SCHEDULE OF 1916 IS ARRANGED

Vanderbilt, Centre and May-be Georgetown Will Play Here

TWO DATES ARE OPEN

September 30—Open.
October 7—Centre College at Lexington.
October 14—Vanderbilt University at Lexington.
October 21—University of the South (Sewanee) Lexington.
October 28—University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati.
November 4—University of Louisville at Lexington.
November 11—Open.
November 18—Mississippi A. and M. College at Lexington.
November 30 (Thanksgiving)—University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

The football season for next year's team has been arranged as above. All of the dates are full except those of September 30 and November 11, both of which are being held open for a game with Georgetown College. The most important addition to the list of last year's games is that arranged with Vanderbilt for October 14. The S. I. A. A. champions of this year are expecting to have a stronger team next year than they did this year and most of their "V" men will be back next year. Aside from the fact that they will have a strong team, Kentucky State people are especially glad to hear of this contest because Coach Tigert is an old Vandy football star, and one of their best players of Tom Zerfos who formerly attended school here and played on the football and basketball teams in 1913-1914.

The other games, with the exception of that with Centre College, are with teams who contest against the Wildcats each year and with whom there is a strong rivalry. All of the contests to be held on Stoll Field with the exception of the Cincinnati and Tennessee games.

The resumption of athletics between the Baptist institution and State after a lapse of several years is almost completed. Some hitch has developed, however, as to the date on which a game between the team of the two schools will be played. It was intended by the State University officials that Georgetown should be one of the first teams the Wildcats meet in 1916. Centre College agreed to this arrangement, but the Georgetown management declined to accept the early date and said they preferred a Thanksgiving game with State or at least a date when the game would be one of the big ones of the season. November 11 has been left open for Georgetown, but should they fail to agree to play on this date or September 30, which also is open, no game will be scheduled, the coaches of the

FOOTBALL BANQUET WILL BE HELD MONDAY NIGHT

Annual Event To Be Staged At the Phoenix Hotel

GOOD TIME PROMISED

The Wildcats of 1915 will be the guests of honor at the annual football banquet which will be given at the Phoenix Hotel Monday evening, December 13, at 6:30 o'clock.

This banquet is always one of the big events of the year and comprises a feast of song, a vaudeville show, and an enormous feed, in one. Last year's banquet was the scene of quite a sensation. In the midst of the proceedings a beautifully dressed girl entered and made her way to one of the tables where a well-known "prof" sat. Shaking her finger at him and wildly accusing him of jilting her, she proceeded to make a "scene." It was not until the smoke had cleared away that the revelers became aware of the fact that the whole thing was a hoax, so well had "she" played her part.

Although a definite program has not been made out there will undoubtedly be some surprises sprung next Monday evening.

The entire football squad of the past season will be guests. Everyone interested in State University of football is invited to attend. A charge of $1 a plate will be made.

The banquet will be given under the supervision of the University of Kentucky Athletic Association.

PREMEDICAL SOCIETY ORGANIZED AT STATE

The Sophomore, Junior and Senior students in the Department of Anatomy and Physiology met last Saturday night and organized the Premedical Society of the University of Kentucky. The growing number of students in this department has made the foregoing action feasible and the society will fill a long felt need among premedical students.

The aim of the society will be to promote fellowship among its members and to give them practice in the preparation of papers relating to the branches of chemistry and biology upon which the science of medicine is founded.

Howard D. McIntyre was elected president; Leland Payton, vice president, and Curry Martin, secretary and treasurer. A committee was appointed by the president to draw up by-laws for the organization. The next meeting of the society will be Friday night at the home of Dr. J. W. Pryor on North Broadway.

The team being of the opinion that a rest on this date would do no harm to the team, as it comes in the middle of a hard run of games.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN WILL PROVE SUCCESS

Thermometer Indicates Enthusiastic Response By University and Students

The Y. M. C. A. campaign, which started in chapel Friday and will continue through this week is proving a success. Almost every student in the University is willing and anxious to sign up as a member of the Y. M. C. A. and many are contributing liberally, as is indicated by the thermometer that hangs outside the Y. M. C. A. room which has now reached the $700 mark. Although some of this was contributed by the University the students are doing their part. The funds will be used for the support of the Y. M. C. A. which it is estimated will take over $1,000 for the present year. This is all being done for the benefit of the students and every man is urged to see the cabinet man of his college and sign up.

In chapel Friday Mr. P. C. Dix, State Secretary, and Thomas Bryant, of the Experiment Station, started the Y. M. C. A. campaign, and Secretary Park, with some thirty-five enthusiastic assistants, are doing their best to establish the Y. M. C. A., as the great organization that it is, in the eyes of the student body.

THOMPSON ELECTED BY KENTUCKY ELEVEN

Big All-Kentucky Tackle Is Chosen Captain of the 1916 Eleven

FOOTBALLS ARE GIVEN

The students hear with much pleasure of the election of James William ("Fats") Thompson, star tackle and irresistible line plunger of the Wildcats of the past three years, who was chosen last night to lead the football eleven during the season of 1916.

The election was held at the dinner given the team last Friday night by Dr. John J. Tigert in honor of the team. William ("Doc") Rodes and Maurie Crutcher, quarterback and end, respectively, were also nominated.

Thompson's election is a tribute to the consistent game which he has played at all times. He was picked for a tackle position on an All-Kentucky team by practically all the sport writers and college football coaches. He is big and heavy, and possessed of that equally valuable quality—speed. His home is in Falmouth.

In every game of the season Thompson's line bucking tendencies were encouraged by frequent use of the "Thompson back" formation when gains were needed and it was a strong line that was able to deprive him of quota of yardage. Records show that his total number of gains for the season is greatly in excess of that made by the average tackle. He runs low and his great strength carries him through many a tackle. It is being whispered about the campus that next year he may play in the back field, if some one can be found to take his place in the line.

After the election of captain Dr. Tigert presented each of the "K" men with a small gold football on which was engraved a "K" and 1915. In a brief address to his guests Dr. Tigert paid tribute not only to their ability as football players individually, but to their team work.

PATTERSON SOCIETY

The Patterson Literary Society met Saturday evening and the following program was given:

"The Value of Studying History," by F. Crum.

Debate, "Resolved, that Kentucky should adopt the Unicameral System of Legislature." Affirmative, Edens, Graddy and McNeill; negative, Kallbrier, Green and Harrison.

At the Sunday evening service held at 6:30, Dr. A. S. Mackenzie made an interesting talk, taking as his subject: "The Greatness of Man."

The cabinet held its regular weekly meeting at the home of J. M. Robinson on Monday evening at 6:30. This being Mr. Robinson's birthday, he invited the cabinet to meet in his home and after the business meeting a delicious supper was served.

MISS REBECCA SMITH IS HONORED BY OFFER

Recommended to Join Peace Ship As Most Representative Woman in College

COMPLIMENT TO STATE

Miss Rebecca Smith, a Senior in the College of Arts and Science, was recommended by Dean Hamilton to join the Henry Ford peace trip to Europe, in response to a telegram received Thursday, asking her to recommend a suitable young woman to accompany the peace party as a representative of the University. The telegram came too late, however, for Miss Smith to communicate with her parents about the matter.

Dean Hamilton also recommended Miss A. Evelyn Newman, of New York City, a former student of the University. On the peace ship which sailed Saturday, was Miss Heien Lowry, formerly a student here, who is making the trip as a representative of the International News Service.

Miss Smith, who is one of the most widely-known and popular students of the University, is a Junior in the Department of Journalism. She is a linguist of considerable ability and was offered a fellowship in languages in the University this year.

Besides standing high in her college work, Miss Smith is also a leader in college activities. She has charge of the semi-monthly agricultural bulletin, is "co-editor" of the Kentucky Kernel, and is on the Kentuckian staff.

The fact that the University was called upon to recommend a student for the peace trip is an appreciation of the work that it is doing, and of the national prominence of Dean Hamilton, who was a delegate to the National Peace Conference at St. Louis in 1913, and a former president of the Federated Women's Clubs of Kentucky.

MATRICULATE COMES FROM SOUTH AFRICA

Arthur Clifford Roy, Mapstone, of the province of Natal, Union of South Africa, has matriculated in the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering. He selected State after consulting many bulletins of engineering colleges throughout the United States, and had practically decided on this school when he engaged in conversation with two old graduates of the University, Messrs. Wilson and Scherffus, who are employed by the African government as tobacco, cotton and fibre experts, and their talk, he said, "cinched the matter."

Mr. Mapstone left Africa October 10, and arrived in the United States November 28, the trip being made in a round-about way on account of the war conditions in Europe. Mr. Mapstone at the present has four brothers in college, two taking agriculture and two engineering.

TICKETS FORGED AT THANKSGIVING GAME

Fifteen Students Called Up By Discipline Committee To Face Charge

About fifteen students were called up before the Discipline Committee last week to face a charge of having forged tickets to the State-Tennessee game. The method employed in "raising" the tickets was ingenious, and it requires the services of a microscope to detect the forged tickets from the original.

Coupon number seven was the one used Thanksgiving. Coupons number seventeen and twenty-seven were also used with the first digit erased, and the forgery would never have been discovered had not each ticket borne the number of the book from which it was taken. In checking up the tickets, two were found bearing the same number and this led to an investigation.

The first attempt to forge tickets was made at the Purdue game and worked so successfully that more tried it at the Tennessee game. The penalty has not yet been decided on, but President Barker stated that it would be anything from forfeiture of ticket books to expulsion from the University.

STUDENTS HEAR LECTURE ON EUGENICS IN CHAPEL

Dr. Davenport Delivers Talk To a Large Crowd Wednesday

Dr. C. B. Davenport, director of the Station for Experimental Evolution, Carnegie Institute, of Washington, and director of the Eugenics Research Laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor, New York, an authority on heredity, delivered a lecture on "Eugenics" Wednesday morning in the University chapel to one of the largest gatherings ever assembled there.

He discussed the principles of heredity and emphasized the debt which man owes to posterity and the necessity for careful selection in mating. His statements were borne out by statistics which were exceedingly interesting.

Dr. Davenport, who is here gathering statistics for his research work regarding the qualities of stature carried from one generation to another, is meeting with remarkable success, and a very ready response is being made by the families whose members are of a sufficient height to warrant an examination. He recognizes the fact that the size of many Kentucky families far exceeds the average for the United States, as exemplified by the fact that the soldiers recruited during the Civil War was measured greater in height, in circumference of head and in chest measurement than those recruited from other States.

During the next day or two Dr. Davenport will receive calls at telephone No. 1698 from those with whom he can talk about the heredity of unusual size in families. He has a list of several families whom he will visit while here.

KENTUCKY STATE POULTRY SHOW

The catalogs for the Kentucky State Poultry Show at Lexington are now ready for distribution and will be sent to any address free of charge. More handsome silver cups are offered this year and the show promises to be of unusual size. One premium is $10 in cash for the best display of turkeys. Many other such liberal premiums are offered throughout the show. Mr. Eugene Sites, of Ellyria, Ohio, a judge of international repute, will tie the ribbons. He has not judged in Kentucky this year and will come fresh to the show without having seen the birds before.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY WILL MEET TODAY AT STATION.

The twenty-eighth regular meeting of the Lexington section of the American Chemical Society will be held in the Assembly Room, of Experiment Station Thursday, December 9th, at 4 o'clock. The next session's officers will be elected. The program consists of:

ASSOCIATION OF SCHOOLS OF KENTUCKY MEETS

Standing of Junior Colleges In the State Is Fixed

OFFICERS ELECTED

The Association of Kentucky Colleges and Universities held its eleventh annual session at the Phoenix Hotel with nearly seventy professors of the eight institutions of the association present.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Dean John L. Patterson, of the University of Louisville, president; Dean A. M. Miller, of the University of Kentucky, vice president; Professor Frank L. Rainey, of Center College, secretary and treasurer. An executive committee, composed of Dr. N. B. Adams, of Georgetown College; Dean C. T. Rumold, of Berea College; President J. L. Clark, of Kentucky Wesleyan College, and Dean T. B. Macartney, of Transylvania, was also chosen.

A rule was passed prohibiting students dismissed from one institution, to enter another institution, a member of the association, without first obtaining information from the institution from which they were expelled.

The relation of junior colleges to the colleges and universities which are members of the association, was discussed. Resolutions were adopted providing general requirements, and the executive committee was empowered to formulate specific requirements, to which all junior colleges must conform before they can become members of the association.

As a result of the death recently of Philip McNutt, a student at Iowa State, who was killed when attempting to "hobo" to a nearby town to see the Iowa team play a football game, the students have voted to abolish this method of demonstrating support of the team.

CADETS TAKE PART IN INAUGURAL PARADE

Special Train Furnished By
L. & N. For Battalion and Band

HOLIDAY DECLARED

Through the generosity of Vice President W. L. Mapother, of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, the battalion of cadets of the University of Kentucky attended the inauguration ceremonies at Frankfort, Tuesday, and participated in the parade. When it was learned that the State could not furnish the money for the trip, President H. S. Barker got into communication with Mr. Mapother and a special train was immediately offered to the cadets.

The cadets, showing the result of hard training, made a good appearance in the inaugural parade, and in the opinion of many bystanders, "showed up" the regulars. About 400 cadets and the band made the trip to Frankfort, many of them staying over for the inaugural ball.

The faculty passed a resolution approving the action of President Barker in calling out the cadets, and declared a holiday for the other students for that day. The resolution follows:

"The faculty of the State University of Kentucky, in regular session assembled, approve the action of the president in ordering the battalion of cadets to participate in the inaugural parade at Frankfort on December 7, and in order to enable all the students to take part in the inaugural ceremonies, a holiday is hereby declared on that day. And we recommend that all members of the faculty who can do so go to Frankfort on the inaugural day and participate in that great function.

"This is not done in a partisan spirit, but to honor him who has been selected as Governor of all the people of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

SOCCER FOOTBALL IS INTRODUCED AT STATE.

Soccer football has been introduced in the University of Kentucky and is proving a great success among the young men students. Teams are being formed which will play two and three games a week.

A 1-to-1 tie resulted in the first game of soccer played by the gym classes of the University on Stoll Field Monday afternoon under the competent supervision of Physical Instructor H. G. Stack. The tie will be played off next Saturday. The men who scored were Reid and Kempton, and though an extra thirty minutes was played the tie could not be broken.

ALUMNUS OF STATE IS KILLED AT DARDANELLES

Dr. Mackenzie Writes a Tribute To His Former Student

LEADER WHEN HERE

News has been received at the University of the death of Frank Coffee, a former student here, which occurred November 18 in the Gallipoli campaign, in which he participated as a Lieutenant of the Sixty-eighth Australian Cavalry. He was a native Australian and at the outbreak of the war was located in Melbourne in newspaper work, before that time having been engaged in similar work in Vancouver, Canada. At one time he held the position of secretary of the Royal British Agricultural Commission.

Frank Coffee was a student at Kentucky State from 1902 to 1906 and while here made an enviable record. He was a student in the English Department and studied journalism under Dr. A. S. Mackenzie, in the pursuit of which profession he made such an enviable record after leaving the University. Members of the faculty and alumni who knew him, speak of him in the highest terms. The following tribute which appeared in the Lexington Herald Sunday is by Dr. Mackenzie, who knew him intimately:

A Tribute.

When the shadow of war, like a heavy mist, crept over more than half of the civilized globe, it caught Frank Coffee, one of the most attractive lads who ever matriculated at the State University of Kentucky. Looking over the register of the Department of English I find that in September, 1902, he entered the department as a Freshman, his average for the year being 13 out of a possible 15 units. This clearly indicates that Frank was more intelligent than most of his classmates, and his achievements after he left Kentucky bore out the promise of his youth.

His father, a gentleman of wealth and refinement, encouraged his eldest son to take a trip around the world. After a home stay in the beautiful seaport of Sydney, the young Australian went to Vancouver, British Columbia, as a journalist. Soon he became secretary of the Royal British Agricultural Commission. At the outbreak of the war Frank was in newspaper work at Melbourne. He enlisted as a Lieutenant in the Sixty-eighth Australian Cavalry, and his regiment finally was in the Anzac firing line, overlooking the Dardanelles.

Frank Coffee, as he leaned his rifle on the parapet could almost hit the site of ancient Troy, whose siege gave rise to Homer's Iliad, the earliest of all European poems. Less than three weeks ago, on November 18, the heroic young Australian went out like a candle quenched in the wind, leaving his blood relations, Australian and Kentuckian, in sorrow.

In fancy, his numerous friends see Frank Coffee as they saw him when he was a unit of the college battalion marching over the campus. Graceful, stepping like a comely fawn, this youth possessed the look and the figure of a gentleman. Descendant of one of the proudest and most valorous races in the world, he was perished in the beauty of his young manhood, in the wonder of his promise, in the fullness of his strength, where the gallant are falling in a real man's fight above the Dardanelles.

Forget not him and his like, oh, ye for whom they fall! 'Tis not alone the British Empire that is founded upon unswerving honor and chivalry, but upon these also the democracy of the United States is ultimately dependent. Little do we think of the craggy forts by the terrible Dardanelles, or of the deeds, incredible in difficulty and unparalleled in heroism.

He who was like a bit of sunshine is now resting where the winding dark-blue water heave and ripple in the Eastern sun. Without him the world seems empty to his father and to all who loved him, and yet we rejoice that he played the game of life and met the great adventure cheerfully like a red-blooded man. The God of his fathers will remember, through sunshine and rain, through seed-time and harvest, that Frank chose wisely, and he now enjoys the divine benediction.

STUDENTS' FORUM

A sum of two hundred dollars has been set aside, by the University, for the benefit of music. This money, according to the condition upon which it was set aside, must be used for the purpose of establishing a Choral Club. It seems that the Choral Club has failed to materialize, therefore, unless there is a change in the condition of the appropriation it will be used for University expenditures and not for musical interests.

There is a demand for a Glee Club in the University and one, by all means, should be organized. It is a good advertisement for the University and is a benefit and help to many of the young men. If there is sufficient pressure brought to bear by the student body, it is believed that the two hundred dollars will be given for the maintenance of a Glee Club. It is up to the student body to have or not to have a Glee Club. Anyone interested in the matter should give his name to Dean Hamilton or J. T. Gooch at once.

Off With the Old; On With the New.

There is a sentiment among students of every university that discourages the wearing of insignia gained in preparatory schools.

There are not many students who would willingly go against the customs and traditions of Old State. It is reasonably certain, therefore, that when a student parades across the campus with his chest stuck out at an angle of forty-five degrees and a big high school letter pasted conspicuously thereupon, or wears a variety of pins which would do credit to a German field marshal on parade, that the wearer of these soul-satisfying decorations is merely ignorant of University customs and of the unfavorable comment which he causes.

The students don't want to know what a man did in high school; they want to know what he will do here.

The Y. M. C. A.

There is an erroneous belief in the minds of many students that the Y. M. C. A. is an organization of pious nincompoops who inflict themselves upon their fellows and endeavor to instill their unwelcome creed into the hearts of all with whom they come in contact. Some few unthinking ones hold the preposterous idea that the organization is nothing other than an immense grafting scheme clothed in the garb of Christianity.

The Y. M. C. A. is neither. It is a student organization for the benefit of the students of the University. Every man is welcome as a member and will not be called upon for active service unless he volunteers. A money contribution is not necessary for membership, although such a contribution will be appreciated. All funds are applied to the upkeep of the association and all expenditures must be approved by a board of management composed of four faculty members, four Lexington business men and four students.

The work of the association will be very practical. Among other things a reading room will be fully equipped and furnished with the best current literature. In addition to the piano now in use a Victrola will be installed. A basketball team will be organized which will probably be entered in The Lexington Church Basketball League.

The best men in school are members of the Y. M. C. A.; men who stand highest in athletics and in all other branches of student activity. It behooves every man who has his own good and the interest of his Alma Mater at heart to give his support to this organization.

The Kentucky Colonel Says:

The people of Europe are in a terrible predicament, suh. Eithah they must retain ferocious wah or they can accept the dove of peace precariously perched on the end of Ford ought-to-mobile. In eithah case they will get what Sherman said, suh.

The State University Y. M. C. A. last week purchased two cases of ca-Cola to be consumed at their get-together meeting, but not a drop was tak. None of the "Y" members had the opener and the visitors were to produce theirs.

Our Weekly Novel.

The man stealthily made his way out upon the bridge and stood looking wildly into the black waters below. It was a fitting night in which to complete this deed which he had planned after so many long hours of heart-rending conflict between duty and desire.

And now that the time was at hand to give up that which was dearest to him his courage almost failed.

It was hard; harder than he had dreamed. But it was for her sake. Rather than continue to give her pain and distress he would take this final method of removing at least a part of the cause of her unhappiness.

He took a morbid pleasure in picturing her as she received the news of what he had done. In fancy he saw the sharp gasp of surprise; the quivering eyelids; the trembling lips.

But enough; he must take the step before his courage failed him.

"Goodbye," he muttered, nerving himself. And again, "goodbye; goodbye!"

Then, with a supreme effort, he slowly and affectionately took an old pipe and a can of tobacco from his pocket, held them for one last long look and flung them far into the waters below.

"Now," he soliloquized, "I'll go and tell her about it."

Another All-Kentucky.

Miss Rebecca Smith, who did not go to Europe on Ford's ship, although invited, is hereby nominated for All-Kentucky Diplomat.

Echoes From the Mess Hall.

"Shoot the biscuits."
 "Slip me the slip."
 "Where's George R.; I'm hungry?"
 "Check on it."
 "Second check."
 "Ain't there any food a-tall to-night?"
 "Aw, have some beans."

Questions and Answers.

"I am very fond of onions, but my steady doesn't like the odor. How can I eat them and disguise the fact when he calls?"—Rose.

A little limburger cheese will effectually silence the onions.

"What can be the trouble with me? None of the boys will call on me, altho I am young and wealthy and my mirror tells me I am better looking than most girls."—Lonely Lizzie.

Get a new mirror, Liz. The old one lied.

"Why has the sport shirt fallen into disuse? I have four and they are a dead loss to me."—Classy Clarence.

It would chap your neck to wash it down that far this cold weather, Clarence.

Human Frailities.

"I would not wear so short a skirt," Said Myrtle Goldlocks,
 Then she tripped down the avenue
 A-wearing rolled-down socks.

"I wouldn't wear them rolled-down socks."
 Said Kathryn Keller-Koch,
 Then stopped and holsted up her foot
 To wind her ankle watch.

"I'll never wear an ankle watch,"
 Said dainty Lizzie Lutz.
 And then she took six bones and bought
 A pair of fur-top boots.

Owed to My Twenty-First Year.

A sense of manhood's mighty joys;
 A pair of dirty corduroys;
 A Senior cane; a Senior ring;
 A Freshman girl ewing on my wing;
 A lordly walk; a lordly air;
 A hatful of conceit to spare;
 A timid underclassman's goot;
 A right to buy and sell a vote;
 A void to put some knowledge in;
 A scraggly mustache—D—N THIN.

Well! Well! Well!

DENVER, Colo., December 4.—Returning from the funeral of his father, who was murdered Tuesday evening, Riensl C. Dickens, 34, was arrested on suspicion. His father, W. H. Dickens, pioneer banker and wealthiest citizen of Longmont, Colo., was shot where he sat in his library.—News Item.

Not to Speak of Pink Jerseys for the "Wild Cats."

Pink pants for pale people may become a reality instead of a mere handful of words, shortly. The reason is this: The beautiful blue color that is usual in overalls comes from a dye that is getting very scarce in the market. The aesthetic effect that may be produced by a lot of red-faced bricklayers, clad in bright pink, is something to be dreaded.—Hartford Courant.

Georgia's new prohibition law has limited the importation of drinkables to two quarts of whisky, forty-eight pints of beer and a gallon of wine per month per person.

Now let's have a law limiting the number of lynchings and jail deliveries to something like three or four per month for each 1,000 population.

Iowa State.

Wireless.

Last night you suffered; wireless message of
 Your pain sped o'er the many miles
 Between, and came to my attuned soul,
 And all that was within me longed
 To comfort you.

Convention-bound I could not come to you;
 I could not lay my hand in yours
 And say: "I understand." I could not shed
 For you the tears that came for fear
 The world might smile.

But artificial custom has no pow'r
 O'er this one thing; it stands apart,
 One blossom midst the rue: That your hurt soul
 Could call across to me, and I
 Could answer you.

Physics Psalm.

Physics is the limit; I cannot deny it.

It maketh me lie down at night with a heavy heart:

It causeth me to cheat for my grade's sake:

Yes, tho I shall study it on my death bed

I shall not know it, for it is above my mental power.

The problems and formulas, they drive me wild,

I must write up a notebook in the presence of a football game.

It is as a great heat upon my head; my brains have evaporated.

Surely, problems, formulas, and experiments shall follow me all the days of my life.

And I shall die without mastering Physics.

Five Little Maids From School.

Five little maids from a seminary
 Sneaked down town where the lights were glary;
 One of the maids of the five, unwary,
 Joined a show as a footlight fairy—
 —Four little maids from school.

Four little maids sat around a table—
 All took sodas except poor Mabel—
 She never looked at the bottle label
 And she couldn't walk, 'cause she wasn't able—
 —Three little maids from school.

Three little maids met a traffic copper,
 One tried to flirt and he couldn't stop her,
 So he pinched her because this wasn't proper—
 —Two little maids from school.

Two little maids met a dancing master;
 At him one maid shyly cast her
 Big blue eyes and to wed he asked her—
 Then they liked to the nearest pastor
 —One little maid from school.

One little maid waiting for a trolley—
 Passing autist said, "Ride Mollie!"
 "Sure!" said she; "Won't that be jolly!"—
 Nobody's seen her since, by golly!—
 —No little maids from school!

MORAL:

Oh, little maid, stick to your books!
 The world is full of knaves and crooks—

Its golden glitter is but for looks—
 Stick to the "aem's" safe ingenooks—
 —Stick, little maid, in school.

All male students who have written anything original of literary nature are urged to turn it in to some member and are assured that it will receive careful consideration.

The members of the Canterbury Club are: J. T. C. Noe, Charles P. Weaver, E. F. Farquhar and R. T. Taylor, all of the faculty, and J. F. Corn, H. D. Graham, J. R. Marsh, Julius Wolf, W. C. Shinnick and R. A. Foster, of the student body.

YOU.

I felt the scented breath of spring
Warm on my cheek—and all about
A lulling sweetness seemed to cling
Fast to my heart—and then I knew
The joys of all the world without
Were only joys of you.

The fading sunset cast its glow
Far in the West—and in the sky
The moon smiled on the earth below,
Darkening fast—and brighter grew
The stars as darkness rustled nigh
And then came thoughts of you.

The sweet-voiced singer's song arose,
Soft in the night—and evenings calm
Was gently sweetened; as a rose
Kissed by the rain—or wet with dew.

Then slumber with its drowsy balm—
My dreams were all of you.
